Milton Chosen Site For Second School For Deaf

J.G. Demeza Voices His Pleasure at Plan

TORONTO (CP)—A $3,000,000 school for the deaf is to be built at nearby Milton by the provincial government, Education Minister Dunlop and Public Works Minister Connell announced today.

The school will be Ontario's second, with an initial enrolment of 250 compared to 445 at the school in Belleville. There will be provision for expansion.

The announcement said construction of a second school is necessary because the Belleville school already is one of the largest in North America and from an education point of view it is undesirable to increase its accommodation.

"Present accommodation makes it necessary to limit the admission of pupils to those who are at least five years of age but it is hoped when the new school is opened to reduce appreciably the age of admission to both schools."

Property for the school has already been bought and planning will start soon. Letters to permit an early start on construction.

Milton is a village of 1,082 in the centre of a triangle formed by Hamilton, Guelph and Toronto, about 20 miles from each centre.

J. G. Demeza, superintendent of the school for the Deaf in Belleville, states that he is pleased with the decision proceeding to establish the second school." Commenting that it will meet the needs of a growing population, the principal of one the largest schools for deaf persons in North America feels that the age at which pupils might be admitted to residence will be lowered from the present rate of five years of age to about four or three and one-half years.

Before the recent addition to the local school there were 380 students at OSD, under extremely crowded conditions, with an age limit of between six and seven years. The recent addition, providing for a 120 bed dormitory and 140 classroom places allowed the present five-year age limit.

If the new school is to provide a complete range of vocational and academic subjects for the students, as well as courses for pupils of all ages, approximately 32 teachers, six teachers will be required in the education department, according to Mr. Demeza.

Two Arrested After Break-In

RENFREW (CP) — Several shots were fired Thursday by police investigating a suspicious ring in a lumber company office at Braeside, 12 miles east of Renfrew. Two men were charged in connection with the break.

Charged with breaking and entering with intent was Rodrigue Lacroix, 23, of Braeside, and Jos Coulter, 63, of no fixed address. Lacroix was charged with breaking and entering and having possession of an offensive weapon and safe-cracking tools.

Ottawa's Clanging Red Racers Turn Into Barns After Last Run

OTTAWA (CP)—Ottawa's last streetcar turned into the car barns at 2:30 a.m. today.

For the last time one of the noisy, bell - clanging old Red Racers, as some Ottawans call them, made a regular passenger run.

With disposal of its last 26 electric streetcars today the Ottawa Transportation Commission has become an all-bus operation, and for the first time in many a year the prospects of hearing music ease.

The streetcars make one final appearance Saturday in a parade across the city, complete with bands, floats, beauty queens and former streetcar operators.

Transportation Commissioner has they jam traffic with their great bulk and awkwardness. Miles of old track will be ripped up or paved over and unsightly network of overhead wires will come down.

Leading Saturday's parade will be an ancient horse-drawn car, used when the street railway was introduced to Ottawa in 1866. It was another one of the electric cars introduced in 1890.

A few of the relics will be saved as museum pieces. The rest are headed for the junk heap.

The elimination of streetcars—a total 96 have been replaced by 107 buses—is part of a complete overhaul of the publicly-owned system designed to improve efficiency and win passengers. The city now has 230 buses and 10 trolley coaches.

A Canadian Press survey recently showed that the only big centres making money on public transportation are Halifax, Quebec City, Toronto, Winnipeg, Sudbury, Owen Sound, Oshawa and St. Thomas. So Ottawa's money-losing situation has not been unique.

Seventy employees were let go today—all temporary or retiring to reduce staff to 653.

Fares will remain at 12½ cents for the "foreseeable future."

Two Men Killed When Their Car Strikes Moose

ENGLEHART (CP)—Two men were fatally injured early today when a small sports car struck a moose on Highway 11 eight miles north of this Northern Ontario town.

John Owens, 50, of North Bay died in the wreckage of the car and driver Bruce Stevens, 21, of Timmins died of an hour after reaching hospital here.

The southbound car slammed broadside into the moose, which slid up the hood and practically tore off the top of the vehicle.

Police said the large moose was apparently crossing the highway when the lowslung English car slammed into it. Both men suffered multiple head injuries when the animal's weight crushed the windshield and roof.

The moose was killed instantly.

ON BUILDING CREW

The men were employed with a bridge and building crew of the Ontario Northland Railway which runs out of Kenora, a few miles south of this community 28 miles south of Kirkland Lake.

Stevens is survived by his parents, one brother and three sisters. Owens is believed to have been single.

Department of lands and forests officials of Kirkland Lake said the accident was an unusual one for this section of Northern Ontario which does not have a concentrated moose population.

Barking Dog Led to Discovery Of Child's Body

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Police picked up blood-spattered clothing in the home of a 16-year-old girl whose bruised and lifeless body was found two miles away.

The battered body of little Sharon Crossman was found beneath the garage of a house. The cause of death was not immediately known.

Police said the stains on the clothing had been identified as blood, and they were being analyzed to determine the type.

The parents of the dead girl told police they had used pieces of cloth to stop the nose bleeds of the twelve years they and parents were not held.

DOG FRANTIC CLUE

A barking dog had led to the discovery of Sharon's body after police reportedly had found a body in a two-day search for her.

A medical examiner said there was no evidence that the child had been assaulted sexually. But there was evidence that she had been beaten severely.

The body, clothed in blue dungarees and a white blouse, was found face down in the dirt under the porch. She was shoeless and one foot bore a deep bruise. Other marks of violence were evident on her head, neck, legs and back.

The child, who celebrated her third birthday a few days ago, recently had undergone a pancreas operation, and was reported still in a weakened condition.

BIG TANKER ONLY NEW EQUIPMENT LISTED IN PAPER

No Defence Policy Says Liberal Critic

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's white paper on defence has been described by Liberal defence critic Paul Hellyer as "a disappointing document."

The only new piece of equipment referred to in the 31-page white paper, tabled Thursday in the Commons, is a 22,063 - ton tanker supply vessel to be built for the Royal Canadian Navy at a cost of $16,000,000.

The report's comments on policy deal only with further steps in turning the 41,000-member reserve army into a civil defence force. The government plans gradually to take away guns, tanks and other heavy equipment from the militia.

NO DEFENCE POLICY

Mr. Hellyer, associate defence minister in the former Liberal government and now MP for Toronto Trinity, commented to a reporter that the white paper "put forward no defence policy as such."

He offered "more rationalization than reason" and evidently was written after the government's decision to scrap the Arrow jet interceptor "to conform to the facts rather than as any policy."

Hog Marketing Plebiscite Appears Some Time Away

TORONTO (CP)—A new plebiscite among farmers over Ontario's controversial hog marketing plan appears to be some time away.

Apart from an imminent provincial election the main argument for postponing a vote seems to be negotiations between meat packers and the hog co-operative to develop a mutually acceptible system of marketing.

In an interview Thursday, Agriculture Minister Goodfellow said he can make no definite statement of prospects for a vote until an application for one was before Chief Justice J. C. Mc-Rue of the Ontario Supreme Court.

"The chief justice left it in abeyance and indicated a vote should be called but there are some other things that should be straightened out," Mr. Goodfellow said.

He said he was referring to the negotiations between the Meat Packers' Council of Canada and the Ontario Hog Producers' Marketing Board. Bell Telephone Company had been working on a system of recorded teletype bids that might go further even than settling differences between the two groups.

"I think it would take away a lot of opposition among producers who aren't satisfied with the plan as it is," said the agriculture minister.

The packers and the board hold their last meeting Monday but comment on progress so far was declined by both board secretary James Bayston and council secretary H. K. Leckie.

It was understood, however, that the packers still are seeking to get some auction features into the marketing scheme.

Selling now is done on a bid-and-asked basis, with about 40 buyers making telephone bids on hogs shipped to Toronto from 16 assembly yards in southern Ontario. Teletype bids would be designed to eliminate the possibility of favoritism.

A new plebiscite could be spurred by dissident hog producers who object to regulations making shipment to the assembly yards compulsory. Their lawyer, B. J. Mackinnon of Toronto, says he is awaiting a definite state-

U.S. Agrees to Lift Curbs Against Canadian Oil Imports

OTTAWA (CP)—After several years of negotiations, differences between Canada and the United States has agreed to lift its restrictions against imports of Canadian crude oil.

The announcement made jointly here and in Washington Thursday, is not expected to bring any immediate major increase in the Canadian oil exports. Even under the import curbs Canada's quota in the U.S. was not filled because of price and other factors which still apply.

Main gainer will be the petrochemical industry, as soon here, would be an increase in morale, leading to greater exploration and production in the Western Canada oil regions and the hope of future market expansion.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker, in his statement to the Commons, said the exemption of Canada from the import restrictions would be "a distinct saving to irritation" in Canada - U.S. relations.

The import controls went into effect, on a voluntary basis in March, 1957. American importing firms were asked to reduce their purchases from foreign producers in order to keep the U.S. domestic industry expanding.

Last March 10, President Eisenhower announced that some curbs had not met the request. So he made the curbs mandatory, justifying the decision on the grounds of national security and defence.

Canada's protests said the controls were not consistent with the spirit of agreement in the GATT two countries in North American defence.

The exemption is worded to remove barriers to oil entering the U.S. by pipeline, truck or rail. This would apply to Mexico as well as Canada, but Mexico ships virtually no oil north. The quotas remain on imports from Venezuela, in the Middle and Far East.

Opposition Leader Pearson welcomed the decision and asked whether, as a result of it, "Canada has a handicap in any way" in taking future action against Canadian oil imports from Venezuela. Mr. Diefenbaker did not reply.

Venezuela is the main supplier of the Montreal oil refining area. In this connection, the U.S. decision may affect to some degree proposals by independent Canadian producers for an Alberta-Montreal pipeline.

HERTER TO BROADCAST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Christian A. Herter will make a radio and television report (9-5:30 p.m. EDT) next Thursday, May 7, on the Paris conference of foreign ministers. Herter also will discuss the East-West foreign ministers' conference to be held in Geneva May 11.

TAX EXEMPTIONS FOR UNIVERSITY STUDENTS OUT

Start Debate on Taxes in Budget

OTTAWA (CP)—Finance Minister Fleming says he finds it hard to follow those who feel they have a right to tax advantages so they can complete their university education free of debt.

". . . The experience of those of us here who were university students . . . was that there were not many students then who finished their university course without having incurred some debt," he said in the Commons Thursday night.

Mr. Fleming's statement followed pleas by R. R. Southam (PC — Carleton), Paul Hellyer (L—Toronto Trinity) and Douglas Fisher (CCF—Port Arthur) for tax deductions to ease the burden on university students working their way through college.

He said he wasn't making a final statement on the question but the big problem was to avoid creating difficulties and defeating up specially-exempt groups of taxpayers.

WOULD BE SPECIAL CLASS

Similar objection could be raised to proposals for special exemptions to parents of university students.

The question arose as the Commons began detailed study of income tax and other tax resolutions arising from Mr. Fleming's April 16 budget. Until then the tax increases into effect are as follow.

William Benidickson, Liberal finance critic, said sales and excise tax increases have been "triggered" into still higher rates for consumers since Finance Minister Fleming's April 16 budget.

He said that Prime Minister Diefenbaker had described as "unwarranted" the price increases that were to be imposed.

Mr. Fleming won praise from Opposition Leader Pearson and Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, for announcing at his press in the Commons despite the death of Winston Churchill of his elder brother, Gordon C. J. Fleming.

Both had offered to accommodate him with any change of arrangements for announcing Mr. Fleming declined their offer.

County Council Will Not Build New Courthouse

Proposal Rejected 19-11 At Stormy Session

In a stormy end to an otherwise quiet morning session, Hastings county councillors today turned down a recommendation to proceed with the construction of a new courthouse which would have cost in excess of half a million dollars.

The recorded vote called as the session adjourned for noon, was the motion to build defeated by a healthy 19-11 margin with one member abstaining.

Voting for the new courthouse were Warden J. N. Brown (PC — Tudor and Cashel); Paul William Davis of Bangor; Max Mawson, Limerick; John Horsepool, Faraday; Kenneth Bunny, Rawdon; Harry Found, Thurlow; Alfred Weller, Thurlow; Mrs. M. J. McAlpine, Bancroft; Elmer Wilson, Huntingdon; C. G. Whittemore, Wollaston; Wilmott Rode of Frankford.

Council dissenting votes were councillors A. G. Wilson, Carlow; Ray Hannah, Mayo; P. J. Fitzgerald, Hungerford and Monteagle; Irwin McCoy, Marmora and Lake; Harold Hamilton, Douglas Spencer, Tweed; Arthur Robinson, Elzevir; Murray Smith, Madoc; James Sprackett, Tudor; Michael Horrigan, Tyendinaga; Harold Vanluven, Hungerford; James Kinfin, Hungerford; Earl Sager, Madoc township; Harold Ketcheson, Charles Long, Tyendinaga; Gerald Irvine, Wollaston township; Hamilton, Sidney; Henry Alford, Deseronto, and Victor Huffman, Wellington.

Calvin White of Dungannon township abstained.

TENDERS RECEIVED

Tenders for the construction of a new courthouse were submitted yesterday to council by the firm of architects, Bregman and Hamann, which low tenders being approximately $1,000,000.

There was considerable discussion yesterday and this was resumed this morning before the vote being taken just prior to adjournment.

In turning down the recommendation for construction of the new courthouse, council will now have to decide on what renovations will be required immediately to the present building and whether a once suggested extensive renovation program will be proceeded with.

Preliminary estimates given council for the new building give five renovational progrem were for $180,000 and the other figure of $220,000 being suggested. This plan was dropped however, with the understanding that renovation costs would run higher per square foot than those in connection of a new building.

MORE URGENT ITEMS

Three items calling for immediate attention at the present courthouse, it was learned, now was not to be proceeded with were mentioned this morning by finance committee chairman Max Mawson.

There were new washrooms; the installation of renovations for the barristers' room and a possible new heating system at the end of the building. These items might cost in excess of $42,500, he said.

Late this morning, as the courthouse discussion was resumed, there was mixed feeling on the part of councillors whether a vote should be taken immediately or whether discussion should be continued.

Reeve Kinlin thought there should have been tender calls for a new courthouse alone rather than added space for county offices and registry offices, while Reeve Spencer said minimum renovation costs for the present courthouse and the registry office expansion should have been obtained.

Reeve Hughson was of the opinion that "we are here to represent our municipalities," he said. "There should be a good sensible renovation and costs."

Warden Brown replied that the only way to get accurate figures for courthouse renovation costs would be to have detailed plans drawn and call tenders.

As it was nobody has tried to hide anything when renovations are mentioned, the warden also discussed last year.

Few Modern Weapons Displayed At May Day Show in Red Square

MOSCOW (AP) — Russia told the world today not to use force to interfere with communism's progress. But she kept concealed the modern weapons which she threatened to counterattack.

Keynoting the annual May Day festivities, Communist party boss Minister Marshall Rodion Malinovsky charged that "provocative actions by aggressive military leaders call for the use of force against the Soviet Union."

"Our military forces are true to the motherland and vigilantly and reliably defend our country," Malinovsky said. "They are ready to destroy any aggressor. There is any who try to obstruct the productive work of the Socialist States."

Russia claimed she has plenty of weapons to defend herself against intercontinental attack. But unlike last year, none of the big rockets were paraded through Red Square.

Except for a few light rockets, evidently anti-aircraft, not much ballistic missile power was shown which could not have been largely duplicated in the last year's parade.

Moscow radio, however, said artillery exhibited included "anti-aircraft equipment as big as factories and twin-barreled self-propelled guns capable of hitting anything on earth or in the skies."

Malinovsky in an order of the day said the Soviet government and the Communist party are fighting eternally to ease international tensions but "we constantly meet opposition from ruling circles of the Western powers who wish to continue the armaments race."

He also attacked the U.S. treaties with Iran, Turkey and Pakistan, the rearming of West Germany and the deployment of nuclear bases around the Soviet Union.

On the reviewing stand behind Lenin's Tomb in Moscow were headed by Premier Nikita Khrushchev and First Deputy Premier Anastas Mikoyan.

There was a clear absence of the cult of personality. The only time Khrushchev's pictures appeared, he was merely one of a group of Soviet leaders.

The only reference to Stalin was on the tomb in which his body with Lenin, and on which the Soviet leaders stood.

Solicitor Will Decide on Laying Charge

Whether or not charges are laid in connection with the alleged contravention of the county tree cutting by-law in Tudor and Elzevir Sidney township timber lot, will be up to the county solicitor.

Yesterday during the current session of county council, councillors approved of a motion to proceed with charges if, in the opinion of the county solicitor there was sufficient evidence to warrant the action.

It was pointed out, however, that under the terms of the by-law the tree commissioners have authority to proceed with charges where they find violations.

Yesterday tree commissioner, T. C. Graham of Tweed and Hattie McLaren, Tyendinaga township, reported their findings on lot 30, concession 7 in Sidney township last December and that Campbellford timber operator had trespassed a stand of pine and had virtually stripped the lot in contravention of the tree cutting by-law.

At the time the operator claimed the reason for clear cutting was because the trees were diseased, but a later inspection by Department of Lands and Forests officials revealed no evidence of disease.

Council were of the opinion that the clear cutting was a deliberate contravention of the tree by-law which regulates against cutting trees under a certain size except for a farmer's own use.

Sportswise and Financially Curling Club Had Great Year

Directors were elected, reports presented and trophies were rewarded for their ability with the stones at the annual meeting of the Quinte Curling Club held on Thursday evening in the club rooms at the rink. It was a most successful year in sportswise and financially and the future for the club looks bright.

The meeting testified to the popularity of this energetic Club in the community.

Bill Gault, the genial president, was in the chair and opened the meeting, while Canon A.S. O'Connell, rector of Belleville, read the election of officers and each carried out his duties in an efficient manner. There were some controversial subjects under discussion but members discussed them all in the spirit of good fellowship and arrived at satisfactory decisions. There is no longer possible to vote by proxy and no more curling after the hour is made without the consent of the general membership.

After a spirited election, Ted Jarrett, Steve Pinsoff, Bill Gault, Pat Houston, Don McNevin, Ben Corke, Wilbur Day, Lloyd Shepherd and Harold Beare were elected as directors of the club for the coming year and they will meet to appoint their officers, a secretary and a treasurer. After the election of the nominating committee, headed by Lorne McClenahan, the secretary for the election were thanked for their efforts for the club. The secretary's report was obvious annual were quickly adopted, a letter was read from Mrs. Eric Smith from the women's section, which will be dealt with by the executive and heard the reports, all flattering were given.

Bill Gault thanked the club for the honor of being their president during the past year and signalled out several members for special mention for their work and for their fine work in the club. He stated that the boys were learning to be curling tors at the bonspiels and spoke the Quinte Club will have a very outstanding in district competitions. He thanked the rink that made such a fine showing at Trenton and that it was the forerunner of other things to come.

FINANCIAL REPORT

The financial report brought smiles to the faces of the members. The treasurer, Jerry Jarrett, who has done so much in this category clearly explained the report from beginning to end and it was evident that the financial affairs of the club is in a sound financial condition and the members are eagerly looking forward to the day when they will be clear of debt. Pat Houston gave a report of the games committee and the president passed out the crests won by the rinks during the winter. The November 1st member luncheon were won by H. G. V. Gibson, Harry Trapnier, G. Hales and Bob Bastable, skip; the January competition by J. Albert, Edzer Bateman, C. Barrie, with Merriold Wilkinson skip, and the February — March competition by M. Smith, W. W. Purdy, G. W. Paget and Mac White as skip. Mr. Houston thanked all who assisted in any way with the committees: Steve Pinsoff, Ben Corke, of the ice committee and probably the hardest working member of the executive, hoped that all enjoyed the ice and that they would have much better conditions in the years ahead.

The meeting approved a resolution that the immediate past president of the 1959 become a member of the directorate and to honor Mr. Gault, the first president, have a trophy named after him for club competition. Before the annual banquet, J. E. McArthur summed up the season by expressing the appreciation for a job well done and the hope the bright days of the Quinte Curling Club will continue through the years. Before dispersing the boys enjoyed a banquet in the ladies' room before calling an end to a most successful season.

Angler's Haul, Four Trout In 60 Minutes

George "Lefty" Whitman has been attending opening-day trout conservation rites he quit baseball and "chawin' scrabble."

"Lefty" is a regular attendant at the inaugural rites of Rawdon Creek Local 5458 of the Brotherhood of Speckles and Browns.

He was on hand bright and early this morning when the chief brownie called the convention to order.

The speckles were suspensive, too. "Lefty" dangled a few choice worms under piscatorial snouts and three speckles bit the bait and the dust. They measured 10½ inches and better.

He had spent slightly less than an hour along the creek hauling in his first-day bag of four.

"The water," he said, "was about as cold as it was last year — and was very clear."

Nor was the creek glutted with early-morning trout-fishers. "Lefty" saw two during his brief sojourn.

"Tell the trout fishermen," he said, "to pause for a minute along a creek and stick whistling Dixie in their mud. I have been doing it for years and have yet to see a trout. The shoals will grow and become a great aid to conservation since they provide cover, help hold the bank soil and the water back."

"They phoned up the station and said the canoe had drifted away from them. They got ashore and walked out. It's pretty dense area there."

IN MEMORIAM

REID. In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Hugh Reid, who passed away May 1st, 1956.

Many hours and days of pain, Many months of grief and strain,
As to our ashes hearts we know,
Only God and angels know.
— Ever remembered by wife Elsie and family.

HAMILTON. — In loving memory of Ida M. Hamilton, who passed away 28 years ago today, April 30th, 1931.

Twas the little things that pleased Her,
Like the first petunia blooom,
The first bird at her feeder
Or maybe just the sound
For malice, in her heart, there was none
And always forgiveness, for love's part was strong.
Rest of all were the little children
Of the Sunday School she taught
The kids now grown with families of their own
Remember her stories
And their prayers made life less frantic
While she moves on to greater glories.
— Fondly remembered by all.

HILL. — In loving memory of a dear mother and grandmother, Effie Hill, who passed away May 1st, 1954.

Five years are ours and day by day
We miss the one we loved was called away
God called her home, it was His will
But in our hearts she liveth still — Sadly missed and remembered by daughter Rose, son-in-law Harold and grandchildren.

Street Cleaning Job Nears End

Belleville's city works department is being quite busy these days with a number of different projects. One of the main projects the spring street cleaning drive, has progressed very well and will be completed by next week. The ditching program on the West Hill is now completed in the main although extrative stages. Actual excavation will begin this forthcoming week.

The city now has a full-time trench inspector. His duties include the supervision of all workers in the subdivisions and the inspection of any excavation made within the limits of the present allowances in the city. Other spring projects which are underway include road maintenance; painting of such properties as parking meters, stoplights and signs; the oiling of the road shoulders to control dust conditions, and the planting of trees, about 125 having been planted to date.

Road maintenance have now been completed on Bridge St. East near Herchimer Avenue.

These projects have resulted in the temporary employment of 17 unemployed persons. Four equipment operators for the department has been ordered and should be delivered in the near future.

COUNTY COUNCIL

said if several local builders had been called in instead "a lot of outside help" would be done for what we are going to pay the architect."

INTEREST CHARGES

A discussion on possible interest charges should the county council delay the new building was opened up by Reeve Earl Sager who said this would amount to the new $100,000.

"I don't know where Reeve Sager gets his figures," returned Warden Brown, noting that if the county surplus was used it would mean only $200,000 would have to be financed. This over even a four-year period would mean less than the $100,000 mentioned, he said.

"Whether you use the county surplus or borrow, is all the same thing," returned Reeve Sager. "If you use the surplus you will have to borrow to other purposes."

Reeve Fitzgerald came up with an idea of delaying the construction of the new building and using what would be saved in interest charges to build up a sinking fund.

"In 10 years time you would have enough to build the new courthouse at no cost."

"If that way of thinking is right, then Hastings county should have had a new courthouse every 25 years," returned Reeve W. Rose of Brankford.

FEARS ADDED COSTS

Reeve James Spry was certain that there would be hidden costs much in excess of the contract price should the country go ahead with the new building.

"Last fall we were going to use stone from the old building to face the new structure, and since then the age of the old building standing" he said.

Reeve Richard Hamilton of Sidney said he had the same line of thinking. He asked what would be the maintenance cost of the old building if it were allowed to stand after the new courthouse was built. "Everything is heated?" he asked. "I can't vote intelligently until more quotations are answered."

With the vote on the question involved, there was momentary indecision on whether an open recorded vote should be taken or whether council should go into caucus for a secret ballot.

The final vote should be taken into disfavor however, with several councillors speaking against it.

"If you're ashamed of the way you vote on this question you shouldn't be here," said Reeve Kinlin. "Call my name first I know where I stand".

Softball Loop Final Plans Made at Meet

TRENTON —Final plans were made for softball this summer at a special meeting of the Trenton and District Softball League in the board room of the Community Centre last night.

Sonny Harrison, president of the league, was in the chair for the meeting, with 12 representatives of the different teams present.

A special investigating committee was named that night to act during the coming season and will be headed by Harold Long. Other members will be Jack Twigg and Don Chittleborough. This committee will probe all complaints about team players who are playing in any other type of organized ball.

Harold Long was also asked by the meeting to contact some of the known umpires and see if they can be engaged for this year. The meeting decided to pay them $2 per game instead of the $1 paid last year.

Teams in the league are: Consecon A's (managed by Ken Hall); D-10; Richards Imperial; Merchants; Trent Dyers Trenton PX and Simpsons. Each team will pay an entrance fee of $10, payable before the first game and this will be played on May 23, and all teams will have a list of players submitted to the secretary before June 1. The entrance fee for the season and at the end of the season if no games have been defaulted will be paid.

The protest fee will be $10, and this will be refunded only if the team making the protest wins. If it does not the money will go into the league fund. Rulings on protests will be made at a meeting of the umpires, representatives from the teams concerned and the executive of the league.

All games will start at 6.45 p.m. and will be seven innings long. The playoffs will be nine innings. The top five teams in league play-offs enter the playoffs, with the No. 1 team getting the bye.

Rules from the OASA will be followed as closely as possible.

Borrow Machine To Test Air For Pollution

TRENTON — A machine to test the air for pollution has been borrowed by the town and has been set up, for the present, in the office of the chief engineer by H. S. Pane, town health inspector.

The machine is small and easy to handle and will be set up in specified places in different sections of the town. It will be left in each place for one until Monday and then will probably be taken to the west side of town.

Electrically operated, the machine draws air through a long plastic hose and forces it through a special sensitive paper. The paper is left in place of about three hours at a time. It then jumps automatically to a new position and takes a new sample.

The samples are then sent away and the degree of pollution is determined and a report made to the town.

The machine has been borrowed for a 90-day period.

ST. ANTHONY, Nfld. (CP)—Six children and their mother died Thursday in a fire that swept through a 1½ storey log home at Roddickton, 50 miles south of here on Canada Bay.

Mrs. Roland Reid, 32, five daughters and a son were trapped to death. Four other children escaped.

Reid resides Mrs. Reid were Ida 16, Ray 11, Betty, 7, Linda, 5, Wanda, 3, and Pauline, five months. Saved were Winston 13, Hilda, 9, Patsy, twin sister of the dead Betty, and Ivan, 2.

RCMP in Corner Brook, depending on a long cancer, stated because of the isolation of Roddickton, said the fire apparently started about 7:30 a.m. and it was only a matter of minutes before the structure was in ruins. Mr. Reid was working at a logging camp 18 miles from home.

RCMP officers from St. Anthony were expected to go to the scene by boat or plane to investigate the blaze. Roads were impassable.

Beautiful Camp Glen Mhor on Lake Simcoe will be the site less from the 280 churches in the Toronto and Kingston Synod of a modern Covenanter Convention, June 14, when Presbyter- meet for the traditional service in the open.

Modern Convenanter Convention Will Be Held in June

By AUBREY WICE

They came down from the hills and hillsides to the moors and valleys, so many years ago in Scotland. They came to the secret Conventicles Conventicle.

In those perilous times, nearly 300 years ago, devout Scottish folk were killed for having a Bible.

But the Conventanters won for Presbyterians the freedom to worship and to have free use of the Bible.

Now the need for secret Conventicles is gone.

But their history is still inspiring. And it will be remembered again if a few weeks when a great Presbyterian gathering in the open is planned.

This modern service of worship will be at 4 p.m. June 14, in a setting similar to the secret gathering places in the Old Country.

It will be at beautiful Glen Mhor Camp at Point Mara, on Lake Simcoe, about five miles north of Beaverton.

Here, beside the rippling, sunlit waters, ringed by tall evergreens against the blue sky, is a sylvan cathedral.

From small and large places, from country and city churches, from the 280 churches of the Toronto and Kingston Synod, Presbyterians are coming by car and by bus.

They will gather with digni- taries of church and state. This is to be a great service of witness for Presbyterians. A time for all who love their denomination to show their loyalty.

Massed choirs and worshippers together will watch as he presenter strikes a note with his tuning fork. Then, their voices will be raised in praise of Almighty God and in thankfulness for their many blessings.

PIPERS TOO

The pipers will be there, too. Proudly, will swirling kilts they will play the old Scottish airs.

The message in this kirk in the open will be given by a man who has reason to think of the Conventicles fairly often.

RIFLE AND BIBLE

Mr. Stirling well remembers these stalwart Scots warriors lining upon a hot and dusty parade square, ready to march to service. In one hand they carried a rifle, and in the other, a Bible.

Glen Mhor camp was a gift to the Presbyterian church by James Playfair, former shipping magnate of Midland. Mr. and Mrs. Playfair had no children, so, with Christian zeal for future generations, they bought the site, erected the camp, and furnished it down to the last detail, including monogrammed linen.

The Rev. Dr. John McNab, Moderator of the whole Presbyterian Church in Canada, was then a minister in Midland. He and Mr. Playfair selected the beautiful site.

The camp passed through years of general disturbance with the depression and war, plus postwar readjustment. As a result the camp suffered. However, the women's house committee, under chairman Mrs. MacKenzie Matheson, came into the picture, and as usually happens when women take on such a project, things soon changed.

SAD STATE

Mrs. Matheson told me that a half-dozen years ago the ancient stoves were falling apart. There was only one old icebox. Secondhand car seats were used to sit on. The beds were sagging and the mattresses worn. It was a mess.

Now, there is a 10-burner stove, a walk-in refrigerator, a full set of new furniture and beautiful drapes, made in a blitz sewing bee here. A concert that raised $500 helped pay for them.

The place has been painted and scrubbed and landscaped by some of the highest-priced labor on the market. These were impressed men in the business world who pitched in and helped on weekends.

CANADA TAKES IMPORTANT STEP

Announcement that Atomic Energy of Canada Ltd. has awarded a contract to Canadian General Electric for the design and development of a nuclear-type power station suitable for use in the Canadian Arctic is news of international importance.

This project ties in with Prime Minister Diefenbaker's vision of a new era of expansion in the Far North, for the provision of cheap power will be essential if the mineral resources of the northland are to be fully exploited.

At the same time, any nuclear power plant suitable for use in the Canadian Arctic would almost certainly fit the needs of other undeveloped areas throughout the world, where lack of conventional fuels and the inadequacy of existing transportation facilities now makes the supply of power a major obstacle to development.

There is nothing in the announcement from Ottawa which suggests that weather conditions in the Far North will greatly influence the design of the reactor. Rather the reference to adaptability to use in the Arctic appears to envision the likelihood that most such plants would be comparatively small in size, since the demand for power would not be as great as in heavily populated industrial areas. Capital costs for nuclear stations are high and it is these costs, rather than the cost of the uranium which they use as fuel, which makes such plants an expensive way to produce power. It is reasonable to assume that the capital costs of a small station, compared with its output of power, would be higher than for a large station. The problem facing Canadian General Electric, therefore, is to reduce the capital costs of small or medium sized nuclear reactors and it is believed that this problem may be solved by the use of oil-like substances as a coolant, in the place of expensive heavy water. If this system works in the Arctic, it should work in the desert and in the jungle, too. This might provide the "break-through" necessary to improve the economic condition of millions of people in have-not countries, which cannot produce coal or oil and without the railways, highways or pipelines necessary to move imported conventional fuels to the points where they are needed.

Incidentally, of course, development of a low-cost small-sized nuclear power plant which could produce electricity at a comparatively cheap price could provide an important market for Canadian industry -- and for the uranium from Canada's mines.

REALLY, MR. MATHER!

A column written recently by Barry Mather of the Vancouver Sun served as a vehicle to extoll the alleged virtues of the western coast as far as fine and fair weather are concerned. Mr. Mather, however, with the somewhat exhuberant enthusiasm which we enjoy noting in his column, compared the sunshine and balmy breezes of British Columbia and, we strongly suspect, Vancouver in particular, with the wintry storms and drifting snow, which according to the columnist concerned were still harassing the down-Easterners. At the end of this column there was a parenthesized note "Brantford papers please copy".

Well, sir! We do not feel the article in question is worth copying since we have been enjoying the fever of spring for some while now. Granted a few of the days might have been a bit cool, but they have been spring days nevertheless graced by the unmistakable aura of the season. Therefore, if we might adopt a chamber of commerce tone ourselves: with the gentle mantle of spring fever and warming sunshine hovering about our shoulders we cannot help but feel a twinge of the limbs as we read of the recent snowstorms of the west and the persistent rains on the B.C. coast. No doubt there are not a few out there in the west who would love to be enjoying our usual eastern fine weather, free from all those cares and worries of an inclement climate.

(Mr. Mather please copy.)

THE GARDENER PEST

By EDGAR A. GUEST

Said his wife to him: "I'll have to wait for a week or more;
You planted your garden seeds.
If you don't start soon, I really fear
The place will be full of weeds.
You ought to be digging right now," said she,
"At once all the beds be made."
"I'll hike right over to Jones," said he,
"To borrow his garden spade."

He borrowed the spade and he started in
And dug for an hour or two,
Then he told his wife with a downcast chin,
"That's all that I now can do.
I've pulled a muscle in my back
And I've blistered my hands, I fear;
I'll have to wait for a week or more;
I can't go on till the man next door
Will lend me his garden rake.

"I've borrowed a trowel from Mr. Black,
A harrow from Mr. Smith.
But Jones has taken his old spade back
To finish his garden with.
Oh, I need a spade, and I need a hoe
And a rake to complete my kit,
But I never will buy such things, oh, no!
It's cheaper to use my neighbors'."

Scot Father Of Surgery

B.B.C. London Letter

"John Hunter was one of those encyclopaedic Georgian figures who would, one both of Leonardo da Vinci in the breadth of their interests and of the great modern scientists of the patient penetration of their genius," said Donald Milner in a recent broadcast about John Hunter, a Scotsman who became one of the founding fathers of modern surgery. Hunter was born in Lanarkshire in 1728 and died in 1793, and his work is commemorated in a unique collection of anatomical and other specimens built up by the Royal College of Surgeons at the Hunterian Museum in London, which Milner visited before the broadcast.

"When Hunter came to London at the age of twenty," Milner said, "surgery had only just formally separated itself from the art and mystery of barbers. When he died half a century later, it was firmly established as a scientific profession. The reason why the latter is thus visibly connected to the great pioneering pathologist.

"Such private collections were by no means unusual even in those days but Hunter's was unique in that it was not merely a collection of exhibits, but a demonstration of his theories, and in that sense firmly established the basic arrangement which has been followed by museums ever since.

"Hunter ignored the usual groupings of exhibits," said Milner, "and instead grouped them inticed to illustrate his observations on normal and abnormal parts. One of the things which intrigued him, for example, was the adaptation of structure to function; so you'll find the sea-horse, the chameleon and the monkey together, because they all have prehensile tails, or the tiger, the eagle and the tiger's claw and the woolpacker's tongue, to show the different species get their food. He was never content to be, as he said, like the farmer, a philosopher whose knowledge consisted only of facts; his was to reason why, and by answering questions to establish fresh principles from the facts he collected, next assault on his subject.

"Hunter wasn't interested in curiosities or strove show pieces, but undoubtedly the museum's chief attraction is for the layman has always been the skeleton of the eight-foot Irish giant, Charles Byrne, who lived near him in Charing Cross Road, and whose body he is believed to have bribed the undertakers to get for his collection when Burn died in 1783."

Unusual Cure For Bad Tooth

Stratford "Beacon-Herald"

Tony Armstrong-Jones who, at twenty-seven, is one of the most sought-after photographers in Britain, and has made photographic portraits of the Queen, Princess of Edinburgh, Princess Margaret and Sir Winston Churchill — spoke in a recent B.B.C. General Overseas Service broadcast from the studio in London for a photographer, and particularly for the people of London.

He had found one of his most unlikely subjects for portraiture while wandering around the somewhat shabby district near the Old Vic theatre. It was a girl being tatooed: When he asked the girl's friend why she was having this done, the friend replied: "Well, she had such a bad toothache last night, we thought this would take the pain away."

"Is that old codger annoying you, Miss?"

Natives Copy Whites' Vices

Vancouver Sun

Native races in Africa may not be ready for democracy but they're ready to learn — how well, in some cases.

Dahomey is an example. The politicians of this French colony have voted on the independence issue are quick to learn the tricks.

Before elections the government of Premier Apithy came out on the short end of the popular vote. It got only 50 of the 70 seats in the colonial assembly.

The government had rigged the election beforehand by laying out the electoral districts to favor itself.

On this continent this is called "gerrymandering."

It has been practical politics in British Columbia for many years. Its principal effect here is to load the legislature in favor of rural areas at the expense of the heavily populated areas.

It isn't real democracy and every time a Canadian politician opens his mouth to prate about democracy he should put himself in shame he speaks without hypocrisy.

It will be too bad if the colonies pick up from us only the vices of democracy.

Where Pike Not Pikers

By Colin Wallack

in the London Observer

Pike are said to have gladdened human limbs, horses' snouts, donkeys' flanks and bull grown manes. Anglers will tell you enthusiastically that a 30-pound pike eats a few pounds of fish every day, which prompts the irreverent to ask why more 60-pounders are not caught. Two-pound pike are frequently reported to have been hooked to death with eight-pounders in their jaws, though no one produces this evidence.

In fact, the appetite of the fish is impressive but not as formidable as all that. Pike of 18 pounds and upwards will eat mallards, moorhens and voles. A 10-pounder might occasionally choke on a four-pounder, but human beings remain comparatively safe.

The lime-bedecorated method of catching pike is to put out a live fish, attached by hooks, beneath a big cork float. It is still done and, undeniably, the sudden disappearance of a float "Sung" is a thrill that few anglers can resist. The Metropolitan Water Board and its predecessors, the New River Company and the reservoirs of the Metropolitan Water Board all hold their share of bottom-feeding workers.

The trouble is to find them.

Tom Bergman hooked the Scottish record fish of 44 pounds, 11 ounces in Loch Lomond in 1947. He had a fair idea where the fish might be lying, and, in fact, he beateen to push it out of the reeds towards his one-pound roach livebait.

Ireland, naturally, is not its own when it comes to pike. It did produce the all-time record fish of 53 pounds landed on a spoon, caught in Lough Conn by a Mr. Garvin. But the Irish don't talk much about that, for the fish was bony and tough, how the Inland Fisheries Board were ashamed by a fish 20 pounder that was found dead with an alsatian dog, still breathing, floating in a Scottish loch land is concerned I wouldn't want to draw a line between them; they'll yet catch a 40-pounder that, on being landed, will disgorge a 20-pound 'possibility' and a full - dressed waiter bailiff on the bargain. Any advance on that?

Wee Pipes For Novices

Ottawa Citizen

The making of bagpipes will no doubt be sog over the week-end but one of the most ancient of instruments, the bagpipes, is to be given a chance to win new acquaintances. A miniature is devised a set of miniature bagpipes which emit a smaller sound than the real thing but learning purposes because the fingering should be the same as on the full-sized instrument. A man may thus get his bagpipe lessons on the Greenock firm calls its "wee pipes" and then go on to the progress to greater things.

If the makers have their way, oceanic travel will soon be as well supplied with these midget pipes, and from the sounds of it shall say what will come to pass! Before long the weekend may ring in with the strains of bagpipes large and small. If one result is to drive the rock 'n' rollers deep underground, this in itself would be a notable and praiseworthy achievement.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

DON'T FRET — WORRY ALWAYS THRIVES ON WORRY

"Dear Dr. Molner: My doctor said I had a heart skip but that it is nothing. He says I am normal. He said it was common in a nervous-type person such as I am. I have the nerves of a horse and I worry, too. Doc nerves or worry cause this heart skip?" Also I have eczema on my hand. Could this come from nerves? — D. H. M.

Of all the things that bother nervous people, I suppose the heart skip, or palpitation, the pounding of the heart is the most popular". Or if it isn't popular, it's certainly common.

Do nerves play a part in this? Let me ask you a question in reply. If you are frightened, startled or excited, doesn't your heart beat faster? Or sometimes seem to "stand still"? That is perfectly normal. But if you are a nervous, high-strung person, and consequently tense, you can expect this nervous reaction to have such a reaction.

For a further question, how about this: When you are totally absorbed in something — a story, a game, a trip or what have you, isn't it true that at such times these "heart skips" don't occur? Or if they do you pay no attention?

Fear or worry or "nerves" will thrive on sitting and thinking. (By "thinking" I mean fretting). The best way to get rid of worry is to do something, and calling the fire department.

These are probably far-fetched examples, but I hope you can see what I mean.

Worry feeds on worry! Action and staying busy, reduce the amount of time for worry.

The person who just dreams up things to worry about is his own worst torturer. But I'll tell you something else, too. The nervous person also has a great talent. That talent is the nervous energy itself. That type of drive can lead a person to a great many accomplishments or if the nervous energy is used instead of letting it find an outlet it worrying.

You're going to say it isn't easy to do that. But it can be done, so use your nervous energy in finding the way!

As to smoking continuing to be the trouble you describe, yes, it's known to do just that. Not to everybody, but to some.

About the eczema, I'll have to hedge There isn't the slightest doubt that nervous' folks have more of this sort of trouble, so I think we can honestly say that nerves are "causal" here.

There are so many physical causes, however, that in my opinion most skin disorders — or anyway a large proportion — demand treatment from two directions at once. One is for the nerves, the other for whatever physical irritant is at work.

And I'll bet you know what I mean when I comment that a person with an itchy rash never thinks about it when, for example, running to catch a bus. But if you are sitting still doing nothing, it starts to itch. And you scratch it. And it itches worse. Vicious circle!

"Dear Dr. Molner: I'm a young man 21 years old. I had to undergo a hysterectomy, but only one ovary is removed. Am I likely to be a nervous condition, and will it be necessary to take hormone shots? — L. M. W."

The answer is "no" to both questions if the remaining ovary is functioning normally.

No Business Of Police

Winnipeg Free Press

In future any boy arrested by the Winnipeg police will not be asked to reveal his racial origin or his religion to the arresting officer.

It would be wrong to assume that the police have in the past had any interest in information to discriminate against Juveniles. But the possibility of discrimination will be removed if not used or not, the practice was abolished.

The police are properly concerned only with offences and with facts about a person that are directly relevant to the offence. Racial origins and religion are not police matters.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

WORK WITH A VISION

I have met with a large number of successful men in my years. Many have told me of the thrilling experiences that led them to great and outstanding careers. Those who have gone furthest and most happily, have always kept before them a vision of what they most wanted to achieve.

Along this line I recently enjoyed a luncheon with the New York Times that told of a dream that the Thomas A. Edison Presidents of the Lehigh Structural Steel Company. He selected some 200 of their men to visit New York and see the finished product of their work at home, in Allentown. He wanted them to see the mammoth cantilever over the Hudson River and Pan American World Airways Terminal at New York's International Airport.

A stream of buses brought the workers in New York, with a luncheon for the lot, as guests of Mr. Edison, and a tour of inspection to impress on their minds their usefulness in creating what was at first but a vision. Now, finished it will be New York's international Airport. These workmen will not forget this trip. They will think of it time and again as they work on the steel in the future.

Work with a vision and you will go far. Look at the great men made America great, and an example to the world. People with vision are the ones who lead and others keep climbing higher. In the Proverbs there is this thought line: "Where there is no vision the people perish." With no light ahead, there is no objective, and with nothing to stir the imagination and inspire the heart, the road ahead can offer little. Incentive wills and dies. Work with a vision and you may live forever.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

DON'T FEAR CAPITALISM

Did Jesus teach communism? People sometimes claim that communism is simply an attempt to put Christian principles into practice. It is hard to understand how any intelligent person could claim that political communism, enforced with a heavy club, has anything in common to do with Jesus Christ and His teachings.

But it must be pointed out most clearly that Jesus not only did not teach any form of communism but He assumed as a normal economic system what we call capitalism. Indeed, Jesus was a religious teacher, not an economic theorist. His teachings have economic significance. In the parable of the pounds and the parable of the talents the idea was that men were to take those things of value and trade with them in a profit. This is the system we know as capitalism.

After the death, resurrection, and ascension of Jesus, the members of the early church decided they would go one step further and form a type of Christian communism whereby everyone gave up what he had to the community fund. The result was that the Christian community was found in a state of starvation. St. Paul had to collect money from the Gentile churches to maintain fast to save the Christian community from starvation.

Capitalism is the only possible form of economic system consistent with Christianity. Socialism, Communism, political, or social "Christian," produces starvation.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

What is the difference between a friend and an acquaintance?

An elderly lady of my acquaintance has this definition:

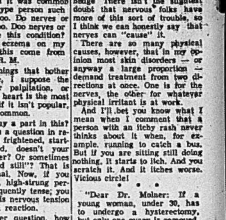
"A friend is anyone who can drop in any old time and stay for long hours, even all night, and do fuss. An acquaintance is somebody you have to invite."

The way she says invite, you can sense all sorts of preparation. The whole house has to be dusted and tidied and polished, (for fear the acquaintance might wander around.) A meal has to be planned and prepared. You have to dress up.

In short, acquaintances are something of a nuisance.

"Then," I enquired, "what do you do if an unexpected friend is in about eleven-thirty in the morning or around five in the afternoon?"

"You just sit it out," said my acquaintance.



So we just sat it out. When it became a quarter to six, pm., and she was beginning to take long deep breaths and look out the window rather pointedly, and pour conversation down in pellets of etiquette and in terms of what is called semantics, a term, I gather, invented by some grouchy solitary, I finally got around to asking her about it.

"How," I suggested, "about coming with me to a little joint I have discovered in Soho where these Hungarian newcomers have a back room with gypsy music and they serve a thing called—"

My friend, now, did not wait to hear what they are called but was hustling upstairs to put on her best reserved, usually for acquaintances.

Norris Whitney Acclaimed as PC Candidate

PICTON — Member for Prince Edward - Lennox in the Ontario Legislature for the past eight years, Norris Whitney, R. R. 1, Consecon, was again nominated as Progressive Conservative candidate for the riding in the forthcoming provincial election. His was the only name proposed at the convention held in Napanee Collegiate Wednesday night when nearly four hundred delegates were present.

Guest speaker at the convention was Capt., the Rev. Hon. W. A. Downer, speaker of the Ontario Legislature, who was introduced by Elmer Sandercock, MLA for West Hastings. Appreciation to the speaker was voiced by Clarence Milligan, MP.

Mayor H. J. McFarland of Picton made a strong plea for action in connection with a causeway connecting Prince Edward County and Hastings. It would have many benefits, he stated. He also stressed the need for the government to assume a greater share of the cost of education. It is getting beyond the ability of municipalities to carry this burden, he stated.

President of the Riding Association, Fred McPherson of Wilton, welcomed the delegates. Secretary - treasurer Thomas Walker gave the minutes and called the roll of delegates by polls. Deputy Reeve Glen Herrington extended a welcome to the town of Napanee.

THANKS MEETING

In expressing thanks for the acclamation, Mr. Whitney said he pledged himself to serve the electors as he had in the past. He mentioned that during his term as member all townships except one had received or had been promised development roads. He also mentioned that provincial parks are being established at Adolphustown and the Outlet.

The Hon. Mr. Downer spoke on the theme 'Do You Remember?' In a comparison of the past with the present, he cited the great progress, which has been made in many fields. In 1892 when the Parliament Buildings were opened, it was stated the accommodation would not all be needed. Today, 20 buildings in Toronto alone, are required for government services. In 1907 only a few people assigned hydro service; now 96 percent of the people have it. Even with the St. Lawrence Development, he foresaw a need for more power in years to come to meet expanding needs. In 1919 there were a few paved roads in cities. Today there is a mighty network of transportation routes, the road budget has risen from 19 millions in 1919 to 261 millions for the current year. In 1943, fourteen millions were spent on education; today the budget calls for 393 millions.

CITED ADVANCES

Mr. Downer cited the advance in the fight against diseases, and the extension of the span of life, of county homes replacing poor houses, of pensions and help for the disabled.

Expanding services and increased aid have called for greater revenue but this has been achieved under the present government without imposing new taxation, but by developing natural resources and increasing population. The speaker stressed that the prosperity of the country is still dependent on agriculture and cited government aid for that industry.

Following the convention, the delegates were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Whitney in the school cafeteria when light refreshments were served.

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—Three pathologists report that human life may s o m e t i m e s literally "hang by a thread." Drs. Gregg Lumb, R. S. Shacklett and Lucher B. Council Devotes Whole Day Discussing New Court House After Tenders Are Presented

After preliminary discussions which lasted almost most of Thursday's sitting, Hastings county councillors will decide by day whether or not to proceed with the building of a proposed new court house.

Tenders for the construction of the courthouse have been opened by the architect firm of Breg man and Hamann with low tenders for the building being submitted by a few cents over a million dollars.

Mr. G. Hamann, representing the architect firm, told councillors that in all probability the building could be constructed in 10 months if the decision was to go ahead. The new building would comprise courthouse, offices for the administration of justice department, county offices and Shire Hall and registry office.

The city of Belleville and the town of Trenton would share in the cost of the building, less the cost of the part used for county offices and county council chambers.

Finance committee chairman Max Mawson said that council should decide at this sitting what action would be taken as needed repairs to the present courthouse building were being held up pending the decision of council.

Council had originally decided to renovate the present building but when estimates pointed to a higher cost per square foot than a new building, plans were called for a new structure.

CLAIMS COSTS KEPT HIGH

Reeve Ezri Sager of Madoc township felt that the cost estimates for renovation had been purposely kept high "to get a new building."

He said there were no complaints about the condition of Shire Hall and no reasonable excuse could be advanced for a new council chamber.

He also was in favor of renovating the present courthouse building, claiming that the 100-year-old structure was "just an infant" in comparison to the many century-old buildings in Europe.

Mr. Sager noted that a 13th century building in Rome was good enough for Princess Margaret to dance in during her recent visit to Italy and suggested that the Italians might be able to show us something about building old buildings in modern.

He asserted that public opinion was not in favor of a new courthouse.

This was seized by Warden J. N. Thompson who also assured the member that renovation estimates had not been purposely kept high.

He said that public opinion was not a factor of a new building and said he was personally not in favor of spending any money on the old building.

"The courthouse is not meant to be a monument but is for use as an office facility." Referring to the condition of the present building the warden said people who work for the county should not be penalized because they work in the courthouse.

"If we decide to renovate, I want it known that I was 100 percent with the decision," the warden emphasized.

DELAY COSTLY CLAIM

Reeve Whittemore of Deloro said he had been impressed with the appearance of the walls and foundation on his first visit to the courthouse, but had not been impressed with the interior.

He said the only way to renovate would be to "tear the guts out" otherwise the expense would be lost.

He claimed that administration costs would be less if all county offices were under one roof and said that centralization would have to come sooner or later.

"Delay would be costly as costs are rising and we must take a long term view," he said.

In any event the historical value of the courthouse was not great and could not be compared to the century old building of Europe, many of which, he said, were badly in need of repair.

To a question as to how long the county could delay and still take advantage of the tenders received, Mr. Hamann said the tenders would be open only for 30 days. If there was a delay of longer than 30 days contractors would not be bound and if a later decision was made to build new tenders would have to be called.

It was brought out that the county share of the cost of the proposed new court house, including architects' fees and furnishings might run about $350,000 and there was a brief discussion as to how this cost might be financed.

No decision was made, however, and the matter was laid over until today.

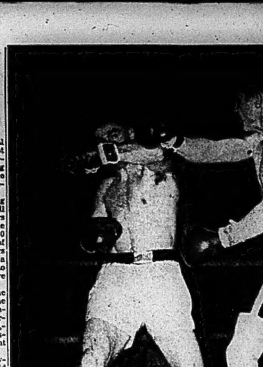
No action was taken on the roads and bridges committee recommendation to request the Ontario Department of Highways to pave Mr. Madoc-Tweed boro road with hot mix as a development road project.

WOULD DUPLICATE PURPOSE

Reeve Mawson said in his opinion the request would defeat the purpose the committee had in mind and would be an admission to the department that the road was good enough for a permanent top.

Reeve Elmer Wilson asked if council was certain there was no chance of the highways department taking the road over as a highway. He was told by Reeve James Kinkin that last year the then highway's minister James N. Allan had said no.

"But we have a new highways minister and this year is another year."



Reeve Sager noted that the reason the committee was asking for the hard top was that it felt the county could not this year afford the cost of additional right of way to have more of the artery rebuilt under a road development plan.

He felt that asking for the hard top might encourage the department to take over the road.

Deputy Reeve Harold Warty suggested that the Madoc road did not duplicate either No. 14 or No. 37 highway to Tweed and with the mining development in the north of the county the Madoc road was as much a feeder road to the north of the county.

Decision on councillors, however, was to table the matter until the next session when it was expected the provincial election would be over.

During the day's session Reeve W. J. Davis gave a detailed report of the Ontario Educational Convention held in Toronto during the Easter Holiday.

Lots of action was seen at the Belleville Boxing Club's first card held last night. Here is a shot of the fisticuffs displayed during the course of the main bout. Belleville's Jack "Rocky" Lucas (left) parries a jab by Peterborough's Al Reid. Lucas won the main bout by an unanimous decision.

In a final report on the 1958-59 evening classes held at Belleville C.I. & V.S. under the sponsorship of the Bay of Quinte District High School Board, principal E. A. Orr reports a total enrolment of 633 in 29 different classes. Classes were offered in art, auto mechanics, bookkeeping, bricklaying, building construction, drafting and blueprint reading, electricity, electronics, English for New Canadians, machine shop, millinery, sewing short-hand, trigonometry, typewriting, U.I.A. home construction, welding and woodworking and in second-year subjects — mathematics II mechanics II, strength of materials I and electricity I of the advanced technical course. Certificates have been presented to 340 men and women who attended at least 80 percent of the classes in their respective subjects and whose progress was satisfactory to the instructors.

While some classes were held only one night per week, most courses met either on Monday and Wednesday evenings or on Tuesdays and Thursdays for two hours each evening. Classes began early in October and, with the exception of the advanced technical course, terminated at the end of March. Thus most students received 94 hours of instruction at a modest registration fee of five dollars for most subjects.

Registration for the 1959-60 classes will take place on September 29 and 30. In the meantime, requests or suggestions for new courses will be welcomed by the principal. Classes may be organized in any subject for which there is a minimum registration of fifteen.

Contact Club Sponsors First Fashion Show in Parish Hall

Spring fashions in a setting beckoning the guests to the delights of travelling to far places captured the imagination of a capacity audience at Christ Church Parish Hall on Wednesday evening when the Contact Club was hostess at its first fashion show.

Guests made their way into the auditorium which was artistically appointed as to give the most confirmed stay-at-home the yen to travel. Large colorful posters on the walls spoke eloquently of France, Germany and the British Isles.

The small tables with their pretty pastel cloths, carafes of steaming coffee and dainty pastries each held casually placed travel folders ranging from Canada to the Rockies, Mexico, Spain, Scotland, the Nile cruises, to Russia, to Alaska — to every corner of the globe. Bright travel posters, also graced the pretty drapes and the stage curtains and the whole spirit of theme with lawn chairs and umbrella table, tulips in gay profusion, matched and the handsome luggage, and just before the show, a tall standard of fresh flowers.

GOOD GROOMING

Getting proceeding under way, Florence Lounsbury, commentator for the fashion show, and the club president, Mary Walter, welcomed the many guests. Florence introduced Doris Chelsea Fuller, Elizabeth Arden representative from Toronto, who spoke briefly on good grooming, and gave her listeners pointers on costume, posture, the use of hair and hands and of course, make-up. Miss Fellows commented on the modern trend towards making make-up to costume, on the new pale look, and on the importance of eye make-up. Her advice on the use of the full length mirror concluded due to how a woman can "make sure of her loveliness".

FASHION DISPLAY

The models came on stage and walked down through the centre aisle, pausing in the hall to show the latest in dresses, suits, hats suitable for travel, as Florence commented charmingly on the styles, colors and details of the costuming. In this first group it was evident that the thirtwait dress, unpressed pleats, narrow belt and easy care materials are the order of the day. Across the hats in infinite variety — the wonderful "packaway" in the sailors, the dressy models of mohair, Milan and Swiss straws light summer straws, and delicate lace and flowered models.

High crowns were much in evidence. Another grouping of dresses included costumes suitable for luncheon and special occasions. Many of the dresses were fully lined and had their own crinolines. Large relaxed collars were often seen and dresses once again featured the separate versatile c.-lor combinations of blue-with green.

SPORTSWEAR

Looking towards summer and accenting the holiday mood, the models brought to the scene a wonderful collection of sports wear. Matching sets with shorts, skirts and boleros and slim dresses were pert, pretty and practical— separates to be mixed or matched for the ideal summer packing. The cool and comfortable Bermuda Paws drew much interested comment. And with travelling in mind came the popular full fur capes, stoles and jackets and very lovely and luxurious sweep of costume, some with new lengths, many with mink collars and one dazzling white three-quarter.

Betty Ling modelled a lovely Transvelett suit with coat trimmed with royal pastel mink — very soft and light. Betty also showed a one-piece cotton suit in a small waffle design, floral patterned in royal blue and white with bright green leaves; an attractive island blue and white print dress featuring a lovely white rose at the front; a high-crowned gondolier in white straw; a smart rippled Brian Baker straw; one of the new "wigs" of suave fluffy silk flowers, and an attractive sportswear combination of grey flannel pleated culotte skirt and sleeveless beige blouse.

Margaret Andrews showed a three-quarter-length skin-on-skin black Persian lamb coat made from Southwest African skins featuring a large collar which is a new trend this year. Margaret also wore a shirtwaist dress in royal blues and bright greens of washable celanese, acetate; and several most becoming models including two sailors, a shell pink Swiss straw overlaid with white veiling, and a dainty white cloche made up with row on row of lace.

LUXURIOUS STOLE

June Woodley was luxurious in a ten-skin stole in sapphire mink of a natural shade which it has taken breeders years to produce. This stole featured the new portrait neckline. June showed also a Paisley cotton shirtwait dress in which almost all the colors of the rainbow blended perfectly, a white silk polka-dot hat featuring the new high crown and a lovely white chiffon cloche; a hat of flowers in one of the newest shades, Persian Rose, and a lovely matched set of skirt, slims and sportswear material in beautifully blended all-wool tartan in soft shades of sand and green. Drew Jay's fashions featured a delightful sheer dress of blues and greens having a large shawl collar and its own crinoline; Doreen also modelled a novelty cotton in a beautiful melon shade; a gay three-piece sportswear set in Paisley wash 'n wear cotton; and a yellow bathing suit with huge cap of long yellow petals.

SMALL BUT BETTER

Margaret Wiggins showed a smartly styled brown duster of sharkskin with a short collar and tiny bow in the back, and a cotton satin dress in navy and white shaded blues and browns; a Dan River cotton in tiny check carried out in shades of red and white; and a most becoming sports set in blues and greens flowered slims and matching skirt.

Dorothy Sinclair modelled an attractive linen dress with tie and a white polished cotton coat. The deep black suit outfit was next-set with one of white and had the new "up" and "out" hairdo. Another gorgeous pink rose; Dorothy also wore an apple green silky shift cotton and a navy and green patterned set consisting of slims, blouse, skirt and jacket.

Nadine Thorne showed a lovely blue lace costume with quarter length coat with the large relaxed shawl collar, and the dress on fitted lines of a wide satin band and bow high above the waistline; Nadine was on to go in blue and matching blouse, and she also showed a lovely lime shirtwaist dress and a well received swim suit, skirt and jacket set in bright emerald green.

MATCHING ENSEMBLE

Mickey Lake was striking in a matching dress and short coat in black and white with a bright red lining; the dress was fitted and with an empire waistline encircled by a band of red grosgrain ribbon; Mickey also showed a beautiful suit in the new shade — Cherry Fizz, and in the sportswear line a set of blouse, shorts, skirt and jacket in tones of green, gold and beige.

Shirley Stephens was a dream walking in her black marquisette sheer duster over a matching dress of embroidered sheath. The shawl collar had nicely detailed points and the duster was fastened with three buttons. Shirley also showed a delightful peacock blue and brown shower-proof velveteen with a pure linen lining, and a black, white and white car coat, slims, blouse and Jamaica shorts; and she also showed a lovely set of yellow terry shorts and pullover.

As the show finished, president Mary Fletcher joined Florence on the stage to introduce Miss Fellows, Doris Stewart, Myra Cresswell and Betty Ling, all models and members of the Contact Club, appeared once more and received an enthusiastic applause for this their first venture at modelling. Dorothy Sinclair at the piano and the pianist who provided the delightful music of the evening, was also introduced.

FLOWERS PRESENTED

Doris Stewart presented a bouquet of tulips to Mrs. Creegan who had directed the show, and Miss Vintner drew the names for the prizes from the lucky recipients of which were: Mrs. J. Sinclair, Mrs. Delmar Ellis McCoy, Mrs. L. Arnott and Mrs. Barbara Hunt.

Tea was served at attractive table with cunning paper dolls as favours, and Mrs. Creegan was presiding over the delicious refreshments for those entering and leaving the hall.

It kept Chairman Mary Walter and her helpers, Barbara Cooke, Margaret Dee, Mary Hudgins and Beth Bunnett, happily busy while supplies lasted.

Tickets were under the direction of Catherine Roulet and Trudy Sands. Advertising was arranged by Thelma Saunders. Kitchen convener Betty Yates and her helper Barbara Bertrim did a wonderful job behind the scenes, as did Marion Fisher, Colette Fisher, Goldie Miller and Margaret Nites.

Decorations under Myra Cresswell and the intricacies of lighting and sound respectively ably managed by Mr. W. M. McCormick and Mr. R. H. Hoskin.

So-Ed Closes Spring Session With Dance

The Spring '59 Session of So-Ed drew to a close Wednesday evening with the 4th "Anniversary Waltz" and semi-formal dance. The auditorium was decorated in the stardust theme with the walls covered with navy blue and star-shaped cutouts showing light, large foil stars completed the decor. Tables and chairs were arranged in cabaret style. Special dance programs were presented to members, as they arrived.

The evening commenced with a snowball dance, followed with novelties such as square dancing, the Hokey-Pokey, Virginia Reel and Mexican Hat Dance. A Cinderella mixer took place where each lady put one shoe in the centre of the floor and at a given signal the man selected one shoe and searched for his partner.

An hour act at president of So-Ed, Jean Vickers introduced the new president, Rodney Bell, who in turn introduced his committee for the coming year — vice-presidents Jean Lambridge and Marilyn Elliott, and secretary-treasurer, Joy Roblin.

The dance program proceeded with fox-trots, waltzes, spot dance, an elimination statue dance, jive, rhumba, samba and tango, and the Anniversary Waltz. The evening concluded at midnight and the general feeling is that it has been a successful session.

FUTURE PLANS

Future plans for club activities include a "scavenger hunt" and dance proceeds for world refugee year. So-Ed "Open House" will be held this month when various groups will be available to the general public.

A bus has been chartered for persons wishing to attend the performance of "Macbeth" by the Stratford Shakespearian Opera at Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto. Tickets are available from members of this event and it is possible that a few may be available at the general meeting of the club should they wish to attend. If this is the case, such information will be placed in this newspaper.

In June there will travel to London, Ontario, for the annual So-Ed regional conference. Belleville has been approached regarding the conducting of a workshop on social planning, and will also take part in the program for the Saturday night party.

Work on the So-Ed cabin at the Y.M.C.A. camp on Oak Lake will commence in the next week or so.

Belleville So-Ed Club was the guest of the Kingston So-Ed Club on the closing night which was "Carnival" night. Clubs from Ottawa and Brockville were also in attendance.

An invitation is extended to young adults in the 18-45 year bracket who are interested in the type of program presented, to attend the "Y" on Wednesday evenings and get acquainted.

Temple's for flowers, and to the T. Eaton Company, Leslie Stone, Mr. Clarence Fuss-en, Loblaw's and Robin's that have helped in making the evening a happy and successful one.

Smart Suit

By ALICE ALDEN

The apparently simple suit that achieves elegance by avoiding extraneous touches and concentrating on cut and fabric is always a find. It is a long and useful life. Here is one such suit, the fabric of navy or black lightweight, supple worsted. The easy, waist-high, semi-fitted jacket has low, flap-pet pockets. The skirt has easy folds from the waist, narrowing to a slim hemline.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

Exeter's NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Bernice R. — I don't want to live close to my in-laws.

Leonard R. — We have no in-laws.

Bernice R. — I am at a loss as to how to handle my in-law problem.

We have been married nine years and have three children. During all of those years I rarely see my husband hours more than two or three nights a week. He goes over to visit his parents nearly every evening. The children want to wait up until he comes back but it is usually so late they can't. I sit watching TV all by myself.

Len says that if we took an apartment in his parents' house, he would just step in to say hello and then come back down again. This might be a better arrangement, but I don't like the idea of living so close to my in-laws. They have never been particularly nice to me although I have tried my best to be nice 45 them.

Leonard R. — I can't see that we have any trouble together at all. The whole thing is in Bernice's mind. My parents have always been nice to her, but she has never warmed up to them. My mother often asks why she is so cold and standoffish.

I feel that my parents are old and God knows how much time I'll have them. While they are alive I can't leave them to visit set away. They look forward to my visits. I am the closest to them because I am the eldest of three sons.

Bernice always points out that she doesn't see her parents more than about twice a month, but her parents live right across the us and it takes a day's trip to get there. Besides it's different for a woman. The parents realize that Ination.

she's got enough responsibility taking care of her own children.

The Council: We agree with Leonard that this isn't exactly an in-law problem. It is really more of a husband problem.

Yes, it is natural for parents to want to see a lot of their children. Sometimes, when the children are adults, they may want to see more of them than is good for everyone concerned.

But "children" like Leonard who believe that their parents can't get along without them and who feel that their parents would be "lost away" without them have placed themselves in emotional chains.

Most healthy, Leonard refuses to face the fact that he is grown up. The fact that he says his parents need him rather than that he needs them is just a clue to the neurotic streak in the habit of being sensitive to the needs of others. Bernice is sensitive to his wife and children need him far more than his parents do. He is responsible for his own children and it is ridiculous that he is as responsible for his children as his wife is.

Sure these parents would now be disappointed if Leonard were not down on his visits. But they were unselfish parents they would realize that their son must at last shown the maturity to know where he belongs.

Bernice should think. Her nice would improve things for herself by moving to an apartment in her in-law's house. The only thing that will improve her relationship with Leonard is recognition that he is robbing her and himself of years that could be replaced. If he feels unable to free himself from this excessive attachment to his parents, he should seek professional help through a family service organ-

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

PROCEDURE AFTER RECESSIONAL

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When the groom's mother and the bride's mother are ushered to their seats at a wedding, isn't it essential also that they are ushered from their seats at the conclusion of the recessional? Or can the mothers left to come down the aisle on their husband's arm?

At our son's wedding recently, we waited to see what the arrangement was to be, finding it rather awkward and embarrassing position. — Reader

Definite arrangements should be made for a special escort for the bride's mother and the groom's mother, at the conclusion of the recessional. And it is the responsibility of the groom to instruct his ushers definitely about this. The head usher, if there is no head usher, is not usher especially chosen by the groom, sometimes the best brother if he is an usher) should be directed to come back up the aisle to escort the mother, who is the first after the wedding party is gone.

The usher offers his right arm, and she walks down the aisle with him, her husband following. Then another usher offers his right arm to the groom's mother, and they walk down the aisle together, her husband following. Usually the two ushers who escort the mothers down the aisle after the recessional are the two who escorted the mothers up the aisle before the processional.

BRIDESMAID-TO-TIME SHOULD NOT WEAR WHITE

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Two years ago I received my divorce and, by permission of the court, my maiden name was restored to me. Now I am to be married again. Under these circumstances would it be correct for me to wear white? — S. H.

No, it is not proper for the bride who has been married before to wear white. And this rule would hold true for you even if your maiden name was restored to you after your divorce.

They were married in 1935 after the first marriage of each ended in divorce. Luce has two sons by his first marriage. Mrs. Luce's only daughter, Ann Brokaw, killed in an auto accident at the age of 19—a tragedy said to have led to her religious conversion.

Fashionable Footsteps

By GRACE THORNCLIFFE

New footprints along fashion's lane are made by some of the prettiest shoes in many seasons. A sling-strap pump, with covered toe and exposed heel, is done in white or pastel smooth leather for summer evening wear. Perforated doeskin in fawn with matching stacked leather heel, or in yellow with a brown heel, makes a nice spectator sport shoe. Perforated suede accents the criss-cross look of the vamp treatment. Asymmetric lines give interest to a soft doeskin step-in pump in red, bright blue or yellow.

VON Joins Battle Against Accidents in the Home

By CAROLYN WILLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA (CP)—Stop and look around your home for a minute—is it a safe place or a booby trap?

Concern is growing about the number of accidents in the home as tumbles turn into tragedies, and the m o s t commonplace things left in the wrong spots cause pain or injury, sometimes serious disability or death.

On a nation-wide basis the Victorian Order of Nurses, Canada's largest home-nursing order, has joined the battle against accidents in the home.

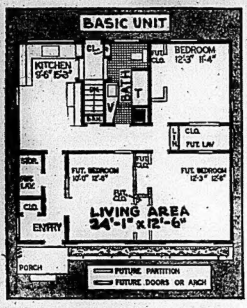
One province, Ontario, has its medical association pounding away at cutting down the accident toll among a most vulnerable group—the children.

STRESS PREVENTION

"The main thing about accidents is prevention," says Christine Livingston, the V.O.N. director in chief. "The tragedy of accidents is that a lot of them could have been prevented."

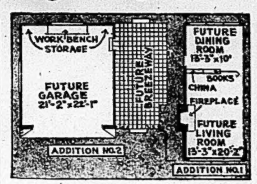
Miss Livingston said in an interview that the home nursing order, and other public health nurses are "co-operating extensively with people in their homes, with a special responsibility for education in accident prevention.

"Nurses themselves have to be alert. Perforated hands accentuate the cris-cross look of the vamp treatment. Asymmetric lines give interest to a soft doeskin step-in pump in red, bright blue or yellow



HOME BUILDING SECTION

PAGES 8, 9, 10 and 11



THIS CHARMING RANCH HOUSE grew from the basic unit, at right, to include a living-dining wing, left of the entry, and a breezeway connecting with a spacious two-car garage. Construction combines horizontal and vertical siding with brick.

Add-a-Wing Design

KITCHEN, bath and bedroom are at back in the basic unit. When wing's added, the living room becomes two bedrooms.

AS THE FAMILY GROWS, wing, containing living and dining rooms, can be added. Breezeway and garage complete plan.

By JOAN O'SULLIVAN

Colonial homes started off small but, as the family grew, so did they. Wings were added hither and yon, where and as needed. The architect of today's house has borrowed this idea, adapting it for a charming contemporary dwelling.

PLANNED ADDITIONS

His plan calls for adding a wing and, if desired, a breezeway and garage, too. However, unlike Colonial houses, this one, when fully completed, will present a unified front, for the wing and garage are planned ahead to complete the architectural design. They will not, as so many Colonial wings do, appear to have been added as an afterthought.

The house begins as a one-bedroom plan that's perfect for a young couple.

At front, a huge living room—it's more than 24 feet long—offers plenty of space for entertaining. Two large windows along the front wall and a double window on the side wall make the room bright and cheerful.

CONVENIENT KITCHEN

The kitchen, at back, has a good-sized corner reserved for a breakfast table. The sink and work counters are placed under a window that's almost nine feet long. From the kitchen, the basement stairway and a back door are accessible, as is an entry to the main bathroom.

The one bedroom, with a corner location, at back, is adjacent to the bathroom.

When a wing is added, changes are made in this basic unit. The huge living area is converted into two bedrooms, each with an enormous walk-in closet. Two lavatories are added, one shared by the original back bedroom and the new front bedroom, the other installed in what had been a walk-in storage closet close to the entry.

TRIPLE-WINDOW VIEW

Cozy and comfortable, the dining room has a triple-window view of the yard and provides a built-in cabinet for china. It's convenient to the kitchen and has access to the side yard or, when they're added, to the breezeway and garage.

The basic unit of Design H-485-KF comprises 978 square feet, 18,740 cubic feet. The living-dining wing comprises 431 square feet, 5,002 cubic feet. The garage is 528 square feet.

Room Dividers Help Stretch Space in Home

Space is usually at a premium in many of today's homes and there is a desire for lots of light, open planning and a feeling of space.

But most homeowners still want a small division, or effect of a division between certain areas such as entres, living and dining areas.

Room dividers are the answer to this problem. They must serve the multi-purpose of a dividing effect, yet not cut out light, blend with the decor and serve a useful purpose.

Happily, there are many ways to solve this problem. Waist-high partial partitions which contain cupboards for china, glassware and plans serve the purpose admirably.

In living and dining room areas, panels of glass block may be used to brighten dark entrances or partition off a room. Strips of bamboo, wire, vertical blinds and poles from floor to ceiling, combined with plants, are effective dividers and still provide light.

TAPING JOINTS

To make the job come out smooth, when taping joints in drywall construction, put on the finish coats of cement with a plasterer's finishing trowel rather than with a putty knife. The trowel's wider area will permit better "feathering" of the joints.

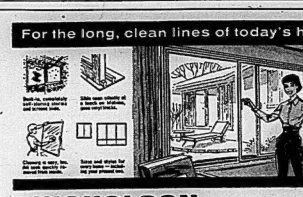
A Modern Fireside Woodbox Easy to Build in an Evening

Here's a handsome woodbox for a gift with the personal touch, or you can make one for your own fireside to hold that yule log this year.

This rugged woodbox with the modern look has a very simple, yet practical design. It is easy to cut and assemble from one 4 x 8 foot piece of fir plywood, ¾ inch thick.

All you need for the job is a regular crosscut saw and a chisel to notch out the legs for the brace (3). Cut out the parts as shown on the cutting diagram. The panel is first lined off with 3-inch squares and the parts drawn in directly on the plywood.

Mark and cut one leg member then use it as a pattern to mark the second. The legs are set in 3 inches from each end of the box. For secure construction it is best to glue and screw the parts in place or use metal corner brackets.



To complete the job, the woodbox can be painted in solid colors or stained to leave the grain showing. One effective finish is to paint the inside of the box with a primer coat and two coats of bright enamel, orange color for instance. The outside surfaces could then be stained a soft brown and wiped down so that the natural grain shows through.

SPLATTERED PLASTER

Remove patching plaster that has splattered on a painted surface by scraping the area lightly with steel wool. Follow this by sponging with lemon juice, cut with three parts of water, and finish by rinsing with a damp cloth immediately afterward.

Garden Tools Should Get Proper Care

Giving your lawn and garden tools proper care will not only extend their useful life, but will make them much easier to work with.

The storage area must be dry and weatherproof. It should have a door that can be securely locked, preferably padlocked. It is best not to store lawn and garden tools in the car area of your garage.

A separate toolroom built into the garage, or a utility room in the basement of your house, with an outside entrance of its own at grade level, is the ideal arrangement. If this cannot be arranged, you can build a reinforced garden shed quite inexpensively or purchase one of the pre-fabricated models that are ready to be assembled. Such a shed can either be hidden behind garden shrubbery or attached to the garage as a lean-to.

Small tools—sickles, trowels, weeders and the like—can be conveniently kept in a box of oiled sand. For this purpose, build a box one foot deep by 18 inches wide and as long as desired. Fill half full of dry, coarse sand and add a pint of lubricating oil — the old oil you drain from the crankcase of your power mower will serve. Mix well, gradually adding more dry sand until the mixture has a dry, oily feeling. Tools plunged to handle depth in the sand are protected from rust and will stay sharp longer. The film of oil left on the metal makes them easier to clean after use.

Tools with moving parts — like grass shears, hedge clippers and pruning shears — should not be stored in the sand box, but hung on hooks on the wall. Spades, forks, rakes, and other long-handled tools should be supported in the same way.

Your power mower deserves corner of its own, close to the door where it can conveniently be wheeled in and out. Provide a shelf above it for wrenches, extra spark plugs and other small parts.

The gasoline to power your mower should be stored in a standard, two-or five-gallon safety can with a flexible spout.

Soak hand tools in water and detergent, and scrub them well. Clean the metal parts with a wire brush and rub them with sand-paper or emery paper. Coarse emery powder and oil used on a piece of old carpet will also quickly brighten them. Or use one of the manufactured rust removers or penetrating oils; these cost little and save a lot of labor.

Scrape the wooden handles with a wood scraper or a piece of glass to remove the old paint and rough splinters. Then carefully sand them and paint them.

KEEPING BRICK CLEAN

Easy way to keep bricks used indoors decoratively clean, is to coat them with a thin layer of clear, three-pound cut shellac.

More Families Want Extra Bath Facilities in Home

Is another bathroom for your home top on your wish list?

A new more practical bathroom heads the home modernizing projects of many folk. Sometimes this merely involves bringing an antiquated bathroom up to date with new fixtures, colored tile walls and other bright decorations and accessories.

More often it means an added bath for a family that has outgrown facilities offered by a single bathroom.

A good bathroom is a lot more than just space for three plumbing fixtures — and it doesn't have to be a large room.

Here are important factors to consider when planning the addition of a new bathroom, or modernizing the old.

Storage facilities for towels, soaps, etc. Materials must be durable, easy-to-care for and waterproofed. Good lighting is an essential. Ample mirror space. Position of the bath-tub.

It is important to remember that a tub placed beneath a window is dangerous. The FHA will not approve mortgages on homes with beneath-the-window bathtubs.

PAINT BRUSH POINTER

A wide paint brush should never be used edgewise. Such abuse will cause "fingering" or clumping of the bristles. If you need the edge of a brush in a corner, remove the fingering quickly by giving the brush several strokes broadside.

"Face Lifting" Adds Much To Home's Value

When it comes to giving an old home a "new lease on life", nothing succeeds like new siding. At the same time, probably no other home improvement can add so much to the value of the property in relation to the cost involved.

Wood most commonly used is wood, cedar, Douglas fir and white pine; is usually the first choice of those in mind when resurfacing a house is under consideration. Practical and economical, it can be cut and shaped easily to almost any style of wall.

Wood siding is available in a wide variety of types. The main difference lies in the way they are cut.

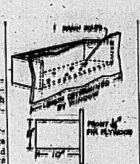
Bevel or lap siding is applied horizontally, with the lower edge thicker than the upper. Most popular today are wide panels: 8, 10 and 12 inches.

Also applied horizontally and lapped in drop siding, which has a groove along one edge.

Board and batten siding consists of wide vertical boards with narrow battens covering the joints. For architectural effect, vertical tongue-and-groove panelling is often used. It is especially suitable for sheltered areas.

Cedar shakes or shingles are popular for both siding and roofing. The shakes and shingles are often combined in what is known as the double-course technique, in which the undercourse is usually a less-grade shingle. The result is an attractive, highly weather-resistant surface.

Asbestos-cement siding shingles are fireproof and are obtainable in many colors which are impregnated in the material.



Plywood siding comes in durable exterior grades. The large panels speed application and several types of patterns are available.

Aluminum siding comes in long lengths for horizontal lap-siding and is finished in various colors.

Insulating siding provides an inexpensive way to rejuvenate an old house. It consists of fibre panels and shingles which have been faced with asphalt and mineral granules.

Thin-cut quarried stone is about ¾-inch thick and the units are laid up in much the same way as stone.

Thin simulated-stone veneer is a mass-made product. The units are very light and require no additional footings. This veneer comes in several colors and a variety of lay-up patterns are available.

Window Boxes Of Fir Plywood Dress Up Home

Window boxes can lend brilliant dashes of color to an otherwise drab house with a very modest outlay of time and energy.

Made of waterproof-glued fir plywood, the window box shown here is simply a shallow box with a false front which can be scalloped to create a more decorative effect.

Sides back and bottom are cut from a panel of half-inch fir plywood. The dimensions given are very general, and the length is best determined by measurement of the actual window under which the box will be placed.

The main point is to refrain from making the box too large or deep. When filled with earth, a large box is difficult to lift down for replanting, etc.

Half a dozen drainage holes, about one-half inch in diameter, are drilled in the bottom of the box and covered with broken pottery before the box is filled with earth.

Nails and glue fasten the well pieces together, and it is then finished to complement the color scheme of the house. Inexpensive angle-iron brackets to hold it in place under the window may be bought at a hardware store.

PAINT STRAINER

To improvise a paint strainer take a piece of a discarded nylon stocking in a double thickness over the top of a clean paint can. Be sure to permit the material to sag slightly in the centre in order to form a small receptacle.

Mortgage Terms Are Binding

If a borrower with size 14 feet signs a mortage in which he agrees to wear size 12 1-2 shoes, the agreement will be as binding as the shoes, George F. Anderson, Chicago legal expert for the National Assn. of Real Estate Boards, says a contract may be reasonable or silly, but so long as it is not illegal, impossibility of performance is no defense.

A dandy afternoon project for your workshop, this cute little rascal is cut from 3-4 inch fir plywood.

And a thought for the ladies. You could get someone to cut this one out for you and paint him up yourself as a present that's different to say the least. It's not the value that counts — although the unique doggy tie-rack has a practical value as well — it's the imagination behind the gift that'll be appreciated. Man, and especially boy, your friends will be delighted.

All you need to do to get started is draw Fido's outline and it's easy if you mark the plywood off in squares as shown. Sawing him out is a cinch with that hand-saw in the workshop or with a coping saw. Cut a small block for the plywood and a brass-clock to put the tail on.

Bore a hole in the collar to attach him to a door or wall. Screw nail-clip tail in place. Paint him any gay-dog colors you see fit and the job is done. All sorts of novelty fir plywood ideas can be whipped up out of your imagination to inexpensively fill the gift bill.

Tile Favored For Terraces

Of all the materials for surfacing terraces and patios, few meet so many of the fundamental requirements as well as quarry tile does.

To begin with, it is kind to the pocketbook. Only a few years ago the addition of a terrace or patio was considered impractical by all except families with large budgets and baronial estates. These days though, improvements in methods of installation are making the pleasures of terraces and patios available to more families.

Second, quarry tile is readily available from domestic manufacturers who maintain ample productive capacity to meet any demand in the foreseeable future. In the United States, quarry tile manufacturers produce a variety of specially shaped units called trim pieces. These facilitate the smooth finishing of almost any conceivable terrace detail. Uniformity of size and shape is another advantage of domestic quarry tile.

This rugged fired clay surfacing material is weather-proof and when properly installed is suitable for terraces in any climate. Its colors will not fade under the ice of winter, or the heat of summer.

Back Yard Becomes Fun Centre

Today's shorter working hours and shorter work week have created more leisure time for most people and spurred their interest in outdoor living, in all its various phases, from active sports to taking one's ease in the sun.

One of the most interesting and far-reaching aspects of this trend has been the rediscovery of the infinite possibilities of the "back yard", as a place for pleasurable, healthful relaxation and recreation for the whole family.

Often it is possible to put a bit of "vacation fun" into every day of the long spring and summer months by imaginatively gearing one's grounds to play a larger and happier role in family life.

A patio or terrace of flagstone, concrete or plastic tile can provide a perfect setting for blissful sunbathing, outdoor eating and informal entertaining. Building a patio is a fairly simple job for the handy home owner, and by doing much of all the work himself, he can bring the cost down to a very modest figure.

SCREENED PATIOS

Many home owners are screening their patios to provide a degree of privacy as well as protection from insects. By so doing they make the patio just as useful by night as by day as a setting for card games, reading, late dining and other activities requiring illumination. Actually such a patio becomes an "outdoor living room".

Another way to achieve privacy for patio or terrace is through the judicious planting of shrubbery, or by rustic type high fencing.

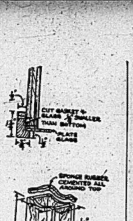
A barbecue pit, in conjunction with a patio, or by itself, is becoming an increasingly popular feature of the back yard. Many a man-of-the-house is finding a new avocation as "outdoor chef" especially skilled at cooking steaks, hamburgers, frankfurters and other eatables that never lose any taste so good.

A swimming pool, though admittedly among the more ambitious outdoor living projects, is becoming increasingly common as an adjunct to the home grounds. Because pools can be built to fit virtually any available area, and because costs can be brought within reach of the average family, they are no longer confined to the large estate, for quite apt to be found almost anywhere.

Where a conventional swimming pool is not feasible, there are large plastic wading pools, many of them deep enough to permit the adults of the family to join the younger members in the fun.

Speaking of the children, there are "kiddie gyms" slides and sand boxes that will make their own back yard just about the best place in town for fun.

Much of this play equipment has, in recent years been developed into imaginative modern forms, molded in concrete, that not only hold special appeal for the small fry, but also add an interesting contemporary touch to the appearance of the grounds.



LAWN POSSIBILITIES

The lawn itself, if properly built and well kept, can provide the setting for a great deal of outdoor fun by grown-ups and children alike. Badminton, croquet, volley ball and bowling-on-the-green are some of the games that can be enjoyed on the lawn.

Often, when space permits, it is even possible to have your own "clock golf" set-up (excellent for sharpening one's putting game) at your very doorstep.

Where a sufficient length of space is available, a shuffle-board court of concrete or tile can be installed at moderate cost, and provides many hours of sport for everyone.

Outdoor illumination of the lawn, via post-mounted gas, electric or kerosene lights is often quite practicable and costs relatively little. This will make it possible to enjoy lawn games long after sunset.

See Under Water With This Viewer Of Fir Plywood

A fascinating submarine world opens up to view with the use of this underwater viewer.

The viewer shown here is a simple fir plywood box, with a glass plate attached to the underwater end. Construction can be completed in an evening.

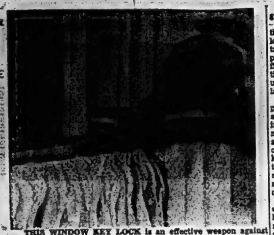
The viewer is made of half-inch fir plywood, cut to the dimensions shown on the sketch. Before assembling the parts, attach the two handles with screws from the inside and paint the whole of the inside dull black.

Bottom end of the viewer should be made square, so that the gasket, glass and frame make a snug, watertight fit.

When held over the side of a boat, the underwater viewer will prove invaluable to locating items which have been dropped from a dock, a fouled anchor or even a mishap with the outboard motor.

Fir plywood made in Canada, is bonded with a completely waterproof glue. It is edge-marked EXTERIOR for ease of identification.

A piece of sponge rubber should be glued around the top of the box to shut out light when it is being used. The completed viewer requires a coat of sealer, and then can be regularly painted. A bright finish color makes it stand out in case it should drift away.



Secret Panels For Radiators

To get rid of an old fashioned radiator in the living room, the Hal Carlsons of Westchester County, N.Y., put in a convector type which goes in a window seat.

But they didn't like any of the conventional methods of putting in removable panels for getting at the radiator valves. The Carlsons thought they did not fit light and they rattled.

So the do-it-yourself fans solved the problem by edging the opening with quarter-inch thick molding, backed by plywood panels hinged at the bottom with spring hinges. They look like solid panels, and only need to be pushed inward for access to the radiator valves.

A cabinet maker friend who saw the arrangement said: "It would take an amateur to think of an idea like that."

THIS WINDOW KEY LOCK is an effective weapon against burglars. It cannot be unlocked except with the key, even if a pane of glass is broken out. Second latch hole (top) makes it possible to lock the window in a partially open position, permitting ventilation without sacrifice of security.

Homeowners Often Invite Burglaries by Negligence

The age-old battle between home owner and thief has reached siege proportions.

Burglars now make a haul of more than 100 million dollars a year, than FBI reports. U.S. police departments reported 500,000 burglaries during 1957. This means burglars operated at the fantastic rate of more than 60 crimes per hour, an average of more than one burglary per minute.

Very little of the stolen property was recovered.

Surprisingly enough, police reports indicate the burglar's principal ally is the person he victimizes.

AIDS TO BURGLARS

These are some of the principal errors people make which aid burglars:

1. Leaving a home with exterior doors or windows unlocked or inadequately locked.

2. Failure to equip both front and back doors with secure locks.

3. Failure to notify the newsboy that the family is on vacation. Piled up newspapers outside the door are indication to the burglar that the coast is clear.

4. Failure to notify milk company by telephone or letter to stop deliveries during vacation. A note in an empty bottle saying the family will be away will also tell a snooper that he has a green light.

5. Leaving a note for prospective guests in the mailbox saying, "key is under doormat —make yourself at home."

6. Notifying the local newspaper that you plan to go on vacation. Thieves are quick to take advantage of such accommodating news items. Wait, until you return to tell the society editor about it.

Here are some suggestions for foiling burglars.

KEEP LIGHTS ON

Keep at least two interior lights on when you leave the house for an evening. An unlit home attracts the slight-prowler.

Leave shades up when leaving the house for a trip and notify neighbors and police. A light in the house during your absence will then warn those you have alerted that prowlers are in your home.

Ask neighbors to pick up any mail or circulars left at your front door.

Call police to check on all strange solicitors not carrying proper credentials. Many thieves pose as salesmen or repairmen while "casing" an area for future burglaries.

Make certain basement and second story windows are just as securely locked as those on the first floor. A new source of frustration to a buglar is a key-operated window lock. Unlike the old fashioned sash fastener, the key lock cannot be jimmied or even unlocked if a burglar tweaks out a small pane of glass and reaches it. This device makes it possible to lock windows in a partially open position permitting ventilation with no sacrifice of security.

Keep ladders locked in the garage.

While talking to a stranger at the door, stand in front of the locking mechanism. A favorite trick of burglars is to engage a prospect in conversation while flicking the push buttons below the bolt of a mortise lock, thus unlocking the door for his return later.

Make sure all doors are equipped with good quality, dependable locks. Too many thrift also to install auxiliary nightlatches. A nightlatch with guard chain is available now which can be opened from the outside with a key. When the latter member of the family is in the house, the chain can be attached so that removal from the lock case is only possible from the inside.

Normally residential exterior doors should be hung with the hinges on the inside. If for any reason it is necessary to have such a door open out with hinges on the outside make certain they are of a type specially constructed so the pins cannot be removed by a burglar.

With the possibility in mind that you might slip up on one or more of the above sugestions, it is wise to keep a record of the serial numbers and descriptions of your valuables. In many cases police can track down a burglar if this is done.

SPACE RACE CONDEMNED

LITTLE HAMPTON, England (UPI) — Launching earth satellites and firing rockets to the moon is just a new form of the old pagan cult of sunworship, complains the Rev. Phillip Barry, Anglican vicar here.

Condemning outer-space projects as crazy, Barry said in his parish magazine that it is not only fantastic but downright wicked that hundreds of millions of dollars are being spent on research while millions of persons are in need.

The vicar said nations should devote themselves to rehabilitating the world's homeless and destitute. By spending on such pursuits one - quarter of the money they spend on weapons of destruction, he said, the underlying causes of war would be removed.

Powder Room Marks New Era In Convenience and Comfort

Great inventions often mark new eras in living habits. Use, doubtedly, one which had the widest influence was the steam locomotive, followed by the motor car. Then came the age of air travel and the development of more rapid communication through radio and television. Changes in these gradually become familiar and we accept them as part of our way of life.

Another convenience which is becoming a trend is the inclusion of a Powder Room, sometimes called a wash room or half bathroom, in many Canadian homes. Such an addition gives an extra touch of graciousness to our daily living and enhances the degree of hospitality which a host may offer his guests.

A well-known housekeeping authority wrote recently that she greatly admired the hostess who takes pains to put at the disposal of her guests a handy place where they may freshen up. It is one of the enjoyable ways of life which can become part of the everyday existence of the Canadian woman, she said.

It may surprise many to realize just how little space is required for a tastefully appointed Powder room. Let's consider older houses, for instance, built at least thirty years ago. There is usually a cupboard somewhere in the upper or lower hall that would be perfectly suitable for the purpose. Or there may be a large pantry, rarely needed today with modern conveniences found in most kitchens. As for the entrance hall, there may be unused space under the stairs which could be adapted. With a little imagination and planning, there is almost sure to be somewhere in any older home which can be converted into a delightfully convenient Powder Room to add charm to the home and social prestige to the hostess.

Much modern bathroom equipment has been designed in such a way that adapting it to today's relatively smaller areas offers no problem. That is a further aid in modernizing older homes which often have spaces which are virtually wasted.

Among the many unique and tastefully styled offering of fixture manufacturers are vanity type wash basins — pretty as dressing tables — and taking up no more than spaces of 24 x 22 inches. Then there are corner basins that need no more space than 14 inches along either wall. It has been found by the Canadian Institute of Plumbing and Heating that there are countless ways in which a powder room can be added to existing homes and the best part of all is that such a project usually costs far less than the home owner is likely to imagine.

The Institute always recommends that a reliable plumbing contractor be consulted while the new powder room or extra bathroom is in the planning stages. Professional advice, such as he is able to give, will prove helpful and may well prevent costly errors later on. If payment for such a modernization project is to be made out of income, a government-sponsored Home Improvement Loan is usually worth looking into. The manager of any branch bank will be glad to explain all details of this generous plan which is low in carrying charges, and can be repaid in easy installments. As a rule, no collateral is required.

Every owner of an older home can add a really modern touch of convenience and graciousness to his way of life. The first step is to investigate the Powder Room idea.

Lung Cancer Leading Cause Of Deaths in American Men, Increasing Among Women

NEW YORK (AP) — Arthur Godfrey is the latest victim of this silent killer, cancer.

He has a chance, depending partly upon how early his disease was caught, and how thoroughly surgery handled it.

"The upper lobe of the lung was successfully removed with the contained tumor, which involved the operation well. His general condition immediately postoperative is good."

Doctors said it would be at least two months before Godfrey can return to the air. A is Godfrey's 30th anniversary as a radio-TV performer. A cancer which has made him a millionaire and, at times, a controversial figure in the entertainment world.

Godfrey disclosed a chest tumor several weeks ago.

Generalized figures on lung cancer from the American Cancer Society put Godfrey under 25-to-1 odds against complete recovery. The society considers a lung cancer victim alive "cured or saved" if he is alive five years after treatment.

Lung cancer typically starts and grows silently and hidden with no sign or symptom, no discomfort. There is nothing to be seen, like cancer on the skin . . . nothing to be felt, like a lump in the breast.

Chronic cough and pain are often the first warnings. And by then, the cancer is often too far advanced to be stopped.

This year, 30,000 Americans will die of lung cancer. It now is the leading cause of cancer deaths among American men, and it is increasing among women.

Lung cancer is killing eight times as many Americans as it did only 30 years ago. Similar ominous increases are occurring in other countries.

Lung cancer bears the curse of showing the most rapid rise ever reported for a non-infectious disease," in the words of the cancer society.

Excessive cigaret smoking, smoggy air, industrial fumes, viruses, inherited susceptibility—all these are blamed as causes of the tragic trend which makes lung cancer now the killer of almost one of every seven American men who die of any form of cancer.

Recent studies increasingly indict smoking as a main cause.

The cancer society and some other health agencies also list lung scars as one principal cause. The tobacco industry insists, however, that a definite link has not been proven.

Godfrey for years was a cigaret smoker, but he gave them up four years ago. A friend said he found he was allergic to inhalation of tobacco smoke. He has since smoked only pipes and cigars, without inhaling.

But millions of persons who have quit have also developed lung cancer. Some scientists take this and other evidence to doubt that cigarets are a causative factor.

Whatever the cause, the cancer chances depend upon how localized his lung cancer was. Only four per cent of persons diagnosed as having lung cancer survive five years. But if the cancer is detected early enough—when still localized and entirely removable—the figure jumps to 34 per cent, or one-third.

Panama Invasion Force Is Ready To Surrender

PANAMA CITY (AP) — The leader of the Cuban invaders of Panama said today he and his men are ready to surrender unconditionally and submit to Panamanian courts.

Cesar Vega, a former Havana nightclub owner who led the expeditionary force of less than 100 invaders six days ago, said he had already taken an opinion poll and the discouraged adventurers favored a quick settlement.

Vega said he was responding to direct surrender appeals from Cuban Premier Fidel Castro, his brother Raul, commander of the Cuban armed forces, and the Organization of American States.

Vega and three others of his party were flown to the U.S. controlled Canal Zone Thursday to talk with the peace mission sent from Washington by the 21-nation OAS.

Meanwhile, Panama and her Latin American republics kept watch against some 300 additional invaders Panamanian authorities have said put out from Cuba earlier this week.

The Panama Canal Zone government detained Reuben Miro, who had announced both in Cuba and New York that he was rounding up forces to invade Panama-and overthrow de la Guardia. He is a cousin of Roberto Arias, former Panamanian ambassador to London and a friend of de la Guardia's, reminding the revolt against his government.

GAS ROUTS WOMAN IN THREE-HOUR SIEGE — Firemen hold Mrs. Catherine Rasonis, 60, of Philadelphia, against sill of her third-floor window as tear gas pours from the window after she held police at bay for more than three hours. Police, hurling tear gas grenades into the house, finally hauled the woman down by the heels. She had thrown back more than 30 grenades and fired several blasts from a shotgun. The siege followed what police described a quarrel with neighbors over cars being parked in front of her home. (AP Wirephoto).

Iraq Said Most Dangerous Situation in World Today

By JOSEPH MacSWEEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

While Western leaders prepare for climactic negotiations on the German crisis, new and possibly more serious dangers are brewing in the Middle East.

Some observers even say that Khrushchev provoked the long - drawn - out holabaloo over West Berlin and Germany as a cover for more sinister Russian designs elsewhere—in the Middle East.

Great changes have taken place in that area since the last summit conference in Geneva in 1955. While those talks were going on, unbeknownst, the Communists were quietly arranging their first arms shipments to President Nasser.

Nasser enjoyed a fruitful honeymoon with the Russians while building up his United Arab Republic but now, no longer in such warm favor with Moscow, the Egyptian leader is locked in what appears to be a struggle to the finish with Premier Kassem of Iraq.

It seems a long time since Nasser was calling the revolutionary premier "my dear brother," but it was only last September, Now Nasser is calling for his death as a "butcher" and stooge who helps Communism "spread conflict against the Arab nation."

Allen W. Dulles, director of the United States Central Intelligence Agency, has described Iraq, where Communist influence is growing steadily, as "the most dangerous situation in the world today."

President Eisenhower, at his press conference this week, was milder in his assessment, saying he wants to be friendly with Iraq and all other Middle East countries if possible.

Observers feel Nasser is attacking Kassem not because of the Communist issue but because the Iraqi premier steered his country clear of the U.A.R. and stands as a rival for Arab leadership.

The Nasser - Kassem quarrel has become so bitter that only a slight spark could set off an explosion. The Kremlin could probably start an uproar among the Arabs any time it wished to explode a new crisis.

A big question is whether Kassem will be able to halt Communist penetration of his government if he decides to do so. If the Kremlin were able to "put the lid" on Iraq, it would not only win control of an oil-rich country but also isolate Iran and Catflank Turkey.

Diplomats say the Middle East situation could become more dangerous — even by accident—than the East-West deadlock over Berlin.

Khrushchev could end the Berlin controversy almost at will with no danger of fighting, but he lacks the same measure of control over the passions of Arab countries.

Against Using U.N. Military Force in Crisis

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold is authoritatively reported in the U.S. pushing a United Nations military force to call out the guns if negotiations at the Big Four may make for Berlin.

He is expected to deal with the subject in a speech Saturday in Copenhagen.

He told a press conference Thursday there is a possibility of the United Nations role in Berlin, but said it would be premature to speculate on what it might be there.

He opposed establishment of a permanent UN military force to be sent to various world trouble spots as needed. But in this connection he did not mention Berlin.

The secretary-general said his first talk with the new U.S. secretary of state, Christian A. Herter, in Washington a week ago was exceedingly useful and most satisfactory.

Asked if he had found any change in Soviet policy as he had in Moscow earlier, Hammarskjold asked his questioner, "Do you for a moment doubt that such a will is present in Washington?"

Hammarskjold said if the Berlin crisis became a threat to peace, any UN member or the secretary-general could put it before the Security Council, and no big power then could keep it out of the UN.

But he said he was "not at all keen to be on the stage" in the Big Four foreign ministers' talks to start in Geneva May 11.

41,000 Member Militia Will Be Converted Into CD Force According to White Paper

OTTAWA (CP) — The 41,000-member militia will be converted almost exclusively into a Civil Defence force, it is indicated in a defence white paper published Thursday by the government.

"The equipment not needed for survival against the threat to be drawn gradually from the militia as new equipment for civil defence needs becomes available," the 51-page white paper said at one point.

Informants said all artillery, tanks and armored vehicles will be taken away from the militia though the reserve army will retain small arms and some of the transport and communications.

There are proposed units in the militia, including 22 regiments, and 32 artillery units including 17 field regiments and six medium regiments. They will not be affected.

"All the regular and reserve forces in Canada are directly engaged in activities against an aggressor will be available for survival operations," the paper said.

TRAINED FOR RESCUE

Regular and militia units will be trained so that they can undertake reconnaissance, communication monitoring and move into damaged areas to rescue and evacuate the people. Also, training will be necessary in traffic control, road clearance, demolitions, bridging, assistance in the restoration of public utilities and in the maintenance of law and order."

The white paper, the first published by the Progressive Conservative government since it took office last June, 1957, disclosed that a 22,000-ton, $16,000,000 tanker supply ship will be built for the navy.

NO NEW WEAPONS

Except for the tanker, no new weapon or piece of equipment for the armed forces was mentioned in the paper, which is much briefer than those issued by the former Liberal government. No new policy was outlined except for the militia changes.

Militia units will retain their traditional names, honors, dress, badges and affiliations.

Other points in the paper:

1. Development of offensive weapons has not been matched by comparable advances in defensive technology.

2. The Canadian government is co-operating in establishment of the necessary communications lines between missile-detecting radars being built by the United States in Alaska and Greenland and the headquarters of North American Air Defence Command at Colorado Springs, Colo.

3. The new anti-aircraft missile system in Canada, will cost approximately $375,000,000 of which Canada will pay one-third of the U.S. two-thirds.

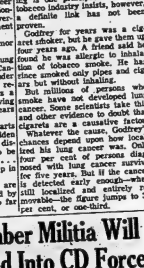
4. Three of the six new destroyers on order will be started in the 1959-60 fiscal year that began April 1.

5. Combined cost for 33 Argus anti-submarine planes and eight Caribou medium-range transport aircraft will be $356,000,000.

6. The new Bonaventure medium-range transporta will cost $21,000,000 compared to the original estimate of $13,000,000.

7. Ten amphibious planes will be purchased for RCAF Search and Rescue at a cost of $14,000,000. The type of plane was not mentioned but previous reports have said it is the U.S. Grumman Albatross.

8. Only 21.3 per cent of the $1,882,000,000 defence budget will be for weapons compared to 28.2 per cent in 1958-59 and 42.3 per cent in 1953-54.



9. The services enrolled 15,252 regulars in the field and 13,818 servicemen through death, retirement, discharge and so on.

SAVES BLIND MAN

NEW YORK (AP) — A fast-acting railway clerk saved a blind man from possible death Wednesday night when the latter apparently lost his sense of direction and walked off a station platform. The blind man, George Moeller, 58, fell to the tracks and William Holmes, 54, the clerk, dashed from his change booth and jumped on the tracks in time to flag down an incoming train.

Canada has five species of grebes, smaller relatives of loons familiar on Canadian lakes.

Castro's Tour Of Canada, U.S., Wins Friends

NEW YORK (AP)—Fidel Castro's whirlwind two-week tour of the United States and Canada was a public relations victory for the young prime minister from Cuba.

He convinced some skeptics who were critical audiences of editors and college students and emerged with increased stature as a hemispheric symbol of freedom.

But the bearded lawyer-revolutionary left some wondering about the answers he gave to important questions. He also left behind some doubt about his ability to cope with major problems confronting his plans for the "new Cuba" he hopes to bring out of the chaos left by dictator Fulgencio Batista.

Some of the impressions gained by correspondents who accompanied the 32-year-old Cuban on his trip from Havana to Washington, Princeton, N.J., New York, Boston and Montreal:

MUCH CONFUSION

The trip, called "organized confusion" by one newspaper man, underlined the lack of administrative organization Castro needs in the revolutionary Cuban press. The giant task ahead of him in this field was seen on his tour "to promote Cuba," the purpose he gave for the trip, and to encounter his greatest difficulty explaining three days of bearded generals, general cleanups, continuing war-crimes executions and other confusion to newspapermen in his administration.

EVASIVE OR NAIVE

His remarks concerning the last two seemed to leave many unsatisfied. He denied Communist influence, that the only party represented in his government was his own 26th of July movement. He also said he would be could not be Communists because his program was better than theirs. Either he was evasive or naive, observers say.

Some observers thought it significant that he was cheered, "ship-ping representatives said.

At Ottawa, transport department officials said they expect the seaway backlog to be cleared in a few days.

Furthermore, the department did not have enough staff to operate both the old canals and the new seaway locks at the same time.

NEW SHIP ON WAY

In London, the Princes Irene, 8,500 tons of prairie wheat aboard, arrived to take on passengers and freight bound for Montreal and Quebec on the second leg of her maiden voyage. She is one of the new generation of vessels ordered by the company for operation between Europe and seaway ports.

In Toronto, congestion which developed after the opening of the waterway was reported overcome and there isn't jam terminals with cargo over the weekend, the harbor will operate smoothly until the end of the season, an official said.

In Sarnia, Stuart Armour, economic advisor to the Steel Company of Canada, said the Welland Canal seaway tolls could eventually weaken Canada's economic backbone. One immediate danger is an increase in the price of steel, he said.

Tax-Sharing Plan Under Attack By Liberals

OTTAWA (CP)—Liberal Alexis Caron Thursday charged the federal government has "lacked both the courage to face up to its obligations" to the province.

The leader for Hull made his attack as the Commons resumed debate on the government's budget, on a government resolution preliminary to legislation to implement the last year's tax - sharing arrangements with the provinces.

The resolution later was passed and the bill introduced and given first reading.

Under the plan the provinces would receive 13 per cent of personal personal income tax collections, instead of the 9 per cent provided for the existing five-year tax - sharing agreements. There is a corresponding increase' nine-per-cent share of tax-able corporation income and 50-per-cent share of death duties.

PROMISED MAJOR CHANGE

Mr. Caron said the Progressive Conservatives made election promises of a major change in federal-provincial relationships.

"They misled an enormous part of the country," he said.

He and other Liberal and CCF speakers made it clear they will oppose the new tax - sharing conference be called.

Donald M. Fleming, Conservative Commons leader in charge of the budget resolution is evidence of another broken promise. Before coming to power the Conservatives had promised to settle federal-provincial relations on a long-term basis. All they have done since was bring in annual resolutions to continue the effect of the existing arrangements.

As a result of the 1959-60 federal budget, the province of Ontario would receive proportionately less from direct corporation than in the previous budget.

Greek Vessel Will Be First Foreign-Flag Ship to Reach Lakehead After Seaway Trip

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Less than 400 miles east of the Prairies, a Greek vessel will berth this weekend and take on 8,500 tons of prairie wheat.

When the Panagiotis L. steams into Port Arthur, it won't be the first foreign-flag ship to dock at the Lakehead. But it will add to the lengthening string of seaway firsts—the first foreign ship to reach the Lakehead through the seaway.

Chicago celebrated its seaway first Thursday. Aerial bombs and shrill whistles saluted the arrival of the Prince William Friso, first vessel to make the 800-mile run through the waterway to Chicago.

Later in the day the first American flag ship reached Chicago from Santa Regina. She does not go into the harbor because of a dispute over who should pilot her.

FIRST PASSENGER

A German has laid claim to the first passenger through the seaway. Hans H. Theobald, city editor of the Tagesspiegel of Berlin, disembarked in Toronto Thursday after sailing from Europe aboard the Virgilia of the Hamburg-Chicago line.

The Augusta Bibiana of the Canadian Pacific Lakes service went aground Tuesday in the Wiley-Dondero ship canal of the St. Lawrence Seaway near Iroquois, N.Y., causing a record-book item.

The westbound ship apparently moved to the north of the channel, but it was not damaged nor was traffic held up.

Other seaway developments:

In Washington, the U.S. Maritime Board agreed to subsidize service by American Export Lines. Increased service between the Great Lakes and the Mediterranean, via the seaway, the agreement will offset the lower operating costs of foreign competitors.

SKIPPERS' SUGGESTION

In Montreal, shippers that the old canal system be kept. Changes canals be opened on a full-time basis to help ease congestion in the seaway.

"We'd be perfectly happy to read our smaller ships through the old canals at least until this traffic has been cleared," ship-

At Ottawa, transport department officials said they expect the seaway backlog to be cleared in a few days.

Furthermore, the department did not have enough staff to operate both the old canals and the new seaway locks at the same time.

NEW SHIP ON WAY

In London, the Princes Irene, 8,500 tons of prairie wheat aboard, arrived to take on passengers and freight bound for Montreal and Quebec on the second leg of her maiden voyage. She is one of the new generation of vessels ordered by the company for operation between Europe and seaway ports.

Two Controllers Not Ready to Discuss Budget

TORONTO (CP) — Acting mayor Jean Newman has called a special meeting of board of control for tomorrow in the capital budget.

Controllers Allen and Summerville, however, said Thursday they will refuse to discuss the budget in the absence of Mayor Phillips, currently on a visit to Europe.

The capital budget includes the redevelopment of $7,000,000 west property acquired for the new city hall, site on Queen Street.

Coun. Allen said: "My recollection is that before the mayor left we all agreed we would not deal with the capital budget-in his absence. When the board meets tomorrow I shall move that we adjourn immediately. This may be an attempt by Mrs. Newman to push the Queen St. project while the mayor is out of town."

He said he was sure the mayor would be back Monday.

Bomarc Bases Called Farce By CCF Member

NORTH BAY (CP)—Ricardo Martin, CCF member of Parliament for Timmins, told the Nipissing CCF Association Friday night that construction of missile bases across Canada and the United States was "a monstrous farce."

He said the Bomarc missile was as obsolete as the Avro Arrow supersonic jet interceptor ever was.

The Progressive Conservative government was trying to sell the Bomarc missile to the Canadian people as a protection in time of war but the missile was short-ranged, he said.

From their United States locations they were aimed directly at cities such as Vancouver, Edmonton and Regina and would kill Canadians if they missed the target, he added.

Only the strongest bases were to be built near North Bay and Lower in Quebec. They tied with a chain in the U.S. which followed the curve of the Great Circle at distance of 100 to 300 miles south of the border.

The missiles only had a range of 300 miles, Mr. Martin said, and if one fired from the U.S. bases missed enemy bombers they would land in the heavily-populated sections of Canada.

Premier Says B.C. Debt. Free On August 1st

LINDSAY (CP)—A nine-year-old boy said in court Thursday his sister's boyfriend grabbed him from behind. In a frenzy which followed the knife was used to stab Bovie's sister in the hand, he said.

The boy said Bovie then ran upstairs and hammered on the door of a bedroom where Eileen Carroll, 17, had locked herself.

Mrs. Anna Murphy said that when her daughter's boyfriend first entered the house he told her, "I hate you, Mrs. Murphy, I like you more than any other person on earth."

Bovie broke in saying: "If you don't let Eileen come out with me, Pat will have it and you'll have it to."

Earlier Eileen denied her testimony Wednesday that she had had "intimate relations" with Bovie. She said when she replied to questions by crown attorney Lorne Jordon she did not know the meaning he was implying by the word intimate.

Fight in Every Riding Assured In Man. Election

WINNIPEG (CP)—A fight in every riding was assured as 180 candidates were on nominated Thursday to contest 55 of the 57 provincial seats in the May 14 Manitoba election.

Elections in the northern ridings of Churchill and Rupertsland have been deferred until June 11 with nominations closing May 21.

The Progressive Conservatives and the Liberal - Progressives each named 55 candidates. The CCF entered candidates in 54 ridings and there were three independents and three Labor-Progressives in the running.

Two constituencies will be represented by acclamation.

Premier Duff Roblin, who headed the minority Conservative government formed after the last election, and Liberal-Progressive leader Gildas Molgat, premier before Mr. Roblin as premier, are in three-cornered contests.

1958, did not enter any candidates.

Standing after the 1958 election and at dissolution last March 31 were Liberal-Progressive 19, CCF 11, Independent 1, Total 57.

Next Census Will Include More and Intimate Questions

OTTAWA (CP) — Canada's census-takers are planning to dig a little deeper into the intimacies of your family life. But don't worry. It will be hush-hush; just something between you and the head-counter.

The barrage of questions to be asked when the big decennial census rolls around in 1961 have already been drafted. They'll be tried out for reaction in trial runs in two cities June 1—Galt and Joliette, Que., and neighboring farms.

Authorities say that if housewives—who usually answer the doorbell—show any signs of hesitancy or embarrassment at questions posed, it is conceivable that some of the questions may be revised.

But at the moment no difficulties are anticipated and by the looks of things, census - takers will want to know a lot more about you, your babies, your home and your pocketbook.

They'll want to know something about the mother's fertility, her marriage age and the number of babies she's had, and not only the wanted but all of the earnings of the breadwinner.

They'll also pose such other new questions as: "Were you ill or injured yesterday and did this interfere with your work or play?" This is to give the authorities a rough idea of the state of Canadian health.

Also touchy may be the question of racial and national origin —the origin of your family and your forbears. Prime Minister Diefenbaker has been critical of this census practice, repeatedly saying he would like to do away with the description of "hyphenated" Canadian.

But there has been much support of this practice, particularly in French-speaking Quebec, and the census men say they know of no other way of getting a lot of vital information on Canada's ethnic groups.

In the trial run at Galt and Joliette—to be covered by 100 men and women couners — 14 questions will be asked of those 15 and under; 22 of those over 15. Additional questions will be asked at every fifth house, to a total of 50.

This every-fifth-house sample survey will include questions on fertility, housing, total income, as well as migration and the kind of work performed during the year.

To get an idea of population movements, the doorbell-ringers will ask where you lived June 1, 1958, the time of the quintennial census, a pocketsize edition of the traditional 10-year count.

Authorities say Galt and Joliette were picked for the trial runs because they seemed to be average-type Canadian cities.

Local MPs nominate persons for census - taking and out of these, final selections are made by the bureau of statistics. Training of selectees is to start a week before they go on the road.

Sport Snapshots

By JACK SULLIVAN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canada didn't do too badly in the 1958 British Empire Games in Wales, says Jack Davies, The president of the Games Association of Canada figures the overall showing by the 58-athlete team "was very commendable."

Canada won a gold medal with victory by University of British Columbia oarsmen in the eights, and a bundle of silver and bronze medals for second-and-third-place finishes in other sports on the nine-sport program. Canada was fourth in the unofficial team championship behind England, Australia and South Africa.

Davies, writing in its official report on Canada's performance at Cardiff, chided people who expect Canadian athletes to return home loaded with gold medals and world records.

NOT OPTIMISTIC

Davies said that people with a real knowledge of sports gave Canadians a chance of winning only a few of the titles at stake. And he added:

"There are, unfortunately, a lot of people who build up golden dreams of large quantities of gold medals and world records returning with every Canadian team without making any reference as to what has been going on in other parts of the world.

"There are also the victims of a sort of medal obsession that produces the belief that to win even one gold medal and nothing else is a better showing than if no gold medals are won."

Davies produced figures to show that Canadian athletes returned home with a total of 39 medals and that 83.1 per cent of the team won medals.

"These," he says, "when we study the factual statistics, the over-all showing of the Canadian team was very commendable."

TOP JUNIORS

Vince Leah, veteran sports columnist with the Winnipeg Tribune, says that for his money the 1957 Memorial Cup champion Winnipeg Monarchs were the finest junior team of all, to be mentioned only in the same breath as the 1934 and 1947 Toronto St. Mike's.

Gordon Knudson, 22 -year - old Winnipeg-born golfer now living in Toronto, has found out that the big-time golf circuit isn't lined with gold. He returned to Toronto after four months and reported he won $100 but a maker of time before I make it. . . I keep telling myself."

General Manager Gorman Kennedy of the Big Four Montreal Alouettes, says the Als wouldn't be interested in signing Cookie Gilchrist, fullback with Saskatchewan Roughriders, "under any terms." Cookie is reported to be anxious to play in the East this year.

ALLAN CUP VICTORS — Whitby Dunlops let a cheer on Toronto ice as the team is presented with the Allan Cup after walloping Vernon Canadians 9-3 in the fifth game of a best-of-seven final series April 29. Handing the cup to Dunlops' captain Harry Sinden is George Dudley, secretary-manager of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association. Whitby manager Wren Blair crouches in suit at right and behind him is playing coach Sid Smith.

Breaks Mirror To Change Luck; It Worked

He thought it would change the club's luck. The Tigers won 7-1.

After Thursday's 9-1 defeat by Washington Senators, Detroit Times baseball writer Joe Falls wrote: "Mirror, mirror on the floor; sweep it up—the streak's no more."

Bosox Showing Discrimination Says Jackie

TORONTO (CP) — Jackie Robinson, outspoken former second-baseman who broke baseball's color line, says he believes Negro ball players are being discriminated against by Boston Red Sox of the American League.

"Every club in both major leagues has Negro players in its lineup except Boston. Sure, they say if they had an Elston Howard or Willie Mays they would play them. But how are they going to know if they don't give one a chance?

"How do you think the Giants discovered Mays, Orlando Cepeda, Felipe Alou and Willie Kirkland? Why, by giving them a chance to play."

Robinson, here on a business trip, was referring in an interview to the case of spring batting sensation Pumpsie Green, sent down to Minneapolis by Boston. The club said Green simply hadn't made the club and it would use Negroes if they rated.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People charged the club with discrimination.

FREE FISHING

HALIFAX (CP) — Non - resident anglers can fish Nova Scotia streams free this year. The federal fisheries department relinquished the sale of licences but the province didn't pass legislation to take it over.

"Party Girl"

A Romantic Action-Packed Drama In Technicolor

Robert Taylor and Cyd Charisse learn for the first time in "Party Girl," action-packed drama of the Chicago gangster era of the thirties, dealing with an underworld lawyer who falls in love with a beautiful show girl.

An elaborate Joe Pasternak production for MGM, in Color and CinemaScope, contrasting the drama of murderous racketeers with the glitter of "Party Girls" who entertain these seamy customers at gaudy night clubs. The picture has a top-notch cast. Co-starred with Taylor and Miss Charisse are Lee J. Cobb and John Ireland, with other important roles filled by Kent Smith, Claire Kelly, M.G.M.'s newest beauty, Corey Allen, Barbara Lang and Myrna Hansen. M.G.M.'s "The Party Girl", preceded by an excellent program of cartoon and color featurettes, is showing for the last times tonight at the Belle Theatre in Belleville.

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A lovely poradox is Suzy Parker, back in Hollywood after a year that was marked by tragedy and sensation.

On June 7 last year, she was pitched through the windshield of a car in a collision with a train in Florida. Her father was killed in the crash. A Frenchman named Pierre de Salle rushed to her side. After much discussion, it was admitted they were married.

This was the actress who had told interviewers: "I will never marry. I admire men too much."

She has returned here to make The Best of Everything for Jerry Wald, her beautiful face unmarked by the accident. Some explanations were in order.

"I'm going to keep my mouth shut," she said at first. Then in the next breath, she admitted, "I talk too much. It's a family affliction. When we have a family reunion, it is pure chaos."

Yet she did no talking about her marriage during her previous visits here. Why did she keep it secret?

"When we got married, I was not news," she explained. "When I got into the movies, I felt that our marriage was something between my husband and myself. It was nobody else's business.

"I realize that in America it is the custom to tell all about the private life of a celebrity. But my husband is not an American. In Europe, that is not the custom, and it doesn't particularly help him in his profession (as staffer for Paris Match magazine) to have a lot of Hollywood publicity.

"Also, I don't feel that I want to share my marriage with the world. So I lie about it."

She smiled wryly and added, "I think the thing that surprised people was the fact that we were living together and were married. My friends thought it was unlike me."

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By Geo. H. Carver, Sports Editor

Puncheon-cheeked Yukon Eric, the man who walks like a bear, has the strength of one, yet purrs like a kitten when you talk with him, opens the wrestling season here tonight.

YUKON ERIC

He opposes the Great Bolo, a reputed plug-ugly of the pachyderm, who threatens to spread the Yuke's carcass on the walls of the arena like fresh wallpaper. That statement has been made before. The Yuke is still in one piece.

Others claim he is a throwback to Bunyan's equally famous ox. We'll buy the latter. You could hitch the Yuke to a single-horse plow and the big guy would do the mile in four minutes.

Eric comes by his size and strength naturally. His father was a sturdy northman with the Vikings in his veins. His mother was a woman of the north wilds, with some of the beauties and dangers of Alaska.

Yukon teethed on pine saplings and when a youngster played with eight-inch logs. At twenty years of age he was an expert axeman and could topple a lofty northern pine with the skill and dexterity of a veteran lumberjack.

There were no movies, no teen-age dance-halts in the Yuke's Alaskan forest home.. So he turned to "scuffling" for recreation. Scuffling is the Alaskan version of wrestling. It is a rough, tough sport and no play for weaklings.

Yukon tossed everything and sundry that came his way and soon built a reputation as a scuffler. He licked all the champions in the north woods and like Alex the Great looked for new worlds to conquer.

An "outsider" happened to see him scuffle one night but they minus under the Northern Lights and it was not too long before Yuke climbed into a Buffalo wrestling ring clad only in blue jeans, a flannel shirt held together with a single button—and no socks or shoes. His shoes were a size-less to allow the mighty 20-inch arms room to stretch.

He was such a success over 13,000 packed the Buffalo Auditorium the second night of his appearances. He was a sensation overnight. Success followed success until one night he was matched with the clever, agile Verne Gagnon in Chicago. Gagnon hogtied the Yuke so much the powerful Alaskan went berserk and smashed a chair over Gagnon's noggin. That drew him a year's suspension.

Then came a marked episode in the colorful mat career of this likeable giant. He was carded to meet the dreaded "Killer" Kowalski in a Montreal ring.

After 15 minutes of nerve-wracking wrestling Yukon was hurled to the canvas. Sensing an opportunity the "Killer" (6 foot 7) made a flying leap—and came crashing down a knee aimed at Eric's face. There was a cry of agony wrenched from the prone Alaskan for the "Killer" knee had smashed into the side of his head, completely shearing off an ear.

Since then the Yuke's career has been one success after another. He holds decisions over Lou Thesz, Gagnon, Pat O'Connor, Whipper Billy Watson, to mention some, yet strange to say, he has never held a professional wrestling title.

Yukon dislikes travel, big cities and crowds. Periodically he will suddenly call off a tour and engage in a period of swimming, fishing and plain loafing. He has a big trailer in which he seeks out isolated camps for days of indefinite periods. The luxurious trailer has three rooms including a pine-panelled kitchen, with a special section reserved for his collection of beautifully-carved wooden figures of wrestlers.

He drives a big baby-blue Cadillac convertible, is married and two lovely daughters. He recently bought a $50,000 home in Delmar, N.Y.

Thus far the mighty ex-lumberjack has wrestled in more than 1,500 matches, winning 98 per cent of them. He has never changed his original ring attire. He disdains trunks and sticks to his ragged blue jeans held up at the waist by an ordinary piece of rope. He still climbs into the ring with his lumberjack boots on, but discards them before hostilities commence.

Yukon is extremely popular with Belleville fandom and the "hull kit and kaboodle" will be rooting for him tonight against the masked "Great Bolo."

Brilliant 1-0 Performance Seventh in 15-Year Career; Chisox Close in on Indians

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Warren (the Wonder) Spahn did it again.

Already one of baseball's all-time great lefthanders, the stubby southpaw has turned 38 last week added his 249th victory and 45th shutout Thursday night, getting all the help he needed from Hank Aaron's home run for a 1-0 victory over St. Louis.

It was Spahn's seventh 1-0 victory in a 15-year career, tops among active major leaguers and this one retained Milwaukee's slim (.043) percentage point lead over Los Angeles in the National League race.

The Dodgers, with old guard Duke Snider's two-run, inside-the-park homer capping a four-run seventh inning, took 6-4 at Philadelphia. San Francisco, rained out at Pittsburgh, regained third place as the Chicago Cubs' Bob Anderson and Bill Henry collected five hits to bats for a 3-2 victory over Ernie Bank's 10th - inning homer.

SECOND IN VICTORIES

Spahn, second in victories only to the White Sox' Early Wynn (251) among active pitchers, also tipped by none now in business in shutouts, ripped a 3-2 record and his second whitewash of the season with a strikeout. He didn't walk a man and struck out four while paddling his lifetime bulge over the Cardinals to 32-28—but most he's won from any one team.

His only trouble came in the sixth, when the Cards bunched hait of their hits. Catcher Del Crandall singled off Alex Kellner to help ease that jam.

Kellner (4-1) is his first start, giving up eight hits, struck out four, walked one and gave up one extra-base blow—a double by Gino Cimoli.

Snider, whose only other inside-the-park job among his lifetime 333 homers also was against the Phils, had doubled home a third-inning run for the Dodgers. He now has driven in one of the Dodgers' last 10 runs. His homer came off reliever Jack Meyer after Wally Moon's two - run double had tied it against loser Ray Semproch (2-1). They had also given up only three hits until the seventh.

WINS IN RELIEF

Johnny Klippstein (3-0) was the winner with 2 1-3 innings of one-hit relief for Sandy Koufax. Clem Labine and Art Fowler mopped up after Klippstein was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the seventh.

Banks and rookie George Altman took care of the Cubs' scoring. Altman doubled and came home on Banks' single in the first inning off Cincinnati starter Bob Purkey, who also gave up Altman's second major league homer (both in two days) in the third. Banks' homer, his fifth, came off losing reliever Bob Mabe (1-1). Anderson, who gave up a fourth - inning homer by Jerry Lynch, lasted until the ninth. Then Henry (2-0) came on and struck out Vada Pinson with two on. The Reds, who had averaged almost a game in their last nine, had eight hits.

FOUR-TEAM LEAGUE

WALLACEBURG (CP) — The Southwestern Ontario Lacrosse Association will operate with four teams this season, Riverside, Windsor, Sarnia and Wallaceburg. First games have Sarnia Beavers at Wallaceburg against Red Devils, May 23; Windsor Maple Leafs move to Riverside May 23; Sarnia plays at Windsor, May 26; and Riverside plays in Wallaceburg, May 30. Each team will play 12 home and 12 away games.

Petes Face Elimination; Play Tonight

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—Peterborough Petes face elimination in the Memorial Cup championship series tonight as the final moves to Brandon with Winnipeg Braves holding a 3-1 lead in the best-of-seven series.

Petes won the last three games in Winnipeg after Petes scored their only victory in the opener. A sixth game, if needed, is scheduled for Winnipeg next Wednesday.

Coach Scotty Bowman's east-ern champs had their best game of the series last Wednesday when Petes held a 3-0 advantage after the first period. But the Braves stormed back to win 5-3 and move to within one game of the crown.

LONG DROUGHT

Braves hope to give Winnipeg its first Memorial Cup and Canadian junior hockey title in 13 years.

Winnipeg Monarchs won the title in 1946, going seven games to upset Toronto St. Michael's Majors. The West has won only once since then, Fort Arthur West End Bruins defeated Ryerie Flyers for the title in 1948 and Flin Flon Bombers downed Hull-Ottawa Junior Canadiens in 1951. Montreal's best Regina Pats last year.

The game was held necessitated when a circus moved into Winnipeg Arena. The teams moved over to the 14-mile trip to Brandon by bus, arriving about three hours before game time.

The lineups are expected to be unchanged for Brandon.

MAHONEY WON'T DRESS

Bowman had planned to dress Petes captain Bill Mahoney for the first time in the series. He is recovering from a painful knee. However, Bowman decided Thursday that Mahoney's leg still was too weak.

Bowman also gave up plans to use Petes referee Lee Cortivesa of Quebec City be replaced. He was bitter about Cortivesa's work Wednesday but later conceded that a change in referees was the main solution.

"My boys will just have to work harder," he said.

Coach Billy Allum of the Braves has warned his club there must be no repetition of their letdown in the first two periods Wednesday.

"I really roasted them between the second and third periods," he said. "I told them they had to start skating and they could do it."

Eighteen Equine Missiles To Flash Over Derby Route

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — An evenly matched field of 18, packed with horses who take off like a missile, gives promise that Saturday's Kentucky Derby will be one of the swiftest in recent years.

Whirlaway's 2:01 2-5 record clocking of 1941 doesn't appear in danger. But there is so much early speed in the race that the time for the mile trip around Churchill Downs may be the fastest since Swaps stopped the clock at 2:01 4-5 four years ago.

Showers are forecast for Saturday but not enough to slow up the well - groomed racing strip. Four aides are expected to greet the Derby day crowd, annually estimated at 100,000.

Some say this is the most ordinary field of three-year - olds since Count Turf triumphed in 1951.

NO CLEAR LEADER

In winter and early spring strakes the leading candidates beat each other with almost monotonous regularity. But most of the times were faster than turned in by the winners last year.

Hardly without exception, favorites for the early running of America's most colorful turf event are horses that prefer to run in front or stay close to the pace.

First Landing, 3-to-1 favorite after a return to the form that won him the two-year-old title in 1958, lost the Wood Memorial by three-quarters of a length but was either in front or at the leader's throat almost all the way.

Jimmy Foxx Gets Job Offers

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Jimmy Foxx, baseball and baseball-ridden former American League baseball star, had job offers from throughout the United States today.

The Hall of Famer, who lives with a brother in a modest rented home in Phoenix, was quoted Wednesday as saying: "I'm broke and guess I always will be. When you get 51 years old nobody wants you."

An obviously happy Foxx was ready to retract the statement today.

Outstanding Card Presented By Belleville Boxing Club

By GEORGE H. CARVER
Sports Editor

A new boxing baby was born here last night and from its lusty cries, it has promise of becoming a healthy growing youngster.

The Belleville Boxing Club made its debut in Memorial Arena before a crowd estimated at over 900 and post-card-conscious event evidenced its loud approval.

The new ring organization under president Jack Fitzgerald and trainers George Polm Inter and Bill Totten, presented an outstanding card of nine bouts, all of highly entertaining nature.

The Belleville gloves contingent, headed by Jack "Rocky" Lucas and Barry Parsons won four of the eight featured fights. The ninth was a two-round affair between two tiny 55-pound tots who didn't take any punches either.

Fighters from Oshawa and Peterborough furnished the opposition for the Belleville club's inaugural, and the card as a whole lived up to all advance notices.

There was not a dull moment from gong to gong with each bout providing fast action, good punching and some upset decisions. There were no direct knockouts.

The proteges of Polmenter and Totten showed evidence of good training. All of them showed an aggressive style and a willingness to mix matters up although some were prone to rely on head attacks only.

The main bout between Belleville's Jack "Rocky" Lucas and Peterborough's Al Reid saw some fast and furious action although Lucas took over in the opening round, didn't let his lead get away from him.

He had a substantial advantage for the first four rounds of the bout and easily threw off Reid's attempt to come back in the final frame. Lucas landed heavily in several flurries and there was no doubt about the decision.

One of the most promising youngsters on the card was Barry Parsons of Belleville, whose style drew the plaudits of the crowd. Parsons stalked Art Robinson of Oshawa during the opening bell landing heavily almost at will. He dealt out some severe punishment for two rounds, a smashing left hook damaging Robinson's left eye closed completely after the fight.

Referee Fred Fisher, stopped the fight after 1.16 minutes of the third round of the scheduled five rounders. Parsons is a natural fighter and looks like one of the best ring prospects to come out of this city in some time.

In the special event, said to be a grudge match, between Grant O'Reilly of Oshawa and the Ontario lightweight champion Paul Daniels, the former decked out a split verdict over the champion. One of the judges voted the fight a draw.

O'Reilly and Daniels were a speedy evenly-matched pair and in the writer's opinion, the show would not have been too far astray. Both are hard punching, fine boxers and not averse to toe-to-toe slugging. O'Reilly staggered the champion with a sharp right to the jaw in the fourth round, and this may have influenced the decision.

The other bouts were well fought with plenty of action. Some ringsiders felt the decision of Bobby Cole of Belleville and Bob Campbell of Oshawa bout, won by the latter, should have gone the other way.

Trophies were presented after the bouts. Bow Brewery would be presented by district representative Armand Duffy, went to Jack Lucas, best fighter of the night; Barry Parsons, most promising fighter and Bobby Hubbs, the gamest fighter. Dr. "Pig" Ross presented the two fifty-five pounders with trophies and Donnie Ritchie, with special awards.

Aldermen Frank Graydon and Robert Temple, and Vic Morris, acted as judges for the awards. It was announced another card will be offered in two weeks.

The Results

Junior White, Oshawa outpointed Ben Hubbs, Belleville (140).

Terry Bennett, Belleville decisioned Billy Blodgett Oshawa.

Special Event (five rounds)

Semi-Final (five rounds)

Main Bout (five rounds)

Marlins Lose To Montreal; Retain Lead

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The bad knee that has kept Fernie Castleman from starting in the majors doesn't appear to be his only weakness, batting in the International League.

The former New York Giant and Baltimore Orioles infielder now with Miami Marlins is the league's top hitter with a .438 average. He got three hits, including a two-run homer, Thursday night although his team lost 5-3 to Montreal Royals.

Castleman has 28 hits in 64 at bats to pace the league-leading Marlins. He was considered on the way down in organized baseball because of a knee that couldn't stand the rigors of constant play around second base.

MARLINS STILL LEAD

Despite the loss, Marlins hold a one-game edge on Columbus Jets, who lost 7-1 to Rochester Red Wings. Richmond Virginians defeated Buffalo Bisons 8-7, Toronto and Havana were rained out.

Montreal paralyzed the pitching of Billy Harris and homers by Clyde Parris and Bob Lennon to offset Castleman's efforts.

Lennon's solo homer in the fourth inning broke a 2-2 tie and the Royals were never headed. Castleman's homer with a mate on in the first gave Miami a 2-0 lead which Jim Pisoni matched with single runs in the first and second innings. Parris' homer with a man on in the seventh clinched matters.

Richmond used the same combination of clutch pitching and home run power to knock over Buffalo. With one out and the bases loaded in the last of the ninth, Tom Poholsky pinch-hit and Johnny James each got a strikeout to kill a Buffalo rally that had cut the score to 8-7.

THREE-RUN HOMER

Bob Martyn's three-run homer in the fifth inning sparked a early 7-1 Richmond lead. Martyn had two hits and four runs batted in while Joe Caffie had a homer and three RBIs for Buffalo.

Bob Keegan scattered nine hits against Columbus as his mates got 11 hits from four Columbus pitchers, including two homers by Gene Oliver. Jim McKnight had three for the winners. Jerry Gibbon lost it.

Rangers Trim Bruins 4-2; Hull Scores

LONDON (AP) — New York Rangers levelled their exhibition hockey series with Boston Bruins by winning the second game of their home-and-home tour Thursday night 4-2. The Bruins won the series Wednesday night.

Brilliant defensive work by Gump Worsley, who stood off relentless Bruin attacks, was largely responsible for the victory.

Bobby Hull scored the winner for the Rangers in the first eight minutes of the game. Hull scored made it 2-0 for the Rangers eight minutes later.

Bob Milchner added a Boston goal just before the first period ended while the Rangers had two men off the ice.

The Rangers scored twice in the second period. One goal was a long, hard drive by defenseman Jack Bownass. The other came on a clever shot by Ed Litzenberger with an assist from Ed Slack.

Jim Morrison, Bruin defenseman kept the Rangers in check for the third period. Boston collected its second goal at the 16th minute on a shot by Vic Stasiuk.

Ralph Backstrom National League Top Rookie

MONTREAL (CPC) — Ralph Backstrom, clever 21-year - old centre for Montreal Canadiens, is the National Hockey League's rookie of the year, it was announced today.

He wins the Calder Memorial Trophy for the 1958-59 season plus $1,000 in cash. Backstrom was the selectors' choice by a wide margin.

He was better than a two-to-one choice over the runner-up defenceman Carl Brewer of Toronto Maple Leafs. Backstrom polled 141 points of a possible 180; Brewer had 67.

McDonald, a teammate of Backstrom on the Stanley Cup champion Canadiens, finished third with 32 points. Others receiving points were Charlie Burns, Detroit, 25; Norm Johnson, Boston and Chicago, 18; Len Lunde, Detroit, 18; Jim Bartlett, New York, 12; John Hanna, New York, 8; Jerry Leach, Boston 3; Gerry Ehman, Toronto, 3.

VOTE TWICE

The selectors were hockey writers, broadcasters and telecasters in the six NHL cities. Points scored by members of each basis for first, second and third choices. Balloting was done at the mid-season mark and at the end of the season, before the Stanley Cup playoffs. There were a possible 90 points in each half.

The fast-skating young Backstrom jumped to big-time hockey straight from junior ranks. In his first season with Ottawa - Hull Canadiens Juniors he scored 43 goals and 83 assists. He was tagged a corner for Canadiens at the training camp last fall but in his NHL season scored 18 goals and 40 assists.

Patterson Is 10-1 Favorite To Whip British Challenger

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Floyd Patterson, the world heavyweight champion, and Canada's Roy Harris, 1958 British champion, will meet in a 10-round bout here tonight at Butler University.

The former New York Giant and Baltimore Orioles infielder now with Miami Marlins is the league's top hitter with a .438 average. He got three hits, including a two-run homer, Thursday night although his team lost 5-3 to Montreal Royals.

Montreal paralyzed the pitching of Billy Harris and homers by Clyde Parris and Bob Lennon to offset Castleman's efforts.

Lennon's solo homer in the fourth inning broke a 2-2 tie and the Royals were never headed. Castleman's homer with a mate on in the first gave Miami a 2-0 lead which Jim Pisoni matched with single runs in the first and second innings. Parris' homer with a man on in the seventh clinched matters.

Richmond used the same combination of clutch pitching and home run power to knock over Buffalo. With one out and the bases loaded in the last of the ninth, Tom Poholsky pinch-hit and Johnny James each got a strikeout to kill a Buffalo rally that had cut the score to 8-7.

THREE-RUN HOMER

Bob Martyn's three-run homer in the fifth inning sparked a early 7-1 Richmond lead. Martyn had two hits and four runs batted in while Joe Caffie had a homer and three RBIs for Buffalo.

Bob Keegan scattered nine hits against Columbus as his mates got 11 hits from four Columbus pitchers, including two homers by Gene Oliver. Jim McKnight had three for the winners. Jerry Gibbon lost it.

Games today: Miami at Montreal, Havana at Toronto, Richmond at Buffalo and Columbus at Rochester.

Riders' Clair Says He Has Deal Cooking

OTTAWA (CP)—Coach Frank Clair said Thursday he has a deal cooking with a Western Interprovincial Football Club that would bring Ottawa Rough Riders an end in exchange for two or three players on last year's roster.

Clair earlier this year engineered a five-for-one trade with Saskatchewan Roughriders that brought quarterback Frank Tripucka to Ottawa.

In exchange for Tripucka, Saskatchewan got lineman Jim Marshall of Ohio State, import Ernie Kunz, fullback Ken Ploen, Canadian halves Carl Hilsinger and Frank Fraser, and either Ken Ploen or Larry Hayes, both import linemen.

If Dimitroff refuses to report to Regina and there is doubt here that he will—Ottawa must find a replacement for the $12,000. Clair said.

He declined to give details of the proposed trade, but said that he plans to have six or seven import ends ready to training camp next July as possible pass receivers for Tripucka.

The import quarter is the third signal-caller on the Ottawa Club. The others are Don Allard, former choice of Washington Redskins from Boston College, and Canadian Jackie Parker.

Sr. Jar. Clair has announced the signing of one import end, Bob Pepe from North Carolina, and has said that Buddy Payne and Mack Yoho, both import ends, have been asked to return.

Royal Visit To Woodbine Is Extended

FORT ERIE (CP)—At the insistence of Queen Elizabeth the royal party's visit to the New Woodbine Race Track Tuesday June 30, has been extended by 30 minutes to two hours, a jockey club spokesman reports.

The Queen and Prince Philip will arrive at the multi-million-dollar track in suburban Toronto at 1 p.m. and will watch the 1000th running of the Queen's Plate, classic for three-year-olds.

The Queen will present the gold trophy and her own $50 guineas to the owner of the winning horse. It will be the first time since 1939 that a reigning monarch has been present for the classic. On that occasion King George and Queen Elizabeth saw the event.

BIG TANKER

consequences of defense principles."

Early reaction from points outside the capital included word from Halifax where John Lesie, general manager of the Halifax Shipyards, said his firm will tender on the tanker construction job.

The tanker will increase the navy's striking power by enabling destroyers to remain at sea for much longer periods. At 23 knots it will also be the navy's biggest ship—bigger than the 20,000-ton aircraft carrier Bonaventure.

The tanker will be able to refuel three ships at one time and will also have an anti-submarine capability because it will carry helicopters, a hangar and a workshop to keep them in repair.

On the militia, the white paper said:

The equipment not needed for survival operations will be withdrawn gradually from the militia as equipment for (civil defence) operations is introduced."

DEFENCE CIVIL

Civil defence equipment will include radiation detection and rescue gear and vehicles for evacuation of injured and for communications.

Vancouver, Brig. R. T. du Moulin, commander of British Columbia militia area, said regrading for the militia has not been affected by shift to civil defence training and has continued to be "excellent."

HOG MARKETING

ment from Mr. Goodfellow or the Ontario Farm Products Marketing Board before pressing his application for a new vote.

"I've written to them asking for a yes or no answer. As matters stand they've just stalled for about three months."

On Feb. 24 Chief Justice McRuer postponed hearing the application to allow time for discussions among the parties themselves. He said the same time he ruled irregularities in voting made last July's plebiscite invalid. In the July vote Ontario's 78,000 hog producers gave 61.5-per-cent approval to the marketing plan, adopted in 1957.

Mr. Goodfellow's judgment the hog board has been operating under a 1949 plan with essentially the same features. It wasn't until 1953 that legislation was passed requiring approval of marketing plans in plebiscites.

Mr. Mackinnon argues a vote is needed because of a letter written by Mr. Goodfellow to hog association president Alfred Allen in 1957. It said a vote would be needed but the 1949 marketing plan has since been tossed out.

The hog board is confident no vote will be held in the immediate future, however.

"As far as we know the government considers last July's vote was an indication the majority of producers favored the plan," says Mr. Boynton.

Meanwhile, the hog board has postponed its plans to extend the marketing plan into Eastern Ontario and increase its assembly yards to 25. In March eight Eastern Ontario counties were dropped by the board from its jurisdiction.

At that time the board said said 30,000,000 pounds of surplus pork in freezers made it "very probable" that hog prices would "approximate to the government floor for some time."

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Conversing at length with associates clarifies any existing misunderstandings and solves problems easily, sensibly. Do not procrastinate in getting into all fundamental matters, though you may have to work late into the night.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — The time to employ that fine sense of neatness and artistry to all you do today, whether in business or home spheres, P. M. support those who are loyal to you. Be kind.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — There is promise of a very delightful day for you now. Get an early start and see those persons who can help you career-wise. Later, dress appropriately and go out to the special sports or amusements that please you most. Be cheerful.

And this fine child will not be satisfied until he or she has a fine education in spiritual, ethical as well as practical matters or life. Excellent chart for real success in large concerns, enterprises.

Religion and Democracy

By ROY L. SMITH

The average reader of the Old Testament is very apt to miss much of the fascination of the ancient stories — and their sheer humanity—because he is attempting to read into them the preconceptions with which he comes to them.

King David of Israel has been described as a saint, and as a seducer, and he was both. It is true that he outraged one of his finest citizens and most faithful followers when he alienated Bathsheba from her husband. But it is also true that he repented, and in his later life rendered some of the most profound spiritual service in the life of the kingdom.

In this week's lesson we find him playing the role of a thoroughly democratic king, ruling over a nation that had been schooled in profoundly democratic principles. Once we get under the surface, the whole appears to be a very modern story.

FROM RAGS TO RICHES

The American reader is familiar with the story of the poor boy who became famous, of the log-cabin-to-White-House tradition, and of the amazing opportunities open to the youth of this very fortunate land. But Americans have no copyright on such tales. They are, however, peculiar to the races and nations in which the democratic principle is in authority.

As a lad David was a member of an inconspicuous family and as the youngest member thereof, he was assigned to some of the least spectacular tasks.

The Uniform Sunday School lesson for May 3: "David King of Israel," 2 Samuel 5 and 6:3.

He was in every respect, a country boy. Never, perhaps, in all the years he herded the sheep did he ever know the meaning of a bed under anything but a tent made of camel-cloth. There were doubtless weeks at a time when he slept under the stars, just inside the sheepfold, keeping watch over his flocks with his eyes half open and half shut. As a young man he had known the privations in all its intimacy. As a fugitive from the wrath of Saul he had slept in caves, ravines, and on hillops.

What an experience it must have been for him to lie down at last on the rich bed of a king in a well defended capital! What stories he must have been able to tell his little ones as they gathered about his knees in the evening time!

DEMOCRATIC PROCESS

And it was by a strict democratic process that he came to the throne of Judah and Israel. There was nothing in his ancestry to explain him. Nor, for that matter, was there anything in his environment. The spirit of his genius lay quite evidently within his own soul.

As a young man in Saul's court he captivated the men of the nation. As a leader, returning from battle, he captured the hearts of the women. And when Saul, the mad king, died and the throne was left empty and open, he was chosen by a popular vote to fill the vacancy.

At first his authority extended only as far as the two tribes of the south — Benjamin and Judah. But after seven long years of wooing and campaigning, he contrived to win the northern tribes over, and was crowned in another ceremony to be their king. Nowhere on earth except among the Hebrews, could it have happened this way, for among no other people was there so much as a trace of the democratic principle.

SOUL OF DEMOCRACY

We will make a serious error if we do not take careful note of the fact that the soil of Hebrew democracy was the Hebrew religion. According to the teachings of Moses every king government, and citizen was responsible to the judgment of God, before whom there were no favorites. Just as a citizen was responsible to his king, so the king was responsible to God.

It was this basic concept which gave rise to the group of great leaders known as the prophets. Nowhere among the pagans was there any king willing to concede that he was responsible to any power higher than himself. Only among the Hebrews were kings held accountable, and it was their religion that taught them this great lesson.

Weaken the forces of religion inside a democracy and you have prepared the fall for democracy. Undermine the faith of the people and you have softened their resistance to tyranny.

The relationship between good religion and true democracy is such an intimate one that most of us are willing to admit.

5 Badly Burned As Fire Engulfs Norwegian Ship

Flee Vancouver Homes In Fear of Big Blast

VANCOUVER (CP)—A battle-scarred freighter, reflooted after twice being sunk by the Germans during the Second World War, burst into an inferno of burning oil Friday at the entrance to Vancouver Harbor.

The Norwegian freighter Fernsult and her 36-man crew survived. Five men were severely burned. Two were near death.

An explosion in the engine room shook the 7,500-ton ship as she steamed out of the harbor, then drifted in the Fraser River port of New Westminster to pick up a cargo of lumber.

EXPLOSION SUNKEN

Burning oil poured from a ruptured bunker tank that had been one of the freighter's 4,000 tons of fuel. Four crew members in the engine room were trapped by the blazing oil and were taken ashore.

Capt. William Aicher ordered the crew to abandon ship as the oil burned fiercely, sending black smoke over Vancouver's north shore.

Residents in a half-mile area of the waterfront were advised to evacuate their homes as the possibility of a big explosion increased.

But the threat of an explosion passed and a 11-man navy, fire and police team went aboard to assess the situation, was lowered into the blazing hold and engine room. One fireman suffered slight burns.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

In hospital in critical condition were chief engineer Per Stalland and second engineer Per Larsen. Also injured were second engineer Leif Dybsli, oiler Alter Jorgensen and galley boy Jens Ragnar Hansen.

One by one the oil-blackened crew members, some with shreds of burned and blistered skin from their backs and shoulders, were put into ambulances and taken to hospitals.

One ambulance attendant said: "You never saw anything like it. I reached out to grab one of them and pieces of skin fell to the ground."

Capt. Aicher said damage would run to at least $250,000.

President Tito Tells Secrets About Stalin

BELGRADE (AP) — President Tito says he had a grimmer time in Moscow during Stalin's purges than he had fighting during the Second World War.

In war, said Tito, one at least knows where his enemy is.

The Yugoslav leader described his Moscow experiences between the two world wars in an interview carried by the Yugoslav Communist party organ Komunist.

"I only read," said Tito, "I avoided discussions, because the NKVD (secret police) tapped all telephone conversations."

"Perhaps," he concluded," said Tito, "kept me from coming under Stalin's knife."

Tito said the atmosphere in Moscow was so oppressive that he was "overcome with hatred" when he returned to private life to live underground.

At least a hundred leading Yugoslav Reds died in Stalin's purges, said Tito.

Tito's comments on the Moscow scene were the first of this nature, although he has attacked Stalin frequently since breaking with the Kremlin in 1948.

NATO Council Told of West's Parley Plans

PARIS (Reuters) — Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville reported to members of the 15-nation Atlantic Pact permanent council on plans for negotiations with East-West talks.

The foreign affairs chiefs of Britain, the United States, France and West Germany announced at the end of a 10-day conference here Thursday they were in complete agreement on the plans.

But details of the policy and tactics the West has evolved for the talks with Russia in Geneva May 11 remain a closely-guarded secret.

This time the West is trying to reverse the tactical advantage the Russians have held in the past through prior publication of the West's plans and proposals.

The "complete agreement" is understood to be on a "package" proposal by Germany and the European security which combines the views of the Western Big Four.

Before leaving here for Washington French State Secretary Christian Herter told reporters:

"We shall go to Geneva confident that we have achieved a position on the basis of which, if there is good faith on both sides, just and durable peace can be established in Europe."

DIVORCE SEEKERS UNDER ATTACK IN PARLIAMENT

Use Devious Ways To Get Decrees

OTTAWA (CP) — Some persons are trying to pull the wool over the eyes of Parliament in a new way, says the chairman of the Commons committee which handles divorce bills.

Robert McGregor (PC-Hallaxtax) told the House Friday that he detects "a new switch on an old trick" in the brief type of case that has bothered Parliament for some years.

Now, instead of the same motels or hotels appearing in evidence of adultery in divorce cases before Parliament, "in each case the rendezvous has occurred in some young lady's apartment," he said, and the same lawyers and detectives were involved in these cases.

"It seems to me that the people . . . who connive and contrive at these particular cases have hit upon this new modus operandi to fly to pull the wool over the eyes of members of the other place (Senate) and the members of this House of Commons."

Mr. McCleave said that somehow there is "a rubber and pleasant odor about it" and that each "particular fabrication" by the private bills committee along with 11 other divorce bills is "worked up for special consideration."

NEW TWIST

He also regaled the Commons with details of another new twist in the conduct of parliamentary divorce for applicants from Quebec and Newfoundland, the only provinces without provincial divorce courts.

"Something relatively new has crept into the divorce practice . . . For the first time, so far as I am aware, we have had the appearance of lady de-

Graham Still Draws Large Sydney Crowds

SYDNEY (AP)—Billy Graham continues to draw three of the thousands of people to his Australian crusade meetings and has become this nation's top topic of conversation in this city.

Each night hundreds of people walk across the Sydney showground to gather round a dais as the lean American evangelist calls on the crowd to make "decisions for Christ."

Graham is scheduled to leave Australia May 31. He plans to return to his home in England then go to the United States.

By May 31 he will have spent 76 days in Sydney. How many different people have seen and heard Graham? Organizers of the crusade churchgoers have been among the 1,200,000 Australians who have made "decisions?"

There is no clearcut answer to either question.

Public Souring On Diefendrama Says Benidickson

OTTAWA (CP) — Playing on Prime Minister Diefenbaker's name and fervent speaking style, Liberal financial critic Benidickson told the Commons said Friday in a budget debate that Finance Minister Fleming's April 9 budget provided "a great harvest of disenchantment."

It had "dissolved any remains of the glow of confidence" generated by the Conservative election campaign.

Mr. Benidickson, MP for Kenora-Rainy River, said he finds a "public souring" developing about the obvious abandonment by the Diefenbaker government of the many clear-cut assumptions you people were led to believe by spellbinding oratorical powers were the firm conviction of the party's brethren.

He spoke on the CBC's free-time political program "The Nation's Business."

Detroit Butler Pays Back Taxes, Still Has Nice Bundle of Bonds

Smith, 71, entered a plea of no contest Friday and was fined $6,500 for paying excessive income tax for 1952. Other fines income tax charges against the 71-year-old butler totaled $16,469 in back taxes and penalties.

Smith, a butler for Wesson Seybum, Detroit financier, makes about $4,000 a year in salary.

When a bystander estimated he must have realized $200,000 in the last 10 years on his stock market deals, Smith replied coyly: would be more like $400,000."

Born in Britain Smith came to the United States in 1920. From his modest savings he began to invest.

"I have never sold any of my holdings. I just reinvest everything in new stock. That's the way to do it. Keep your stocks and don't let the market fiddle about."

Smith, fond of remembering when, during the depression, American, Telephone and Telegraph Company men were knocking on doors trying to sell stock.

"I have quite a bit of that."

Smith said he had no intention of trying to defraud the government. "I suddenly got too big for me," he said of his income tax return. "All of a sudden I found that with all the stock splits and dividends that I had lost track.

Govt. Appointment Could Bring Break With Congress

OTTAWA (CP)—A sharp break has developed in the normally cordial relations between the federal government and the 1,000,000-member Canadian Labor Congress.

Indications are that a storm will blow up in the Commons next week over Labor Minister Starr's controversial appointment of Alastair F. MacArthy of Toronto as labor representative on the unemployment insurance commission.

In unprecedented moves, Congress President Donald Jodoin and Mr. Starr clubbed each other publicly over the appointment. Liberal Leader Pearson and CCF House Leader Hazen Argue sided with the labor boss.

The 48-year-old Mr. MacArthur, Canadian head of the Otter Employees' International Union, was named by the government as the labor member of the commission despite CLC recommendations of three other labor officials for the job.

Mr. Jodoin charged political implications were involved.

The minister denied this and claimed Mr. MacArthur's chief qualification for the appointee to be a "good man."

"It seems to me that the people who connive and contrive at these particular cases have hit upon this new modus operandi to fly to pull the wool over the eyes of members of the other place (Senate) and the members of this House of Commons."

Mr. McCleave said that somehow there is "a rubber and pleasant odor about it" and that each "particular fabrication" by the private bills committee along with 11 other divorce bills is "worked up for special consideration.

See Indian Communist Party Losing Prestige Over Tibet

NEW DELHI (CP)—Observers here believe India's Communist party is losing prestige over China's cause in the Tibetan affair. They say it could cost the leftwing loss of prestige among the Indian people.

Such a loss, it is said, could go a long way towards nullifying the goodwill the party has created as a result of India's large-scale economic assistance to India.

The extent of the estrangement is not expected to be revealed until the next general elections, two or three years from now. But there is reflected in a drop in the 27 seats the Communists now have in the 505-seat Lok Sabha (Parliament).

The Reds' parliamentary representation is not necessarily an accurate indication of the party's strength in the country, say observers. Already the party is in control of the government of one state, Kerala, its full poten-

U.S. Bars Canadian Cargoes From Red China on Highways

OTTAWA (CP)—A new irritating factor has appeared in Canadian-American economic relations, Commons supporters of the Liberals of a disgruntled Canadian shrimp supplier's complaint.

It was disclosed Friday that the United States imposed a ban on May 19 on the movement by highways of Canadian shrimp and other goods bound for Red China.

Authorities said the ban was imposed against four Canadian trucking firms under regulations controlling traffic imperilled U.S. national security.

Informants said a Montreal supplier of frozen shrimp asked the U.S. to authorize the trucking firms to carry the shrimp to Red China.

Mr. Rogers revealed to such questions as the Canadian-American relations, the effect of the ban on Canada's economy, described the ban as a breach of American obligations under the Reciprocal Commercial Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Both parties are signatories to the GATT which says a member country must allow the transit of goods in its territory in the shipment of goods to another member country.

Mr. Browne said he has been informed the American ban was imposed under article 21 of the GATT, allowing any member to take "such action as it considers necessary for the protection of its essential security interests."

Both Mr. Pearson and Mr. Argue said they have protested the action to U.S. embassy authorities, but have not yet had any

CANADIAN FIRMS GET LARGER SHARE U.S. CONTRACTS

Exempt From Certain Limitations of Act

WASHINGTON (CP) — The United States has opened the way for Canadian industrial firms to get a larger share of U.S. defense contracts.

It exempted Canada from certain limitations of the Buy American Act and put Canadian firms on an equal footing with American companies in bidding on contracts arising from defence programs of mutual interest to the two countries.

The exemption, effective July 1, provides that neither price differentials nor duties will be added in evaluating Canadian bids and proposals in such programs.

In addition, Canadian components of military equipment for dual-interest programs will be admitted to the United States authorities to be of domestic origin "for the purpose of determining whether it is of domestic source end product is being offered."

ANOTHER CONCESSION

The exemption, the product of diplomatic negotiations between Canada, is the second major concession made to Canada by the U.S. in the last two months. Thursday, President Eisenhower signed a bill to exempt Canadian U.S. controls which for nearly two years have limited imports of forest products.

The defence department made no formal announcement of the Buy American Act waiver, presumably for fear of arousing Congressional opposition. In recent Congressional discussions of defence-production contracts in Canada, some congressmen have indicated concern about the effect on employment in the United States.

NEW ARRANGEMENTS

However, copies of the announcement of the purchasing regulations under the act, which normally requires the U.S. defence department to buy defence orders, were made available at the Pentagon and Canadian Defence Production Minister O'Hurley declined to discuss the matter before Commons in Ottawa.

Under the new arrangement, Canadian firms will be permitted to sell to the U.S. armed services for defence programs of mutual interest to the two countries will be accepted on the same basis as American bids. This gives Canadians an equal footing for contracts.

Eleanor Powell Says Religion Kept Marriage Going 16 Years

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — "I am sure Glenn will be much happier alone. He isn't happy now."

So says Eleanor Powell, explaining why she sued Glenn Ford for divorce Friday. Her 16-year marriage to the Canadian-born film star apparently has been considered one of Hollywood's happiest. Her reasons for suing:

"I sued on grounds of extreme mental cruelty, but it's exactly what I mean. . . .

"My marriage, wouldn't have lasted 16 days except for my religion and my feeling that I should keep the marriage together.

"We did have trouble (a few years ago), but I determined to keep my marriage intact. I have tried very hard, but it just isn't any use—we cannot go on. I have

Invading 'Army' Lays Down Guns Without A Shot

Arrive in Panama City As Captives in 8 Buses

PANAMA CITY (AP) — Cuban invaders of Panama who surrendered without firing a shot arrived in the capital as captives during the night in eight guarded buses.

Informed sources said Fidel Castro's Cuban army of 1,500 men seek leniency for the small band who threw themselves on the mercy of the Panamanian country in laying down their arms.

Hundreds of curious Panamanians literally watched the 8 buses come—one a woman marched into jail.

They will be questioned before the government decides what to do with them.

The bedraggled band of revolutionists said they came to Panama on board the Cienfuegos, once a haunt of pirates.

Arrival Surprise

Five adventurers refused to follow their leader at the last moment and took to the hills. Later they were rounded up.

By the time the first of two planeloads took to the hillsides shorewards the revolutionaries were surrounded by troops. Across the local post offices are were waiting to leave.

Many villagers hugged, kissed and shook hands with the Cubans and girls clung to their "liberators" as they were to be parted and left with them aboard the landing barges.

As the barges pulled away the Cubans sang Guerra Maestrina, the song of Cuban leader Fidel Castro's revolutionary army.

Two planeloads taken by by villagers gathered on the beach.

LIFT THE GIRLS

As a parting shot the invaders, with admirable politeness to the Panamanian authorities, yelled "Viva Panama."

Panamanian National Guard troops disembarked from their landing craft and shortly later the Panamanian flag flew once again atop the white flagpole in the village square.

NOMBRE DE DIOS, Panama (Reuters)—Bearded Cuban revolutionaries laid down their arms, kissed the girls goodbye in this "liberated" village and disappeared away into the setting sun to end Panama's abortive revolt.

They left behind Friday a trail of cheers and tears from the inhabitants of this straw-thatched village they sought to liberate from the Panamanian government when they arrived from Cuba.

The Cubans surrendered unconditionally Friday after the shotless, bloodless revolt, then boarded landing vessels to take them away.

The final farewell turned into an emotional fiesta on the beaches at Nombre de Dios, once a haunt of pirates.

Godfrey received a few visitors, including his wife, Frances.

In the five-hour operation on Wednesday, surgeons removed part of Godfrey's left lung.

5 Badly Burned As Fire Engulfs Norwegian Ship

Flee Vancouver Homes In Fear of Big Blast

VANCOUVER (CP)—A battle-scarred freighter, reflooted after twice being sunk by the Germans during the Second World War, burst into an inferno of burning oil Friday at the entrance to Vancouver Harbor.

The Norwegian freighter Fernsulf and her 36-man crew survived. Five men were severely burned. Two were near death.

An explosion in the engine room shook the 7,500-ton ship as she steamed out of the harbor, bound for the Fraser River port of New Westminster to pick up a cargo of lumber.

RUPTURED BUNKER

Burning oil poured from a ruptured bunker tank that held some of the Fernsulf's 4,000 tons of fuel. Four crew members in the engine room were blazing oil and were taken ashore.

Capt. William Aicher ordered the 36 others aboard the ship as the oil burned fiercely, sending black smoke over Vancouver's north shore.

Residents in a half-mile area of the explosion were advised to evacuate their homes as the possibility of a gas explosion loomed.

But the threat of an explosion passed and a 17-man navy fire-fighting team boarded the ship. Tugboats sulle, was lowered into the burning hold and engine room. One fireman suffered slight burns.

TAKEN TO HOSPITAL

In hospital in critical condition were chief engineer Per Stalland and fireman Harold Larsen. Also injured were second engineer Leif Bybolt, oiler Alter Jorgensen and galley boy Jens Ragnar Hansen.

One by one the oil-blackened crew members, some with shreds of burned and blistered skin on their backs and shoulders, were put into ambulances and taken to hospital.

One ambulance attendant said: "We never saw anything like it. I reached out to grab one of them and pieces of skin fell in my hands."

Capt. Aicher said damage would run to at least $250,000.

President Tito Tells Secrets About Stalin

BELGRADE (AP) — President Tito says he had a grimmer time in Moscow during Stalin's purges than he had fighting during the Second World War.

In war, said Tito, one at least knows where his enemy is.

"I only read," said Tito, "I avoided discussions, because the NKVD (secret police) tapped all telephone conversations."

"Perhaps this astonishes," said Tito, "kept me from coming under Stalin's knife."

Tito said the atmosphere in Moscow was so oppressive that he was "constantly with hypnosis" when he returned to prison in Yugoslavia, although he had to live underground.

At least a hundred leading Yugoslav Reds died in Stalin's purges, said Tito.

Tito's comments on the Moscow purges were the first of this nature, although he has attacked Stalin frequently since breaking with the Kremlin in 1948.

NATO Council Told of West's Parley Plans

PARIS (Reuters) — Foreign Minister Maurice Couve de Murville briefed the council of the 15-nation Atlantic Pact permanent council on plans for forthcoming East-West talks.

The foreign affairs chiefs of Britain, the United States, France and West Germany announced at the end of a 16-day conference here Thursday they were in complete agreement on the plans.

But details of the policy and tactics the West has evolved for the Geneva Ministers' meeting with Russia in Geneva May 11 remain a closely-guarded secret.

This time the West is trying to reverse the tactical advantage which the Russians have had in past through prior publication of the West's plans and proposals.

The "common agreement" is understood to be on a "package" proposal of Germany and Scandinavian security which combines the views of the Western Big Four.

"We shall go to Geneva confident that we have achieved a position on the basis of which, if there is good will on both sides, a just and durable peace can be established in Europe."

DIVORCE SEEKERS UNDER ATTACK IN PARLIAMENT

Use Devious Ways To Get Decrees

OTTAWA (CP) — Some persons are trying to pull the wool over the eyes of Parliament in a new way, says the chairman of the Commons committee that handles divorce bills.

Robert McCleave (PC-Halifax) told the House Friday that he detects "a new switch on the motel and hotel type of case that has bothered Parliament for some years."

Now, instead of the same motels or hotels appearing in the names of many divorce cases before Parliament, "in each case the rendezvous has occurred in some young lady's apartment," he said. The same lawyers and detectives were involved in these cases.

"It seems to me that the people . . . who connive and contrive at these particular cases should be hit upon this new modus operandi to try to pull the wool over the eyes of members of the other place (Senate) and the members of this House of Commons."

Mr. McCleave said that another aspect of the cases was "a rather unpleasant odor about it" and that "particular consideration" by the private bills committee along with 11 other divorce bills was held up for special consideration.

NEW TWIST

Mr. Fulton recalled the Commons with details of another new twist in the cases of quasi-matrimony divorce for applicants from Quebec and Newfoundland, which have no matrimonial provincial divorce courts.

"Sometimes shortly after new has crept into the divorce practice . . . For the first time, the co-respondent in the case had the appearance of lady de-

Graham Still Draws Large Sydney Crowds

SYDNEY (AP)—Billy Graham continues to draw tens of thousands of people to his Australian crusade meetings and has become this year's top topic of conversation in this city.

Each night hundreds of people walk across the Sydney showground to gather round a dais as the American evangelist calls on the crowd to make "decisions for Christ."

Graham is scheduled to leave Australia May 31. He plans to go from here to Hong Kong and then go to the United States.

Mr. and Mrs. Graham are staying at the home of Australian Premier Robert Menzies.

Both packed-to-capacity afternoon and large number of "decisions" have been made at every one of the rallies in Sydney. How many different people have seen and heard Graham in Sydney and how many churchgoers have been among the "decisions" Australians who made "decisions?"

There is no clearcut answer to either question.

Govt. Appointment Could Bring Break With Congress

OTTAWA (CP)—A sharp break has developed in the normally peaceful relations between the federal government and the 1,000,000-member Canadian Labor Congress.

Indications are that a storm will blow up in the House next week over Labor Minister Starr's controversial appointment of Alastair F. MacArthur of Toronto as labor representative on the unemployment insurance commission.

In unprecedented moves, Congress President Claude Jodoin and Mr. Starr clubbed each other publicly with appointment.

The 45-year-old Mr. MacArthur, Canadian head of the Ontario Employees' International Union, was named by the government as the labor member of the commission despite CLC recommendations of three other labor officials, Mr. Jodoin charged political implications were involved.

The minister denied this and claimed Mr. Jodoin's chief objection was to dictate the appointee to a by-post and to force upon that rural unemployment insurance and the national employment service.

Mr. MacArthur said he has never been a member of the progressive Conservative party, was Mr. Jodoin claimed the minister had said.

Mr. Pearson called the appointment "shocking and disturbing."

Mr. Argue termed the circumstances of Mr. MacArthur's appointment "regrettable."

Mr. Starr refused to certain Mr. Argue or some member of his party will bring the scrap up in the Commons next week, when a general labor debate is due.

A CLC executive meeting occurred with the retirement of R. J. Tallon. There has been a loose understanding in the past that Canada's labor body picks the commission's union representative.

Other developments:

1. The CLC announced its nominees on the nine-member UIC advisory committee are quitting. They are George Burt of Winnipeg, head of the Auto Workers in Canada, and Andy Andras, chief of the CLC's legislative department.

2. Jean Marchand of Quebec City, secretary general of the Canadian and Catholic Confederation of Labor, was also reported resigning.

3. The fourth labor member of the commission, Guy McLean of the railroad unions, said he will consult with his group before acting.

Meanwhile, the influential conservative Ottawa Journal reported with the toughest language directed against a Starr appointment since the neutral labor body in many a year.

It is apart from out of the blue. Mr. MacArthur is a former president of the Ontario Federation of Labor between 1946 and 1956—and highly capable. Apart from that he has never had another distinction in that he once was bounced by Starr from the top Canadian job in the teamsters' union.

He told a reporter he had no knowledge that the congress president was going to oppose his appointment. In fact, he said, he had been in the headquarters

NEW DELHI (CP)—Communists here believe India's Communist party is changing its attitude to China's cause in the Tibetan affairs, may have already suffered a big loss of prestige among the Indian people.

Such a loss, it is said, could go a long way towards nullifying the goodwill the party has created for itself in India's large-scale economic assistance to India.

The party's parliamentary representation is not necessarily so accurate indication of its real strength in the country, say observers. Already the party is in power in one state, Kerala. Its full potential is said to be measurable only when it has the powerful appeal to India's illiterate and poverty-stricken masses.

The Tibetan episode the party found itself completely isolated from most of the leftists whose soul went out to the people of Tibet.

There was a matter on which the entire country felt one way and the Communists another," Mrs. Lakshmi Menon, deputy minister for external affairs, told the House of Parliament. "People now say, 'now we know what the Communists are like.'"

The Communist, led by S. A. Dange, 59, not only went down the line with China's repression policy in Tibet; it also, by implication, pronged the integrity of Prime Minister Nehru by issuing a statement endorsing Peking's contention that Kalimpong was the commanding centre of the Tibetan rebellion. Earlier the prime minister had denied it.

OTTAWA (CP)—A new irritating factor has appeared in Canadian-American economic relations, Canadian exporters have been told, since suspension of operations of a disgruntled Canadian shrimp supplier's complaints.

It was disclosed Friday that the United States imposed a ban on the use of U.S. highways by trucks using U.S. highways to carry imports of Communist China origin, or cargoes other Chinese foods between British Columbia and eastern Canada.

Authorities said the ban was imposed against four Canadian trucking firms and one U.S. trucking firm operating in the traffic imperilled U.S. national security.

Shipments said a Montreal supplier of frozen shrimp asked the U.S. to embargo the entry of trading laws after low - priced frozen shrimp from Red China, imported via Vancouver, began showing up in eastern Canadian markets.

John Magee, executive secretary of the Canadian Trucking Associations, said in Ottawa Friday Brownlee, Progressive Conservative, Peace River, the ban was way, described the ban as a breach of American obligations under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade.

Both pacts bound us to abide by the GATT which says a member country must allow freedom of transit to carriers in the shipment of goods to another member country.

Mr. Browne said he has been informed the American ban was imposed under article 21 of the GATT, allowing any member to restrict trade in imports if these threatened national security.

Both Mr. Browne and Mr. Magee said they have protested the action to U.S. embassy authorities, but have not yet had any

Arrive in Panama City As Captives in 8 Buses

NOMBRE DE DIOS, Panama (Reuters)—Bearded Cuban revolutionaries laid down their arms, kissed the girls goodbye in this "liberated" village and clogged highway into the setting sun to end Panama's abortive revolt.

They left behind Friday a trail of cheers and tears from the inhabitants of this straw-thatched village they sought to liberate from the Panamanian government when they arrived from Cuba.

The Cubans surrendered unsensationally Friday after the shotless, bloodless revolt, then boarded landing vessels to take them away.

The final farewell turned into an emotional fiesta on the beach at Nombre de Dios, once a haunt of pirates.

LOVE AFFAIR

Five adventurers refused to follow their leader at the last moment and took to the hills. Later they were rounded up.

By the time the first of two columns of buses left the village shorewards the revolutionaries were already under arrest. Scores in the local port office and were waiting to leave.

Many villagers hugged, kissed and shook hands with the Cubans and girls clung to their "liberators." Some had to be carried and left with them aboard the landing barges.

As the barges pulled away the Cubans sang Guerra Mambisa, the song of Cuba's leader Fidel Castro's revolutionary army—which many villagers gathered on the beach.

As a parting shot the invaders, technically prisoners of the Panamanian authorities, yelled "Viva Panama."

Panamanian National Guard troops disembarked from their landing craft later but the Panamanian flag flew once again atop the white flagpole in the village square.

Mr. Reid also was one of four students to receive a General Proficiency Award.

Now at the Kew Beach Church in Toronto, he is also acting pastor for the United Church at Calstorville.

Must Register At County Level Members Told

Operation of the Ontario Hospital Services Commission and how municipalities can participate in obtaining coverage for unemployables and relief recipients was explained to members of Hastings County council at the Friday sitting of their spring session.

Local municipalities were told that they could no longer restrict their unemployables or relief recipients with the commission, but that registration must be done at the county level. Clauses in the municipal act make it permissible if the county and local welfare officials proceed in co-operation.

It was pointed out that whether the county took on the registration was a member own decision although they were advised the plan would save them money.

Accordingly the required motion was later passed by council allowing the county to inaugurate the hospital services registration plan.

Tyendinaga Reserve Band Can Now Spend Own Money

OTTAWA (CP) — A band of 1,850 Mohawks near Belleville, is the first Indian band in Canada able to spend its own money.

The new-found freedom for the Tyendinaga band, which has a 17,142-acre Tyendinaga Reserve was announced by the citizenship department.

The band's five-member council will now get annual cheques from its own bank account to cover spending from band funds. Accounts of other Indian bands are held in trust, and accounts are paid by the federal treasury from band funds on requisitions from the bands' councils.

The Tyendinaga band has gained its financial freedom under a 1951 revision of the Indian Act, which requires only that the council's annual budget be submitted to the immigration minister for approval in principle.

Its revenues come mainly from timber, reserve lands and from government-paid interest on band trust funds.

Odd Fellows Induct 14 New Members

The Odd Fellows' Lodge Hall in Bellefonte was filled to overflowing at the last regular meeting.

After the regular meeting degree captain Dr. Beatty and his efficient team exemplified the 14 new candidates, nine from Picton, one from Springbrook, three from Bellefonte and one from Cobourg a good insight into the teachings of Friendship.

Brief messages were given to the lodge by Rev. George McDonald, D.D.G.M.; H. Mumby, D.D.G.M. of the Picton No. 43; John Bristol, immediate past D.D.G.M.; Dr. Beatty of Madoc, the three Past Grands of Picton, Cobourg, Stirling and Marmora Lodges, and acting Noble Grand of the degree team, Bro. Leslie Blakely.

Bro. George McDonald had the pleasure of bestowing on Bro. Frank Chesher a 50-year jewel. Bro. Chesher joined Belleville Lodge on June 27, 1907.

Later, the brothers assembled in the banquet hall on the third floor where refreshments were served.

Last Sunday Belleville Lodge No. 81 held its annual district church parade to Wesleyan St. United Church, accompanied by the Canton from this district and Bro. Pierce's band, and the Rebekahs of Quinte and Belleville Lodge No. 123.

Picton Odd Fellow Band has accepted the honor of playing for a luncheon and parade of the Pittsburgh Lodge in Pittsburg, Penn., on the 13th of June and will represent the Odd Fellows Lodges of Ontario.

PLANT SITE PICKED

TORONTO (CP) — A $950,000 plant for the production of "instant potatoes" is to be built this year in Alliston, 30 miles northwest of Toronto, the Ontario Parliamentary Committee on Agriculture Growers Association announced Thursday. Construction of the plant for Salada-Sherriff-Horsey was scheduled to start today. Growers have been signed for tuber potatoes and processing should start by September.

Quinte Branch Report Given Ontario CARS

A report of the Quinte Branch of the Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society was presented by Mr. Enos David of this city, at the annual meeting of the Ontario Division at Toronto and received high praise from the president of the Society, Mr. R. Burns Lind, of Toronto.

Mr. David's report indicated that the Belleville branch was one of the most active in the Ontario Division. The report showed that there were 58 patients in Belleville and district treated; total visits were 119; necessitating travelling of the mobile unit of 3,035 miles.

Mrs. Enos David submitted a glowing report of the splendid work being accomplished by the Women's Auxiliary, which was organized in the Quinte district and which already has proved a tower of support to the unit and a blessing to the patients in its care.

ONTARIO PLANS

This is the tenth anniversary of the establishment of the Ontario Division and plans for the expansion of the Society were also formulated at the meeting. These plans will result in more efficient service for the Quinte district and include:

1—A campaign for more aggressive attack through research on the causes and cure of arthritis and the rheumatic diseases. This campaign will be provincewide and will commence on May 1st, not yet served by the society.

2—Development of regional rheumatism centres and the provision of special beds in selected hospitals for the treatment of referred patients from all parts of the province — the first centre to be established will be made by a centrol panel of physicians from the most urgent of these cases.

3—The supply of special equipment and facilities for treatment of these cases, beyond standard ward care available through hospitalization insurance. It is estimated the establishment of the provincial centres will cost $1,000 per bed per year.

4—Establishment of travelling consultant services for selected areas, where there services are not otherwise available.

Plans are now under way to establish a regional organization in Quinte, in Kingston to supervise the work of the branches in the district. Branches that will include the local branch and should result in better service being given to the out-lying districts for which a regional office is maintained in Kingston. An essential element of this scheme is that referred patients will receive the admission to such centres regardless of their place of residence.

The Quinte branch of the society has been organized only a very few years, but in that time its work has expanded very considerably in the district and it has brought relief and hope to hundreds of sufferers throughout the surrounding area including Prince Edward County, Trenton and Picton.

The Canadian Arthritis and Rheumatism Society is a voluntary health agency operating in 8 provinces of the country. There are at present 14 branches in Ontario. Each branch serves a wide community with a fully equipped mobile unit in charge of a specially trained physiotherapist who administers treatments to the bed-bound patients, prescribed by the attending physician. This involves considerable travelling and the demand has become so great the plan is now being devised whereby central treatment centres are to be established in some areas to which patients can be transported for treatments. This enables the physiotherapist to treat more patients by eliminating travelling time.

At present there are many communities requesting the establishment of branches and the expansion of the Society's services has been compelled by the fact that there is a great shortage of physiotherapists, both in Canada and abroad.

The Quinte branch is a participant in the Belleville United Appeal. At the annual meeting Mr. David spoke of the splendid assistance he had received from the city through United Appeal.

Stolen Truck Found Upset In Moira River

A late model sedan delivery stolen from the Canadian Hotel parking lot was found on the top in the Moira River this morning where it apparently had been driven over a 20-foot river embankment at the Eastlege Street and west of Canniff on Road.

The badly damaged vehicle was discovered in the river at about 2.30 this morning.

Police were unable to say whether the vehicle had been driven intentionally into the river or whether it had gone over the embankment accidentally. The rear door of the delivery was open with the vehicle resting in about four feet of water.

Later this morning the vehicle was lifted out of the river bed by derrick.

Scouting activities

BY CHRIS LEGGAT

ST. MICHAEL'S ANNUAL BANQUET

Once again the ladies of the 3rd proved their love for Scouts by serving a wonderful turkey dinner to a hundred boys and fathers. Gleaming silver candlesticks with green and white candles, the group's colors, small tents and flowers gave a festive air to the beautifully laid tables.' Just to say "thanks you" seems inadequate but Cub Jim Black did a good job of expressing the appreciation of the gathering to Mrs. Callahan and the auxiliary.

The toast to the fathers was proposed by Scout Jack Murphy. Father McGee in a brilliant, humorous, but all too brief speech, welcomed the fathers and explained the Scout motto ever, Floyd Crawford, captain of the World Champion Belleville Mics.

Floyd held everybody spellbound telling of the adventures of the "Mics" from the take-off at Melton on February 1st, to Glasgow via New York, and then to the European countries where they played. The trip by Canadian Pacific Airlines was so bad it was difficult to see the puck and the "Mics" were subjected to considerable embarrassment but they played to a draw.

COMMAND PERFORMANCE

The King of Norway was present when they played at Oslo, The Royal box had 1,000 seats and 12,000 spectators stood to watch the game as was command performance. Sweden they played 15 games in 18 days. Stockholm is a modern city with subways and very good hotels. The people were most hospitable and all keen hockey fans. International Ice Hockey rules governed all games. Young and vigorous Finns played them at Helsinki and after the tiring order of Sweden were not easy to beat. It was here that the team received to Canadian hockey rules for a change, which was not too popular with the fans. The Russian Press publicized this very unsatisfactory and strange Floyd Crawford suggested that in future a Canadian Public Relations man accompany the teams so that the games would be reported in their proper light. As mentioned, for many they made a difficult landing in dense fog. The army attended the games and were all good boosters.

SUNNY ITALY

A delightful interlude was enjoyed by the team when they visited the beautiful resort town of Sorrento, Italy. Here they stayed and finally Prague for the tournament games where 15,000 spectators filled the arena to watch the games thousands more outside just to get a glimpse of the Canadians. All well conditioned men trained at the time and Prague was in attendance watching their diet.

They were amazed at the apparent lack of training of the Belleville team. Maybe they were too well trained because unexpected games seemed to puzzle them, giving an edge to the Canadians. The Canadian flag and the playing of "O Canada" were tremendous thrills. Belleville Mics are grateful to Belleville citizens and their many supporters for giving them the opportunity to make this wonderful tour.

Scout John Halloran thanked the speaker for taking us to the many interesting places the team visited. Floyd delivered his talk in such an easy and confidential manner that we all know a lot more about hockey and Europe than we did before.

IN MEMORIAM

DOUCET. — In loving memory of a dear daughter, Claire Doucet, who passed away suddenly at the Kingston General Hospital, May 2nd, 1958.
We are sad within our memory,
Lonely are our hearts today;
For the one we loved so dearly,
Has forever been called away.
We think of her in silence,
No one can see our tears;
What caused her death we shed,
When sisters leave their years.
—Ever remembered, sadly missed, too, Mother.

DOUCET. — In loving memory of dear friend, Claire Doucet, who passed away May 2nd, 1958.
Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory, and sad true;
For the love we bore your memory,
Only those who miss can know.
—Lovingly remembered by Betty and Jack Hodgson.

OSTROM. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mary Elizabeth Ostrom, who passed away May 1, 1958.
We mourn for her in silence,
Our hearts are sore and sad,
But were a silent tear is shed,
Our memory are sweet.
—Sadly missed by sons Clarence and Alexander.

OSTROM. — In loving memory of a dear mother, Mary Elizabeth Ostrom, who passed away May 1, 1958.
There is sad but sweet remembrance,
There is pain but not despair,
There is a token of affection,
And a heartache still for you.
—Sadly missed by daughter Jean, son-in-law Dave and grandson.

ELLIOTT. — In loving memory of our dear mother, Mary J. Gilmany passed away May 2nd, 1957.
What would we give her hand to hold,
Her patient face to see;
To hear her voice and her smile,
As in the days that used to be.
But memory will treat us kindly,
Beyond the toil and strife,
We'll meet you dear Mother and speak again,
In heaven that hope will be.
—Always remembered by daughter Ethel and May and sons Ralph and Percy.

CARDS OF THANKS

The family of the late Ella Maude Reid wish to express their appreciation for kindnesses shown and acts of kindness of neighbors, friends and relatives during their recent bereavement in the loss of a loving mother and grandmother, also for special thanks to the Rowe funeral home for their services.

Tariff Board To Review Duties On Electronics

OTTAWA (CP) — The tariff board will embark soon on the first review in 20 years of the duty Canada assesses on radio, television and other electronic equipment.

Last studied in 1939, the duty now varies from zero to a rate of 20 per cent of an item's value. The board announced Friday, however, that Finance Minister Fleming has asked it to recommend any changes its investigations might indicate are necessary.

The review, requested by various Canadian firms in the industry, was originally ordered in 1957 by the then Liberal finance minister, Walter Harris.

OTHER PERMISSION

The pressure of other tariff business kept the board from getting at it, however, and even now it is expected to delve into the main task until the fall.

Mr. Fleming asked the board to go ahead as soon as possible with a study of the duty rate on automatic record-changers and make a separate report.

Board officials said a hearing on this aspect likely will begin before summer but other items would not come up until later.

REVISED SCHEDULE

The minister's letters to the board declaring that it had public hearings on the matter said the industry requested revision of tariff items affecting radio, television and electronic items to take into account developments since the tariff board reported on the radio industry in 1938.

"If the board's studies should indicate that amendments to the customs tariff are desirable, I would request the board to prepare a revised schedule of tariff items, with recommendations as to rates of duty, and to include the proposed schedule in its report," Mr. Fleming wrote.

Estimate County Expenditures At $1,064,545 With Rate Of 6.68 Mills Set by Council

For the second year in succession the operation of Hastings County is a million dollar business. It was noted yesterday at the Shire Hall as members struck up the business of their spring session.

County expenditures for the year are estimated at $1,064,545.44 with a general tax rate of 6.68 mills being set by council. The county road levy for those municipalities within the county road system is set at seven mills.

The county by-law last year called for a millrate of 6.13 mills, but road expenditures this year are up slightly and as result of annexation the county will collect four additional million dollars less assessment than last year.

Big expenditure for the year is the road by-law totalling $325,000 with other big expenditures being the county home and farm, $188,000; children's aid society and prevention of cruelty, $28,000; high schools $60,690.36; jail salaries $40,000; jail supplies and food, $12,500; Crown Attorney $13,000; indigent hospitalization, $37,000 and county administration allotted at $19,000.

Debentures for the county home will cost $13,011.18.

REPAIRS NECESSARY

With councillors turning down the proposed construction of a new courthouse, repairs to the present building will be necessary and for this purpose and to get architects' plans for the new courthouse an amount of $75,000 has been provided.

It was pointed out that architects' fees of more than $30,000 must be provided for even though the project does not proceed with the building. The plans for the new building belong to the county, however, and may be used at any future date should the county decide to go ahead with the courthouse.

However, the city of Belleville and the town of Trenton will pay part of the $75,00 estimated for courthouse repairs and architects' fees. The amount to be received from Belleville and Trenton for this purpose is set at $32,250.

Estimate of other revenues to be received by the county include $28,000 from Belleville for fees enforcement; $18,000 from Trenton for the same purpose; $130,000 under public welfare for the county home; provincial subsidy for the county home $40,000; indigent hospitalization, $21,000; child welfare and aid to unemployables $15,000.

Dominion government grant in lieu of taxes, $16,000; registry offices $7,000, subsidy and suburban road receipts $201,-209.80; debenture, county bonds, $12,011.13; education levy, $82,-499.36; road levy — 7 mills, $165,-000; transfer from surplus for working capital, $15,000 and general levy — 6.68 mills, $298,-545.44.

TURNS DOWN REQUEST

In ways and means council turned down a request from the Children's Aid Society for a $750 grant increase for prevention of cruelty work, setting the grant at the same figure as last year $3,000.

A grant of $200 was voted for the Madoc and Tourist Association with grants of $150 each for county fairs, $300 for the Belleville Fair, and $250 for the British Empire Cheese Show being approved.

Also approved was a $125 grant for the Ottawa Winter Show.

An advance of $500 was approved for the county plowing match committee, this to be used in defraying expense in connection with preparation for the 1961 International Plowing Match to be held there.

Council passed a resolution calling for the Hastings County Home committee to give consideration to an addition to accommodation of up to 50 beds for the County Home. Reason given for the resolution was that crowded conditions in hospitals would make old people's home accommodation more necessary.

Also passed by council as result of lengthy discussion on what was claimed an unfair distribution of mining grants, was a recommendation asking the province for clarification of the present formula used in the distribution of such grants.

Several councillors from municipalities where mining grants were received, claimed the formula was such that more money was paid out than was received.

CAN APPEAL

County Assessor Cecil Geen noted however regulations allow municipalities to appeal against the amount of mining grant assessment for high school educational purposes.

But opposed to this was Councillor Max Mawson of Limerick who cited an example of how mining operations in other municipalities created a financial obligation in his area. He noted that as result of mining operations in other municipalities, the township of Limerick had one tenant sending one child to high school.

However, as result of the influx of mining population in the same high school area a large high school addition was necessary and his municipality was charged on an assessment basis with a share of the cost.

"Do you suppose that we will sit by and see a mining municipality have its mining grant for assessment reduced?" he asked.

Among by-laws passed at the session was one setting up a pension scheme for salaried county employees.

Potato Prices Increased on Local Market

Rain slowed up business at this morning's market although fair crowds were to be had at the indoor market from time to time. Potato prices rose this week. Priced below $2. for the 75-lb. bag last week, table potatoes were selling at $2.25 and $2.50 at dwellings at $2.60 a bag. Apple prices were pretty much the same; from 60 to 70 cents a basket depending on the variety. Pears were still available at 75 cents a basket.

Turnips and cabbages were selling from 10 cents to 25 cents a piece depending on size.

Many potted plants were available for transplanting including anything from cabbage plants to Christmas trees. Geraniums and other rooted flowers were available as well for around 85 cents a plant. Balsam trees were selling between $2.50 and $5.00 depending on size.

Egg prices varied from 48-50 cents the dozen for extra large, 43-45 cents for large, and 40 cents for medium. Chickens were priced at 50 cents a pound. Maple syrup varied between $5.75 and $6.00 a gallon. Collie pups were available for $2. apiece.

Labor Council Backs IWA in Newfoundland

TRENTON — The Trenton and District Labour Council held its second meeting in support of the International Woodworkers of America and their fight in Newfoundland, on Tuesday in the Quinteaylo hotel. There were present at this meeting representatives of local unions from as far north as Campbellford. The locals endorsed the plan of the Canadian Labour Congress to collect $1 from each and every member of Canada, and it was found that many local unions in this district had already started this collection. Further plans were made to approach the M.P.s in the surrounding constituencies requesting that they use their influence in parliament for the disallowance of bills recently passed by the Government of Newfoundland.

Heavy Agenda For Traffic Committee Meet

TRENTON — Eric Alderson, town engineer was named secretary of the Trenton Traffic Committee at the regular meeting of the group held in the office of Chief of Police Jack Taylor on Thursday.

In previous years the police chief had been the secretary and the town councillor who is appointed to the committee acts as chairman. This year it is councillor Lloyd Weese.

At their meeting the committee members made various recommendations concerning traffic problems and these will be presented to council for approval.

At Thursday's meeting the committee discussed the "drive-up-to" mail box, which has been approved by the town council to be placed on Murphy Street between Elgin and Wharf Street, Dundas Street. They will investigate the matter further with the Trenton Postmaster.

The meeting also discussed means of increasing the metered parking spaces in the Market Square. It was felt that more room could be found within this area and be properly metered.

They also recommended that the curb on the west side of the town bridge be done on days other than the weekend or holidays when pleasure traffic is at its height. Jack Tatham of the Tatham Construction Company has agreed to co-operate with the police in the installation on this matter and will discuss plans with the town engineer before doing any work on the bridge which could hinder traffic.

A letter from the Department of Transport was read at the meeting concerning some changes they have suggested in the position of traffic lights in Trenton. The department made certain recommendations on all the lights after a member of their department had visited Trenton and discussed the situation.

The town now has traffic lights on four intersections.

April Colder Than Last Year

Evidence this has been a long winter is provided by the fact that during April of this year 1.6 inches of snow fell, while none of the "white stuff" fell during the same month last year.

Weather statistics for April released by the local Pump House today show that some what lower temperatures and more rainfall were prevalent last month.

A maximum of 86 was reached during April '59, while a maximum of 77.5 was reached during the same period last year. Minimum temperatures were the same, going as low as 24. This averaged out to a mean of 44.1 for April '59 as compared with a mean of 48.6 for April '58.

A total of 2.26 inches of rain, and 1.6 inches of snow fell over the area last month bringing the total precipitation to 3.86 as compared with a total of 2.19 inches over the same period last year.

Senate Unlikely To Move Censure Of Wayne Morse

WASHINGTON (AP)—The possibility appeared remote today for any Senate censure of Democratic Senator Wayne Morse of Oregon. The Senate has been in controversy that led Clare Boothe Luce to quit as ambassador to Brazil.

Republican leaders indicated privately they want no part of a proposal by Senator Homer Capehart (Rep. Ind.) that the Senate officially reprimand Morse for inquiring of Mrs. Luce's physician about the health of her received psychiatric treatment.

Influential Democrats laughed off the Capehart suggestions as just another stanza in the running feud between the Indiana Republican and the Oregon Democrat.

Mrs. Luce's decision not to accept the appointment brought quick reaction among senators of approval and regret.

CLC STATEMENT

President Jodoin, in his statement accused Mr. Starr of "distorted actions." He criticized him for:

2. Putting in someone who he suggested was a political selection.

3. Violating the law by not consulting with labor on an appointment to the commission.

Council Passes Rabies By-Law

A rabies by-law providing for partial indemnity to farmers for the loss of livestock through rabies, was passed yesterday by Hastings county council.

The by-law would see the federal and provincial governments each pay 40 per cent of the value of animals lost by rabies with the county to pay the remaining 20 per cent. The by-law covers cattle, horses, sheep, goats and swine.

Former reeve of Tweed, T. W. Graham, was named as livestock valuator for the county, his remuneration to be $10 per day and 10 cents per mile for his car.

EXCURSION TO BANCROFT

Want to travel to Bancroft by train?

We suspect that the response of most Belleville citizens to such an invitation would be something less than wild enthusiasm, but a week from Sunday people from as far away as Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Detroit and New England points, as well as many from Montreal and Toronto, will gather in Belleville to make such a journey.

As the reader will have guessed, something new has been added to make this excursion by train so attractive. The train will be drawn by two steam locomotives, with "one of the few Moguls still operating in Canada" coupled ahead of a Consolidated-type loco.

That the prospect of such a journey should arouse widespread interest is a measure of the extent to which railroads on this continent have progressed in switching from steam to diesel power. The trip is being sponsored by the Canadian Railroad Historical Association of Montreal in co-operation with the Upper Canada Railway Society of Toronto. "Enjoy a friendly chat with fellow 'steam' enthusiasts during a trip through picturesque country over a branch line seldom visited by railfans," reads the poster announcing the trip. The same point, in greater detail, is made by A. S. Wallbridge, trip committeeman, in an accompanying letter to this newspaper. "The primary purpose of the trip," explains Mr. Wallbridge, "is to give people, who enjoy railroading as a hobby, an opportunity to ride and photograph a steam-powered train. - - - The secondary purpose of the trip is to provide funds for our association to purchase ancient rolling stock from railroads and street car lines which is being discarded in the march of progress. We hope to establish eventually a rail museum in Montreal, as has been done in several other cities in America."

The train will leave Belleville May 10, at 7.45 a.m., daylight time, making a leisurely trip to Anson and Bancroft and will return via Trenton Junction, arriving in Belleville about 7.10 p.m. each train will be made up of all American and Canadian steel cars. Tickets, $8 for adults and $4 for "junior rail fans 5-11 years" can be obtained only from: Passenger Agent, Canadian Railroad Historical Association, P.O. Box 22, Station B, Montreal.

Oh, by the way, Mr. Wallbridge says that "the lead locomotive, Number 90" was "a familiar scene in Belleville for some years."

WISDOM AND PESSIMISM

"This old are more pessimistic than the young for the reason that wisdom comes with age," says the Sudbury Star.

And yet it seems to us that it would be a grave error to interpret this observation as a declaration that wisdom and pessimism are synonymous.

The optimism of the young is seldom justified and the pessimism of the old generally proves well founded but often this is because youth's optimism is so wild and the pessimism of age so frequently tempered by kindness.

If we were to look at the other side of the picture, we should discover that the pessimistic youth is generally as far from the truth as his optimistic colleagues. For time seems to have a habit of dissipating the illusions so frequently offers solace to the gloomy. The depression did end and most of those who lived through it today possess all those things which they once despaired of owning - - all except the youth which would have enabled them to enjoy these possessions to the full. The war, too, came to an end and the peoples of the world either escaped the suffering they feared or emerged from the woes they had experienced. If the prettiest girl on the street did not transport her sweetheart to heaven after saying yes, neither did she doom the rejected to everlasting hell.

As for the pessimism of age, one of the reasons why it is pessimistic is that the aged have so little time left. Those who are not merely wise enough to be pessimistic about their own future but also wise enough to concern themselves with the future of others with more years in store have often expressed optimistic views and often, in the past, this optimism has proven justified. Today's young optimist may lack wisdom, but the old optimist may be the wisest man of all.

READY CUSTOMERS

Joe Trueday, the Parliament Hill masseur, says there should be a gymnasium established for members of the House of Commons and Senate. After the way some of them engage in somersaults, shadow-boxing and fancy footwork, they would seem to be ready customers for such an institution—Halifax Chronicle-Herald.

OPPORTUNITIES

By EDGAR A. GUEST

What opportunities have you?
A thousand to be blind
To trifling wrongs your neighbors do;
A thousand to be kind.
A helping hand you could stretch out
A hundred times a day
To weaker brothers round about
You as you go your way.
And you could praise your brother more
And let him share your cheer
And oftener seek the sick man's door
To cheer him up'awhile.
A thousand opportunities
Surround you every day
Which, if you have the will to seize,
Will brighter make your way.
And opportunities there are
For you to check the word
That spoken, some one's heart may scar
And wound where it is heard.
It makes no difference what your process
Nor whatsoe'er your plan,
You've opportunities to prove
Each day that you're a man.

Deseronto Days 1919-1932

Written expressly for The Ontario Intelligencer
by HARRY M. MOORE

ARTICLE 16

By 1923 the printing plant of The Deseronto Post was most unlike what it was when we bought it in January, 1919. Hand composition had made way for machine composition, the "big" press had been scrapped and so were a people of job presses, new type faces now filled the cases for the advertising and the job printing. All the plant lacked was a folder but where to place it, if we had purchased one, was beyond us to figure out. In any event the plant was now capable of turning out most anything required in the printing line.

It was about that time we decided that Canada needed one to be more exact Canadian writers needed, a magazine of their own. W. J. (Bill) Taylor some years previously had started Rod and Gun as a four-page folder in Tweed, later taking it to Woodstock where it was then and about the time we refer to Rod and Gun had a circulation of around 30,000, the country's leading outdoors magazine.

Of course our magazine would not be like the Taylor publication. This was to be for writers, Canadian writers, for those writers who showed promise and as we had no magazine of their own, no market for their products.

There was a lot of preparation. The magazine would be called The Canadian Author, the name had to be protected by law, mailing privileges must be obtained and the right must be advertised in the big U.S. publications and other matters had to be looked after before the first issue went to press.

All the necessary publishing preparations having been made, the first issue (British and the Ontario News Company to handle the distribution and in this way Canadian Stories did secure distribution of a sort from coast to coast.

Thus it came about that every month dozens of mail sacks packed with copies of Canadian Stories were delivered to Deseronto's postmaster James Fairbairn for delivery to the news companies.

Our mail grew in volume, for Canada had at that time a large numbers of young writers who were trying to break a market. And not all these writers were in the young class. We had a letter from many who were already established and were already selling their output.

Manuscripts poured in from these country, not only from the United States although U.S. manuscripts were not wanted), but they came from New Zealand and other European countries. And by no means was the best material submitted, accepting only the best in our opinion, and to some editors that was the best straw. However, we did uncover many promising writers and gave them a break if we could. We received one manuscript in particular that should have been written by a London Ont., wife and mother, who had been known to us many years before as a poetess — and a good one. We pointed out the weakness of the story submitted, told her how to improve it, and that if not all that same young lady one year later was recognized in the USA as having written the best short story of the year.

DISAPPOINTING RETURNS

As the months passed and returns from the sale of Canadian stories did not show any improvement, we decided that we had evidently "backed up the wrong tree." Further we now realized that writers like others, can at times be difficult to deal with. Out of the thousands of manuscripts reaching us there were many which deserved little more than a brief glance. Such writers had not learned their trade, they had just dashed off something which in their own opinion was a story but which was not worth the reading.

And so the day came when we decided that Canadian Stories had made a fair try, but the costs of production with little coming in, in the matter of returns, were taking the joy out of continuing it — for after all Rod and Gun was our first love (magazine) go.

The final issue was on the press and then we had a letter from Toronto — the Toronto Writers' Club — informing us that at a meeting a few nights before, the club, all 400 members, had decided to make Canadian Stories their official magazine, that the membership fee $400, or one dollar per member, would be in the mails in a few days.

But, then, of course, the die had been cast, the magazine was the on the press, "official notice" was appearing in the issue then on the press.

Now had that Toronto letter arrived a few days sooner there was no reason why Canadian Stories would have continued for a while longer and yet it would not have been long while because as you will recall the depression of 1929 — 1930 — when the bottom fell out of everything.

College Men Suicide-Prone

Alma of Industry

University students are more suicide-prone than other young people, and the greater the university (academically speaking) the higher the suicide rate. This is the finding of Dr. Alan Rook, senior health officer at a British university (the establishment is not identified), writing in the British Medical Journal.

At Cambridge and Oxford, and in the United States at Yale, for example, suicide comes next to accidental death as the most common cause of death. The nearness of the figure is due to many suicides being passed off as accidents. Oxford or Cambridge, have highly ambitious parents who "expect much of their children" —or, at least, the children believe they do. The students, therefore, ask too much of themselves, thus creating mental stress.

The second is that the competition for places is more intense and that the "difficulties of entry, when they are surmounted, lead in some cases to exaggerated hopes, which are doomed to disappointment."

Another factor is fear of examinations.

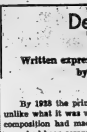
Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

REVIVAL

Churches are crowded to overflowing today. Religious books sell in unprecedented numbers. Articles on religion are eagerly read by millions.

Anyone who carefully examines the situation would say that we are evidently experiencing a religious revival. There is a tremendous interest in religion, but instead of bringing the blessings of a religious revival is something else again. Certainly there is a wide-spread interest in religion, but we are far from having a revival.



There are many reasons why a religious revival is not taking place, but we can say with confidence that probably the chief of these is that, by and large, people are not willing to repent. Jesus began His teaching by saying "repent ye, for the Kingdom of God is at hand." Early apostles preached repentance unto life.

To repent means to change one's mind. It means more than being sorry for one's sins; it means forsaking these sins and thereafter taking an attitude of hatred and aversion toward them. And today people give very little evidence of repentance. They think they can be religious without going through the experience of repentance.

But to try to do so is futile. There can be no true religion with the call to repentance. The Christian who begins there and nowhere else.

Lake fishing is off to a better start than usual, according to local residents now engaged in the first season's netting off the south shore of Prince Edward County, and lifts of trout have been a little heavier. Fishing returns however, in the Bay of Quinte have been disappointingly light.

Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Hurck arrived yesterday to take up residence in the city. Mr. Hurck has joined the staff of the Thomas C. Thompson Funeral Country, and will reside on Everett Street.

Judge G. E. and Mrs. Deacon are have returned to the city after spending the winter months in Lakeland, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Baptie, formerly of Delora, Ont., are taking up residence in the Mayfair apartments in Ottawa.

Mrs. G. E. McMillan, Buffalo, N. Y., was called to the city on Sunday owing to the illness of her sister, Mrs. Geo. T. Woodley.

Mr. Angus Robertson, Montreal, was the overnight guest of his sister, Mrs. A. B. Collins during a brief visit to the city.

Consumers of gas in this city will soon have the finest fuel obtainable, The Gazette announces. The new plant, decided upon three years ago by the city council, is now near to put into operation by July. Of gas now manufactured in the neighborhood of $190,000 and when completed the price of gas will be materially decreased and the debentures, which will be issued, should be easily retired in due course. The manager of the plant is William Harden. Yesterday several members of the Chamber of Commerce inspected the plant and were favorably impressed.

The fire originated in the centre building and spread to the adjoining structures. In the buildings were stored yachts, sails, fishing and camping outfit. Jack Rathbun lost a valuable steam launch and camping outfit; S. Bongard lost a valuable steel skiff and considerable fishing equipment: William Zufelt lost two skiffs and camping outfit; F. C. Milliver lost sails, fishing tackle and camping outfit; John Conn lost a skiff and three tents; F. C. Sharpe lost some sails and camping outfit. Proud Parent Lauds Cantata Presentation

Editor,
Ontario Intelligencer

We returned home Thursday evening from the Belleville Collegiate full of joy and pride.

A cantata, "Hiawatha's Wedding Feast," presented by the combined choirs of the Belleville Public schools, was the occasion.

We are proud of our city's children.

As a parent, I would like to say "Thank You", to the teachers, for their untiring efforts and devoted time.

We are very grateful that our children have had the opportunity of learning, performing, and giving of themselves.

Ruth Cook.

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

SOME PEOPLE ARE TROUBLED BY INABILITY TO SWEAT

"Dear Dr. Molner: I would appreciate information on the subject of 'dry sweat pores,' or in plain words the problem of not being able to sweat. My husband has had this for the last two summers. He has had care from two leading dermatologists, but the pills, lotions and salves have not helped. In cold weather he is at peace, but could you help us so he can stay that way during the summer?

—Mrs. H.B."

"P.S.: How can anyone be so irritable because of this? Age and occupation of the patient are not given in this letter. Even if I knew these, it's not likely that I could do any more than two dermatologist already have.

This inability to sweat adequately is not a common problem; its treatment is difficult. Sometimes people are born that way. Others acquire the condition. The condition can be partial or complete. In Mr. B.'s case we know the trouble came on only in the last couple of summers.

It can be from a weakening of the glands in the skin, or it can be complete degeneration of the gland structure.

In the above letter (which I shortened some) the trouble has been ascribed to nerves. That is one possible cause. The 'sympathetic nervous system' controls perspirability, as does our wish or will is concerned. We break out in a sweat from fright, anxiety, warm weather.

Again, skin diseases may be responsible. Take ichthyosis or ichthyiosis which is the skin becomes coarse, thick and dry. (It is named after the Greek word for "shark skin.") Again some forms of psoriasis, as are other conditions which scar the skin can be responsible. Then by the way, areas that have received strong X-ray treatment may be devoid of perspiration. In a localized area it is not so much of a problem.

CHEMICALS CAN CAUSE IT

Handling or exposure to astringent chemicals, sometimes because of "drying" drugs, such as atropine) have been found to cause it.

Deficiency of Vitamin A (but I wouldn't think this would happen to Mr. B.) can have this effect. So can certain deficiencies of minerals involving the nerve trunks.

Depending on the cause, certain treatments are helpful: among them, Vitamin A, possibly thyroid preparations, and of light clothing in warm weather; bland oils to soothe the skin and relieve the aggravating itching — which is one reason why a victim of this sort thing becomes irritable. Dry skin itches! And what's worse, such an itching that continues week after week?

It may be that in this case a change, and an occasional visit to a more humid climate will be the best answer. But I can't help inquiring: What about Mr. B.'s occasion? Is there any factor in his job that contributes to skin irritation of dryness?

Sorry I can't be of more help, but perhaps this will, at least, give you an idea of the matter in question, and an understanding of why it is difficult to come up with a ready solution — even by experts.

"Dear Dr. Molner: What is astigmatism and can it be cured?

It means the lens in the eye (or usually both eyes) is not quite, correctly shaped, so the light rays blur rather than form a completely sharp picture. There isn't any way to "cure" this — but glasses will alter the light rays that come to make up for the fault.

• • • •

Note to Mrs. M.W.: Moderate variation from 96.6 degrees is not uncommon in healthy people it is quite natural. But since the boy's hands always feel cold and clammy, I should think it would be well worth while to have his thyroid checked, plus a general examination.

Attention all women! For my new pamphlet, "The Non-Mensrual Blues," write to me in care of The Chicago Daily Tribune, P.O. Box 156, Dundee, Illinois, enclosing a large, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 5 cents in coin to cover handling. This pamphlet may help you!

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

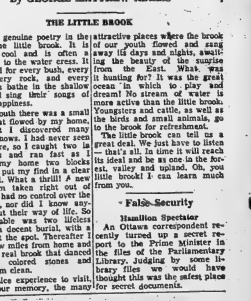
THE LITTLE BROOK

There is genuine poetry in the song of the little brook. It is fresh and cool and is often a companion to the water cress. It has a word for every bush, every flower, every bird that wings there. Birds bathe in the shallow places and sing their songs of joy and happiness.

In my youth there was a small stream that flowed near my home and in it I discovered many small minnows. I had never seen them before, so I would dip in my hands and ran fast as I could to show some one how far away and put my find in a clear glass bowl. What a thrill it was to see them dart about and out of life. But I had no control over the fish world, nor did I know anything about their way of life. So the inevitable was bound to happen, and a decent burial, with a marker at the spot. Thereafter I became a free rider on horses and located a real brook that danced over the colored stones and swept them clean.

It's a nice experience to visit, through our memory, the many attractive places where the brook of our youth flowed and sang its way till one day it was lost in the beauty of the sunrise from the East. What was there, after? It was the great ocean in which to play and bathe. No stream of water is more active than the little brook. Youngsters and cattle, as well as birds and small animals, go to the brook for refreshment.

The little brook can be a great deal. We just have to listen — that's all. In time it will reach the ocean. It will be there for rest, valley and upland. Oh, you little brook! I can learn much from you.



• False Security

Hamilton Spectator

An Ottawa correspondent recently turned up a report to the Prime Minister in the files of the Parliamentary Library, finding by some library files we would have thought this was the safest place for secret documents.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK

By R. J. SCOTT.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

By now, of course, not hundreds but thousands of Belleville people have been up to their summer cottages to inspect and see what damage the winter, the mice or the porcupines have done to the precious premises.

Not a few, on the easy access afforded by modern highways and good motor cars on the roads, many a family spends the odd week-end even in the dead of winter at summer cottages. This is a new thing. To be a true summer cottager even fifteen years ago, if it had to be inaccessible for four months of the year. Those reached by water had to wait for first visit until the ice was starting to melt. Now you go in a big outboard. Those approached by side road had to await the settling of the frost and the services of the grader before it was comfortable or even safe to attempt the journey.

Within the past ten do-it-yourself years, a very large number of old summer cottages have been transformed with fine lines and other linings. New cheap systems of space heating have become available, making them possible as an all-year cottage.

There is becoming a curious reversal in social history. A hundred years ago, the gentry had their homes in the country, and kept flats or houses in town to which they moved in winter, on business. Everybody is gentry now. And everybody is less than another hundred years, everybody will live out where it is worth living, and will keep flats in town.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

WINIFRED WILSON

BARE SKIN

...e whooping crane's face is red — but with neither shame nor anger.

Birds are not, as you might suppose, entirely covered by feathers. Of course you know that with only a few exceptions their legs and feet are bare, and that it is unusual for them to have even a part of their bills hidden in feathers; but perhaps you have never heard that other parts are either always, or occasionally, devoid of plumage.

Feathers are non-conductors. So were it not that birds have a particular little bare patch of skin they would not be able to hatch eggs and brood nestlings. This bare spot is never seen by us because ordinarily it is covered by the breast feathers. But when a bird arrives at its nest it wiggles around before settling down in order to get the breast feathers out of the way. Then the warm, brooding patch of skin touches the eggs.

Certain kinds of birds have bare patches in other places. One characteristic of birds of prey is the swollen soft skin for "cere", as it is called) in which the nostrils are situated. This is hidden by the feathers of owls' faces but shows somewhat in hawks, and is particularly noticeable in the carcasses of Central and South America because the cere covers a large space and is red. The turkey vulture has other bare spots. There are no feathers on its head or upper neck, and the reddish skin is deeply corrugated.

HERONS AND HERONS

Herons (and bitterns belong to the heron family) have a naked space in front of their eyes, but in no case is this conspicuously colored, and therefore is not noticed. Cranes are distinguished from herons by having naked foreheads as well as the bare section near the eyes. The bare space of the sandhill crane is vermilion, and extremely vivid, resembling the red wattle of the turkey.

The face of the whooping crane is not quite such a brilliant hue, however it is red, and this unfeathered part is much more extensive than that of its cousin, taking in the section in front of the eyes, the entire crown of its head, and a wide streak reaching from the bill to the beginning of the long neck. Even the young whoopers have these bare patches on their heads and faces, only the color is more subdued. But if we are considering the adult bird we yes, decidedly, the whooping crane's face is red.

Stories of Famous Hymns

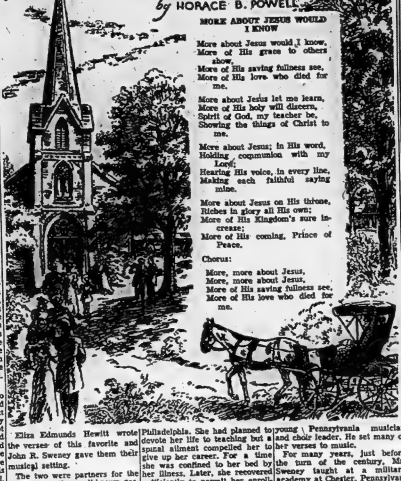
MORE ABOUT JESUS WOULD I KNOW

More about Jesus would I know,
More of His grace to others show;
More of His saving fullness see,
More of His love who died for me.



More about Jesus let me learn,
More of His holy will discern,
Spirit of God, my teacher be,
Showing the things of Christ to me.

More about Jesus; in His word,
Holding communion with my Lord;
Hearing His voice, in every line,
Making each faithful saying mine.

More about Jesus on His throne,
Riches in glory all His own;
More of His Kingdom's sure increase;
More of His coming, Prince of Peace.

Chorus:

More, more about Jesus,
More, more about Jesus,
More of His saving fullness see,
More of His love who died for me.

Elizabeth Edmunds Hewitt wrote the verses of this favorite and solo John R. Sweney gave them their musical setting.

The two were partners for the creation of other well-known gospel songs . . . "Will There Be Any Stars In My Crown?" "There's Sunshine In My Soul" and many more.

Mrs. Hewitt was born more than 100 years ago, in 1851, in Philadelphia. She had planned to devote her life to teaching but a spinal ailment compelled her to give up her career. For a time she was confined to her bed by her illness. Later, she recovered sufficiently to permit her enrollment in a course in English literature.

She began to write poems for children . . . poems which attracted wide interest. Her writing also impressed Mr. Sweney, a young Pennsylvania musician and choir leader. He set many of her verses to music.

For many years, just before the turn of the century, Mr. Sweney taught at a military academy at Chester, Pennsylvania. His renown as a musician was great and he was in demand as a song leader and musical director at evangelistic services and at summer religious conferences.

LEANING TOWER

VANCOUVER (CP)—The 217-foot steeple of the Roman Catholic Holy Rosary Cathedral here has developed a list to the northeast. It was suggested that nearby tunnel blasting may have caused the building to settle.

GIFT HORSES

LONDON (CP) — Three gift horses from the president of Pakistan arrived by chartered plane for presentation to Queen Elizabeth. Prince Philip accepted the charger and two polo ponies in Pakistan on his world tour.

DOGS IN CHURCH

SOUTHWELL MINSTER, Eng. (CP)—A notice on the church door in this Nottinghamshire village says "dogs welcome." The Anglican minister, Very Rev. Hugh Heywood, does not object to dogs at services providing they are quiet. "I have often found people sitting outside with their dogs, while the rest of the families are inside," he said.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

One Sunday afternoon a couple of weeks ago a young gentleman and his wife approached some folk who live on the outskirts of town. They were looking for space to accommodate a couple of frosty red Girl Guides who wanted to pass their out-of-doors tests. It appears that the leaders were very conscientious because if the Guides in former years had displeased either they had trespassed on property where they were unwelcome. In the spring, the danger and risk from grass and bush fires frightens many property owners and justifiably. However, the trouble the guides experience in finding woods and open space presents a problem for the leaders who do not wish to impose on inconvenience anyone, let alone endanger property.

T and T discussed the situation with a couple of prop capables who explained their problem. These outlings on Saturdays and during holidays are very important indeed to the Girl Guide movements. The boys and girls receive their proficiency badges for out-of-door activities and living. It is necessary for them to learn how to camp by actually doing them rather than to read about them in a book or word. There are many places where the hazard of fire or the danger of hunting is non-existent. Mrs. Owens and Mrs. Lowe-Anderson of Wellington are both guide leaders or T and T. The whole movement is for the boys and girls receive in this wonderful movement is people who are willing to give time and which carries an impact of profound significance. The Lions Club of Belleville has a project in dedicating their efforts to-wards the welfare of those people who suffer impaired eyesight or are blind. Aside from contributing funds is for members each month, and on special occasions, to assist in their care to the blind or near blind. We overheard one Lions Club member from Kingston remark "Give them a hit!" It is we who are given the hit!"

It was a couple, a sincere, a thought provoking conversation and wide as we go about our daily routine. It is through us that character and citizenship are probably exemplified at their best. In memories of what Dr. Albert Schweitzer proudly calls "a reverence for Life." In the final analysis they have more to give and we have more to receive and this is the kindergarten of greatness. Superlatives become inadequate as since this is the case, may we say sincerely, we received more, far more than we gave and we thank you for ever give. T and T was proud to be accepted.

We referred a column or two back to a recent book published by UNESCO in honor of Gandhi. Chapter 14 is devoted to women. Since This and That is found on the woman's page, we thought we would do our possible for both men and women, might be of interest if we quoted from the telling them what the late Indian leader thought about women-folk. Perhaps the following will quote from this chapter in the Saturday column and publish it here for our combined thought.

"I am firmly of the opinion that the future of humanity rests on the sacrifice and enlightenment of women.

Your reporter would like to add an anecdote to this weekend column. During our discussions at the Commission on the Status of Women in B.C. it was emphasized that in many primitive communities in Africa where the women folk were kept in subjection to unprepared minds, a special effort is being made to teach the women of that land. Through the rudiments of social science and hygiene. It is hoped that by this means confusion may be confounded a little less tragically.

Going Places

New York to Europe Via Jet All in a Dinner and a Nap

By SHIRLEY and BOBSLOANE

So there were 32,000 feet in the air, faster than the speeding bullet, creating traffic hazards among the angels and gunning Charles Heidsieck Blanc des Blancs as if it were Canada Dry (apropos of nothing, there was the man whose doctor told him to drink Canada Dry — so he went there to try to do it).

For the moment we belonged to one of the most exclusive clubs in the world, two of 111 passengers winging through New York to Europe aboard a jet travelling "twice swifter and higher than anyone else making the same trip.

In the sanctum sanctorum of the forward (de luxe) compartment 40 heavy-duty grey iron bars were living more like Roman emperors than tourists bound for Fez.

In the more intimate let's-take-it-easy-world atmosphere of the rear 71 other guests munched cold meats and sipped the best coffee with the most consoling of thoughts, the savings of more than $200 each while travelling on the same plane.

LOST RESERVATION

Where were we? The wound up in a special set of limbo. The airline lost our long-held and confirmed reservation for a window seat and dispatched us to the economy department. After taking off we were politely but firmly come up to the lounge to partake of the "cocktail hour" and dinner, but it after the favored 40 had been fed.

De luxe passengers on international flights usually consist of rich people who can afford the expense accounts and (c) those people who are going on a one-age mean, go first class or not at all. With jets operating at full capacity for the past six months, there seems to be no shortage of rich people.

For their higher fares, "passengers up front are ensconced in arm chairs as roomy as their favorites at home, protected from the rear of what little wind it makes, offered enough liquid refreshment to make flying without benefit of airplane almost possible and served a pre-frozen multi-course dinner which is Mamsch's of Paris which is one of the most tangible wonders of this new Era of Flight.

Things have come a long way since the airlines first realized that if they were going to transport paying passengers over long hours without providing dining car facilities they would have to do it in the air and that good food and each passenger was handed a sandwich and a snack.

CUSTOMER COMFORT

Today the philosophy is that eating, drinking and merrying, plus the sensation of not doing much activity, make an ideal way of passing the time when there are no bed-time stories, sleepers or poles visible out the windows to tell the passengers where they are. The newest planes are wrapped around customer comfort to the most extent, so now Pan Am's jet passengers dine at Maxim's in the air but they don't get to meet and hail an ocean from the Rue de la Paix.

As we sipped our wine we stared with disbelief at the meuu. The ordinary things that we had from two to five choices for each course.

After resisting an assortment of hot and cold canapes that would have made a meal in other circumstances, there came delicately flavored watercress with legendary filet of sole Albert, roast beef sliced under your eyes from a rolling cart by a dinner jacketed steward for each meal-conscious person and a choice of Blue-slavan partridge? be asked with the straightest of faces).

Then came the cheeses of France, fresh fruit and French pastry to top it all off. Or there was an appropriate wine with each course and a choice of liqueurs.

WAS A DISAPPOINTMENT

Our dinner, perched on our lap and minus a napkin, the meeting, taken in too full view of the hardened cabin attendants in the galley, was inevitably a disappointment. Even Maxim's Louis Vaudable, one of the pioneers in the reconstituting frozen foods, would not have expected too much of his specialties under these conditions.

One of the original attractions of this de luxe service was the limited courses-course series. But Pan Am discovered that by the time everyone had been fed with a de luxe seat on the daytime flight back home from London, but presently our long standing conviction is reinforced that all the airlines would do well to concentrate on fast, economical transportation instead of trying to compete with the Queen Mary in cuisine.

By the time we dined and napped it was April in Paris. "Oh to be in England, now that April's here" sang out our minds, but we hopped back on the Paris-New York run of our across the Alps to Rome.

Delightful Musical Tour Features Y.M.C.A. World Service Tea

Yesterday afternoon the YMCA was thronged with guests for the "World Service Tea", presented in the form of a musical journey to the four corners of the world where the YMCA serves youth.

Beginning with Great Britain at London, the journey continued to Scotland, Ireland and from there to the continent where sunny Spain, with its Falmenco dancers and soft, exotic melodies were heard; then to France with its street musicians; to Lisbon, Portugal; to Berlin in Germany; to the picturesque country of Switzerland with its yodellers, small orchestra and pastoral scenes with quiet valleys and grazing cows; to Hungary, and Austria where the gay waltzes of Strauss are heard, and then into Yugoslavia, and across the Mediterranean to sunny Italy, over to Cuba with its rumba and orchestrations which included mouth-watering coconut maple cream candy and other delicious confections which included mouth-watering coconut maple cream candy and other delicious confections which included mouth-watering coconut maple cream candy and other delicious confections

Second Glance

By Viva Richmond Graham

"Tradition doggedly insists that the best horse win."—Esquire Magazine.

Time? About 9 A.M.

Place? Down our street: clippity clop, clippity clop.

The ear singles out the dairy horse's rhythmic hoofbeats with a nostalgia which accompanies vanishing, familiar scenes. For in a recent interview, Mr. L. S. Reid, owner of Reid's Dairy commented, "We have the only business in Belleville still using horses."

Certainly, to step into the dairy barn and see seven white-washed stalls occupied by seven well-kept horses named Linda, Jess, Sandy, Diamond and Diana contentedly munching their oats after a morning's run is like opening a door upon a story-book animal world. No wonder an entire neighborhood of two dozen children of whom "the girls are worse than the boys for riding them" have so whole heartedly adopted such fine animals for pets, right along with the entire dairy's staff.

"Each horse has its own distinct personality and knows who is master. We become so fond of them, we like to give them up" explained Mr. Reid, who has yet to find a horse he couldn't get along with.

"Even as a child, back in 1908, horses attracted me and I used to go on the milk route with Jack Gay, who was the first to introduce glass milk bottles in Belleville. When I returned from World War I, I bought out his brother, George Gay who began with one horse and wagon back on October 14, 1919, when a dairy horse was a "must."

"By 1924, we had three horses and a truck. Before World War II, many were the short cuts and chances I took crossing the line. Besides, don't forget, there was a tollbridge."

"By 1939, we moved to town here, and soon had up to nine horses, two of which we drove for over twenty years. Since pavement is hard on feet and legs, a horse should be at least five years old before "put on" a route, short as they are in Belleville, and less or so. The harness (handmade, stitched with two needles, requiring endless patience and time to make) cost then, $40; now they are $90 to buy. To shoe a horse was 25c a foot; now it costs a dollar each."

NO REPLACEMENTS

"A horse, wagon and a harness today costs around $700 and will out last three times and longer, a panel truck that costs over three thousand dollars. Our drivers, usually find work shared with a dependable, intelligent horse, rewarding and perfect them to a truck. But with a dearth of trainers, blacksmiths, harnessmakers and out classed by motor cars, the work horse's days are numbered. We shall not be replacing the seven you see here. They are the last we shall ever have again. Such is progress."

Change bewilders the fathers who wonders what progress there is about rocketless hobby-horses, "just springs. Instead of To jiggle the child!" Change mystifies the student upon learning that the bones of the horse's ancestor, protohippus, were found only in America, though the horse evolved in Africa, Asia and Europe. Persian rulers owned thousands at a time, yet nary a horse was found in the New World. Quite a riddle!

One of the dairy horses was observed as it stood motionless while a roaring vehicle veered narrowly aside upon passing. Not a muscle quivered. With unhurried steps the horse calmly started on routinewise. What a display of spirit and dignity! What about the horse, is it going to disappear?

Happily no, according to Dr. H. F. Wellbanks, veterinary surgeon of Belleville, who says equestrian deliverance from hard labor calls for rejoicing. Our mechanical age has released the horse from much cruel labor, to show horse via parade, movie or track media.

Current substantiating glimpses? There's the daily, eleven-hour, round-trip bus journey from New York to Charleston, W.Va. (named after George Washington's younger brother) which enables eastern racegoers to witness winter races with comfort in an enclosed, heated 4,400 capacity grandstand. TV viewers the nation over admired the grooms of perfectly matched Palominos, the Clydesdales and Medium coal-black horses (descended from the Arab breed) as well as beautiful individual mounts of well-known movie personalities in the equestrian parade of California's Tournament of Roses Parade. Horseshows now are becoming more and more common. Detroit is chosen for next year's American Horse Show Convention, held this January in New York City. THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council regrets no problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Trudy S. — He can't be happy with her.

Trudy S. — After a marriage of nearly 19 years I recently discovered that my husband has been involved with another woman.

This woman is 29, more than 15 years younger than my husband. She is a divorcee and a very unbalanced person. She has been involved with several men in the past few years, but none of these affairs have lasted as long as the one with my husband. I am sure she cannot make a happy marriage with anyone.

In addition, there are our two daughters. They are 18 and 13, the very ages when they are likely to be most hurt by the break-up of our home. I have pleaded with my husband to consider them, but nothing seems to have any effect on him. I don't intend to divorce him, but he is already living apart from us.

Robert S. — It is very easy to give good reasonable explanations why I should remain with my family. I know I should, but there are times in a man's life when he has to do something against his own principles.

It is as simple as this. I'm in love with this girl. I have never really known love before — and neither has she. The things that have happened to her were not quite as other people saw them. A lot of it is sheer malicious gossip. The difference is that she doesn't bother us. Why should it bother anyone else?

Frankly, I think that Trudy will be better off without me. She is still a young woman and quite attractive. There is no reason why she shouldn't marry again. The sooner she accepts this situation the better off she will be.

The Council: Trudy gives some oddly rational arguments for a woman who has been betrayed. She is concerned about the unlikelihood of her husband's finding happiness with the other woman. She is concerned about the welfare of her daughters. The letter is, of course, understandable. Yet this is one occasion in which an emotionally involved woman might speak for herself first.

Trudy says nothing of her own feelings. Possibly she is too deeply hurt to plead in her own behalf. Or, possibly, she has been emotionally disinterested in her husband for so long that she really feels very little concern on this score.

In either case, it is evident that things were amiss with their marriage before "the other woman" entered the scene. Extramarital romance doesn't just accidentally come to anyone. It must be sought, consciously or otherwise.

If Trudy were willing to recognize that she may have been at fault to some degree in the failure of the marriage and if she were to submit to herself and her husband that she would like to have him back because she loves for him enough to try to forgive, to understand, to make changes, she might find that her hand has been strengthened.

It is true that Trudy will find it difficult to display love and humility when her husband has displayed coldness and arrogance, but if she sincerely wants to revive her marriage, she will be willing to use some emotional shock power instead of opposing duty and duty unreasoning to the glamour of her husband's illicit romance.

GOOD MANNERS

SPECIAL WEDDING INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am in my late forties, and am to be married (my first marriage) in June. My prospective bridegroom also has never married. We belong to the same church. We are very active members, and are planning to have a wedding in the church. In inviting our many friends who live here and nearby, and also sending the formal invitations to friends who live at a distance (these, instead of announcements). I have no close relatives to sponsor these invitations, and so I would like to issue them in my name. Will you please tell me the proper form? Thank you, if you will. — Reader

This is the correct form in these circumstances:

The honor of your presence is requested at the marriage of

Miss Margaret Davis

to

Mr. Philip Blake

on Tuesday, the ninth of June at four o'clock

Grace Church

Haven, Ontario

WHEN DECLINING OFFER OF CIGARET

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When, in the part, a man or woman has offered me a cigaret, I have just said "No, thank you." Now I am wondering if this is enough of a reply, or do you think I should add, "I don't smoke." That is, say "No, thank you, I don't smoke." — E. H.

What you have been saying . . . "No, thank you," said graciously . . . is correct reply to this kind offer. No reason to add "I don't smoke," which is apt to sound more or less self-righteous. As if to say, "What a good girl am I!" Since for all this time you apparently haven't found it necessary to add, "I don't smoke" to your "No, thank you," I'm quite sure you won't find it necessary now.

REPLY TO "I AM GLAD TO HAVE MET YOU"

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When I am introduced to someone who, when leaving after the introduction, says, "I am very glad to have met you," or something similar to this, what is the proper reply for me to make? — R. M.

Here is a suggestion most helpful and important to remember: your reply to this pleasant remark should have two parts. First you must thank the person for the kind words. And then you must say something that indicates that you, too, enjoyed the meeting. For example, "Thank you. I enjoyed so much meeting you, too, Mrs. Leigh." Or, "Thank you. It was such a pleasure to have that chat with you, Mr. Thompson. I hope we'll meet again and continue it." Or, "Thank you, Miss Davidson. It was fun chatting about our mutual friends in San Francisco."

Those who merely learn a person say only "Thank you" to the other person's gracious "I am so glad to have met you." This reply is, of course, inadequate, since what it really says is that even if the other person had pleasure in the meeting, you're not saying that you did. To be polite, you must add that second part to your reply.

ville. It would seem the equestrian future is assured.

Single Women of Retirement Age Can Find Happiness in Marriage

By THOMAS COLLINS

A single woman who can hold a job in a man's world until retirement age has, in the main, better win than a man who does the same. She has whipped problems he never had.

So I should follow that in retirement she will handle her life better. She doesn't. Next to the businessman who retires to fishing and the workingman who retires to loaf, she often makes a bigger mistake of it than anybody.

"I am an unmarried woman of 63, and could pass for 55," a bookkeeper says. "I have held my job for 18 years. With pension and other funds I could retire on $196 a month. If I can afford it, I want to retire now. . ."

You ask her why.

"Well, I want to make a trip to Europe . . . by boat. I want to see London, then Paris. Not for long. Just a few weeks. . ."

She thinks she can afford retirement and the trip, but she wants reassurance.

"I have saved $3,800 and have it in a savings account at the bank. I have $500 in the credit union at the company. I have $2,200 in government bonds. Also, two relatives and I own a $15,000 house, which is rented, and for my one-third share I get about $150 a year from the rent.

"I have a $10,000 life insurance policy that will be paid up in five more years. . . ."

CAN AFFORD TRIP

She can afford to retire, since a single woman can live well almost anywhere in the U.S. or Canada on $196 a month. She can afford her trip (which she estimates will cost $1,500) because out of her liquid assets of $6,600 she would have a $5,100 nest egg left.

Her fiances aren't set up too well. One-third of a rented house doesn't sound like a good investment. If she sold her interest for $5,000 she might do better by investing in mutual funds or an insured savings association. The same could be said for her bonds. If her total of $10,100 were so invested she should get around $30 a month return.

And why $10,000 life insurance for a single woman of 63? She should consider converting it to an annuity that would give monthly payments, or else cashing in all of it except enough for a funeral and investing the rest.

But her main problem is why she is retiring. For a trip to Europe? It would be nice. But what then? And where most single women make their mistake in retirement is in failing to see beyond the glamor of something they want to do what-then after they get it. They return home to live into their 80's, sewing, sitting, reading a few flowers, keeping up appearances and being nice ladies.

And what could be the most fruitful years of their lives pass them by.

HAPPINESS IN MARRIAGE

A retired woman, I think, will usually find her greatest happiness in marriage. And any woman with the wealth this bookkeeper has can certainly find a husband if she wants one. But if she chooses otherwise she can find most happiness by (1) getting into a stream of life where she constantly meets new people, which she can do in business but not at neighborhood teas or by (2) setting out on a new mission in life, in education, the arts, welfare work and such.

She can get back into business best by buying her way in. With $2,000 or so retired women can, and have, bought part interest in linen shops, neighborhood stores, small job agencies, repair shops and even service stations. This takes a little business sense and or advice from a male friend.

She can find a retirement mission simply by having the initiative to look. Within reach of everybody now are adult school and college classes, art clubs, writing clubs. Drama groups, camera groups, university research projects and charities by the score. No single one of these may be the answer. But each one can lead to people and ideas that will be. And any woman who is too bashful to go hunting can simply read the newspaper for a few days and find the contact she wants.

Summer Driving Takes Its Toll Of Your Car

By EUGENE MILMOE

Don't kid yourself about winter months being the only tough ones for a car. During summer weekends and vacations the average buggy becomes a real workhorse. Troubles are common, but chiefly because so many owners try to cut corners when it comes to preventive maintenance.

If your schedule is limited to cooling system service, oil change, chassis lubrication and very minor tune-up, you've only scratched the surface. How about tires, for example? Are they in good condition — safe for hard driving, greater loads, higher temperatures? Are shock absorbers OK and well lubricated? Can windshield wipers do an efficient job during those heavy summer downpours?

Headlights also require some attention. You will be doing more night driving in heavier traffic, so be sure they're strong and correctly aimed. In addition, a check-up of the battery, fan belt, air cleaner, brakes and brake fluid, wheel bearings, transmission fluid and all ignition wiring can minimize the chances of breakdowns and repair bills later on.

E. H. writes: "I bought some upper cylinder tune-up lubricant to help rid the valves and rings of any gummy substances that might be accumulating. Should I put this in before I start the engine?"

(A) Pour it slowly through the carburetor while the engine is running at normal operating temperature. Additional directions should be on the container.

T. P. asks: "Before I garaged my '57 car for winter, it ran perfectly. Since I took it out, it acts like an old car — yet battery, plugs, points are all OK."

(A) Gasoline left in the tank for months may have begun to gum up. Thus, carburetor passages would be subject to clogging when the car is again used.

From S. M.: "Last week while going down a steep and narrow mountain road, I followed the advice of experts and shifted the automatic transmission into low. Never again! As it went into low gear the car lurched and I nearly lost complete control of it."

Garden Notes

Hardening Plants for Outdoors

By FLORA M. SAVILLE

Plants which have been growing indoors whether in a dwelling or a greenhouse need to become slowly accustomed to outdoor conditions. This applies to house plants, seedlings, cuttings or bulbs which have been started indoors.

I remember a doctor telling a mother to begin in February or March to expose her baby's skin to the sun. First the hands were to be uncovered for ten minutes on warm sunny days and as weather permitted the time was to be extended and the sleeves pushed up. By the time the weather was really warm the arms were brown to the elbows and the face and neck were lightly tinged.

The same beneficial rays are good for plants too, in small doses until they too are toughened up. We have all seen handsome house plants, such as large geraniums put out in the sun and the leaves turned red and dry. It takes weeks for these plants to recover from the shock of burning sun and shattering wind.

OPEN WINDOWS

If you have an unheated glassed in porch, or cold-frame, place the plants and flats of seedling there. Open the windows or the top of the cold frame for short periods several times a day until they are open all day and night unless the weather turns cold. Lacking this, place the plants out in a sheltered place under a hedge, or close to a south wall and cover with plastic. Weigh it down so it will not blow away and tuck it down around the plants at night. If the temperature drops below freezing the plants indoors. Take off the plastic for brief periods on warm days until the plants have toughened up and are hardy enough to be transplanted out into the open. About two weeks will be needed for hardiest plants, three or more for more delicate ones.

Plants should be on a hard base, and they should be close to the glass if in a frame. If not, they will try to reach for the light and become leggy and will never become compact bushy plants.

Grow the plants on the day side the first week or so. Remember you are trying to harden the plants not induce more sappy growth. More moisture can be added later. Protect from extremes of heat and cold. Light covering will screen out burning sun and burlap bags will ward off frost should the night become suddenly chilly.

SHELTERED POSITION

Some plants may need longer to harden off. Set these in a sheltered position under a hedge where strong winds will not befall them and they will be in semi-shade.

House plants will need this last type of hardening even if held indoors until the weather is really settled in late May.

A lath screen made on a light frame with the lath nailed one inch apart is useful in hardening off plants. It can be covered with a sheet of plastic to war off heating rain or to temper strong winds, or covered with burlap or plastic it will also afford some frost protection.

These lath frames are useful in transplanting too. They temper the wind, and provide semi-shade until the new plants become established. Later you will find they have other uses such as providing suitable conditions for growing lettuce in hot weather and protection for seedling perennials.

Why be tied to a clothesline?

A clothesline ties you down to weather-watching. But an automatic electric clothes dryer has its own "indoor sunshine." It frees you from the drudgery of lugging heavy baskets of wet wash to the line—it dries your clothes the way you want them—damp-dry for ironing, or completely dry for folding away—and it does all this automatically for less than five cents! There's a treat in store for you the first time, and every time, you use an automatic electric clothes dryer.

Govt. May Open Big-City Market For Private TV

OTTAWA (CP) — The government has renewed its pledge to consider opening the lucrative big-city market to private television stations.

Revenue Minister Nowlan told the Commons Thursday that at soon as the Board of Broadcast Governors puts into force regulations governing television broadcasting the government will give this consideration.

Present government policy, initiated by the Liberals and carried on by the Progressive Conservatives since coming to power in June, 1957, is to permit only one TV station in each area.

As a result, the publicly-owned CBC was licensed in the six major population centres of Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa, Montreal and Halifax. Private broadcasters were left to develop TV outlets in the smaller centres.

Mr. Nowlan said in reply to a question that the minister's request the BBG is framing regulations to govern TV broadcasting.

A preliminary set was being drafted and as soon as the regulations "have been published and promulgated the government will then give consideration to lifting the present restrictions on competing television stations in Canada."

Skippers Need More Practice Says Minister

OTTAWA (CP) — Ocean-going skippers who have trouble with St. Lawrence Seaway canals just need more practice, Transport Minister Hees suggested Thursday.

Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, asked the minister in the Commons to comment on remarks of Capt. Hawley MacDermid of the Greek Line freighter Sanla Rosa, first American ship to pass through the Seaway.

The Santa Regina dented two hull plates, scraped her sides and lost part of her deck railing in passing through the seven new seaway locks and the Welland Canal.

Commented Mr. Hees: "It seems to be all a matter of ocean-going skippers becoming as skilled in handling their ships as lake skippers."

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

People who have crystal balls reposing in their attics, garages or play-pens, would be well advised to dust them off and keep them handy for future reference — and possibly a quick sale.

Market quotations indicate the price of the overgrown eyeballs is on the uptrend. Out-of-work swamis might pick up a needed penny by dumping discarded spheroids into rummage sales.

Illinois Punch Imlach, "Miracle Man" of the Toronto Maple Leafs hockey club, was rewarded with phenomenal success at winkin', blinkin', and noddin' at the kingsize alley, certain sports editors of the hinterland have taken up the fad.

And from what they have seen gazing through probable plaid-tinted eyeballs at the misty cloud of the big ball, they might better have spent their time watching the "Perils of Pauline" on the late, late show.

The northern lights apparently had Hitler or no effect on the ball of North Bay's Mr. Patton. He comes out flatfooted with the statement that the Kingston Merchants "who blew $14,000" are ready to say goodbye to senior hockey. "Though no one has said it officially, the Cornwall Chevvies have given up the ghost," Patton writes.

The fog from the new seaway must have ghosted the crystal ball of Ted (Standard Freeholder) Saunders when he peered at it recently. The Cornwall scribe bemoans the fact that the Dunlops will win the Allan Cup still likely be going overseas early November and the Eastern League will suffer by their absence.

The picture cleared and this is what Edward saw. "The reason behind this thinking is that it is quite possible that one of the other teams in the league, the Belleville McFarlands won't be participating either. Rumor has it the Macs will have to fold due to the withdrawal of support by the McFarland Construction Company."

Ron (Pembroke Observer) Ormsby's big sob of prophesy showed a different slant. It has the Duplops in the leading role, a heavy one at that. It pictured the Dunnies as stilling off all competition through sheer strength. Said Mr. Ormsby: "According to reports the Dunnies will be even stronger next year. There is a possibility that Pete Conacher and Red Berenson will line up with the Dunlops. Conacher who lives in Toronto, played with the Belleville McFarlands in the world tourney and isn't against making a few extra bucks playing for Whitby next season. Berenson is supposedly headed for the University of Toronto and if he gets a year you can rest assured he'll end up playing for Blair."

On top of the statement that Whitby will kill off all senior competition, Craig comes up with the prophesy Chatham and Windsor will be playing in the Eastern League next season. Aw, Tsk, Tsk, how news does get around.

Not to be outdone by these typewriter yarns of the sports pages, we borrowed a good neighbor's crystal ball and did a little sphere gazing on the side. And what we saw surprised us. We noted a team of combines was calling for "Brockville-Cornwall" on their screens. A man was talking to Ray Miron of the Chevies, saying, "we in Brockville liked what we saw of senior "A" hockey when your team played here last winter. That is all we heard.

We ran into a bit of a sour note while viewing one of the Allan Cup playoff games. Whitby fans, at least some of them, did not appreciate, it seems, the fact that a lot of Belleville Booster Club members were on hand to root for the Dunnies. Instead of congratulating the Boosters on the Macs' world victory the Whitby gang taunted them by asking "what happened to the Czech game. The Boosters won all of their bets. It wasn't a very sportsmanlike attitude and some of the Belleville crew replied by cheering the western champions.

This happened, fortunately, for this type of Dunlop fan, before the Canadians "krunked" the Dunnies Saturday night. The Boosters would have replied in no uncertain terms. Compared to the slightly better than senior "B" brand of hockey both Whitby and Vernon played in the games we witnessed, the Czech squad can defeat the Macs that night could be a spotted ador, or both Allan Cup finalists, five goals and whipped them handily.

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The Kentucky Derby, No. 1 U.S. glamor race, drew an estimated 100,000 people to Churchill Downs today for its 85th running.

Eighteen of the finest three-year - olds were scheduled to break from the barrier at 5:30 p.m. EST for the 1¼-mile run.

To the owner of the winner goes the major share of a purse of $165,000 and a trophy. It all 18 start the winner's share will total $139,900. And to the winning jockey goes 10 per cent of the victor's purse.

A WEEK OF ACTIVITY

The derby, scheduled to be televised and broadcast nationally from 5:45 to 6 p.m., climaxes a week of celebrating in this horse-loving Ohver city.

The weather forecast was fair and warmer. That could mean temperatures in the low 80s and ideal conditions for the thousands who turn the infield into a countries, compared with 305 some 10 try picnic scene.

Mint Juleps, selling at $1.25 with the privilege of keeping the glass, are the traditional drink.

First Landing, champion two-year-old of 1958 owned by C. T. Chenery of Virginia and New York, was the lukewarm favorite at 3 to 1 in the widest open derby in many a year. He'll be ridden by Eddie Arcaro, winner of five derbies.

NEW YORK (AP) — Unisec, the electronic brain, picks First Landing to win the Kentucky Derby Saturday. Its choice, announced by The World-Telegram and Sun in a copyright story, agrees with that of most of the human experts.

FEWER HORSES

LONDON (CP) — A parade of horse-driven vans in London's Regent Street drew only 71 entries, compared with 305 some 10 years ago.

Fast-Punching Title-Holder Eased Up After Two Rounds Then KO'd Briton in Eleventh

By MURRAY ROSE

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—Heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson said he wanted a "warmup" and that's just about what he got in methodically chopping down Britain's Brian London in the eleventh round of their title fight.

It looked like the lithe, 24-year-old champ could pull the string any time he wanted Friday night. Floyd pulled it at 51 seconds of the 11th with a jolting left hook to the jaw that sent the burly, 34-year-old Briton on his seat and then on his side for the full count.

Whether the New Yorker was stretching it out or fighting it out as best as he could, the whole thing served to boost the spirits of Patterson's next challenger, Ingemar Johansson.

"I think I have a good chance of being the next heavyweight champion," said the handsome, undefeated Swede. Johansson, the European champion, outpointed Patterson at New York's Yankee Stadium, June 20.

WIN ANY TIME

"Patterson was taking it easy," Johansson said. "If he went out from the ring and got down to business, he could have put him out any time."

For a time it appeared Patterson might blast out the 10-1 longshot early. The 211-pound puncher, a 182½ pound New Yorker rocked his 205-pound rival in the first two rounds and then seemed to ease up.

After that he beat a steady tattoo to the reddening body of his game, powerful foe. In the eighth he sent up the jut-jawed Briton but it wasn't until the tenth that he finally floored the six-foot London.

A right to the jaw dazed Brian and he sniffed for a moment. Then he slumped against the ropes until the referee dropped him on one knee. He was still to that position when the bell sounded at the count of five.

The end obviously was in sight and Floyd wasted no time in getting the kill. A barrage of searing body blows set up the last from Blackpool for the curtain.

London had practically no defence. Mostly he jabbed with his left and most of his shots fell short of his elusive target. Patterson slid under most of Brian's straight rights.

LONDON GETS GLOVES

London, badly swollen about both eyes, appeared in Patterson's dressing room to congratulate the champ. He got Patterson to autograph a couple of pictures in which both were posed and then he asked for Patterson's gloves.

"I don't know the custom here," the big Britisher said, "but I'd much appreciate the gloves." He got them.

Asked what he said to Patterson in the brief verbal exchange during the fight, London explained:

"I would tell him 'good-blow, Floyd' — and then he would give me another one."

GOOD PURSE

London collected a handsome $100,000—that's $4,000 more than he had earned previously in his entire career—his first lesson in America. He'll need plenty of tutoring.

Patterson collected $186,000 for his near shut-out victory. That boosted his ring earnings for the year to $1,190,000. He'll be good for another $500,000 or so against Johansson.

Referee Frank Sikora had it 50-34 in points and 10-0 in rounds. Judge Julie Medina scored it 50-40 and 9-0-1, and judge Marshall Brenner had it nearly blowout 49-40 and 8-1-1. The AP card had it 9039 in points and 8-0-1.

The crowd was 18,000 and gross gate of $122,855 in the Fairgrounds museum. The TV and radio fee added $200,000.

London Fight Did Him Good Says Patterson

By JERRY LISKA

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—World heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson said today his convincing tuneup victory over Brian London will make him a "100 per cent fighter" against challenger Ingemar Johansson in their June 25 title match.

"I fought about 25 per cent of my ability against Roy Harris last August; I was about 55 per cent of the fighter I should be against London last night; and I expect to be a 100 per cent fighter against Johansson," Patterson said at his 11th-round knockout of London.

Patterson conceded that his inactivity in the ring had made him "not so sharp."

NO MORE WAITING

"After I meet Johansson in two months, I'd like another bout two months after that. I bought I was real sharp in training, but I wasn't satisfied with my performance against London."

Patterson, unmarked, said he couldn't figure out the boxing. "I didn't know whether they were boxing me, fighting London, or boxing London for not hitting me. They certainly couldn't box London for not trying. Only two other fighters were as game against me — Hurricane Jackson and Dick Wagner."

Orfuns May Play in Cobourg

PETERBOROUGH (CP) — Peterborough Orfuns of Ontario Rugby Football Union intermediate league may play most of their home games this year at Cobourg, 25 miles south of here.

Bill Trim, vice-president, said the reason for the switch was the increase in attendance in the last two years.

"If home games are played in Cobourg, the team would be known as the Peterborough-Cobourg Orfuns, said Trim. The team would practise here and might play one of two games under the lights.

Cobourg which hasn't had an intermediate team since the Galloping Ghosts in 1953, wants to get back into football, Trim said.

The Orfuns, Dominion champions in 1954, won the Eastern Canada championship in 1953 and 1954 and the Ontario title in 1953.

MANTLE'S FINGER BROKEN

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mickey Mantle, New York Yankees centre fielder, suffered a chip fracture of his right index finger when hit by a pitched ball Thursday night, x-ray pictures showed Friday. The accident occurred during batting practice. Because he is a switch hitter, it may be possible for him to bat lefthanded by Sunday. He probably will be unable to bat righthanded for about 10 days.

Winnipeg Wins First Memorial Cup In 13 Years

Braves Tomahawk Petes 6-2 To Take Series in 5 Games; Al Baty Big Gun With Three

BRANDON, Man. (CP)—Winnipeg Braves gave Manitoba its first Memorial Cup championship in 13 years Friday night as they whipped Peterborough Petes 6-2 to take the best-of-seven final in five games.

It was a big triumph for Braves, who were not highly rated even when they won the Manitoba junior hockey title. Coach Bill Allum was one of the few who was convinced that the Braves could go all the way.

On the final series, Allum said: "I never doubted they would come back after losing the first game or after blowing a two-goal lead in this last game. All they had to do was keep skating and checking."

Braves lost the series opener 5-4 but came back with three straight wins at Winnipeg Arena. Their triumph at Brandon came after they picked up a two-goal lead, gave away two goals, then roared back with four unanswered markers in the last two periods.

FIRST SINCE 1946

The win was the first for a team from the Manitoba league since Winnipeg Rangers won in 1946. It also gave the title back to the west after a one-year absence. Ottawa-Hull Canadiens took the championship last year. Prize Trophy returned in 1957.

Left winger Al Baty, who had only one goal in the first four games, was the big gun for Braves in the windup as he connected for four goals and added an assist. Don Attamanchuk made his first goal of the series a paperback game as he scored the winner. Captain Wayne Larkin tallied the other.

Little Garry Darling, most consistent player for the easterners, bagged one goal for Petes. Wayne Boddy got the second.

Braves were overjoyed as they carried to their dressing room after receiving the Memorial Cup from officials of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association.

Laurie Langrell of the Braves said: "Grattill can't believe it. Maybe after a few days it will sink in."

BOWMAN EJECTED

Coach Scotty Bowman of Petes, ejected from the game in the third period, hurried to the team's dressing room after congratulating Allum and the Braves.

Bowman was first given a bench penalty for banging a stick on the boards, then tossed out of the game when he flashed his wallet and made a crack at referee Leo Corriveau of Quebec City. Bowman said early in the series that he wasn't happy about the referees, and intended to let CAHA officials so replace Corriveau. He never changed his mind.

Bowman said his team "played well. I've never seen a team play so well and lose—but sometimes has to win to overcome the loss."

Bowman said the Braves "were better around the net."

Sam Pollock, general-manager of Hull-Ottawa Canadiens, who took over as coach when Bowman was ejected, paid tribute to the Peter coaching system.

"Scotty's been in the final three times in three years and that's a record no one else has."

Pollock, a director of the Peterborough club, said there was a stage in every game when Petes could have won, "but we just never got the break. The kids gave their all."

Chisox Get Del Ennis

CINCINNATI (AP)— Cincinnati Reds have traded outfielder Del Ennis to Chicago White Sox for lefthander Don Rudolph and outfielder Lou Skizas, who will be assigned directly to a Cincinnati major league team.

Rudolph, who won 11 games with Indianapolis last season, will report to the Reds today.

Early Wynn Blanks Bosox 1-0, Wins Own Game With Homer After Allowing But One Hit

BY ED WILES
Associated Press Staff Writer

Every spring it's the same, Ask manager Al Lopez who looks good and he'll point to a guy running in the outfield at the Chicago White Sox training camp.

"Wynn," says Lopez. "He always looks good."

At 39 and in his 19th major league season, Early Wynn is Lopez' prime example of a pitcher. Not just because he's a winner. But because he's always in shape, always ready to go a job.

Friday night he pulled off one of the sweetest jobs of his career, beating the Boston Red Sox and Tom Brewer 1-0 with a home run blast his own home run.

FULLS OUT OF JAMS

The only real fan trouble was a first-inning single by Pete Runnels, the second man Wynn faced. There were runners on all bases—but on walks—but Wynn left them behind him and quickly battled back with strikeouts to get out of jams. He fanned 14, his career high.

It was Wynn's 322nd victory tops among active pitchers, and 10th among all-time in the American League. It also left the White Sox with a share of first place in running Cleveland Indians, who bullied off a whale of a start, believes in a challenging victory over the New York Yankees on Wednesday.

NOT FAR BEHIND

Milwaukee's first-place Braves retained a slim (.032 of a percentage point) edge as Lopez whipped 6-4 by third-place San Francisco Giants — place Braves 7-6 in 10 innings. second - place Los Angeles Dodgers 5-3 and Philadelphia Phillies 7-6 in 10 innings.

The Cardinals, who had lost three straight, got within a game of the Braves by seven-run fourth inning capped by Alex Grammas's grand slam homer off Jim Brosnan with another three in the seventh, with Hal Smith's two-run triple the deciding blow.

Wilmer Mizell (3-1) won his third in a row, pitching seven innings in relief as the Pirates proved five in the last three innings. Dick Stuart's two-run homer topped a three-run seventh and Dick Groat connected with a run on in the ninth.

HOMERS CARRY GIANTS

Bob Schmidt unloaded a three-run homer with Dave Davenport smacked a solo homer as the Giants scored four runs in the fifth inning at Milwaukee. It was their first victory in three decisions against Lew Burdette.

Jerry Lynch belted a pair of homers for the Reds. His first came with a man on in the seventh, a four-run third inning against Don Drysdale (4-1), and was one of three straight. Lynch's other homer came in the eighth off reliever Art Fowler. Orlando Pena (1-1) was the winner, but needed Hal Jeffcoat's one-hit, shutout relief over the last 2 2-3 innings.

Jim Owens (1-1) beat the Cubs With a three-hitter, aided and abetted by homers from Willie Jones and Wally Post and a three-run double by Carl Sawatski that climaxed a three-run fourth against Moose Haas (2-2). The Cubs collected their runs in the fourth scoring on a walk, George Altman's triple and Jim Marshall's fly ball.

Major Leagues May Play Two All-Star Games

NEW YORK (AP)—Two major league all star baseball games may be played this year and such games will be played each year in the future.

Robin Roberts, Philadelphia Phillies pitcher and National League player representative, presented the proposal to the major league executive council Thursday and it was favorably received.

"The council liked it immediately," commissioner Ford Frick, who is chairman of the council, said Friday.

"Now it is up to a vote of the players, and I understand Frank Scott, the representative of the new players' central office, already has started the ball rolling.

"If the suggestion is approved by the players it will be submitted to the 16 club owners for their approval.

"It is impossible to say what the chances are of playing two all-star games this year, and I am under the impression that is the first, and I know the council and club owners can act fast if necessary."

Roberts' proposal, which has the support of Frank Yost, the American League representative on the pension committee, would take place whether agreed to by different sections of the country. The additional games used for the promotion of amateur baseball, the pension fund, pension, and other purposes to be decided upon later.

Great Bolo's Secret Weapon Scores Direct Hit on Yukon

The Great Bolo may be visiting chosen in Upper Mongolia or wherever he hails from — but there he is just another Bolo. After last night's goalkicking of Ukon Eric, the orchard of the hillside eye has definitely been smacked matinee, will in future be searched at the door for secret weapons.

Or, in lieu, be given a one-way ticket to Bolowella or wherever baby Bolos are incubated.

For two and one-third fails, the Bolo, who yodels to himself in Bolovet, was nothing more than a yo-yo for the Yukes.

Eric flipped him, threw him, hooked him, hooked him, "back-broke" him, even lectured him on the futility of the week.

But Bolo outmauled "no one." He probably had a touch of Yukon London going between the ears.

Don Jardine, a handsome 19-year-old Canadian newcomer won fandom's eye by the seminude as fast scientific display the net wins him the nod over Gerard Frank Brine of the Yukes.

Besides he was mad. The Yukes nearly unmasked him on several occasions. Twice he remanded the unconscious to the mask of wrestling mantis while lifting at him. Twice he was set for justice. He warned the Yukes that unveiling ceremonies would take place after the bout, not while he was having a good time.

Besides, the Bolo was not ready to use the "secret weapon." Considering that he would deive deep inside his trunks to ascertain if the missile was ready for take-off.

The Yuke had splattered him with just about all with a back-breaker after nine minutes of the first half.

The pair hooked up in a roly-poly duel in the second frame, locking head to head, each top then the other, with Maxwell proving his accomplishment methodically counting. Once he reached "three", and unluckily for the Yukes it was the first to be on the bottom of the heap.

Early in the third period Eric figured he might make the fifth round of the heavyweight fight, and decided to end it all. Still Bolo had other plans. He reached inside his trunks and pulled the pin on the "secret weapon".

His strategy worked. When the Now Yuke has a sympathetic nature especially when referees are rendered hors-de-combat. He helped him all fours and leaned over the prone official. That was Bolo's chance.

Hebert Still Leads Pack in Colonial Golf

FORT WORTH, Tex. (CP)— Canadian Lionel Hebert shot three-under-par golf—including a five-birdie finish on the final green Friday—to lead the pack as the $27,500 Colonial National Invitation golf tournament entered its second half today.

Hebert got off to a tremendous challenge from the great Ben Hogan as he tied the 36-hole record for the Colonial at 136 with 67.

Hogan shot a three-under-par 67 himself and was inching closer to Hebert as they came into the final green. Then Hebert sank a 40-foot putt for a birdie and he went on to par the hard ball ruled straight and true and the former PGA champion, seeking his first tournament triumph this year, made it two strokes over Hogan, who had a long putt on the 18th and wound up with 136 for 36 holes.

On the back nine, Byron Nelson shot a four-under-par 31. It gave him a 67 for the day and made him 145 for 36 holes.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver was second with 72 rounds of 75 and 72 gave him a half-way total of 147 for a share of 21st place with five other players.

Luton, Forest Meet for Coveted Cup

By VERNON MORGAN

LONDON (Reuters) — Teams with dismal league performances this season will provide record crowds to meet today for England's biggest soccer prize.

The football Association Cup game between Luton Town and Nottingham Forest at both the windup of the English soccer season and the climax to countless matches involving more than 400 teams representing everything from tiny town to the big cities.

The first rounds began last September, with only one defeat meriting elimination. Such league powerhouses as Wolverhampton, defending champions, Bolton and Manchester United all failed to survive the gruelling test.

Nottingham and Luton both were rated as extreme longshots even to reach the final. Their league records were less than mediocre—Nottingham won only 17 of its 42 scheduled games and Luton took only 13.

But the long shots, both squads were unbeatable.

The poor records of the teams failed to deter soccer fans. A capacity crowd of 100,000 is assured for Wembley Stadium and scalpers were asking more than £25 for 30-shilling tickets.

Queen and Prince Philip will attend.

Many British sportswriters are forecasting the dullest cup final in years.

HUGE BATHS

The Diocletian baths, largest of the ancient Roman public baths, accommodated 3,000 persons at a time.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto's 160th year of supervised thoroughbred racing begins Monday at Old Woodbine racetrack Monday. The spring meeting at Canada's oldest course will continue until May 30.

Eight racing dates, officially, from the first running of the Queen's Plate at the Carlaw track June 27, 1860.

Old Woodbine, which has been on existence as a racetrack since 1874, will offer eight stakes races during its 21-day spring meeting.

At Carlaw, the 25-day spring meeting concluded today with the running of the $7,000 Vigil Handicap at six furlongs. The horses move immediately to Toronto.

AT THE BELLE — Richard Egan, as a rancher-gambler, and Lee Remick, as a dance hall girl, in a scene from "Those Thousand Hills," now playing at the Belle, Don Murray and Patricia Owen also star in this action all the way, Color outdoor production.

AT THE McCARTHY — "Never Steal Anything Small" opens Monday at the Odeon McCarthy and Belleville Drive-In Theatres. The plot of "Never Steal Anything Small" thickens as Roger Smith, naive young lawyer for a waterfront local, is seized by his boss, James Cagney, to take custody of $500,000 worth of stolen watch movements while Cara Williams and Robert White witness the illegal act. Shirley Jones is starred with Cagney in the lively, rugged drama, which is from a Maxwell Anderson-Rouben Mamoulian play. Universal-International production, in Color and CinemaScope, was directed by Charles Lederer and produced by Aaron Rosenberg.

At the Park

First Showings

"The Spy On Wilhelmstrasse," Columbia Pictures' startling story of a British espionage agent who spent 25 years working his way up to the rank of German general stars Jack Hawkins and Gia Scala at the Park Theatre Monday. Erik Schuman, Alexander Knox and Felix Aylmer are featured.

Hawkins, who embarzoned his name on screens throughout the world with his performance in the Academy Award-winning "The Bridge on the River Kwai," plays the British Intelligence officer who insinuates himself into the confidence of the German High Command and even becomes Hitler's favorite general. When the head of the British spy ring, Aylmer, is caught by the Nazis, Hawkins works with a beautiful radio singer Miss Scala. Through an intricate musical code, which is sent out on the air every time she sings over the German radio, Hawkins continues his reports.

Schumann, popular young German star here making his English-language debut, plays Hawkins' suspicious Gestapo aide while Knox is seen as a Gestapo official.

SECOND FEATURE

The deadly compact between a relentless murder ring and a hired killer with strange hates and very strange fears provides the suspenseful substance of "Murder By Contract," a Columbia Pictures' release. The new thriller, starring Vince Edwards and co-starring Phillip Pine and Herschel Bernardi, opens Monday at the Park Theatre as the second feature.

AT THE PARK — It's "Murder by Contract" as Vince Edwards is about to strangle lovely Dolores Dorn in the Columbia Pictures' release opening Monday at the Park Theatre. Or the same program fantastic exploits of a master spy "The Spy On Wilhelmstrasse" stars Jack Hawkins, Gia Scala and Alexander Knox. Both attractions are first Belleville showings.

Edwards plays a young man with a bright future in a growing industry . . . murder. Pine and Bernardi are cast as two accomplices entrusted by the murder ring to help Edwards carry out one of his deadly assignments.

Their intended victim is a beautiful young woman being held in protective custody by the police; she is to be a governmental witness. Edwards goes about planning her execution as methodically as a bookkeeper totting up a column of figures but his several murder attempts fail, and Mr. Big of the murder ring orders Edwards' disposal.

TIPS

by JOHN WEITZLAUFER

Most budget-minded people want to extend the life of their television set as long as possible and keep repair bills to a minimum. Some folks have even wondered about turning off the picture while listening to musical programs in order to prolong the life of the picture tube.

Actually, this is of no benefit whatever. For this idea to work, your set would have to be equipped with special audio switches which would turn off the filaments in the picture tube.

The best way to save money on television maintenance is to have repair work done only by qualified and reliable technicians. CIRCLE TV SERVICE, 364 Coleman St., have the equipment and experienced men to quickly diagnose and repair all TV ailments. Phone WO 8-6791 (in Trenton EX 2-7689).

Space Jockeys May Replace Gunslingers on TV Screens

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Can the space jockeys shoot down the gunslingers?

Paramount TV boss Jim Schulke thinks so. He is masterminding the film company's brush into the TV filming business with a new show called Destination Space. It's Schulke's opinion that the next big cycle in home-screen entertainment will be space exploration.

Apparently CBS shares his faith. The network is backing the series and scheduling it in the 7:30-8:30 p.m. Tuesday time-period against Laramie on NBC and Bronco-Sugarfoot on ABC.

Destination Space is in good hands. The actors include John Agar and Cecil Kellaway. Director of the pilot was Joseph Pevney (Away All Boats, Tammy and the Bachelor, Torpedo Man.)

The co-producer and writer is Ib Melchior with the delightful name of Rip van Ronkel. He was a writer of the excellent Destination Moon.

"When we did the picture," he recalled, "the events were said to be at least 25 years off. That was nine years ago, and today the seven men who will make the first flight into space have been named. And there is a good chance that at least one of them will reach the moon."

Keeping up with the latest developments is his problem, for the series is aiming at authenticity. The space agencies have helped him. "But I don't want to see any classified material about future developments," he said. "I don't want them to interfere with my dreams. And what they have in planning is more fantastic than anything I can dream."

Getting plots is the main problem, he added.

"We're getting good stories, and good characters, too. The spaceman is a new type—not the hotshot pilot at all. He's a solid engineer."

"WE SPECIALIZE IN PAPERING STAINING — GYPTEXING — WALLBOARD WORK"

Presenting the traditional "topper" to the master of the first vessel into Belleville harbor is Harbormaster Mac Smith (second from left). Receiving the award is Captain John Joseph Lawrence (centre), master of the Coalfax. On the other side is Captain Lorne McCartney, master of the Coalfax for the past 25 years. Also participating in the ceremonies were G. H. "Bud" Tripp (left), secretary of the Harbor Commission, and Harry "Senator" Rollins, chairman of the commission. Two toppers were presented, one to each captain.

Old ship . . . new season . . . old topper . . . new skipper. Captain John J. Lawrence, a native of Kingston, is resplendent in the "Allen Cup" silk topper, as he stands on the wharf just aft of his ship "Coalfax", as she unloads her cargo. The topper, which headed off the Allan Cup parade of a year ago, will remain in Belleville.

Both Masters Get Top Hats From Commission

Belleville's harbormaster, Mac Smith, was faced with a somewhat difficult problem yesterday. On hand to present the traditional silk topper to the master of the first vessel to dock in this harbor, Mr. Smith was confronted with two captains on board the "Coalfax," out of Montreal, a coal carrier belonging to the Hall Corporation of Canada.

The masters on board included Captain Lorne McCartney, master of the "Coalfax" for a number of years and a Great Lakes captain for 25 years, and Captain John Joseph Lawrence of Kingston, the new master of the vessel concerned. The reason for the two captains being on board is that it is Capt. Lawrence's maiden cruise with this vessel and Capt. McCartney was showing him the "ropes," or as Capt. McCartney put it, "you might call me supercargo."

Harbormaster Smith, accompanied by Harry (Senator) Rollins and G. H. (Bud) Tripp, chairman and secretary of the Belleville Harbor Commission, respectively, solved the problem by allowing that a topper should be provided for each of the captains. Captain McCartney will be taking command of a new ship, the "Southcliffe Hall," after this voyage. The "Coalfax" was delivering a load of 1,630 tons of coal to the Moira-Schuster dock and remained in dock overnight.

tectives before a parliamentary committee."

These "charming creatures" were supplementing their income "by doing a bit of investigating" at night and "it must be said that they brought their cases to a very successful conclusion."

They managed "to put a great deal of hearsay evidence on the record" of the Senate divorce committee, which is charged with recommending on divorce applications. "I can only presume that the gentlemen who heard the evidence were extraordinarily gallant that day and gave a certain leeway to these lady detectives."

The women detectives "acted just like men detectives . . . one of them, stuck her foot in the door so it could not be closed, and they both marched in."

Mr. McCleave also noted that "quite a number of these amateur detectives appearing in divorce cases do not have licences issued by either the provincial or municipal authorities in Quebec."

Sin of another kind occupied the Commons earlier as MPs completed detailed study of the $106,096,832 spending program of the agriculture department.

In a lighthearted way, Frank Howard (CCF-Skeena) suggested Agriculture Minister Harkness is involved in sinful doings, if sin could be used to describe his department's supervision of race track betting.

The minister explained that the $591,315 his department spends in this way is really striking a blow against sin — to make sure there's "no hanky-panky at the track."

Russian Guards Whisk Diplomat Out Of Burma

Rough Up Reporters Trying to Question Him

RANGOON, Burma (AP) — A Soviet military attache who apparently had tried to escape from the Russian guards by jumping from a hospital window was flown out of Rangoon Sunday on a Communist plane.

A screen of 40 hefty Russians from the Soviet Embassy roughed up reporters and prevented them from questioning him.

Eyewitnesses at the hospital said the attache was Col. Mikhail I. Stryguine, who apparently was taken to political asylum in Burma.

The slightly built, haggard looking man was brought to the airport in a Soviet Embassy car minutes before a Chinese Communist transport plane took off for Rangoon and Peiping. He was hustled aboard with such haste that most of his personal baggage was left behind.

A weeping woman identified as his wife, a Russian nurse and two guards accompanied him.

The attache's departure followed a dose of sleeping pills. It was reported he had threatened to commit suicide. He told the must return to the Soviet Union. His wife and two Russians sat with him all night, she woman weeping almost continuously.

The next day, Stryguine shouted invective in English against the Burmese regime and his associates at the embassy. He asked that Burmese officials be summoned. Apparently he wanted to ask their protection.

The two Russians then demanded that he return to the embassy. He broke away from them, threw himself through a first-floor window in what one witness said was "a leap for life," not a suicide attempt.

He was brought back, given a sedative and bundled into a car by the Russians.

REPORTERS BESHED

As Stryguine stepped from the car at the airport, a reporter called out, "Have you anything to say to the press?"

Police Stryguine could say a word, a wedge of three Russians rushed the reporter and threw him aside. They surrounded him and pushed the other reporters away and seized the cameras of two photographers.

COULD CAUSE WAR

MANCHESTER, England (Reuters)—Earl Russell says a million pounds would be enough production of radar, or temporary insanity of one person in control of the means of one who had charge of nuclear weapons could result in a nuclear war. Earl Russell, president of the as scientist-philosopher Bertrand Russell, told 3,000 persons attending a meeting of the campaign for nuclear disarmament that leaders of both sides have agreements were proposing to increase nuclear weapons other nations to have atom bombs.

Death Sentence For Policeman's Slayer Debated

LONDON (AP) — The issue of capital punishment is again causing sharp controversy in Britain.

Ronald Marwood, 25 - year - old hockney, is due to be hanged Friday for fatally shooting police-con Raymond Summers, 23, in a fare hall.

Not since blonde Ruth Ellis was hanged more than four years ago has Britain been so divided on the capital punishment question. She was hanged for shooting her former lover.

A new homicide law was enacted later which abolished capital punishment for all but a few specific cases of murder—and seems the killing of a policeman.

It is this aspect of the case that has aroused much feeling in Wood's cause. If he had killed a civilian he would be hanged.

About 150 members of Parliament oppose the death penalty. They are all Labor MPs except for seven Conservatives and one Liberal.

They have petitioned Home Secretary Richard A. Butler for a reprieve. He also has been petitioned with a number petitions which had 10,000 signatures. Most of these were collected by Marwood's 24-year-old wife, Pamela. A large number of Conservative MPs are determined to disregard such petitions. They maintain the whole point of the homicide law is to protect policemen.

CASTRO URGES U.S. HELP FOR LATIN AMERICA

Asks Thirty Billion Over 10-Year Period

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—Fidel Castro said Saturday the United States should provide $30,000,000,000 over a 10 - year period to achieve economic stability in Latin America.

The Cuban prime minister called for the U.S. to back such a program for Latin American development to thwart social upheaval he said might bring Communist dictatorships.

He told the committee of the 21: the economic branch of the Organization of American States (OAS), that the figure he cited can come only from U.S. public funds and not from private investment.

QUERIGHT AID "EASY"

Outright aid, he said, "is the easiest process for the United States" to furnish the required assistance.

"What would America be if the constitutional governments of Latin day fell into the hands of armed minorities?" Castro asked.

There was no immediate comment from the U.S. delegation on Castro's speech. But the delegation already has made clear that it is reluctant to go beyond present commitments.

Formal speeches by delegates to the OAS committee meeting have closed and it was not known when the U.S. would give its direct reply to Castro's appeal.

MAY BE DROPPED

Indications were that the Cuban leader's plan may not even be brought up again.

Officials hoped the usually sedate conference by his blunt speech lasting an hour and 20 minutes. He was applauded frequently during the end was punctuated by many delegates.

Augusto Frederico Schmidt, the Brazilian delegate, declared "it is the kind of speech I would have liked to have made."

'Progress Ontario' Keynote PC Campaign for Re-election

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost today proclaimed "Progress Ontario" as the keynote of his Progressive Conservative party's campaign for re-election in the June 11 Ontario election.

He announced the date this morning, 10 years after he was sworn in as premier, and then issued a 20,000-word "report to the people" seeking support on his government record and the future promise of still greater progress in the future.

"These last 10 years, beyond all comparison, have witnessed the greatest development in the history of our province," his message said. "Mighty and spectacular has been our development, the future holds even greater promise.

"At this time, in the same spirit as that of 1948, I ask for the confidence of the people and a mandate to go ahead with our great program."

Premier Frost outlined general objectives for the future and added this statement: "The magnitude of what is proposed is too great to be dealt with exhaustively in this address to the electors. There are many other details and policies which will be disclosed in the ensuing campaign."

The 21 - page manifesto said the PC party for government's achievements belongs not to the premier or his cabinet but to the government members, and behind them the great body of people who have honored us all with their confidence."

Native Canadian Attains Beatification in St. Peter's

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Another 18th-century Quebec, man became the first native Canadian to attain beatification highest church step to sainthood—in a special Sunday service in St. Peter's Basilica.

Sister Marie Therese Marguerite d'Youville (1701 - 1771) was named beatified by decree of Pope John XXIII, 80 years after the cause of her beatification was presented to the Vatican.

The Canadian nun who had six children of her own devoted her life to children, the sick, poor and old, in founding orphanages, nursing homes and the interdenominational order of Grey Nuns.

Among the Canadians were several members of the Quebec Provincial Cabinet and Marguerite, the Sisters of Charity, known as the Grey Nuns. Also present was Sister Jean-Marie Deblois of Ottawa, whose cure from tuberculosis was a first complaint in 1927 in one of the two miracles attributed to Sister d'Youville. The other miracle, also the cure of a woman, occurred in 1959.

Paul Emile Cardinal Leger, Archbishop of Montreal, chanted the beatification formula at the culminating moment of the ceremony, declaring that Sister d'Youville "that listed Mother d'Youville's name among the blessed of the Roman Catholic Church.

At that moment, drapes were drawn from two paintings of the newly blessed. The paintings showed Sister Marguerite in the glory of heaven, her hands open and extended, a bright light behind her.

On the late afternoon Pope John, in glittering robes, attended a second service for the beatification of Sister Marguerite Marguerite. Following custom, he celebrated a "beatification ceremony" in the morning.

Removing his red biretta, the Pontiff knelt before the altar bearing the Blessed Marguerite's picture on a great hush fell over the basilica as he prayed in silence.

Then the pontiff was presented traditional gifts, which included a silver plaque of the nun containing a small bit of her bone, a portrait of the nun on a silken banner and a gold medallion of her life.

Born at Varennes, 15 miles east of Montreal, Blessed Marguerite was educated by the Ursuline Convent in Quebec. In 1722 she married Francois d'Youville and had six children. Four girls died and two sons became priests. Her husband died in 1730 and she devoted herself to the care of children, the infirm, the old and the poor.

In 1737 she organized a group of women devoted to charity. After years of facing disapproval and criticism she began relieving crippling debts and a ravaging fever. Her personal acts of charity was recognized by the Roman Catholic Church in 1358.

Charitable institutions under the care of the Grey Nuns are in many parts of the world.

Canada's ambassador in Italy, Leon Mayrand, led a Canadian civil delegation. Also present were seven archbishops and 18 other bishops from all parts of Canada.

Cuba Becoming Red Beachhead Says CBS Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Cuba is a dictatorship and is rapidly becoming a Communist beachhead in the Caribbean, a Columbia Broadcasting System correspondent said Sunday.

"The inescapable fact is that Cuba is a Communist country," Bert Novins said in a CBS TV broadcast. Novins returned from a three-month stay in Cuba.

Under Premier Fidel Castro power is being taken over by the Communists, Novins said, "and the Communists have moved into key posts in the army, press, radio, schools and unions, the correspondent added.

There is no evidence to support the charge that Fidel Castro is a Communist, Novins said, "he has provided and supported a program of social reorganization. He has provided and supported an expression of anti-Americanism that is spreading fast."

There was no immediate comment on the broadcast from any U.S. government agencies specified by Novins. Castro has said he and his brother Raul are not Communists and he has made public denunciations of Communist influences in Cuba.

SOME PROBLEMS ON NEW SEAWAY COME TO LIGHT

High Winds Halt Huge Ocean Ships

MONTREAL (CP) — After a week of ironing out the kinks, the St. Lawrence Seaway settled down today to routine operations.

People on ships and on shore locked a few jokes about life with the new $475,000,000 maritime highway, none of them pleasant and some unpleasant.

By 4 p.m. Sunday, the last of the huge queue of ships that had piled up in Montreal harbor waiting for the seaway to open was cleared into the 135-mile system of locks and canals. Operators now are ready for full-scale traffic.

The count for the first eight days of operation was 160 lakes-bound ships entering the seaway at its first lock, Montreal-St. Lambert, and 66 leaving it bound for overseas.

SEVERAL ITERRUPTIONS

A few of the seaway's opening days were ripple - free. Others weren't. The Santa Regina, first United States ship through the seaway got stuck in the seaway canal and had to be hauled around in some parts. Later it was learned that the seaway should be equipped with tugs for passengers instead of smooth steel ones.

A jammed wire-rope fender at Beauharnois set the pace for others from Montreal, held up traffic for a few hours shortly after the entrance was opened.

Traffic was held up for 16 hours, at Beauharnois again, when a lift bridge jammed halfopen. The jamming caused the freighter Prescott to drop anchor suddenly in an attempt to keep from hitting the bridge. The current sowing the freighter against the bridge and crosswise across the channel. Tugs pulled her free.

Farther downstream the Canadian freighter Auguste Schulte ran aground outside the Eisenhower locks at Massena, N.Y., and was stalled for a few hours.

Stopped gate cables at the first lock held up shipping on the Welland Canal Sunday. The canal has been closed for the winter season after vessels rammed into locked gates.

The 16,000-ton Greek freighter Panglotis L, after a hectic start, was stuck in the Welland Canal locks and low water levels became the first big cause since the seaway to Lakehead and load grain. Then it found loading facilities difficult at Port Arthur.

Loading spouts at Saskatchewan Wheat Pool elevators were about 10 feet too low to pour grain into the ship's holds.

A decision was made to pump 1,300 tons of water into the ballast tanks to raise the ship low

Second Major Move to Develop Low Cost A-Plants for Arctic

CHALK RIVER, Ont. (CP)— Crown-owned Atomic Energy of Canada Limited has taken a major and major move in less than a week in an attempt to develop low cost atomic power plants for the Canadian Arctic.

Wallace R. Gray, president of the company which operates this Canadian atomic establishment 120 miles northwest of Ottawa, announced today that a $200,000 contract has been awarded to Canadian Westinghouse for a study of a small power plant using enriched uranium as a fuel.

Mr. Gray made the announcement at a symposium on electric power attended by about 45 representatives of private and public power corporations and other companies interested in the development of electric energy from the atom.

Atomic Energy of Canada announced last Tuesday that it had awarded a $600,000 contract to the Canadian General Electric Company Limited for a design study and development of a nuclear power station suitable for general Canadian and Arctic use. This plant and others now being built or planned for the south would use natural uranium as a fuel.

Mr. Gray said the new study by Canadian Westinghouse would involve a small scale plant suitable for remote areas.

The study will be conducted in close association with the United States Atomic Energy Commission which has had wide experience in the use of enriched uranium as a fuel. It is a source of power for U.S. aircraft carriers and submarines.

"We hope that within a year we will have enough information to be able to evaluate the best type of atomic power plant for the Canadian north," Mr. Gray said.

Officials here said any enriched uranium used in a Canadian plant would have to be bought from the United States. Enriched uranium is produced in plants costing up to $1,000,000,000 and is used mainly in the American weapons program.

MacDonald Says Ontario Govt. On Defensive

TORONTO (CP)—CCF Leader Donald MacDonald said today that "we welcome" Premier Frost's announcement of a June 11 election.

Mr. MacDonald said the party is better off than it has been for many years. Its present strength was reminiscent of the election years 1943 and 1948 when the CCF won 34 and 21 seats respectively. The CCF had three seats in the last legislature.

"The government is on the defensive on major issues more than any Conservative administration since 1943. On many of the issues it is the CCF that has been responsible for the CCF has taken the opportunity of taking it to the people."

Mr. MacDonald announced he will campaign in Brantford Thursday, Hamilton Friday and Thursday and Wroxeter Saturday.

Frost Requests Dissolution Of Ont. Legislature

Nomination Day Set For Thursday, May 28

TORONTO (CP) — An Ontario election for Thursday, June 11, was called today by Premier Frost on his 10th anniversary in office.

The 63-year-old premier asked Lieutenant-Governor J. Keiller Mackay for dissolution of the legislature, then called in reporters to make the announcement.

"I am here to give an accounting", he said and issued a 21-page manifesto outlining government achievements since he was sworn in as premier May 4, 1949.

"It is all part of a dynamic economics creed — more people, more industry, more jobs, more wages, more opportunities," said the premier.

NOMINATION DAY MAY 28

Meanwhile, election writs were being issued for 98 new members of the legislature. Nomination day was set for Thursday, May 28.

At dissolution the premier's Progressive Conservative party held 83 of the 98 legislature seats, Liberals 11 and CCF three. There was one vacancy, a PC riding.

Premier Frost said he was "purely coincidental" his announcement came on the 10th anniversary. Thursday was "the most convenient day for the public as well as the political parties and television coverage. Then of Ontario's previous 25 elections, 20 were held in June.

The last election was held June 5, 1955. Legislatures are elected for a five-year term but Ontario elections have been held no more than four years apart since the Conservatives began an unbroken string of office with George Drew.

In 1955, Conservatives captured 83 seats, Liberals 11 and CCF three with one going to an independent Conservative and one to an independent Progressive Conservative.

The Liberal and the CCF each nominated two candidates during the election.

The Liberals were R. A. Stew-

Challenging Messages, Thrilling Music Mark Crusade for Christ

Greater Belleville Crusade for Christ opened with its first rally on Saturday night in the Collegiate auditorium with the Rev. E. Barry Moore, M. A. as guest speaker, and the Reverend Wes. Aarum, M.A. as choir director of 70 young people, accompanied by a brass section with Clarence Bell at the piano and Mrs. Shelly at the organ.

Lee Grills, South Hastings member of the Federal Govern ment and his worship, Mayor Gerald R. Hyde, extended greetings on behalf the district and city of Belleville.

An exciting moment for the high school students was the final quiz of the year with the two top teams of this series, Tweed High School and Deseronto High School competing with Deseronto winning with a score of 220 points to Tweed's 190.

NEW THINGS

Mr. Moore presented a challenging message on the topic "New Things", using Saul of Tarsus, who became Paul the evangelist to the Gentiles, describing his spiritual attitude at the death of Stephen, the first martyr of the Church, explaining . . . "If any man be in Christ, he is a new creature; old things are passed away; behold, all things are become new."

On Sunday afternoon, Mr. Moore gave another challenging message bearing upon the part of the Christian children (teenagers) in their realationship to God in their families and in their future theme, "Squares in the Family Circle", or "Who Is Boss in Your House?" "Through these things many felt the need of a closer walk with God in their lives which they had never realized before.

The music on Sunday afternoon thrilled many hearts as presented by the choir under the direction of Wes. Aarum, with special arrangements sung at both rallies. Before the evening service Mr. Moore took the solo part in that grand tribute to God, "How Great Thou Art."

On Saturday night there were two decisions for Christ, and on Sunday afternoon a great many made it their 'hour of decision'.

Cobourg Will Play in District League

The Cobourg Merchants will play in the Belleville and District Softball league this season.

Contacted by phone this morning a representative of the club announced that the Cobourg team had decided yesterday to definitely stick with the Belleville league rather than return to the Peterborough loop.

The announcement will be greeted with relief by local softball enthusiasts. There are four entries in the league, including Cobourg and had the Merchants withdrawn speculation here was that the league would have been forced to fold.

Teams in the grouping now are Point Anne, Belleville Bobcats, Trenton and Cobourg.

Cobourg had an earlier this year that they would re-enter the Peterboro but last week, after it was announced that there would be only four entries, they joined the Peterborough league at meetings. The Cobourg club played in the Peterborough league prior to entering the Belleville grouping.

Sports editor Layton Dodge of the Cobourg Sentinel Star, said this morning that Cobourg would come to agreeable terms with the Peterborough league. They were said to be all for their games in Peterborough but after a couple of Belleville games were finally alloted only six. They were told all playoff games must be played in Peterborough.

Dodge also said that both leagues have only four entries so that was not one of the reasons the team is seeking entry here. He said that the travelling distance to Belleville made a difference since the players sometimes find it difficult to get off work in time to play a seven o'clock game here. The Belleville and Point Anne teams do not have flood lights.

Finally, after weighing the advantages and disadvantages of both leagues, the Merchants decided to stick with Belleville.

Three Tweed Girls Hurt Near Madoc

Three teen-age girls from Tweed and a provincial police constable from Madoc were injured Saturday night on Highway No. 7 near Madoc in which the three girls were riding plowed into the police cruiser as it was stopped at a crossroad waiting to go onto the highway.

Miss Elizabeth Neville General Hospital were Carol Lynn, 17, R. R. 2 Tweed, driver of the car, who suffered a broken right knee; her sister, Marion, 19, also with a broken knee; and Marion Palmateer, 16, of R. R. 2 Tweed with facial cuts.

Constable B. D. Shaw, alone in the police cruiser, suffered a broken nose and other injuries in the first car. Cleo Wiley, 17 or Madoc, and Donald Reid, 18, of Tweed, were uninjured.

Police said the cruiser had been westbound on the-road leading from Crystal Beach and had stopped at the approach to No. 7 highway. While the officer was waiting for traffic to pass the intersection in which the three girls were riding apparently missed the left curve on the highway and plowed into the waiting cruiser.

Both vehicles were badly damaged.

MP'S AND THEIR PAY

Douglas Fisher, CCF member of Parliament from Port Arthur, says that most members of the Commons need more than the present $10,000 a year to carry on a proper family life and discharge their duties adequately.

Mr. Fisher, we suspect, considers it essential that the man of the house should spend some time in it and should be available to help solve the normal family problems. This would mean that most members would have to maintain two homes, one in Ottawa, while the House of Commons is in session, and another in their own constituency, when the House has prorogued. This would be expensive. Still, many men maintain a home on considerably less than half of $10,000 a year, so some would find this sum adequate. Most members, though, must find it difficult to maintain two homes on $10,000 and still live in the style to which they were accustomed before election to Commons. Mr. Fisher, therefore, is basically right.

J. W. Pickersgill said that private members of the Commons should not regard their membership as a full-time job but could represent their constituents better by earning their living in the way others must do. The problem is that it is becoming increasingly difficult for a member to follow this formula. The demands on the time of an MP are becoming greater and greater. Even decades ago members who were not, in the phrase of the quiz-masters, self-employed found it difficult to earn a living. That was one of the reasons for advocating adequate remuneration for members; otherwise economic pressure would have restricted membership to certain classes. Today, though, even the self-employed person, unless he chances to be the proprietor of a business, must find it difficult to augment his salary as a member in the comparatively short period during which he is free from his duties as a member.

Mr. Fisher's suggestion of another increase in salary for MP's is one solution. A better one, we suggest, would be an attempt to revise procedure so that sessions of the House were not so long.

It would be difficult to do this without curtailing debate and this cannot be countenanced, for it would jeopardize the reason for Parliament's existence. Still, much of the talking serves little good purpose. Increasing committee work might also save some time.

Of one thing we can be certain, disregarding entirely the question of remuneration for the members, if the present trend continues Parliament will eventually fail to serve its purpose, because members will be spending all their time in the House and will have no time to learn about the problems, desires and opinions of the people whom they are paid to represent.

FICKEREL RUN OVER

"The pickerel run," reports the Tweed office of the Department of Lands and Forests, "is complete in the Napanee division with the exception of the Trent River where a few late spawners are still in evidence."

If this is true, it raises an interesting question.

If the spawning season is over, why should the opening of the fishing season be delayed for a couple of weeks?

One would have thought that the tardy spring this year would have resulted in spawning occurring later than usual. If this is so, then is the spawning season usually over two or three weeks before the May 15 opening date for bass? If so, why not have the fishing open earlier? This earlier opening would probably result in more fish being caught, but would such an increase in the catch really endanger the pickerel population, providing the fish had all been allowed to spawn first? And might not an earlier opening date reduce the illegal taking of spawning pickerel by those who offer as an excuse the argument that these fish have left our rivers and shores before they can be legally taken?

TWO STOREY HOUSE

The two-storey house is coming back, as architects bow to the inexorable cycle of fashion.

It is now good style to make an upstairs and a downstairs in the home and to separate the respective floors into rooms, rather than "areas". Privacy, says one authority, is becoming important again and the "airy open" for casual living" is passing.

In an old fashioned way, we applaud the return of rooms, with doors to shut out intruders.—Victoria Daily Times.

JUST FOLKS

THE OTHER FELLOW

By EDGAR A. GUEST

The other fellow's shoulders
Must be big and strong, I'm sure,
For he has to bear the burdens
That's not somehow won't endure.
The other fellow must be
Very big and strong of limb,
For whene'er disaster follows
Many put the blame on him.

It's the other fellow's weakness
That's responsible, of course
For the times we fail and blunder
And exhibit lack of force.
It's the other fellow's error,
If the truth were only known,
That accomplishes our downfall
And the fault is ne'er our own.

Brother, spare the other fellow;
He has burdens just like you.
He is struggling for a living
And he has his troubles, too
Stand right up and face the music,
Be a man and play the game;
If you fail, take what is coming;
But don't try to shift the blame.

New Glossary For Africans

Peterborough Examiner

Events in Africa, particularly in the Central African Federation of Northern and Southern Rhodesia and Nyasaland, are becoming an acute embarrassment to the United Kingdom, Governor Dominion, Ghana, in what might be reasonably accepted as an expression of sympathy, the Assembly stood in silence for three minutes as those who been killed in disturbances in Federation. Then this set the newly elected Premier of the Federation, Sir Roy Welensky, accused Ghana of "unbridled hostility" and "an African national movement; a strange attitude in many minds.

But in Africa there is a new glossary of political terms. These have been included by our correspondent, Guy Dunn, in a book to be published in April called Central African Witness. We give some of the definitions here:

Democracy: Government of a black majority by a white minority.

Franchise: A device for entailing that no person shall be defined above, shall remain in the system in Central Africa for the foreseable future.

For the foreseable future: For ever.

The vote: A dangerous weapon, safe only in the hands of persons with a thousand years of background.

Partnership: A political system existing in a multiracial society where the blacks are kept permanently subservient to the whites.

Racialist: Any African who thinks that Africans ought to be the dominant group in Central Africa and are persuaded that this is not the case.

Non-racialist: Any European who thinks that Europeans ought to be dominant in Central Africa.

Responsible African: Any African who consistently supports the European point of view.

Irresponsible African: Any African who campaigns in what he conceives to be the interests of his own people.

This is a tart, but revealing, commentary on the state of affairs in Africa. At this point we need add nothing to it except that if such definitions are regarded as apt a great deal of trouble is brewing on the African continent.

Vestibules Are Mourned

Hamilton Spectator

The other day Mrs. Doris Schweitzer, president of the East Canal Building Company of Minneapolis, Minn., was quoted as saying that many of the newer houses are so small they don't allow for relaxation or conversation. Her solution: a modern map be a cause of juvenile delinquency instead of a cure.

That's not a question for sociologists, but we'll be quick to flat-footed in favor of the oldfashioned hall and vestibule or "tress" which were situated behind the front door of most big houses. They provided both a domestic decompression chamber, where the occupants shed the heat or cold of the great outdoors, hung up your coat and hat, shifted from the role assumed the festal expression with which they greeted the family.

Built in the vestibule or the hall stand, a heavy, sideboard-like piece of furniture which included a mirror, hooks and pegs for coats and those yellow mackinaws which many teenagers wore in the days of "Rebel Rouse" — the entire assembly was a large compartment with a heavy lid which lifted up like the door of a cyclone cellar. This was a handy storage place for old galoshes and umbrellas, which are now called overshoes, and a convenient receptacle Christmas or birthday presents and for literature which parents thought their children should be understand nor appreciate.

These large vestibule and hall stands often had metal stands attached to them to hold walking sticks and umbrellas, which also have lost much of their popularity with the progress of the motor age and the decline of the pedestrian.

But there is one enter many of the modern homes, the front door is opened, you find yourself virtually in the middle of the living room, warmly greeted by the host and hostess snarled at by children who have been deposited in the midst of their favorite television show. If you gave a wet umbrella in your hand to the other of concern, the dog barks (often it's the children's toys), while the lady of the house grabs the brolly and rushes to the bathroom with it. It can drip in the tub — while you stand on a wet rug feeling as welcome as Typhoid Mary at the country fair.

We must admit, despite all, that in spite of the other of houses and apartments are more convenient than the old multicornered, ventilated mansions. It's just that they're so much harder to smuggle things into, including oneself.

No Reason To Give Age

The Printed Word

"Disgusted" writes to a daily newspaper: "Why is it that for these last months in your paper the Princess Margaret Rose must always be referred to as the 27-year-old princess? One would think she is an old woman of fifty. Well, so was mentioned about a "32-year-old duke" visiting Canada and the technique also goes with other royalties. At every stop across Canada, a distinguished visitor's arrival not long ago was announced by radio cities commencing: "The 38-year-old Prince Philip . . ." The editors must have felt like exclaiming "OK, she's 38, so what?"

This devotion to vital statistics, on the part of newspaper and radio people, is of relatively recent origin, as Lorne Knowles who has occasion to search the files of Canadian dailies, even a decade back. Ages used to be stated only when they carried some significance, as in obituaries.

"Charge Man, 42, With Possessing Stolen Bonds". Here the implication is that men of 42 are seldom caught with stolen securities. Had it been someone of 31, or 56, the age would have no special notice.

Announcement that "the 62-year-old mayor adjourned court" has all the effect of a sly wink. The poor old guy can't have made it and won't be around much longer.

Except where it is relevant, why should age be news at all? Writing in Time, in a piece called Between-Commas, Richard Mallett suggests: "The idea might be that readers will be assumed to be interested to see somebody in the news and so will like to be reminded of his vital statistics. Or, conspicuously few people are slic-dent, or balding; but everybody has an age. Any chap whose name is in print here was actually born in the same year as Jesus Christ. That is a narrow escape I've had. It might have been worse.

As for stating age in order to give readers some kind of mental image, like Mr. Mallett points out, assumes the fantasy of identifying the age of the same age look alike, which anybody who has been a particular age will tell you is absurd. The age is quite untenable. "Some people of 50 are smooth as babies' beards (others don't even have chins)."

We should be grateful that interpreters of Shakespeare and Beethoven's Ninth have not been trained from mathematical interpolations. Will was content with general terms.

"Men are April when they woo, December when they wed; maids are May when they are maids, but the sky changes when they are wives."

Compilers of holy writ saw no need for age statistics in front of the names of Ishbad the Shuhite, Abner the son of Ner, or other prominent characters. We can now, mention of age was appropriate in obituaries. Thus, "All the days of Methuselah were nine hundred sixty and nine years. And he died".

Worry, Worry

Winnipeg Tribune

Canadians are economic hypochondriacs. We have continually taking our national temperature, feeling our pulse, seeing a crystal booming here, an inflation trend there. One danger is that we'll think of the economic ills as affecting all people of the country to the same degree.

Some people I know were saying the other night:

"We can't understand what it is that makes the So-and-So's. They had us to dinner a year or two ago. Then we had them to dinner. Then we had them again and we were launched on a valuable friendship. Then we didn't even send us a Christmas card now."

I know what's the matter. On that last dinner party my friends were half an hour late, but had a perfectly lovely explanation. On the second, the So-and-Sos arrived for dinner, only to find their host, my friends, barely in the house, and everything in a scatter-brained flutter.

It was the So-and-Sos themselves who told me:

"We don't bother with people who are late."

CANCER CANNOT BE TRANSMITTED FROM ONE PERSON TO ANOTHER

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can cancer be transmitted from one person to another, especially living in the same house? — Mrs. L.J.W."

The answer is positively no, for more than 50 years, ballon arches, blooms, curly hair or broken legs can be transmitted. Cancer is a degenerative problem, but one thing is certain: it is not contagious. It cannot be transmitted from person to person, no matter how often the contact. Not more than a broken leg or moles or stomach aches or hemorrhoids or poor eyesight or toothache can be transmitted. "I just isn't any kind of a disease. And for any that, let us be thankful. There's nothing else that cannot cancer which we can give any thanks.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Please explain fully the importance of diet to a diabetic, the danger of alcohol on him, and the meaning of blood sugar and acidosis.

You have given me a big order. I have written a few times, questions are answered in my booklet on "Diabetes, Modern Methods," which is still available. As to the diabetic who drinks — it's not recommended pastime. Drinking adds needless calor which the diabetic must [illegible] ion, may distort [illegible] and distort nor [illegible] take. It may upset [illegible] enough trouble as a diabetic should not [illegible] sake. (The booklet is available in return for 25 cents and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope. Address your letter to Dr. Molner in care of The Ontario Intelligencer, Box 250, Dundee, Illinois.)

Mrs. A.H.: Certainly go to a psychiatrist! And don't try to analyze your self-pity whatever you want to say by threatening that "If I don't find the answer I'll drive myself crazy." I'm [illegible] to go back to drinking." Your doctor is the proper person to do precisely what you suggest in your letter. See a psychiatrist. That's what psychiatrists are for.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I have just taken up smoking to relieve my nerves. I don't know whether I am doing the right thing. What is your opinion? —R.O."

If you are only just starting to smoke my advice is that you quit doing it. I doubt whether it will help your nerves any more than chewing gum or some other diversion.

Mrs. F.E.: Your letter is delightful and interesting. I'm glad to hear from you. Thanks for writing.

Taking Fun Out of Cars

Fort William Times-Journal

Engineers are reported to be planning to have motor cars guided by radar on United States highways. Radar sets would soon be fitted on front bumpers and would steer the automobile to follow a coded line painted down the centre of the road. The code would make use of dots and dashes signs, turn at intersections. Passengers could look at television, while the car drives itself.

How unrealistic these engineers are! Apparently they have little idea that they would deprive some wives of the joy of admiring their husbands' driving, and of the fun of block-seat driving. Do they not understand that the management of the car is a great part of the enjoyment which most drivers get out of driving?

The scheme may actually be put into operation within a few years. But people being what they are, it seems highly improbable that no-hand driving will become popular.

Keep Talking

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

KEEP THAT FAITH

We do more worthwhile things in this world by any other method. We couldn't walk from our beds to our stoves without this faith. We trust people because we have faith in them. We have faith in God and in ourselves fails, faith triumphs.

I once knew a great prayer by the great American orator Daniel Webster. He said: "Lord, I believe. Help Thou my unbelief." We all need to be guided, and steadied by a faith that is greater than our own. Every useful enterprise has been created through faith.

Great enterprises today are devoting more time and effort than ever before in getting close to their market. They have large staffs of people taking care of their "human relations." Faith plays a big part in educating a large number of people in their product. We couldn't walk from our beds to our stoves without this faith. We trust people because we have faith in them. We have faith in God and in ourselves. We can if we will. It must be inspired by faith. It is born of faith. It is possible every great invention. I am a believer in the fact that faith has cured many an illness. This body was born to be useful and the mind to be filled with faith. It is the corner stone to all achievements.

Keep that faith of yours. Do not let it die. Feed it to every possible test. Believe. Christ said: "Oh, ye of little Faith." Grow faith is the greatest power in one of us to "Impossible" it accomplish. We can if we will. It has been successfully proved again and again. Live by faith. Instill others with it. It is contagious

TOO BUSY

Are you so busy that you have forgotten how to live?

Some people seem a success out of everything in life except life itself. They apparently get what they want, but are engaged in worldly affluence year by year. They are personable, good looking people. Yet many of these people who outwardly appear the most fortunate in the world are haunted by a sense of frustration and failure.

Many people upon whom we look, saying that of course these are the happiest people on earth, are, in reality, the most miserable people on earth. There is many a social dowager who knows that she has done nothing but spoil the lives of others, interfered with their destinies, and spread discord everywhere. There are business men who know that in the gathering of their fortunes they have squeezed others. There are married people who care not at all for the spouse to whom they have taken vows. The most fortunate and unhappy people in all the world are not the people who lack money and position. They are people who are incapable of loving and being loved, who are caught up

ALL-PURPOSE CRAFT — Victor Sarapu (inset) of Lac du Bonnet, Man., started building a boat around a salvaged airplane engine and came up with this versatile craft. The plywood and metal craft can operate on land, water or ice, at speeds of up to 60 miles an hour. Mr. Sarapu doesn't claim the design is original but he says it is functional. The craft is used to transport goods along lakes and rivers in the Lac du Bonnet area. (CP Photo).

Salvaged Airplane Motor Now Used on Water Scooter

LAC DU BONNET Man. (CP)—Lorne Goulet was prepared to say goodbye to his small private airplane when he crashed into an ice-covered lake near Kenora Ont., three years ago.

He never expected to see its engine driving a queer-looking craft on a Manitoba lake, either on ice or in water. But that is what it's doing, and it can scoot across snowcovered ground.

The air intake on the small plane lead up shortly after taking off one day in November, 1956, which he tracked down with the craft.

"I got up one morning and saw the wolves coming out of the trees next to our place after killing a deer," he said. "We killed one and wounded the other.

"We just ran them down until we could get within shotgun range."

The boat, weighing about 900 pounds, cost $300. The hull is of three-quarter inch plywood, its bottom covered with sheet metal 1-16-inch thickness.

The square bow is shaped like a barge with its front curving down and inward. The cockpit is closed on three sides with a windshield and siding. Steering is done with a large rudder.

When a noise like an airplane drones across the Lee River area 15 miles north of here residents no longer look at the sky. They look for the scooter.

Cloudburst Topples Cottage Into Crater

HOUSE TOPPLED INTO WASHOUT —A windstorm, accompanied by torrential rain, toppled this house into a washout about 25 miles west of Sault Ste. Marie. Reports from the area indicated one dead and several injured. The area contains a settlement of summer cottages, some occupied the year round. (AP Wirephoto).

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — A cloudburst toppled a cottage into a water-dog crater, 25 miles west of here on the St. Mary's River.

Five persons were in the cottage. Three were brought to hospital here. Sheriff's deputies said furniture and appliances, tossed about as the cottage fell caused the injuries.

Mrs. Nancy Herro, 28-year-old Escanaba, Mich., mother of three, was killed. Her husband, Joseph, 29, was one of three admitted to hospital.

Also in hospital were the cottage owner, Hal Smith, 38, a Sault Ste. Marie businessman, and Donald A. Gocella, 32, of Green Bay, Wis. The three men were suffering from shock and injuries.

World Service Gathering Held By 'Y' Leaders

The Junior and Intermediate Boys' Leaders' Corps and the Girls' Leader Corps had a special World Service gathering last Friday evening. Held at the local "Y", the supper meeting was followed by a panel discussion by six people from various countries who outlined the work of the YMCA in their homelands. On the panel were (with homeland in parenthesis): Mrs. Ekamaidies (Greece); Miss Elizabeth Roper (England); Trix Byisma (Holland); Dave Davies (Southern Rhodesia); Tony Jacobs (Pakistan), and Jim Werry (Samoa Islands.)

The guest speaker for the occasion was Mr. A. S. Robb, a former YMCA board member and a member of the World Service Committee.

The recent father and son banquet of First Belleville was an outstanding success. The tables were beautifully decorated in the bright red and white colors of the group with miniature red and white paper neckerchiefs at each plate.

Some 110 people enjoyed a sumptuous turkey dinner prepared and served by the Scout Ladies' Auxiliary under the leadership of Mrs. Art Fort. Second helpings were the order of the evening for the little cub who can out-eat his big father is one of the mysteries of nature.

The banquet was chaired very capably by Group Committee chairman Mr. Art Athey who, following the dinner, introduced the head table guests. They were Art Fort, Scoutmaster; Canon A. S. McConnell, Padre of the Group; Jim Hamett, Group Commissioner; Phil Allcorn, District Commissioner; Frank Lancaster, President of the local Association; Reg Churcher, Cubmaster; Jean Smith, Assistant Cubmaster; Bob Freestone, president of the P.A.C., the sponsoring body and the Group Committee Secretary Bob Ward.

The chairman paid high tribute to the Scouters who have given unstinted hours to the training of the boys. He complimented the boys on their smart appearance and thanked the fathers, group committeemen and the leaders for their unfailing help.

Scoutmaster Art Fort led a short sing-song and there followed a few brief remarks by Canon McConnell, District Commissioner Phil Allcorn and local Association president Frank Lancaster. They mentioned the outstanding work scouting is doing in developing the character of the boys, the sense of humor that goes with it and the healthy growth of scouting which now numbers some twelve hundred and fifty boys and leaders in the City of Belleville.

Scoutmaster Art Fort who is also Asst. Regional Commissioner for Scouting stated that facilities are available for training any who are interested in helping. Cubmaster Reg Churcher thanked everyone who had been in any way helpful this year with the Pack.

Group Secretary Bob Ward proposed a toast to the fathers which was replied to by Al Clare. A toast to the boys was proposed by Jim Minett and replied to by his son Cub David Minett. A toast to the sponsoring body, the St. Thomas' Chapter B.A.C. was proposed by Scout Jim Hamett and the president of the B.A.C. Mr. Bob Freestone replied.

At this point Mrs. Art Fort on behalf of the Ladies Auxiliary, made the presentation to the troop she presented a beautiful red table cloth with white border and two white fleur-de-lis, for use on ceremonial occasions. Also the pack a library of a dozen books required in carrying out the Cub Scout program. Both leaders expressed their suprise and delight.

The ladies were ably thanked by Mr. Reg. Mouck for the wonderful meal.

The fathers and sons then convened upstairs and there followed a sing-song and several skits by the Cubs and Scouts.

Cubmaster Reg Churcher and Assistant Frank Lancaster made the following presentations to the Cubs: To Charles Smith his First Star. Badges as follows: David Trafford, guide, fire aid, observer, homecraft; Anthony Kelsey, collector, house orderly, toymaker; Tom Johnson, house orderly; Michael McGoveriin, keen player; David Minett, swimmer, athlete.

Withdrawal Exercise Staged By 13th District Militia Group

Anyone travelling in the vicinity of Highway 14 north of 401 yesterday might have noticed a number of military personnel present about the countryside. Little would the unsuspecting civilian realize that he was in the middle of a strategic withdrawal exercise at the beginning of a "war" between Canada and Russia. The withdrawn had little cause for worry however, since the officer staff of the 13th Militia Group had their tactics well planned and the withdrawal took place with a minimum of alarm to innocent bystanders.

Saturday evening over eighty officers from the various units within this militia group were briefed at a cloth model exercise under the direction of Colonel Clarke, officer-in-command of the 13th Militia Group, and a directing staff composed of various officers of that group. The exercise was Brigadier Eric Snow, officer-in-command of the Eastern Ontario Area Headquarters, and Major Hill, also of area headquarters, from Kingston. The tactical method and procedure of withdrawal over the terrain involved was discussed and planned. All details were clarified so that all personnel knew exactly what they were to do in the field on the following day.

BILLETED IN ARMOURIES

The out-of-town officers were billeted in the armouries over Saturday night. Many people from many different cities were represented. Besided the outlying companies of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, including Picton, Trenton, Brighton, Millbrook, Norwood, Tweed and Madoc, there were officers from the 11th Medical Company (Kingston); the 23rd Locating Battery, RCA (Brockville); the 29th Technical Squadron, RCEME (Peterborough); the 50th Medium Aak Aak Regiment RCA (Peterborough); the Prince of Wales Dragoons (Kingston); the 48th Battery, RCA (Lindsay); the 32nd Independent Battery, RCA (Napanee), and the 33rd Medium Regiment, RCA (Cobourg). All of these units comprise the 13th Militia Group.

BEGIN EARLY SUNDAY

The field exercise began early Sunday morning and continued on through to the afternoon. The noonday meal was served in the field. Following the conclusion of the withdrawal exercise, known as "Operation Scatback," there was a review session back at the Bridge St. Armouries. This was conducted by Major Hill of the Ontario Area Headquarters staff, who compared the just concluded operation with the procedure, which would have been used if actual war had been used. Lt.-Col. A. B. Duffy addressed the thanks of the group to the farmers who had allowed the group the use of their farmlands for the exercise.

The next field exercise which the 13th Militia Group will be conducting will be a Civil Defence exercise involving the use of a medical support column. This will be held some time in June.

Excerpts From the Troop Log Of 18th Parkdale Sea Cadets

By JOHN FOSTER

It started back in December of 1958. Those enertstic people who formed the Parkdale Ratepayers' Association were about to add to their busy activities. Already sponsoring a successful Wolf Cub Pack, they now had to decide what to do about the boys who were over the Cub age group. What did the boys wish? Mr. Louis Cowell, Ratepayer, got the answer from the Cubs. They wished to form a Sea Scout Troop of the Boy Scout Association. And being the kind of people that they are they proceeded to do just that. With a group committee and Ladies' Auxiliary already serving and sponsoring group, it was only a matter of procedure that the boys wished to add the Sea Scout section to their part of the Boy Scout movement.

January 6, 1959. The ten Cubs and their fellow Scouters met at the Community Centre. D.S.M. Harry Smith was on hand to explain the principles of Scouting. January 13, 1959. A.D.C. Les Boyle was the new Scouter for this troop meeting. So it went, each Tuesday evening at 7 p.m. the Sea Scouts would meet and study, take part in games and learn all the things that make the Scout Movement so successful and interesting to the boys who form troops all over the world.

PRESENTS COLORS

March 17, 1959, was the night of the first investiture. Mr. M. Thexton, president of the Parkdale Ratepayers' Association, presented the Sea Scouts with their colors. A.D.C Boyle, assisted by D.S.M. Smith then invested John Foster as Scoutmaster, Gary May, Ingolf Vogeler, Lloyd Lewis and Wayne Spring were invested by their new Scoutmaster, assisted by A.D.C. Boyle, D.S.M. Smith and Mr. John Fudge of the Group Committee. David Spring also received the Looping Wolf badge from A.C.M. Jim Hullquist.

March 31, 1959. David Millar and Wayne Purney were invested. Lastly, Wayne had been the Senior Sixer in Cubs.

April 7, 1959. Parkdale's first Cub and Scout Father and Son banquet was held on this evening. The Rev. J. S. A. Spearman was the invocation, followed by the toast to the Queen.

The Mothers' Auxiliary served a delicious dinner and Mr. Gordon Hullquist thanked the group committees introduced the guest speakers, the Rev. Spearman, ACM McClelland and DSM Harry Smith, who spoke of the joys and experiences he had at the World Jamboree.

Mrs. Jim Millar spoke in response to David Spring's welcome to the fathers, and Cub Jim Hullquist thanked the Mothers' Auxiliary. Mrs. Millar presented to the mothers.

THREE PATROLS

With the first quarter of the year now over, the troop is formed into three patrols, which are:

Wolf Patrol, with PL. Lloyd Lewis, Scouts Brian Allen, Richard Jewell, Donald Doyle, Leslie Shaw and 2nd David Spring.

Sea Patrol, with PL. Ingolf Vogeler, Scouts Rodney Salter, Frank McKenna, Wayne Brooks, Bart Vos and Ian Peverett.

Sea Gull Patrol, with PL Gary May, Scouts Terry Hiddleston, David Millar, Tommy Locke and 2nd Wayne Furney.

The troop's aim for the year 1959 is to have all Scouts successfully passing Tenderfoot tests, making a start on tests for becoming a Second Class Scout and earning two or more badges. With the Scout promise always in mind, the Scouts will do their best to live up to the ten Scout laws.

Soviet Women Yearn for Better Dress Styles

By ROBERT ELPHICK

MOSCOW (Reuters) — Young Russian women, yearning for better dress styles, are demanding to know why they cannot buy in the stores the fashionable, well-cut clothes they see at fashion shows and in illustrated magazines.

Many Russians who never have heard of Christian Dior dream of owning an elegant suit or a stylish dress. But their taste for fashion is being frustrated by indifference among clothing manufacturers, according to criticism voiced here.

Women's clothing in the Soviet Union is drab and uniform, and the men dress in loosely fitting, dark "business suits" with slightly bell-bottom trousers.

At the same time such big stores as GUM in Moscow's Red Square show model dresses at parades several times a week. Soviet Woman, the illustrated magazine, publishes every month several pages of colored illustrations of fashions which would not disgrace the salons of London, Paris or New York.

But these styles cannot be bought over the counter. A Russian woman who wants one of the model dresses has to buy a paper pattern and find a dressmaker.

In a country which has set itself the task of overtaking the West in most forms of industrial production, ordinary Russians still flagellate the clothing of designers they meet on buses and streetcars, admiring their cut and quality.

Young Russians in particular now are asking why the beautifully cut clothing which they see in displays cannot be mass-produced for the general public. And there are many complaints of poor craftsmanship among clothing manufacturers and the lack of enterprise among store assistants, who neither know nor care what they have in stock.

There is no shortage of clothing in the stores. But the public now is demanding a tasteful, as well as plentiful, supply.

The main obstacle to this desire for better clothing appears to come from the clothing factories themselves. Factory managers, tied to a yearly plan, just will not change styles to suit the customer.

Holloway St. W.A. Holds Dessert Tea

A dessert-coffee party was held on Tuesday evening in the parlor of Holloway Street Church by the evening group of the Women's Auxiliary. Despite the heavy rain, the attendance was good, and it was a most enjoyable evening.

The tea-room was delightfully decorated with spring flowers, and the sun dial and lilac-trimmed arbor gave one the feeling of lunching in a lovely garden. Soft music added to the atmosphere.

Welcoming the guests were Mrs. Hazel Wilson, president of the afternoon group of the W.A., and Mrs. Jean Bateman, president of the evening group.

Receiving the ladies into the tea-room were hostesses Mrs. Jean Digby, Eileen Moore, Helen Joblin and Audrey Kerrulath.

In charge of the tea-room and serving were: Mrs. Edna Dobbs and Mrs. Ruth Bailey, assisted by Mesdames Ruth Lowther, Phyllis Rose, Eileen Conley, Jean Townson, Jean Sisley, Marion Coulter, Jean Desmuliners.

Convening the dessert table was Mrs. Laura Martin, assisted by Mesdames Kitty Hodgins, Helen Hall, Mrs. Pearl Bowen, Eleanor Revoy and Leeone Willcocks.

Mrs. Carolyn Cone and Mrs. Helen Lewis were in charge of the kitchen, assisted by Mesdames Dorothy Bowes, Glenda Salter, Doris Wardle, Hilda Lawrenson, Audrey Daniels.

Convening the sewing table were Mesdames Alfreda Vader, Gwen Kerr and Marion Dosser, and the home bake table was headed by Mrs. Marg. Hutt assisted by Mesdames Ella Cailles, Marion Burley, Anita Van De Water and Eunice Stetson.

Treasurers were Mrs. E. Knight and Mrs. Reta Harland.

Forms, pastel-tinted tulips and tip veil of embroidered nylon, and carried a cascade bouquet of red roses with rosebud-knotted streamers of white satin.

Mrs. Leonard Pipher, of Oshawa, sister of the bride, was matron of honor, gowned in apple-green chiffon nylon over matching net and taffeta, featuring a molded bodice with draped bertha neckline accented by a full-length, floating back panel, and full walls-length skirt. Her headdress was of matching nylon leaves, and she carried a bouquet of yellow and white 'mums.

The bridesmaids, Miss Lois Parker, and Miss Patsy Cornish, of Oshawa, cousins of the bride, were attired in gowns fashioned on similar lines to that of the matron of honor, in lemon-yellow nylon chiffon over taffeta, with matching headdresses, and carrying bouquets of rosy-mauve and white 'mums mingled with adiantum fern.

The little six-year-old niece of the bride, Miss Joy Pipher, was demure and sweet in her apple-green nylon chiffon frock over matching net and taffeta, with headdress, and carrying a nosegay of yellow and white 'mums centred by a single yellow rose.

Mr. Ray Conboy of Oshawa, brother of the bride, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Wilfred Beaudrie, of Belleville, brother of the bridegroom, and Mr. Norris Conboy of Oshawa, brother of the bride, ushered the guests.

Following the ceremony, a reception for the immediate families was held in the church parlor where the bride's table was centred by an all-white three-tier wedding cake, topped by a tiny bride and bridegroom beneath an arch of lilies-of-the-valley, and misted about the base with white tulle and scattered pink rosebuds. Tall pink candles in silver holders completed the nuptial accent.

The bride's mother received, gowned in printed pink and beige silk, with pink and beige accessories and corsage of pink carnations. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, wearing printed silk in blue and white, with white accessories and corsage of white carnations.

For travelling to Niagara Falls and Buffalo the bride chose a blue wool nylon coat and pink arnel dress, white accessories, and corsage of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Beaudrie will reside at 458 Simcoe Street, Oshawa.

Guests were present from Oshawa, Willowdale, Springbrook, Omemee, Frankford, Campbellford, Crookston, Cannifton, Mountain Grove, Wallbridge and Belleville.

Prior to her marriage the bride was entertained by the co-workers of the Northern Electric to a miscellaneous shower; also at a presentation of a tri-light lamp and two wall sconces, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Cornish, Oshawa, when she was presented with a T.V. swivel rocker and other gifts.

Woman Writes Of Experiences In India

EDMONTON (CP) — With her first book just off the press, Mrs. A. B. Bhatia of Edmonton—who writes under the pen name of J. Rana—is at work on her second. Both deal with her experiences in India.

Her first book, "Alien There is None," (Hodder and Stoughton) is the story of "a typical Lancashire girl . . . the kind you would see on any tramcar in England" who meets and falls in love with a man from India.

The writer herself is an English girl who married an Indian physicist and went to live in India.

But she emphasizes that the book is not their life story. It is based on the experiences of the many English and American girls who were married to Indians at Gujerat, north of Bombay, where she lived from 1950 to 1952.

Her book describes the courage of the English girl facing utter loneliness at a new home in India. It was written during 18 months in Ottawa where Mrs. Bhatia and her husband lived before coming here four years ago.

"THE ART OF BEING KIND" . . . IT'S STILL "THE WORLD'S NEED"!

While just the art of being kind
Is all the sad world needs."

SENDING BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Please tell me to whom is it correct to send birth announcements. Should I send them to the immediate family, or just to relatives whom we don't see very often? — Mother-to-be

There is no rule about this . . . the number you send and those to whom you wish to send them depend only on your own choice and decision. As long as you are sending birth announcements, I think it is a good idea to send them to all members of the families, relatives and friends, so that they may, if they wish, keep them as reminders of the baby's birth-date.

SIGNING PARENTS NAMES ON BIRTH ANNOUNCEMENTS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have bought a supply of very dignified and attractively printed birth announcement cards from my neighborhood stationery store. There are only 3 lines-spaces to be filled in: (1) the baby's name; (2) the date of birth; and (3) names of parents. (I know you'll be pleased that I refused to buy the ones with the word "Weight" . . . I entirely agree with your point of view, that it is not best taste to include the notation of the baby's weight.)

Since we are sending these announcements to all our relatives and all of friends, quite a few neighbors, and even to some acquaintances whom we are quite sure will be interested, should we sign our names "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith," or with our first names" — E.

Do not sign these cards "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith" . . . this is incorrect. These announcement cards should be signed "Edith and John Smith," the informal name-form you should use in signing cards of similar type.

SHOULD SHE WEAR A LARGE PICTURE HAT?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am going to a 5 o'clock church wedding in the middle of June. Following the ceremony, there will be a reception and then dinner to be served at 8 o'clock) at a local Country Club. Would it be proper for me to wear a large picture hat?
— Reader

I wouldn't advise you to wear a large picture hat on this occasion. It would be more or less inappropriate for you to wear this large hat to the church ceremony (although you might not be too popular with those seated in the pews behind you, since your hat might well obstruct the view of wedding-enthusiasts who want to see everything that's going on). But I very much doubt if you would be comfortable, if you would feel suitably dressed at the Country Club reception, and particularly at the evening dinner.

I strongly advise you to wear one of the brief, pert head-coverings so extremely fashionable this year, and particularly in this season-of-weddings. You'll find a vast choice of these smart designs of small flowers, of simple designs of veiling, mailines, bows of various materials — most of them very inexpensive, most of them very becoming, most of them so you can wear them to a shower or to a wedding, and then on through the evening.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Laura H. — If he were also younger he'd take me out every night.

Hugh H. — I'm sick of those cracks about my age.

Laura H. — Ten years ago, when I was 20, I married a man in his 40's. Of course everyone warned me against it, but I wouldn't listen to reason.

Now I am very unhappy and bored with everything. We have two children, seven and nine, and I have help in the house. There is really nothing for me to do all day. I hate women's clubs and little community get-togethers. At night my husband is too tired to take me out. If he were a younger man he'd want to go out every night, as I do.

I feel that if we could move away from the suburbs into the city where my talents would be used I would find lots to do. But my husband says we must think of the children first and they are better off in the small community where we live. But what about me? Don't I count for anything?

Hugh H. — I am a little bit tired of hearing all those cracks about my age. To hear Laura talk, you'd think I have one foot in the grave. My doctor says I am in top condition and I am often taken for ten years younger than I am.

In spite of this, I can't help being a little tired at the end of the day. Any man is. I never did go for a steady diet of going stepping at night. Theatre and night clubs bore me.

The way Laura has been acting, I think she'd just go haywire if we moved to the city. Then she'd really want to go out every night. She has some sort of idea that she'd go around all day long doing something exciting and glamorous, but there just isn't that much to do even in the city. I know her. She'd spend all day shopping for things she does not even need.

The Council: There is an age problem here, all right. But it is not quite the one Laura imagines.

The problem is not so much the difference between her age and her husband's as her own childishness. If she and her husband of her own age, her problem would be the same. Her younger husband would probably also be tired at the end of the day, but even if he were extremely active and enjoyed going out every night Laura would be fundamentally bored.

Laura is bored simply because she believes that she is supposed to sit by passively while pleasant and exciting things are placed before her. She does not believe she is supposed to give of herself to anybody or anything. Apparently she feels she made her total investment in life when she gave birth to her children and is now entitled to sit back and wait for what life will give her.

Well, there's news for Laura. Life hasn't got any handouts for her. If and when she is willing to give her genuine attention to others — children, husband, home, friends, community — she will lose her boredom, not before. This can happen in the suburbs or the city. If Laura can't find anything worthy of her attention in her home, she'd certainly be better off taking a job — and a hard one at that.

Biscuit Mixing

by Mary Moore

Five judges from two provinces and totally different food fields met in the modern factory of the sponsoring firm to select a name for a cake from the "Name-the-recipe" contest. It was a 4-layer pastry cake with three different pastel shades of frosting between.

For five hours, with a luncheon and tea break between, we were good serious making our selection. Actually we impressed ourselves with our conscientiousness, but since it meant a trip by air to Lisbon for two lucky people, it was no trivial decision. Doubtless you will have read our choice of names before you read this.

However, it was some obscure flavored sticks served to us for luncheon with a picture-pretty fruit salad that rang the bell with me and gave me an idea for today's cooking lesson. These sticks are made from quick biscuit mix and will provide the bread sticks for your Italian dinners henceforth. I recommend them highly.

QUICK BREAD STICKS

Melt ½ cup butter and pour about ½ cup of it in bottom of 13x9½x2" oblong pan. Make one recipe of biscuits as directed on biscuit mix package, except add ¼ cup grated medium Cheddar cheese before adding milk. Cut with 2" cutter. Shape cut-out 2" biscuits into strips by rolling between hands and under palms on board and pinching to about 8 inches. Place strips in pan in butter. Pour rest of butter over the strips. Sprinkle with caraway and poppy seeds. Bake 8 to 10 minutes at 425 deg. Fahr. Remove from oven and turn each stick over and sprinkle with additional seeds. Return to oven for another 3 to 5 minutes. After baking, let stand in pan about 3 more minutes to let sticks absorb butter. Makes about 15.

HOT CHIVE BISCUITS

Serve them with or under creamed ham or chicken or with soup or salad for lunch. Two cups sifted all-purpose flour, 4 teaspoons single-acting baking powder, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ cup shortening, 4 tablespoons each finely chopped chives or green onion tops and parsley, ¾ cup milk. Sift flour with baking powder, salt and cream of tartar. Cut in shortening with a pastry blender until the mixture resembles coarse meal. Add milk and chives and parsley, stirring until a soft dough is formed. Knead gently on a lightly floured board for 30 seconds. Roll or pat dough ½" thick. Cut into 12 or 18 biscuits.

Mother-of-Pearl Season Queen In Jewelry

PARIS (Reuters) — Costume jewelry worn with Paris summer fashions brings Neptune and symbols of the sea to the fore.

Sunken treasures from the ocean bed establish the leading theme of the newest ornamental accessories.

Mother-of-pearl is queen of the season, starred in necklace and earring designs, buttons, belt and shoe buckles, and even on the heels of formal footwear. Festoon collars of ocean pearls tumbled together like the gems in an ancient sea chest, coral, shell motifs, and beautiful new underwater colorings continue to sail the air which has wafted over Paris from the seven seas.

Pierre Balmain shows a wood-rous, $4 - grain cultured pearl, mounted as a clip-button on a simple black cocktail suit. It is probably the most expensive "button" in the world, set in a gold and diamond life - size sea shell by the Parisian jeweler Bolvin, and valued at 2,250,000 francs (about $4,500).

Cli, the professional name of the Polish - born Countess Zoltowska, achieves a new look in costume jewelry with flower, leaf and branch motifs in sea mist shades. The tide of color includes opalescent stones, crystals, agates, and enamels in rich sea greens and blues, shell and coral pinks, and paler luminous shades of Yellow Moon and Silver Pebble.

Scouting activities

Fifty Cubs and Scouts put on their best party manners for their mothers, dad and guests at the annual Father and Son banquet of the 11th Bridge Street United Group last Monday.

Gayly decorated with tapers and streamers in black and gold the group colors, the tables, so bountifully provided by the Ladies' Auxiliary, looked a picture. There, so proudly sharing with their dads, the boys did justice to mom's cookin', for these occasions are memorable ones in the lives of many lads.

The toast to the "Fathers" was proposed by Scout Peter Lewis and responded to by Don B. Ridley, who urged the boys to put into practice the knowledge and skills which they learned in scouting. He paid tribute to the scouters for their devoted service to the boys.

Mr. Wm. T. Simpson, secretary-treasurer of the group introduced the head table guests Rev. H. M. Davis, minister of the church and padre; P. L. Alicorn, district commissioner; Lt.-Col. E. R. Fairman, president of the A.O.T.S. (the sponsoring body); William N. Reed, district Cub Master; A. D. Banting, Sunday School superintendent; F. J. Lamastery, president of Belleville local association; and J. W. Hodgson, secretary of L.A.

Chairman Vic White introduced the group scouters, Mr. Wm. Kellett, Akela; and assistants Miss K. Mills and Mrs. Barbara Wardhaugh; Scout Master Frank Insley and A.S.M. Lloyd Kellett.

A sing song led by the Akela and by Mr. White, with S. Alec Gordon at the piano, was thoroughly enjoyed. Such rousing songs form a very important part in Scouting.

REGRET EXPRESSED

Warm expressions of tribute to the scouters, were voiced by Mr. Davis, who commented on the growth of the pack and troop. He added his words of regret, to those of Mrs. White, on the loss of Akela Kellett who will assume a new teaching position in Fergus.

The district commissioner spoke on the re-organization in Belleville to meet the very rapid growth. He challenged the fathers to come forward and share the thrill of scouting with their boys.

Lt.-Col. Fairman speaking on behalf of the sponsoring body also thanked the Scouters for their wonderful leadership and example.

Frank Lancaster briefly outlined the rapid expansion of Scouting in Belleville and in the province, indicating that a Scouting population of one million is expected in Canada in ten years. He also challenged fathers to take a share in the leadership of their boys by coming into uniform.

One of the highlights of many similar banquets has been the presentation of proficiency badges earned. Here the lads of 11th showed ample proof of the leadership their Scouters are giving. In calling his assistants to help him Akela Kellett also urged fathers to don uniforms as Scouters.

The following Cubs received their badges as follows: House orderly, Ross Drysdale and Michael Halinski. Toymaker, Tom Bond. Gardener, Bill Ridgeway, Ross Drysdale and Maurice Bell. Guide, Gary Chaplin, Ross Drysdale and Tom Bond. Gardiner, Bill Ridley. Swimmer, Jay Bowlby.

Three Scouts, Jim White, Bob Ridley and Tony Savage can now proudly wear their Cub Instructor's Badge, a symbol of their training to pass on to the other lads the knowledge which they have gleaned.

First Year Stars have been attained by Robert Argent, Army Armstrong, David Asselstine, Douglas MacKenzie, Robbie McBride, Alan Potts and Brian Rogers.

TRIBUTE PAID

Scout Master Frank Insley paid tribute to the Cub Scouters for the quality of training which they had given to the lads coming up to Scouts from the 11th pack. Assisted by ASM Lloyd Kellett, he presented second-class badges to Scouts Jim White, Peter Lewis, Stan Wannamaker and Bob Reddick.

The Ladies' Auxiliary presided over by Mrs. Vic White was given a most well-deserved vote of thanks by Mr. H. A. Sullivan.

Other officers of this group are: Mrs. George McIntosh, vice-president; Mrs. J. Bond, treasurer, and Mrs. Rex Chaplin, secretary.

The skits put on in turn by the various Sixes lacked nothing in originality and enthusiasm.

Queen Scout Barry Simpson and Scout Alan Martin of 6th Tabernacle, put on a very creditable performance of magic and high jinks. These talented Scouts are a credit to their parents, their Scouters and to themselves.

This group is most fortunate in having for its boys the ingredients which make for success — an interested sponsor, a strong active group committee, Scouters dedicated to bringing to their boys all that is good in Scouting, and a splendid ladies' auxiliary. All these combined to make this Father and Son night a memorable event.

BANQUET PLANNED

Ind. Christ Church — The Ladies Auxiliary met in the Parish Hall to plan the Father and Son banquet which will be held on May 6th.

Three of the mothers gave a talk on the Picton Conference.

After the meeting the fathers were invited to join the ladies for coffee and a social evening. A very pleasant way to conduct a group meeting.

Bel. Holy Rosary — Four new chums have been invested, Francis Sagrit, Anthony Arcontes, Eric Saragur and Larry Doran. This pack is showing wonderful progress under C.M. Harold Lyon.

18th St. Joseph's — Eleven boys were recently registered as Scouts, forming a new Scout troop under S.M. William E. Jarvah. This is the fourth new troop since last year. The 19th is expected to form a troop soon.

WHOOPERS LEAVE

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 82 whooping cranes which wintered at the Aransas (Tex.) national wildlife refuge apparently had started their long northward flight by April 27. The U.S. fish and wildlife service said aerial survey indicates the first 11 started the migration to the Northwest Territories before April 3 and the others left in small groups at irregular intervals.

hevrier in Book on Seaway nvisages Great Commercial om for Canada and U.S.

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

prediction that one day Montreal, Toronto and Chicago will be large as New York because of economic impact of the Great Lakes waterway opening the rt of North America to ocean-going ships is made by Lionel evrier in his newly-published book, The St. Lawrence Seaway. he Liberal member of Parliament who left the cabinet of me Minister St. Laurent to be president of the Canada St. Lawrence Seaway Authority in 195 dicions a great commercial ion which will be felt in areas Canada and the United States removed from the shores of Great Lakes system.

It will help to create the largest concentration of industry the world much of it in Canada. It will make the U.S. and Canada even more interdependent than they are now. It may lessen the importance of New York but it will certainly help Chicago and Montreal to become as large as New York. It will have effects on the economy of the country which will enable it to support many times the population it now has. The seaway has given Canada a south east stretching half-way across the nation."

Mr. Chevrier's book traces the difficult history of negotiations to get the great waterway into ng; the years of delay by the Congress, before it finally approved construction in the face Canada's impatience; the years it took to build it alone if necessary; the monumental engineering problems and the problems in reaching agreement on tolls. He devotes a chapter of the 146 ages to petty differences with officials whom he criticizes s apparently unwilling to accept e side show once the American ion of the seaway is under the project. But for the part it is a story of cooperation.

e recalls that when the way is finally completed American ticipation there was some dissatisfaction with tolls.

The idea of Canada building seaway alone was immensely ular. There was some resentment that the Americans were stedly getting aboard. But feeling soon passed. It was ained that U.S. cooperation t diplomatically and practi- by the best thing. The seaway uld be used largely by Amer- ican ships."

e relates the incident that occured during a meeting in Washton with President Eisenhower. During an informal talk, says the president wished he had built the seaway. Just show me, Chevrier, where this place Massena is located."

Canadians Again Win Hearts of Netherlanders

LEEUWARDEN, The Netherlands (CP) — A grey - haired woman, tears streaming down her wrinkled face, waved excitedly as the detachment of khaki-clad Canadians swung smartly down the ancient cobbled streets of Leeuwarden.

For Mevrouw Kuipers and scores of other cheering, clapping citizens, the arrival Saturday night of a 198-man detachment of the Royal Canadian Dragoons was a moment of intense emotion. Fourteen years earlier they had watched Canadians wearing the same red shoulder badges drive into their northern Dutch town to end five years of Nazi rule.

And now the Dragoons, stationed in Germany with Canada's 27th Infantry Brigade Group, were back to join them in five days of civil, military and religious celebrations commemorating the liberation.

'WELCOME BACK'

"I cried then too," said Mevrouw Kuipper in the back of a crowd packed at a street of Hollands Friesland province. Turning back to the marching men, she shouted again and again: "Blu u weer te zien, blu u weer te zien welkom, welkom, welcome back!"

Leading the Dragoons as they marched at attention through the mile-long parade route to the redbrick town hall was Maj. Frank Ormsby of Montreal, who was with a squadron, RCD, when it helped the German occupation in 12:30 p. m. April 15, 1945.

Behind him were four other veterans of the same action— Capt. Harry K. Watson, Port Credit, RSM Patrick A. Forgeron, Montreal and St. Johns, Que.; SSM Bruce K. McKay, Montreal, and SSM Jimmy Gell, Barrie.

"It's just like it was 14 years ago," said Watson as a crowd of children and their parents surged around him shaking his hand and uttering words of welcome.

At the town hall, Burgomaster Adriaan de Meulen said that to the 82,000 people of Leeuwarden "you, Canadians, are our most cherished possession, freedom."

Following a morning church parade Sunday, the Canadians dispersed to private homes as guests of families liberated by their unit. So great was the anxiety of the townspeople to show their appreciation for the visitors that civic officials had to set up a priority list to handle more than 10,000 invitations.

Today, Remembrance Day throughout The Netherlands, the Canadians will join citizens of Leeuwarden in tributes to honor the war dead of both countries.

Crowd of 2,000 Too Small, Lucy Will Not Speak

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Flame-haired Lucille Ball, television and movie comedienne, says she'll return here to talk on juvenile delinquency but not if the auditorium used can be assembled.

Lucy left in a huff for Hollywood Sunday after a look at the 2,000 persons, mostly youngsters, who turned up for a Kiwanis Club sponsored youth rally in 12,000-seat Taft Stadium.

"I didn't go on because of the small crowd," she told reporters. "I believe in youth rallies but there weren't enough people here to do any good.

On her arrival in Los Angeles Saturday she was seen with a conflicting count of the crowd. She said "only 325 appeared in a stadium built to seat 14,000. Everybody apologized, but somebody goofed. They just forgot to tell the people."

Reporters stuck by their estimate that some 2,000 persons were in attendance, and noted that Lucy's estimate was higher than newspaper interviews on her arrival here Saturday.

CANADIAN CONTRIBUTION — This modern commercial fishharbor and factory was built at Mutwal, Ceylon, by Canadian Colombo Plan aid. Canadian Colombo Plan Aid Helping to Raise Standards Of Living in 15 Countries

Russell Elman, former Canadian Press staff writer now touring the Commonwealth, reports in the following story on Canada's aid to Ceylon and the island nation's efforts to expand and diversify its economy.

BY RUSSELL ELMAN

COLOMBO, Ceylon (CP)—At a historic Commonwealth meeting here in 1950 Canada pledged to give birth to the Colombo plan to assist the newly-independent nations of South and Southeast Asia through international economic co-operation.

Now Canadian Colombo Plan aid is helping to raise living standards in 15 countries with a combined population of 585,000,000—one quarter of the world's inhabitants.

This year Canada's annual Colombo plan outlay is being increased to $50,000,000 from $35,000,000—equivalent to $3 from every man, woman and child. Its largest allocation is given to India; the biggest single project is the Warsak hydro - electric and irrigation scheme in Pakistan. But on a per capita basis the most aid goes to Ceylon's 9,300,000 people.

At March 31 this peace-shaped Indian Ocean island, slightly smaller than New Brunswick, had received $14,200,000 capital and $1,300,000 technical assistance from Canada at a rate of $2,000,000 a year.

Ceylon gained independence from British within the Commonwealth in 1948. Ceylon has remained in miniature practically all the problems of South and Southeast Asia. Rich in natural resources—tea, rubber, coconuts and graphite—it has a small industry and is desperately short of trained technicians.

On the shoulders of increasing unemployment accentuated by a meteoric birth rate, Ceylon is struggling against time and money to expand and diversify its economy. It must meet the requirements of its development programs from limited foreign assistance.

Canada's capital aid to Ceylon is given half in materials and half in surplus flour, which assists the Canadian economy by threefold benefit for the island. The flour helps relieve the population, saves foreign exchange otherwise needed to import food, and, through its sale in Ceylon, generates rupee counterpart funds for a part of Canada's Colombo plan projects.

Important Canadian - assisted capital projects include an aerial resources survey, commercial fisheries factory, hydro power distribution and diesel railroad locomotives. On a smaller scale, Canada has provided agricultural tools, irrigation pumps and be mobile movie units.

Under the Colombo plan technical co-operation program, Canada has helped set up capital projects and reduce the shortage of trained Ceylonese personnel by advising on co-operatives, nursing training and technical education. Ceylonese on Colombo plan scholarships have studied agricultural economics, electrification, rural and commercial broadcasting.

The staff of Nik Cavell, Canadian high commissioner in Colombo, keeps an eye on the use made of Canada's aid. The diplomat is available for this job on full-time basis. Occasionally Canadian Colombo plan projects have suffered delays because of opposition from the Communists, strikes and other unforeseen setbacks.

Opening of the Institute of Practical Technology is nearly complete. Canadian-aided co-operative fish training centre have five cruisers and one fully equipped deep-sea fishing vessel given to Ceylon to chart fishing grounds and train fishermen in modern techniques. Canada's Colombo Plan with aid totalling $25 countries will cost $50,000,000.

Soldiers Tell NATO Political Chiefs to Look Russia in Eye At Any Summit Conference

PARIS (AP)—The high-ranking soldiers of NATO have bluntly told their political chiefs to look Russia in the eye at any summit conference.

"If there is another Munich it won't be our fault" said one gruff general who daily weighs the military implications and threats from Russia's Premier Khrushchev.

This pointed advice to Western diplomats was based on a soldier's talk in the military machine forged in the last 10 years by the North Atlantic Treaty organization. The machine has some bad flaws the general readily admitted, but it can do the job.

At conference, this was the message given to the 15 NATO powers after they—somewhat apprehensively—set about reassuring their strength in the light of Khrushchev's ultimatum Jake on Berlin.

As is accepted here, as an article of faith, that the United States Strategic Air Command and RAF Bomber Command can adequately deliver the massive 14-bomb deterrent blow if Russia's heartland if the need arises. A second article of faith is that NATO's force can hold the pass" in Europe, although the line would be pretty skimpy while the forces now available.

These are the sentiments of a wide range of allied officers who daily witness the strength—and weaknesses—of the alliance. Interviews with NATO diplomats reflect the same frank admission. But there is also a spirit of confidence that NATO can do its job.

The job simply stated, is to convince Russia that the cost of an invasion Europe and will not be allowed to chew up NATO country. To accomplish this task NATO must have diplomatic unity as well as military power.

NATO's soldiers and diplomats tend to take on the coloration of the countries from which their governments. France's Ambassador Pierre Leurs argued interviews with NATO diplomats reflect the same frank admission. But there is also a spirit of confidence that NATO can do its job.

The job simply stated, is to convince Russia that the cost of an invasion Europe and will not be allowed to chew up NATO country. To accomplish this task NATO must have diplomatic unity as well as military power.

NATO's soldiers and diplomats tend to take on the coloration of the countries from which their governments. France's Ambassador Pierre Leurs argued that serious internal argument at present since it comes from France, which was already NATO's problem child.

"We must find a way to deal de Gaulle—if in a must," said one top staff officer.

The theory of Britain's Sir Richard Nelson Gale, a 52-year-old warrior, Gale stepped into the deputy commander's post vacated by Field Marshal Viscount Montgomery, who now is also battling publicly to reshape NATO. Far from backing Montgomery's views, Gale flatly states that "Monty" is out of step—a not-unusual position for the fiery marshal.

Montgomery's criticisms line him up more or less along the battle front occupied by de Gaulle, who got along much better with Montgomery at NATO headquarters than Gen. Lauris Norstad of the United States, the present supreme commander. De Gaulle and Norstad simply haven't much in common, and neither likes the facts in private.

Montgomery, who served NATO from the moment of its birth until last year, has the ear of the alliance cumbersome, ineffective and badly in need of a complete overhaul. In a recent newspaper articles he wrote:

"If we are to win war with the present command organization, the result would be disastrous."

He went on to complain that NATO has wasted millions of money and effort and a great deal of unnecessary duplication.

Gale's criticism of Montgomery and de Gaulle apart, the immediate problem of the NATO forces is a question for both Russia and NATO. Russia is not making them tremendously effective is that Norstad apparently has no power to react immediately — without any consultation — at any time—to any attack on NATO countries. He has warned in advance that he will use nuclear weapons.

These were perhaps the weightiest matters ever approved by the NATO council. Technically, Norstad is also supposed to consult with his political chiefs if he has time. However, the West had recognized in advance that Norstad might not have time to consult and give him, in advance, the necessary direction. This significant omission robs the Russians of the hope that Western bickering at the conference might assure a surprise attack to succeed.

There is perhaps NATO's most

Living Costs Down in March For Fifth Successive Month Making Drop Almost a Point

OTTAWA (CP) — Living costs continued to decline during March —for the fifth month in a row—reducing the consumer price index by one-tenth of a point to 125.4 on April 1 from 125.5 on March 1. This fifth month decline was the first in six years.

As in some of the previous declines, lower food prices were the main pull-down force, offsetting rises in clothing in the consumer index, the bureau of statistics reported today. The food index fell on 1949 prices equalling 100.

All told, the cost-of-living yardstick declined by nine-tenths of a point during the five months. It is the first such series recorded to drop since December 1953-May 1953 when the index declined by 1.4 points.

WAGES INCREASE

Wages and employment appeared to be rising while living costs eased. The index of average weekly wages and salaries at March 1—latest date for which figures are available—was 170.1, up 1.9 on 1948 equalling 100. This was up from 168.4 on Feb. 1 and 168.2 on March 1 last year.

The index, computed from a survey of firms employing more than 15 persons and covering a wide range of industries, represents an average of wage rates paid.

On the cost-of-living side, prices were lower during March for all types of meat and poultry, with the biggest cuts in pork products. Pork roasts, canned hams, canned fruits and cereals also declined.

Home-ownership costs and rents also rose. The rents increase followed the prevailing pattern. The association, headed by retired RCAF Air - Cmdre. Biddle, included a critique Saturday night.

The consumer index at April 1 by sub-groups with March 1 standings in brackets: Food 119.3 (120.5); housing 125.1 (126.0); clothing 106.6 (108.4); household operations 124.2 (124.6); household textiles and services 133.7 (133.4).

Tidal Wave Alarm Called Off in Honolulu

HONOLULU (AP) — A tidal wave alarm was sounded early today because of an earthquake off the coast of Chile but called off an hour and 35 minutes later.

The U.S. coast-and geodetic survey cancelled the alert at 4:35 a.m. EST after tide gauges reported no unusual wave activity.

Wake and Midway would have been hit first had a tidal wave moved toward them.

Dr. Don Tocher, a seismologist for the University of California at Berkeley said the quake occurred 3,700 miles from there. Today is near the Kamchatka Peninsula in Siberia.

The biggest tidal wave in recent history struck the islands April 1, 1946. Mammoth waves crashed at the Hilo area but none struck Kauai first, then Oahu and the rest of the Hawaii. The waves killed 159 persons and seriously injured 163 others.

CRITICIZE STRATEGY

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Association of the United States Army says every airborne or hydrogen weapons is forcing American diplomacy and military into a new bending pattern. The association, headed by retired Gen. A. A. (Tony) Biddle, issued a critique Saturday night.

Nationalist Chinese Expect New Crisis in Formosa Strait

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP) — Nationalist leaders express the belief the Communists are stirring up new crisis in Formosa strait month. Nationalist troops on offshore islands are ready for anything.

Officials here give two reasons for expecting the Chinese Communists to start another big effort attention from Tibet and create a diversion that the Soviet Union might use with more effect of making the West back off, or in connection with.

May 11 foreign ministers meeting in Geneva.

The Nationalists regard the decline in Communist shelling of Quemoy in recent months as minister, rather than a hopeful development.

RED 474,307 SHELLS

The Nationalist count, the heaviest of 474,307 shells on the offshore ands in the 44 -day bombardment that began at 6:30 p.m. for a cease-fire, since Oct. 20, d up to the end of April, the ort of Communist artillery is 176,799.

In keeping with their strategy notice of shooting at the islands by on odd-numbered days in the ter phase, the Reds have only hed their fire on 90 even-numbered days. The Nationalists reply when shot at.

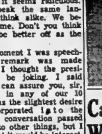
Whenever the weather permits, Communists have built up the ilage of this alternate-day disation to replenish their supies.

There is no question that they now are in a better position to withstand a heavy artillery assault than they were when Communists opened their big ensive last August.

TYZER FORTIFIED

Besides having enough food to for months, the Nationalists better fortified and have had and better guns.

The puzzling aspect of the situation is this: Why have the Communists skimped the unmolested replenishment of the Quemoys if they intend to try and take them by force?



One possibility is that the Communists have figured that they would make the Nationalists more receptive than they have been in the past to listen to pleas for direct peace talks.

Another is that pleas in the past have been rejected outright and there is no reason to suppose that then there was before for the Nationalists to change their attitude.

Even if they were, there is no slightest tendency to listen to Communist pleas. The only big events in Tibet, which have greatly stimulated Nationalist morale, have been spiked it quite effectively.

PROPOSES CHURCH TO POPE

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Salvador Dali Saturday told Pope John he would like to design a new church and dedicate it to the success of the ecumenical council called by the pontiff. Vatican sources reported the famous surrealist painter as saying he would like to build the church somewhere in the desert of Texas."

Newboro Lake Property North Of Kingston May Be Worked

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says a multi-million dollar mining and milling and smelting operation may be built in the area north of Kingston.

The newspaper says the project at Newboro Lake 32 miles north of Kingston is being considered by new Wylamaca Exploration Ltd.

The story says G. W. Moore, consulting engineer, estimates the ore reserves on the company's Newboro Lake property at 15,000,000 tons averaging 26.75 per cent iron to an open pit depth of 350 feet. Of this a central core of 27,200,000 tons is estimated to average 32.28 per cent iron.

Final metallurgical tests now being made in the plant at Niagara Falls, Ont., are about half completed.

The newspaper says the quality of the Newboro Lake ore has caused some controversy because it contains a high content of silica, titanium and sulphur, and phosphorus is absent.

However, John R. Booth, geologist and director of New Mylamaque, says the tests at Strategic-Udy so far show that the impurities can be eliminated.

New Mylamaque directors now are thinking of building a railway between 400 and 500 tons daily, the newspaper says.

If production is limited to pig iron the cost would be about $7,500,000. If high-grade steel is to be made, a rolling mill would be required at an additional cost of $4,500,000.

MARKET SURVEYED

Discussions have been held with steel firms when needs would provide a large market, the story says.

P. J. Hughes, president of New Mylamaque, says there is every indication a market for large amounts of pig iron is readily obtainable at a profitable price.

New Mylamaque shares closed at $2.61 on the Toronto Stock Exchange Friday, an increase of six cents.

MONTREAL (CP)—What was the mysterious ghost creature that stalked the woods of western Montreal Island a few weeks ago?

Was it a panther, a cat-like animal long thought to be extinct in this part of the country? Was it wolf, lynx, dog, deer, or a phantom?

No one really knows.

The creature itself hasn't been seen for a month. It appeared and vanished and neither hunters nor dogs could track it down.

SEEN BY MANY

More than a dozen people saw it. It left tracks—four toes and a heel pad in the snow. One good track was cut out of the snow and a plaster cast positively identified by zoologists as that of a panther was made.

With the coming of spring, those who were convinced of the panther's reality remain convinced. But the doubters still doubt.

It all began early in March when residents of communities on the wooded western tip of Montreal Island reported seeing a strange cat - like creature. One woman saw its eyes-green, glaring and grim. Dogs howled strangely at night. People kept their children home.

The Montreal Sportsman's Show, being held at the time, offered $100 reward for capture of the panther alive. Pictures appeared in local newspapers, showing what a panther looked like.

TOOK LOOK FROM AIR

One man was all set to snare the creature by dropping a big net on it from a helicopter. But the scheme never materialized, although a helicopter took one sporting authority for a look around the region.

A man who claimed to have killed cougars in British Columbia, John F. nander, unsuccessfully stalked the tracks. He contended there—not one — but there were in the area, and spread chicken entrails in the snow to bait the animals.

A band of beagles with trainers, on snowshoes and skis entered the woods. They, too, were unsuccessful. A mob of people, some armed, went in one holiday weekend and failed to find it. Hunters and others tried — and caught nothing.

Two animals were seen on a nearby road by a provincial policeman, who said they were panthers.

Then a lynx—a smaller animal than a panther—was killed and some people thought they'd found the ghost creature at last.

NO PANTHER

"Ha," scoffed panther supporters, "a lynx has a four-inch tail and it weighs about 25 pounds. A panther has a two-and-a-half-foot tail and can weigh up to 200 pounds. You just can't confuse the two."

Panthers — also known as cougars, pumas, and mountain lions — were once rampant in Eastern Canada. But settlers killed them off to halt marauding attacks on their cattle.

The panther seemed to be extinct.

They they started reappearing in New Brunswick and hunters said the panther was reviving. In a range of 200 to 250 miles and could be venturing from wilderness areas into the sight of man during food-scarce winter months.

But in the end, the Montreal creature never was produced as proof. It remained a phantom.

U OF T SECOND

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Bowdoin fought off a strong challenge by University of Toronto Sunday to win the Jan T. Friis Trophy in the first annual New England States intersectional sailing regatta. Bowdoin scored 92 points at the end of the two days of racing while Toronto had 90. Toronto's Robin Beamish was the high point individual skipper with four wins, a second, a third and a fourth.

On the Tracks

The 1 1-16th-mile race for fillies and mares produced a terrific finish as Nelson got big effort up in the final strides to win by a neck over Calumet Farm's A Glitter.

The stewards posted the winner's number, then examined another photo before officially naming A Glitter for second place, Harold Polk's Mlle. Dianne for third and King Ranch's Chrisloes for fourth in the field of 10.

THE FAVORITE

A crowd of 31,485 made Big Effort, top weighted at 122 pounds, the favorite.

Meanwhile at San Bruno, Calif. Argentine - bred Anisado caught Swope Kin in the stretch for a 2½-length victory in the $38,650 Tanforan Handicap, Ballyrullah was third.

Anisado ran the 1¼ miles in 1:48, one-fifth of a second off the track record.

At Camden, N.J., Mrs. Ada L. Rice's Talent Show nipped Desk Duncan, a 26-to1 shot, by a head in the last stride to win the $27,500 Valley Forge Handicap at Garden State Park.

FORT ERIE (CP)—Nearcrie, Canada's top sprinter, won the $7,500 Vigil Handicap in record time Saturday as Fort Erie's 25-day spring meeting ended before a crowd of 11,031.

The Ontario racing scene now shifts to Toronto, where a 24-day meeting opens at Old Woodbine Park today.

Nearctic, owned by Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Taylor, and ridden by Benny Sorensen, whizzed the six furlongs in 1:10 3-5, equaling the track record set by Hasty Page in 1953. The sprint champion defeated War Eagle by more than two lengths and paid $2.10, $2.10 and $2.10. Unity Courier finished third.

A Unique Place in Everglades

Collier County lies on the western tip of the Florida peninsula. A good many years ago Barron Collier, for whom Collier County was named, owned just about the entire county. Since then some of the land has been sold, but the great bulk of the area still is held by the Collier Estate.

The only town really worthy of the name in Collier County is Everglades. Don't make the mistake of calling it Everglades City. The residents don't like that. The native is Everglades. And in Everglades, down along the waterfront, and surrounded by nicely landscaped grounds, is the Everglades Rod and Gun Club. This, too, is owned and operated by the Collier Estate.

Originally this establishment was a club but in recent years ago. Now it is a club in name only — actually a big rambling family hotel with supplementary cover of cottages. The make it a huge affair. high ceilings and panelled in cypress, as are the dining room and the bar.

Not the least of the Rod and Gun Club's attraction is its number-one bellboy, Freddy. He probably has a last name but nobody knows it. When I first met Freddy about eleven years ago he was a boy, and cafe as his job in his early twenties. But the food at the club is about as good as you can find in Florida, and Freddy, at this writing, is the walking (and sometimes running) attestation of its excellence. He has taken on some poundage. If there is anything you want, no matter how unusual, simply tell Freddy and he will find it for you.

Directly across the driveway that circles the front of the club is the club dock, 1000 feet long. Here each morning are tied the fishing cruisers, about a dozen of them. These boats are built for fishing the waters in and around the 10,000 Islands which lie to the west and south of Everglades City. They are big, broad-beamed affairs, with shallow draft and plenty of power, safe as a church.

EXCELLENT SKIPPERS

The skippers of these cruisers know the area thoroughly, most of them having been born right there in Everglades. We usually engage Ira Thompson or Fred Williams as we like both the captains and their boats. They know their business and take excellent care of every party that comes aboard.

Of course, for the average day's fishing (8:00 a.m., to around 5:00 p.m.) the time usually is divided between trolling and bottom fishing. However, you can write your own ticket if you wish, but tell your skipper what you want — tarpon, snook, redfish, spotted sea trout, etc. and he will find it for you.

As might be expected, the fishing within the daily cruising range is nothing out of the ordinary. After all, these waters are fished regularly, day after day, by a good many boats. However there are good fish to be had by the average angler happy. If you want unusual fishing, then you must make your plans accordingly.

First you have the club charter your preferred cruiser for a two-or-three-day trip. The skipper will engage a mate and secure two outboard skiffs and motors. These are towed to the fishing grounds. The club will provision your boat for you. Best not to take more than four in the party, two anglers to a skiff.

Then, depending on your choice of fishing (tarpon, snook, redfish) the Captain will take you there. Shark River, Cape Sable, The five Lostman's Lakes and other hot spots whose names are known only to the guides, then you will go to find the fishing of your dreams. For example, Bob Thompson took us to a hidden lake in the "back country" down near Lostman's, where two of us hooked and landed over 300 snook during the morning and early afternoon. We kept a few and returned the rest to live and fight again.

This account may sound like an advertisement. Believe me, it is not. We have no connection or understanding with the Rod and Gun Club and we are happy to pay the going rates when we go there. Conversely, it is the policy of this column to bring to the attention of its readers any news of innovations in outdoor equipment, unique places to visit and so on. The Rod and Gun Club is, without doubt, unique. We are sure you would like it.

Won $64,069 Didn't Wait To Claim It

AGUA CALIENTE, Mex. (AP) — An unidentified man from California won $64,069 at the races Sunday but didn't stick around to collect it.

The man placed a wager in the $10 handicap contest at the Caliente track but had to leave before the program was over to catch a bus home.

The track announced after the 10th race that only one better had picked six straight winners, in the fifth through 10th races. The bettor was entitled to the entire gross award of $62,837, plus two consolation shares of $616 each.

A man turned up at the cashier's window and showed a copy of the winning ticket. He said his cousin, who had left early, held the official ticket. He said he was going to call the cousin to advise him he had won. But he wouldn't give the cousin's name.

Dykes Turns Tame Tabbies Into Snarling Tigers

Sport Slices

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The trout are biting, the pickerel are waiting for the starting gun; the better half's eyeing seed catalogues; junior is pricing tennis racquets, and those hockey-weary eyes are waiting to see some good old-fashioned umpire-baiting.

So the curtain comes down on seven months of hockey that contained for this reporter the thrills that come but once in a lifetime.

The greatest thrill of all, naturally, was the trip to Europe, climaxed by witnessing one of the finest groups of fellows to ever pull on hockey sweaters, win the world championship. Unforgettable, too, was the insight into how the other half of the world lives, and the cold grey drabness of life behind the iron curtain.

There will be contrasting milestones along memory lane. We shall never forget the grim scrutiny of stern-visaged pistol-armed Czech police, nor the lilting laughter of the pretty Irish colleens as they planted shamrocks on each tapely tit Shannon airport. Nor the melodic yodels of sweet young Swiss misses echoing in the sun-washed air beneath the awesome majesty of the snow-covered Alps, and the grim lines of barbed wire and machine guns along the Austrian border.

However to end the hockey season on a happier note, it was refreshing to read the story of the Maes-Brighton Tigers game in the Brighton Evening Argus loaned us by a British friend.

The British scribe wrote: "Their 8-4 victory was nothing more than a gentle admonishment before they leave these shores and prepare for a ticker-tape welcome in the traditional home of ice hockey . . . They tallored the game strictly to their liking and when they finally squalled it was merely a signal for more Canadian goals. The maestros seemed to push an invisible button and bang, there was another goal."

"The only reason they did not score a hatful was the superb performance of Jim Mattson in the Brighton goal . and the conduct of these controversial Canadians was above reproach. Once or twice they argued about official decisions and one referee was dubbed 'Banana Nose'."

The British writer said the Maes "gave Brighton a taste of scintillating speed, stickhandling and puck control. At the end they handed their sticks around as keepsakes to a bug-eyed crowd."

"Brightest star in this Canadian constellation," he went on, "were Wayne Brown and Malcolm Leonard. No wonder was this Mann with three goals, the first of which left the Brighton netminder splay-footed."

"Leading 5-3 at the start of the third period wasn't too much, so Denis Boucher and Menard each scored before the Tigers got one back. Just to re-emphasize who was boss, Boucher made it 8-4 before the end."

British and European reporters — oops — journalists, apparently viewed the McFarlands style of play through spectacles of varying hues.

The Finnish "chesters" revealed a "bunch of hoodlums who should go home and learn sportsmanship." A Swedish pair of specs revealed a "gang of western roughnecks." Prague's Pravda said the Canadians "were our players down with rough tactics" and the British newspaperboy of this angle said "When Brighton cut the lead to 4-3 the Canadians lost that lazy gum-chewing look and started handing out hefty but legal bodychecks."

And to those fans who phoned regarding the Toronto Star story that Jean Paul Lamirande was going to Kingston as playing coach, forget about it. We contacted Jean Paul Saturday and he laughed when we put the question to him.

"It's a lot of baloney," he said, "and I do not know where it started. I have not been contacted — besides I want to stay here. I have a job, my family is here, and I like Belleville. I would not consider leaving the Maes for any other team in Canada."

Jean Paul threw back his head and laughed. "Besides," he chuckled, "what would those poor innocent penny-ante players do without the old maestro. They couldn't get along without old J. P."

"Furthermore," he smiled, "I am playing softball for the Robests, and I'm not going to ruin a good ball club by leaving them when they need me."

He closed one eye. "Wiener, Floyd, Bart, the Turk and Lou, not to mention Maesley Tempis do not know they have the best third baseman in softball—yet."

And with that remark, the best defenceman in the 1959 world hockey tournament went his way down the street, an amused smile on his face.

Bengals Claw Casey's Cats For Two Straight Defeats; Maxwell Hits Four Homers

By JOE RICHLER
Associated Press Staff Writer

It's too early to call Jimmy Dykes a miracle manager but the 62-year-old, cigar - smoking little round man must have a Midas touch.

Look what he did just 24 hours after he had been appointed manager of Detroit Tigers:

He took a sadly disorganized team, brought outfielder Charlie Maxwell out of the managerial doghouse and pitcher Don Mossi out of the overworked bullpen and proceeded to lead the cellar-dwelling Tigers to a stunning double-header sweep over the New York Yankees. The scenes of Dykes' auspicious debut were unbelievable.

Thus, in one day, Dykes won as many games as his predecessor, Bill Norman, had won in the previous 17.

TWO EIGHT-HITTERS

Dykes, of course, didn't pitch and didn't hit. The pitching was taken care of by Frank Lary, who won the first game, and Mossi; the hitting by Maxwell, Lary and Mossi allowed only eight hits apiece.

Maxwell, slugged four consecutive home runs to equal a major league record, during which he drove in six runs. Before Sunday, the lefthanded batter had hit only one homer, in a pinch role. He had lost his left field job to Larry Doby because of a batting slump.

The Yankees, who have lost five in succession and nine of their last 10, now rest in second place, 6½ games behind the American League-leading Cleveland Indians. . . . Mossi, a double-header with Washington Senators. . . . After Jim Grant had pitched the Indians to a 5-0 triumph in the opener, Hal Griggs of Washington outglutted veteran Mike Garcia 3-1 in the nightcap.

Baltimore Orioles moved into a triple tie for second place with Chicago White Sox as Kansas City Athletics, defeating the White Sox 4-2 in 10 innings. The Athletics trounced Boston Red Sox 7-3.

Cleveland turned back the Yankees 5-3 in a Saturday game while the Orioles, on the way up, defeated the Athletics 3-1. The Tigers, in the last game of the Norman era, lost by an even bigger score than usual—13-2 to Washington—and Boston edged Chicago 5-4.

Billy Martin was the batting star of Cleveland's first - game triumph Sunday. He drove in two runs with a single and homer and scored twice.

The second-game runs were scored in the ninth inning. Washington tallied three unearned runs on an error, two singles and a two-run double by Harmon Killebrew. Rocky Colavito ruined Griggs shutout bid with a home run for the Indians in the last of the ninth.

Billy Gardner and Chico Carrasquel hit home runs in the 10th off relief pitcher Jim Lowe to give Baltimore's Billy Loes his second triumph against one defeat. Loes replaced starter Billy O'Dell in the ninth.

Homers also won for Kansas City. Roger Maris and Bob Cerv were the four - bagger hitters, each with a man on base. Ralph Terry allowed eight hits for his second victory. Frank Malzone hit two homers for the losing Red Sox.

TOP MILER MARRIES

PERTH, Australia (Reuters)—Herb Elliott, holder of the world mile record, married Miss Anne Dudley at nearby Nedlands Saturday.

This may be the year in which Henry Aaron establishes himself as the of baseball's greatest right-handed hitters, a title guaranteed to make Stan Musial, Ted Kluszewski, Harry Hellmann, Ed Delehanty, Sam Crawford, Hank Greenberg, Jimmy Foxx and Al Simmons.

If this gaing overboard on a fellow who's just had five full seasons of major league warfare under his belt? Just ask the San Francisco Giants.

Sunday against Giants Aaron hit a single and two home runs. He scored three runs and drove in another on a sacrifice fly as the Braves won 8-4 to regain first place in the National League with a record by half a game.

BATS EVEN .500

Aaron now is batting an even .500 with 36 hits in 72 times at bat. He is tied with teammate Eddie Mathews for the league's home run leadership with eight; he leads in hits, is third in runs scored with 18, tied for third with eight doubles, and tied for fifth with 20 runs batted in. His slugging percentage is an incredible .972.

If he continues even near this pace, Aaron is a good bet to capture the triple crown of batting, runs batted in and batting percentage.

Cincinnati and Los Angeles were in a virtual tie with the Giants for second place after splitting the split of their double-header. The Reds won the first game 6-3 and the Dodgers took the second, 7-1.

Chicago maintained its .500 level, winning the opener 4-3 against Philadelphia, but lost the nightcap 5-4. Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis 4-3 in the first game of their two bill. The Cards were leading 3-1 after 6½ innings of the second game, batted by Pennsylvania's 7 p.m. curfew law. It will be resumed June 2.

GET 11 HITS

San Francisco defeated Milwaukee 8-5 Saturday getting 17 hits off four Milwaukee pitchers. Cincinnati walloped Los Angeles 16-4, Chicago beat Philadelphia 4-3 and Pittsburgh defeated St. Louis 2-1.

Six home runs featured Milwaukee's Sunday triumph over San Francisco. Lew Burdette allowed six hits in the route going as Aaron's two homers and Eddie Mathews' four were backed by Willie Mays, Daryl Spencer and Andre Rodgers.

Del Crandall joined Aaron in the Braves' homer spree. A two-run shot by Frank Torre with the bases full highlighted a five-run fifth against loser Johnny Antonelli and two relievers.

Jerry Lynch slammed a three-run homer in the ninth to snap a 3-3 tie and give the Reds their single.

Hogan, Hawkins Play Off for Tourney Title

FORT WORTH, Tex. (CP)—All-time golf great Ben Hogan will be seeking his first tournament victory in three years today when he clashes with Fred Hawkins to break a first-place tie in the $50,000 Colonial National invitation golf tournament.

Hawkins came from four strokes back to tie Hogan with 285 for 72 holes. Hogan had come from the three behind himself in overtaking faltering Ted Kroll Sunday. First-place prize money is $5,000. The playoff is 18 holes.

Hogan shot a two-over-par 72 on the final 18 while Hawkins did a 71 in his stretch run.

Hawkins, 35-year-old veteran, after his second in history; His won the Oklahoma City open in 1956, his only triumph in 12 years of campaigning.

The final round started with Kenny Ventura with 210 for 54 holes. Lionel Hebert was second at 211 although Hogan was tied with Tommy Jacobs for third at 213. Hutchins was next at 214.

Billy Maxwell, who shot a closing 69, and Jacobs, who wound up with 73, tied for fifth place with 286.

Tied at 287 were Hebert and Kroll. Kroll had a disastrous closing 77 while Hebert scored a 74.

Stan Leonard of Vancouver shot 70-71-70-71—282 to finish in place tie with three other pros and $331 prize money. The others are George Bayer, Jay Herbert and Arnold Palmer.

LOADED WITH LOOT — Newly crowned "Mr. Bowling," Bill Godby proudly displays the loot that went with the title. He won the Lloyd Cleaners trophy, the Jerry O'Connor watch and the Bowl-O-Drome $100.

New Record Set

District 'Mr. Bowling' Title Won by City's Bill Godby

Bill Bateman's Bowl-O-Drome "Hall of Fame" admitted its newest member Saturday night, and also set a new high single game record.

Bill Godby, O'Connor's Jewellers team of Belleville, became the eighth winner of the coveted district "Mr. Bowling" crown, and the 24-year-old accompanies it.

Doug Hull in a brilliant performance, set a new high singles record of 443. He rolled eleven straight strikes only to leave the "3-3" standing for twelfth frame.

Godby nosed out Ron Saylor, twice winner of the title, in a tenth-game Merriwell finish from a field of 65 district trundlers. His ten-game pinfall was 2373, Saylor's 2543.

Hull's score shaded by one pin the former record of 442 set by Phil Lott in his sensational high triple of 1161 rolled earlier in the season.

SIXTEEN PRIZES

Former winners of the "Mr. Bowling" title since the tournament's inception eight years ago include Ron Saylor (twice), Jim McKenzie, Ken Peacock, Joe Lascicla, Art Lockwood, Kingston and last year's champion Horace Ormshaw of Trenton.

Play in phase came Jack Canning (2469). Then followed in order: Robert Thom (2453), Cornwall; Doug Hull (2431); Art Allen and Leo Lascicla, tieing (2406); Bill Philip (2403); "Lefty" Reid, Belleville (2354); Earl MacDonald (2345), Russ Hance, Cornwall (2324); Vic Bellefeuil (2306); Carl Anderson (2302); Jim Taylor, Kingston (2298); Bill McKinnon (2240) and Angelo Brunet, Cornwall (2238).

The tournament was played in two blocks of five games each, starting at twelve noon. Godby's total of 2373 is the best below that of Horace Ormshaw of Trenton, last year's winner who rolled a 2803.

At the post-tournament presentations conducted by Jim McKenzie, tourney chairman, the new "Mr. Bowling" received the conventional Lloyd Cleaners Trophy which he holds for a year, a jeweller window which comes his permanent possession, a cash award of $100 and a handsome watch which was trophied and presented by Jerry O'Connor of O'Connor's Jewel Box.

Coincidentally, as was mentioned before, Godby is a member of the Quinte Classic League's O'Connor's Jewel Box team. His league average was 240.

A special award of $10 was given Doug Hull, by Bowl-O-Drome manager Bill Bateman for his sensational performance of 11 straight strikes — and a new singles record.

Second, third and fourth place winners received cash prizes of $25, $15 and $10 respectively. The rest of the 16 place winners received merchandise awards.

The victory was no walkaway for the new title holder. Lead changed hands several times during the ten-game play and the tournament was not decided until the last game was bowled.

Cornwall's Robert Thom led the 65-player pack at the end of four games but faded rapidly from there in. He finished in fourth place. Belleville's Ron Saylor took over at the halfway mark and from there until the tenth game held a slim margin.

Going into the tenth game Godby had crowned the Saylor lead to 63 pins. He had scored 2265 to Saylor's 2228. It looked like Saylor was headed for a down-to-the-wire finish.

"Mr. Bowling" hat trick.

He carried a 215 for a tenth-game total of 2543, and the "pack" settled for a Saylor victory. But they had reckoned without Godby.

He rolled a brilliant final effort for 300 to score a total of 2573 and win the tournament and title by 30 pins.

Trundlers from Belleville, Cornwall (11), Peterborough (5), Trenton (5) and Kingston (5) and smallers centres, took part in the tournament. . . G.H.C.

Bruins Clobber Rangers 12-4

GENEVA (AP) — Boston Bruins defeated New York Rangers 12-4 Sunday in the second exhibition game in Switzerland between the National Hockey League clubs.

Rangers won 4-3 Saturday. The crowd of 8,000 saw the Bruins score seven goals in the third period. Each team now has won two games on their European tour.

John Bucyk scored three times for Boston and Leo Labbe, Jean Gendron and Fleming Mackell two goals each. Don McKenney, Vic Stasiuk, and Jerry Toppazzini were the other Boston scorers. Eric Nesterenko, Pierre Pilote, Ed Shack and Jim Bartell accounted for the New York scoring.

Shack scored twice Saturday to lead Rangers to victory.

Hank Ciesla and Eddie Litzenberger also scored for New York while Jim Morrison, Bronco Horvath and Jean-Guy Gendron tallied for Bruins.

Qualify for Davis Cup Second Round

LONDON (AP) — Three South American countries Sunday qualified for the second round of European zone Davis Cup tennis competition in play marked by boos and bottle throwing at Vienna.

Brazil, Chile and Colombia gained their first round matches against West Germany, Austria and Lebanon, respectively. Belgium also earned a place in the second round by defeating Two Netherlands 4-1 and South Africa went on to complete a 5-0 sweep against Norway.

The final singles matches between Sweden and Hungary were postponed because of rain but the Swedes already had clinched their second-round place by winning Saturday's doubles for a 3-0 lead.

In other competition during the weekend, Spain advanced at the expense of Finland 5-0 and New Zealand beat Ireland 5 - 0. Denmark and Switzerland previously had won places in the second round.

Chile's victory over Austria was marked by an unprecedented demonstration by fans who became angry when Chile's Luis Ayala asked to have a substitute play for him after young Patricio Rodriguez had won the decided match.

Spectators at Vienna threw empty bottles onto the court and loudly shouted their disapproval. Police were called in to restore order.

Rodriguez had beaten Austria's Frank Hainka 1-6, 6-0, 3-6, 6-4, 6-3 in a 2½-hour duel. That made the score 2 and Ayala asked to have Daniel Achondo take his place against Austrian champion Franz Salzo. Ayala later forfeited the final match.

Brazil clinched its first round berries against Germany in Berlin when Carlos Fernandez and Ronald Barnes won the doubles match from Wilhelm Bungert and Christian Eckbie 1-6, 10-8, 6-2, 6-2.

Colombia defeated Lebanon 4-1 at Beirut when Hernando Sasa and William Alvarez took the first two singles matches. Salas defeated Karim Fawaz 8-6, 6-1, 6-4 and Alvarez overpowered Samir Nabbout 6-0, 9-7, 6-1.

Britain, a round ahead of the rest in the European zone, routed Luxemburg 5 - 0 and gained a place in the quarter-finals. Britain Knight beat Jacques Offenheim 6-0, 6-1, 6-1 and Alan Mills defeated Jean Boden 6-1, 5-7, 8-10, 6-2, 6-2.

Three Fights For Patterson Says Manager

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Cus D'Amato, heavyweight champion Floyd Patterson's manager, said he hopes "to have at least three defences this year and probably four."

He said in an interview Sunday he didn't consider Patterson's easy victory over Britain's Brian London a tuneup for the defence against Ingemar Johansson of Sweden, "any more than Johansson considers a tuneup for the next fight."

As usual, D'Amato refused to name names or places but said he would consider fighting anywhere in the world.

This pugilist led to the statement by Johansson's adviser, Edvin Rosnell that he is prepared to offer Patterson a guarantee of $500,000 for a return bout in Gothenburg if Johansson wins the title June25. He said he thought there would be a better gate in Sweden than in the U.S.

Tomy Lee Discovered

Sticking Your Neck Out Pays If It's Close in the Derby

By ORLO ROBERTSON

LOUISVILLE Ky. (AP)—Willie Shoemaker made the right choice when he selected Tomy Lee over second Dancer as his Kentucky Derby mount. The evidence is Tomy Lee took the big Spa-lish-bred Tomy Lee beat Sword Dancer by a nose.

Lee had the four-time national riding champion selected Sword Dancer, by all odds, to win right. That was the opinion of trainers today after one of the most thrilling of the 85 derbies at Churchill Downs.

Tomy Lee's 71-year-old trainer, Frank Childs, said: "That eight inches (the margin of victory) makes a great horse out of Tomy Lee. However, I think that if we had switched jockeys (with Shoemaker on Sword Dancer) the other horse might have won. I'd have to give it to him."

Most trainers agreed.

REPRISE COMBATANT

Elliott Burch trainer of Sword Dancer, refused comment on whether he may would have won with Shoemaker in place of Bill Boland. Burch teamed only Ayala asked to have a substitute Monday that Shoemaker had decided on Tomy Lee instead of Sword Dancer. Some also could have ridden Royal Orbit.

Pictures of the race show that Shoemaker shifted his whip in the left hand in the final yards, gave Tomy Lee a couple of cuts and then literally lifted the Texas-owned colt under the wire with a great burst.

CLAIMED FOUL

Boland claimed he was bothered by Tomy Lee and Shoemaker in the stretch but the stewards, after reviewing the pictures and films, disallowed the claim after 10 minutes, said there was enough room for both horses changing the order of the finish.

First Landing, the 1958 two-year-old champion, was the early choice over Tomy Lee, trailed by another 2½ length in the third money.

Tomy Lee ran the 1¼ miles in the fast time of 2:02 1-5, earned a set of $119,650 for the second richest purse in the race's history and ran his total earnings to $377,617. He paid $9.40.

Majors Had First Rhubarbs On Sunday

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The major leagues had their first big rhubarbs of the season Sunday with a "baseball" pitch starting a near-riot at Cleveland and a flying hat resulting in players pouring from the dugouts at Pittsburgh.

The American League fisticuffs broke out after Cleveland centre fielder Jim Piersall was brushed back by a high inside pitch by Pedro Ramos of Washington Senators.

The umpires grabbed Piersall as he started for the mound, but Tony Kubek of the Yankees got by them and started shouting at the Washington pitcher.

STARTS PUNCHING

Ramos began throwing punches and players streamed to the action centre. Even the bullpen pitchers joined in the melee as several fights occurred. Piersall, Ramos and Gordon were thrown out of the game.

Washington catcher J. W. Porter was grabbed after tripping and falling and needed 13 stitches to close a gash in his arm.

At Pittsburgh, players milled around and tossed verbal barbs but no punches.

The National League blowup apparently followed an incident in the first inning of the night game when player-manager Solly Hemus of the St. Louis Cardinals was hit by a ball pitched by Ernie Daniels. Hemus started for the mound but players restrained him and pushed him on toward first base.

Then in the sixth inning, Hemus' swung at a pitch and his bat flew toward Daniels on the mound.

The game was delayed several minutes before officials and the police cleared the field of players. No one was tossed out.

Batting — Charlie Maxwell, Tigers, smashed four home runs in succession, three in the second game, to tie a major league record and lead Detroit to a 4-2 and 8-3 doubleheader triumph over New York Yankees.

Pitching—Jim (Mudcat) Grant, Indians, hurled a two-hit shutout in Cleveland's 5-0 triumph over Washington's Senators. The shutout was the first pitched under Joe Gordon's leadership since he succeeded Bobby Bragan as tribe manager last summer.

Leafs Maul Miami Marlins; Royals Win 2

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto Maple Leafs found that extra something they needed to press Miami for first place in the International League. They had only to look as far as their own bench.

Mike Goliat, the erstwhile minor leaguer who has been a fixture around the Leaf infield for several seasons, supplied the answers Sunday with some lusty hitting that gave the Leafs a 7-4 victory over the Marlins in the first game of a doubleheader and propelled them to a 6-0 lead in the nightcap, which was suspended after six innings because of Toronto's curfew law.

Because the second game can't be written into the record until it is completed on Miami's next visit to Toronto, the Marlins maintained a slim hold on first place.

MAKE MANAGER BEAM

Goliat and Archie Wilson, pinchhitter extraordinary, combined to make Toronto manager Dixie Walker's lineup shifts pay off. Goliat, ousted at second base this year by Joe Amalfitano, batted for third baseman Stan Jok in the seventh inning of the first game, and walked.

Archie Wilson then made his fourth consecutive successful pinchhitting appearance, singling home two runs.

Goliat, who stayed in the game at third base, homered for two runs in the eighth inning to put the Leafs ahead and give Ron Kline relief pitcher Frank Funk. That earned him a starting job at third base in the nightcap, and he batted 3-for-3, scoring twice and driving out a bases-empty home run.

In other Sunday games, Buffalo defeated Cocoa 5-3 in 10 innings, Montreal swept a pair of one-run decisions from Jacksonville 3-2 and 2-1, and Richmond defeated Rochester 3-1 and 3-2.

WIN THIRD STRAIGHT

Buffalo won its third straight but Dick Brodowski's relief help for the victory. Home runs by Frank Herrera, Don Leppan and Bobby Morgan paced a 10 - hit Buffalo attack against Jerry Lumpe's seventh-inning home run.

Sandy Amoros' pinch-hit single in the ninth inning gave Montreal its opening - game victory while Wilbur Wood hit his second homer of the year to provide the nightcap victory.

Ron Negray 3-1) won the first game and Babe Birrer (2-3) the second. Bill Wight (1-3) and Raul Sanchez (3-2) were the Havana losers.

Two unearned runs and Deron Johnson's homer gave Richmond and Bill Short the first-game victory over Rochester. Then Bob Martyn and Dick Ellsworth sparked a last-inning, two run rally that took the second game. Ed Orba (2-0) was the winner over Bill Greason (1-1).

Maxwell's 4 Homers in Row Tied Major League Record

By DAVE BILES

DETROIT (AP) — Jimmy Dykes' first lineup change as manager of Detroit Tigers had fans in these parts talking about the Tigers in complimentary terms once again.

The 62-year-old veteran of nearly 40 major league campaigns pulled slumping Charlie Maxwell off the bench Sunday and the popular slugger responded with a record-tying performance at the plate.

Dykes replaced Bill Norman who was fired Saturday less than nine minutes after the American League team lost its 18th game in 19 starts, 15-2 to Washington Senators here.

HITS FOUR HOMERS

Maxwell hit four home runs in consecutive times at bat, added a single for five hits in seven at-bats and drove in eight runs as the last-place Tigers blasted the New York Yankees 4-3 and 8-2 in a Briggs Stadium double-header.

Maxwell's explosion at the plate equals a mark first set back in 1894 by Bob Lowe and tied seven times since. The last to do it was Ted. Williams in 1957.

A four-for-23 slump had Maxwell riding the bench under Norman.

Dykes promptly put Maxwell back into his field "because he always liked him." He moved Larry Doby to right field, a position he never before played, and switched Al Kaline to centre.

Don Larsen, Duke Maas, Zack Monroe and Ryne Duren were victims of Maxwell's slugging spree that gave the defending world champions down to their eighth and ninth losses in 10 games. His last two clouts traveled well over 400 feet.

'ONE OF THOSE DAYS'

"It's just one of those days that comes to a ball player," said Dykes, happily chewing on a cigarette butt after the first game, "to go through a career looking for a day like that."

A wildly cheering throng of 42,436, surprising due to Tigers' record, was the largest of the 1959 season.

Only last week Maxwell asked for a roster to put my name in the paper somewhere, just to let my wife know I'm still with the club."

Good Thing It Wasn't In His Hat

SCARBOROUGH, England (AP)—Peter Wilding took to the rules of golf Sunday and chipped a bone in his leg.

He swung at a ball in the rough and it hopped into his trouser cuff. Wilding conceded his partner, who said the rules were plain — play the ball where it lies.

Wilding took a mighty swipe. He yelled at agony went and the ball flew clear. Then he hobbled off the course looking for a doctor.

LOOK FOR OIL LEAKS

Leaks can be costly in oil and gasoline consumption. Oil repairs if the leak is from main bearings.

Inspect the underside of the car's engine — with a flashlight if necessary. Any leak will allow oil to be blown back over the engine and usually this is a bad sign in a late model used car.

To avoid disappointment and expensive repair bills, check your car as often as you would your doctor or dentist. It's cheaper, safer, quicker to "recondition" a car as far as appearance is concerned, but the attention to hidden mechanical defects is what really counts.

Ask Pinder Ltd., 149 Front St. have acquired a reputation for thorough mechanical inspections . . . which means dependable dependability in the cars they sell. Phone WO 2-3408.

First Showings

When screen beauty Gia Scala sits down at a piano and slowly works out chords that will transmit messages in code, she is re-enacting a real-life method of sending secret information used by spies during the war. It is a scene in Columbia Pictures' suspenseful spy thriller, "The Spy On Wilhelmstrasse", in which Miss Scala co-stars with Jack Hawkins at the Park Theatre opening tonight.

The musical code is just one of the many espionage secrets revealed in the spy drama. This particular sequence shows how radio singers, working for the Allies, used harmonics to transmit their information right under the nose (or, rather, past the ears) of the enemy.

SECOND FEATURE

"Murder By Contract", new crime thriller starring Vince Edwards and co-starring Phillip Pine and Herschel Bernardi, opens tonight at the Park Theatre as the second feature.

AT THE PARK — Jack Hawkins and Erik Schumann, right, fight for their lives in Columbia Pictures' "The Spy on Wilhelmstrasse", opening tonight at the Park Theatre. Hawkins is seen as a British agent who rose to the rank of general, Hitler's favorite, in the German High Command. On the same program "Murder by Contract", starring Vince Edward. Both features are first Belleville showings.

The Quinte Reports

News of Your Local Sea Cadet Corps

This week will see the start of the sailing season for the Sea Cadets of the "Quinte." The dinghies have been readied for action with a new coat of paint or varnish and fresh rigging. The cutters are also prepared and the motor launch has been brought out of its winter quarters and is being prepared for summer service. The scows has been sent to Toronto for straightening and the motor will be overhauled and tuned up shortly.

The past week has been spent in preparation for the annual inspection. The precision squad has been training twice a week under the direction of W.O. 2 Bennett of the Hasty Pees. Target practice was also held on Tuesday evening and Saturday afternoon. On Thursday's parade special training in communications, knots and splices and precision drill was also given.

On Thursday the cadets were selected for various special duties concerning the demonstrations being prepared for the annual inspection. A precision drill under arms demonstration, a search problem on the range, a sail-past with the corps' boats, a mess barbecue supper, a rifle demonstration, and a couple of other demonstrations have been scheduled.

ROOM FOR A FEW NEW CADETS

Several new men joined the corps over the past week. There are a few openings available for some more new cadets. The requirements for a new entry include a minimum height of 5' 1", good physical shape, parental consent, and between 14 and 17 years of age. Boys interested in joining are invited to attend the parades at the Armouries tomorrow night at 7:15 p.m. or at the barracks (just north of the Imperial Oil yards on south Front street) on Thursday evening at the same time.

On Tuesday evening a group of marksmen from the local Royal Canadian Air Cadet Corps will meet a six-man team from the Sea Cadets in a rifle competition.

Three more cadets have shot the required target for their Marksman badge. Included are P.O. 2 Wayne Bunnett (94), A.B. Leslie Casselman (93), and L.O.C. Greig (95). This brings to eleven the number of cadets who have qualified for this badge. Several more are expected to achieve this goal in the near future.

SAVES 3 CHILDREN

HILLSDALE (CP) — Duncan Barr dashed in to a flaming home and fought through dense smoke and falling embers Wednesday to rescue three fire-stricken children unable to find their way to safety. He was passing the home of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Townes in this community 115 miles north of Erie when he saw flames shooting from the front door of the two - storey frame house. The parents were not home.

FEMALE SURPLUS

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP) — West Germany has 3,100,000 more women than men, the federal statistical office reports. The total is placed at 52,300,000 plus 2,200,000 in isolated West Berlin.

PROGRESS

A string of statistics was listed to demonstrate the province's progress but the report said better control of Ontario residents need be added up in columns of figures and assessed in brick and mortar.

"The basic objective of our great economic plan has been to create and maintain an environment that fosters growth, development, and employment.

"On one side, we have encouraged and assisted industrial expansion and production, for the other, we have strengthened our health and welfare services and thus individual and family security.

DYNAMIC CREED

"In short, our dynamic economic creed has been, and is, more people, more industry, more jobs, more wages, more opportunity and from these more productivity and revenue to do the job."

After 40 years of talk, a hospital insurance program has been launched covering 5,500,000 persons. "It is the greatest insurance bargain ever offered to our people."

Completion of the St. Lawrence Seaway and power project has brought world shipping services into Ontario ports.

"In 1951 there were a few hours of the refusal of the United States Congress to approve a start on the St. Lawrence power development and seaway, the governments of Ontario and Canada prepared, in partnership with the government of Canada and the New York Power Authority, to go ahead with this project without United States financial support. Our determination combined with the fiscal stremtia we had to back it showed that we meant business and the result is that the great St. Lawrence Project is now a living reality."

The arrival of western natural gas was another accomplishment.

"We fought for the primary use in Ontario and in Canada of western gas and the pipeline flows into Ontario from the west through all-Canadian facilities. History will assess the dedication of Canadian gas and oil to Canadian use as one of the great foundations of Canada's economic independence."

RURAL AID

Rural Ontario had been given electricity, better roads, farm improvement, snow plowing and drainage assistance.

"The principle of negotiated farm product prices is unassailable but until recent years very little if anything had been done to make it effective. Despite the fact that farm marketing is constantly changing and continues to present new problems, more progress has been made in providing for the orderly marketing of farm products in recent years than before in our history."

An investigating committee had been established to examine the processing, handling, storing, transporting and marketing of farm products.

"The government's intention is to facilitate the marketing and processing of farm products to meet the requirements of producers and the consumers of their products, whose purchasing habits are being altered in this changing economy by new merchandising facilities and methods."

NEW OUTLOOK

Northern Ontario had been given a new economic outlook through natural gas and more benefits were promised.

The government of Ontario will continue to stimulate the growth of population but the destruction of secondary industry in northern Ontario by adopting the latest conservation methods and by constructing roads, schools, hospitals and other facilities.

A tidewater port at Moosonee was on the way and "our effort will be spared to make the Lakehead the finest port on Lake Superior. Plans are also underway in relation to a lake port on Georgian Bay which can service northeastern Ontario and by way of our northland railway provide a connection with Hudson Bay at Moosonee.

"The complete modernization of our highway system from the Lakehead cities to the Manitoba boundary and to Fort Frances by way of the new causeway will be pushed ahead. Six new highway bridges will be constructed at Sault Ste. Marie, Port Frances and Rainy River connecting our northern road system with the Northeast, Illinois and Mississippi systems."

EDUCATION GRANTS

Education grants had climbed from $30,000,000 in 1943 to $200,000,000 in 1959, an achievement unequalled and not even approached by any other province or nation in North America.

"The policy of massive increases in school grants will be continued which, while not interfering with the authority of local boards, will transfer more of the burden of cost to a wider taxing basis."

Municipalities had been strengthened through an increase in grants to $210,000,000 in 1959 from $30,000,000 in 1943.

"Our record is one of allout assistance to the municipal government. This will continue to be our policy. Special efforts will be made to assist the municipalities and at the same time protect and preserve provincial credit, the dilution of which could spell disaster not only to provincial but to municipalities as well."

FEDERAL TAX AID

Federal-provincial discussions had brought a bigger share of personal income tax to provincial hospital insurance, a winter employment program, direct relief for unemployed and more orderly farm marketing.

"While the municipal or two a federal - provincial conference will be held to initiate a study of ways to assist in the growth of tourism and the expenditure of debt charges of each level of government.

"There is no doubt that this intensive and dispassionate study will produce far-reaching fiscal reforms that will enable the federal effective the great principles of our Canadian confederation."

Portable pensions were another object of federal-provincial discussion.

"We are anxious to see all contributions to pension funds made transferable in accordance with changes in employment. Studies conducted by officials here at the federal level suggest that progress toward its wider application must be made through the close co-operation of the federal and provincial governments and industry."

LABOR LEGISLATION

Labor legislation was under close study to be maintained and strengthened.

"Far and wide in America, Ontario's labor relations and administration have been recognized as being among the best. This, however, does not mean they cannot be improved and it will be our aim to make improvements where indicated."

They included unconditional municipal grants, a municipal corporations tax, municipal financing, creation of Metropolitan Toronto, a water resources commission, a scholarship system, free text books and milk in schools, the Ontario Hydro Services, human rights legislation, junior farmers' loans, the Ontario Food Terminal, construction of a cancer hospital, free polio vaccination, grants to hospitals and charitable institutions, an atomic reactor, access roads, scientific forest management, probationary services and the unsatisfied judgment fund.

SOME PROBLEMS

enough to load. The water will be pumped out as 8,500 tons of grain is poured into the holds.

TAKES ONLY PART LOAD

Because there is only 20 feet of water at the elevator, only 8,500 tons can be loaded. Another 7,000 tons will be loaded at Montreal for the ocean part of the trip.

Fully loaded the Pangloris L draws 31 feet. There is only 21 feet 11 inches of water in the St. Mary's River at Sault Ste. Marie.

The ship had her propeller damaged, her bow sore in, and navigation lights broken when she collided with locks and bridges on her way from the sea.

Captain Costes Stravelakis said he thought it will take about four years before ships of large size will be able to make their way safely through the seaway.

Winds have turned out to be a major problem. The big ocean ships, when empty, ride high and are more easily pushed into the sides of canals than are the squat canal boats. Several times, navigation has been ordered halted because of high winds.

Shore dwellers along Lake Ontario have complained that the huge wake stirred up by the big ships has smashed boats, boathouses and cabins.

SHIPS WELCOMED

Duluth, Minn., welcomed its first ocean freighters Sunday, the British Ramon deLarrinaga and the Liberian Herald, both grain carriers. The crowd which turned out to cheer was estimated at 4,000 persons.

The Santa Regina of the Grace Line received a noisy welcome in Milwaukee Sunday. The American-registered ship was on its return voyage from Chicago to the sea.

The CSL's Renovyle docked at Leamington, Ont., Saturday night, officials said. Captain Ivar Kelly of Sarnia several years of canned foods for taking the first ship into that port this season.

FORMER PROFESSOR DIES

KINGSTON (CP)—D. T. Maclean, former professor of engineering at Royal Military College, died Friday. He had suffered a heart attack a few days ago. He graduated from RMC shortly before the First World War and was a teacher at the college until his retirement about 20 years ago.

Engineers Say Tunnel Best Subway Method

TORONTO (CP)—A University of Toronto geology professor says the Toronto Transit Commission would save a substantial amount of money and the subways could double as air raid shelters if Toronto's proposed east-west subway were tunnelled 100 to 150 feet below ground.

Dr. G. B. Langford said an estimated 10 per cent could be cut from the $200,000,000 construction costs if "a corps of underground engineers who are accustomed to all types of rock work" were employed on the job.

Dr. Langford and others commented on the proposed subway in a series of interviews. In general they opposed the open-cut construction method because of its cost, both in construction and land purposes and because of its disruption to surface life during construction.

They foresaw in a deep tunnel a problem of transporting subway passengers as far as 100 feet underground but suggested longer escalators than those now used would serve the purpose. One of five interviewed disagreed with a deep tunnel.

The present subway, six miles along Yonge Street from union station to Eglinton Avenue, was built in an open-cut ditch which was later filled in. It was completed in 1954 for a total cost of $58,500,000.

The proposed east-west subway will run about 10 miles along midtown Bloor and Danforth Avenues with a spur line running south from Bloor along University Avenue to connect with the existing subway line at union station.

LUNG CANCER INCREASES

TORONTO (CP)—Dr. A. H. Sellers of the Ontario health department said Friday an "alarming increase" in lung cancer cases has pushed that phase of the disease to lead cancer deaths among Canadian men. Just as in the United States, lung cancer has leaped ahead of cancer in the stomach, intestines and digestive tract as the cause of cancer deaths among men, he said.

Churchill Back In U.S. To Visit Wartime Friends

Still Vigorous But Will Not Make Any Speeches

WASHINGTON (AP)—A sentimental journey has brought Sir Winston Churchill to Washington once again to see some of my comrades of wartime days."

Sir Winston, now 84, stepped slowly from President Eisenhower's personal plane Monday as Eisenhower and a crowd of about 500 persons welcomed him at Washington National Airport.

But his voice was clear and vigorous—a reminder of the days when he rallied his countrymen and their allies during the dark days of the war.

WIT STILL SHARP

The Churchill wit was there too, as he remarked:

"I never have come coming to America, but I shall not say—as most people who are travelling nowadays about the world seem to do—everything is finish."

Eisenhower grinned, and the crowd laughed, at this apparent reference to another wartime figure, Lord Montgomery, retired British field marshal, who criticized American leadership in a television program just before a recent trip to Moscow.

Churchill's last visit to the U.S. was in January, 1954, when as prime minister he came for a series of official conferences with Eisenhower.

This present visit is described as purely personal.

British Embassy officials said Sir Winston's remarks at the airport are the first public statements he plans to make during the visit. He has turned down numerous requests for speeches and press conferences.

MONARCH AT AMERICAN

Eisenhower greeted Churchill as "my dear friend of wartime days," and recalled that Sir Winston's mother was an American. He said: "We claim at least the maternal side of him."

Churchill agreed that "we finished Monday" (my another country, as I always figure it and feel it."

The quiet visit started Monday night with a family dinner at the White House.

Eisenhower has arranged stag dinners tonight and Wednesday night, and the British Embassy, in turn, will entertain at a similar dinner Thursday.

Sir Winston will spend a weekend in New York visiting another longtime friend, financier Bernard Baruch, before flying back to England.

Private Club Said Part of Gambling Ring

TORONTO (CP) — Crown Attorney Nicholls McKee said Monday that betting carried out in a suburban Long Branch private club was part of the operations of a large Ontario gambling organization.

Kenneth Currier, steward of the Long Branch Finnish Club, was fined $300 by Magistrate Fred Thompson when he was convicted of keeping a gaming house.

The Finnish Club has its headquarters in Timmins and has another branch in New Toronto, said Magistrate Thompson. He said in a seven-page judgment that it was "not a bona fide club."

Mr. McKee charged that the steward of the club was merely a front man for the operators of a gambling ring.

Police Chief James Markell, who was in court Monday, said last February that there are about 20 or 25 clubs operating in Metropolitan Toronto under provincial charter which are suspected of gambling.

Pope Assails Lying Papers

ROME (Reuters)—Pope John told journalists that truth is "often violated and betrayed by information media" and urged them to spread the truth with loving charity.

In an address to Roman Catholic journalists Monday night, quoted by the Italian Catholic Action newspaper Il Quotidiano, the Pope spoke of the "sad picture of evil which many papers produce with their immorality and malice."

"It is with a truly afflicted and anguished soul that we consider the pitiful damage done by a certain press to many minds, particularly young people, through scandals and even more through pictures."

The pontiff said some newspapers laid a "dangerous trap" by presenting an "alluring mixture of serious profane things, sometimes also of indecent things, under the pretext of complete information or of publicity."

Another section of the press committed "grave sins against truth and justice and charity by trying to inspire hatred."

The aim of these newspapers seemed to be to attack the church "under the lying aspect of basing the solution of problems on forestiting workers, the weak and defenceless people."

Two Drowned In Rainy Lake

FORT FRANCES (CP)—A man and woman were drowned here Monday in a boating accident on Rainy Lake, provincial police reported Monday. The victims were identified as Anna Kise, 20, and Walter Fogknight, 35, both of South International Falls, Minn.

THE WEATHER

TORONTO (CP) Synopsis: Overcast skies with showers and occasional rain or drizzle prevailed over Northwestern Ontario this morning but the weather was warm and mild over the remainder of the province. Much warmer today, temperatures will again reach the 70s over most of the province.

The high pressure area that has stagnated over Ontario and Quebec during the last few days continues to delay any eastward movement of the hot weather and associated thunderstorms prevalent in the central United States.

PARTY MEN START THROWING BARBS EARLY IN ELECTION

Frost Manifesto Under Attack

TORONTO (CP) — The campaign is on.

Ontario politicians stepped up their organizing and began testing barbs at each other Monday within hours of Premier Frost's announcement of a June 11 election.

Both Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer and CCF Leader Donald MacDonald were scornful of the premier's 7,500-word election manifesto outlining the achievements of his Progressive Conservative administration and its "dynamic programme for future."

ALL ISSUE STATEMENTS

Mr. Wintermeyer, who gave a preliminary outline of his election platform at a party convention a month ago, issued a statement saying:

"Ontario liberals are prepared to compare this weary Conservative regime with a responsible opposition party of fresh ideas and energy.

"The Liberal Party is against socialism and for the fullest development of the individual in co-operation with his fellow citizens.

"I will make no promises that cannot be carried out. We do not have a program of high spending to buy votes. That is one of the province's resources."

Mr. MacDonald said in a statement the CCF will campaign on a 1,000-point election platform highlights of a platform adopted by the party last year.

It accused the Conservative government of being a "high-handed, smug, contemptuous of the legislature" and said the Liberal Party is trying to compensate for their lack of a program by wild, impetuous promises."

Premier Frost also referred to Mr. Wintermeyer's campaign promises as he gave reporters copies of his manifesto.

"I have made a point of not making unreasonable promises," he said. "Every other item proposed is of today — not the taxes of tomorrow."

THIRD CAMPAIGN

The 63-year-old premier will be leading his third election campaign. He will be the second time in a third term since March 31, 1955. Mr. MacDonald, 45, and the first time as Conservative, 44. Both opposition leaders were first elected to the legislature in the 1955 election that returned Mr. MacDonald was named leader before

'Hula-Hooping' Can Cause Pains, Distress Says Ottawa Doctor

TORONTO (CP) — Hula-hooping, with its modern doctor, has added another name to the long list of things which cause painful symptoms.

He calls it "hula - hoop syndrome."

Writing in the current issue of the Canadian Medical Association Journal, Dr. Z. H. Zaidi, chief of pediatrics at Ottawa Civic Hospital, describes case histories to illustrate "some hazards of this apparently harmless exercise."

Many of the pains and aches treated by Dr. Zaidi, he writes, have been so acute that they have first suggested symptoms of some more serious malady.

One seven year - old girl was brought to a clinic by her mother who said she was afraid the child had rheumatic fever. The girl told of pains over the knees, elbows and neck and particularly over the right side of the chest. They had persisted for four days.

Dr. Zaidi reports that the younger did not appear ill and had normal temperature, pulse and blood pressure. Examination found there was no fever, rash, vomiting, cough or hiccup. There was learned the girl had taken part in a hula-hooping contest and had been doing it for hours.

A boy of 11 with pains in the chest was examined by three specialists and had extensive x-rays.

But questioning he revealed that the previous evening he had been hula-hooping. Treatment of hoop whirling around his waist," Dr. Zaidi says. "It seems probable that some exertion . . . of his loin muscles on the left side had provoked acute muscular spasm."

The article advises physicians that direct questioning about hula-hoop exertion is necessary "if we are not to be misled or deceived."

Water-Bleached Body Lynch Victim Discovered in River

But the Negro's body offered few clues to bolster the search after an FBI agent and a Mississippi highway patrolman dragged it from a receding waters of the Pearl River near Bogalusa Monday.

It did pin down fate of the 23-year-old truck driver who had been charged with the rape of pregnant white woman. Since his abduction April 25, his violent death had been supported only by speculation. Results of an autopsy are expected to be announced later today.

The FBI in Washington withheld identity of the body.

The mob dumped Parker's body into the Pearl without weights or any other attempt to prevent discovery.

An FBI agent and his Mississippi highway patrolmen companion waded into the muddy arm and a shoulder above the water line in a grim three miles south of the Poplarville - Bogalusa bridge.

Swirling currents lodged the body's left foot in the fork of a tree. A log that rolled over the left leg hampered recovery efforts.

The coroner at Bogalusa's Charity Hospital didn't say how Parker died, except to report a lineup.

Frost Speaker At Opening of Industrial Show

TORONTO (CP) — Premier Frost says Ontario has outpaced the rest of Canada and the United States in recovering from the recession.

Speaking at the opening of the National Industrial Production Exhibition here the premier said the recession clearly demonstrated "the inherent stability and strength of the Ontario economy."

He forecast Ontario's multi-million dollar aluminum industry will "shortly be developed to the advantage of people and every way of life."

The production show, features 1,000 exhibits by manufacturers from Canada, the U.S., United Kingdom and continental Europe.

Canada Pressed to Resume Peacemaking Tasks in Laos

OTTAWA (CP) — Pressure is being placed on Canada to return to peacemaking tasks in Laos.

This is embarrassing because Canada refused to be interpreted as a setback for Canada in the push for international communism.

Refusal might annoy India, placing a strain on the new and diplomatic love affair officials say has developed between Canada and India.

The background is that five years ago Canada, India and Poland were named on international commissions to supervise truce arrangements in the three associated states of Indochina — Laos, Vietnam and Cambodia.

Last year, after a long struggle, Canada and India refused to supposition voted to adjourn the Laos commission, arguing that political conditions were stable and the commission's job finished.

Now, citing border tiffs between Laos and Cambodia, India has changed its mind and wants the commission reconvened.

Russia, chairman with Britain at the 1954 Geneva conference brought together to settle questions into being, has urged the British government to help get the peacemaking body back on the job.

A few Delhi, Indian officials were said to feel "let down" because Canada doesn't think there is justification for returning to Laos.

For Canada, return to Laos would involve headaches over men and money. It would also spoil the sweet taste of Canada's victory in the long procedural battle to liquidate the Laos commission.

There has been a tendency here to point to Laos as one troubled country where moral suasion alone could helped produce stability. In announcing adjournment of the Laotian commission last July 25, the late external affairs-minister Sidney Smith said perhaps the settlement could serve as a model of what international supervision might do in the Middle East.

Robt. Macaulay Sworn in as Energy Minister

TORONTO (CP)—Robert Macaulay today was sworn in as minister of energy resources, a new Ontario government department established during the last session of the provincial legislature.

Premier Frost announced the appointment Monday night. The old former minister without portfolio will keep his position as second vice-chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

"In no way will the relationship of the commission with the government be altered," the premier emphasized.

Mr. Frost said the new department will enable the government to deal more effectively with Ontario's energy resources, especially natural gas and uranium. It would also help meet financial problems in the development of electrical energy.

IN DELEGATE DIES

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) Sir Oswald Allen, British delegate to the UN social commission, died of a heart attack Monday after delivering a speech in the commission. He was 72.

TAX DEDUCTIONS INELIGIBLE ON HOSPITAL BILLS

Opposition Calls For Move Discriminatory

OTTAWA (CP) — The government's plan to make ineligible as tax deductions hospital bills paid by the federal-provincial hospital insurance plan has been attacked in the Commons as "discriminatory."

"There doesn't seem to be any difference between paying premiums to a government plan and paying premiums to a private plan, J. W. Pickersgill (L—Bonavista-Twillingate) said Monday.

Finance Minister Fleming argued that this was the only equitable way the government could apply the principle that bills paid by the government should not be deductible from income taxed by the government.

COMPARES PLANS

Mr. Pickersgill said it is "utter nonsense" to pretend there is no discrimination when privately-insured patients use as deductions all medical expenses and publicly-insured, only such expenses not paid by the government plan.

Mr. Fleming said that while some provinces such as Ontario assess a portion of the cost on a share of hospital ipsurance costs, others were instituting a special sales tax.

Therein lay the problem: How could a government devise a plan of taxation that would provide equitable general application?

Paul Hellyer (L—Toronto-Trinity) followed up protests against a two-cent increase in the gasoline tax by moving an amendment that would eliminate it.

Deputy Speaker Pierre Sevigny took the amendment under advisement following a wrangle over whether it was in order. He was to rule on it today.

'Eagle Man' Charles L. Broley, 80, Dies Fighting Brush Fire at Delta

BROCKVILLE (CP) — Charles L. Broley, 80, known throughout Canada and the United States as "The Eagle Man," died Monday while fighting a brush fire near his cabin on Wiltsey Island in the Delta Lake, 25 miles northwest of here.

Mr. Broley, a retired Bank of Montreal manager from Winnipeg, was one of Canada's leading authorities on the bald eagle. He had banded about 2,000 of them during the last 20 years.

Provincial police said death apparently was caused by a heart attack through exhaustion. It is believed Mr. Broley was overcome by smoke when the fire shifted and the fire spread.

His feats were the subject of a book entitled "Fish Hawk," written in 1952 by his wife Myrtle Broley and his friend. The book was the story of Mr. Broley's discovered concerning the eagle's mating, nesting, feeding and migrating habits of the bald eagle, national symbol of the United States.

Mr. Broley served for 10 years after his retirement as chairman of the ornithological branch of the Canadian National History Museum. While going to Florida in 1938, he stopped for a meeting

School Bus Laden With 31 Students Plunges Into Lake

Speeds Through Barrie With Brakes Useless

BARRIE (CP) — One teen-aged girl was seriously injured today when a district high school bus with 31 students aboard sped out of control through nearly a mile of city streets and plunged into Lake Simcoe.

Linda Marshall, about 18, was taken to hospital with back injuries. Some of the other youngsters were treated for minor cuts, bruises and shock.

Police said the vehicle's brakes failed.

The bus was transporting students to two city high schools from communities along Highway 27. It reached the end of Bayview Street, a downhill throughfare leading to the lake.

Constable Ivan Valley, 23, unable to slow the vehicle which began gathering speed on the incline, told the students to sit down and hold tight.

One student said Valley tried to put the bus into a lower gear but it was going too fast and the gear kept jumping out.

THROUGH INTERSECTION

He steered the speeding vehicle about three-quarters of a mile along the busy street, through a three-lane intersection and across a double CNR track onto the government dock.

Valley apparently tried to swing the bus towards a boat launching ramp but missed it. The front of the bus dropped off the side of the dock and it plunged into the muddy bottom.

Albert Lindsay, who was going fishing, said: "I saw the bus go through the air. It must have been 15 miles an hour. Then I ran to help."

Most of the boys and girls did not require treatment and were driven home for a change of clothing.

Valley, who apparently was slammed against the windshield by the impact of hitting the lake bottom, was in fair condition suffering extensive cuts and shock.

Police said they were almost certain all the youngsters escaped through the main door of the bus and not even open windows.

Two skin divers from the RCAF station at Borden, Ont., were called and began searching the lake bottom to make sure no one was trapped in the bus or trapped beside it.

CLIMB OUT UNAIDED

Most of the students clambered out of the half-submerged bus unaided and were helped to shore by several men who saw the accident and jumped into the water to help.

The youngsters paid tribute to Valley for his actions. He was only 30 feet of water at its end and the bus would certainly have plunged even it had the driver not pulled it off the side close to shore.

Said student Bill Bertram of Midhurst, four miles from Barrie: "Constable Valley did everything he could. He was pretty good."

The bus was owned by Barrie Taxi and Trucking Service Limited which holds a transportation contract with the high schools.

Attempt Made To Locate Heirs Masoud Fortune

OTTAWA (CP) — An Ottawa lawyer is on his way to the Middle East in an attempt to locate heirs to a fortune valued at more than $1,000,000.

Fred B. Salbany left Monday to tour Egypt, Syria, Lebanon and possibly Turkey, looking for the first and second cousins of the late George Masoud who died in Kingston last year.

Masoud, Lebanese-born, made a fortune in ice cream production here and later invested in Kingston real estate. He left a will stating that residue of his multi-million-dollar estate should be distributed among his first and second cousins.

One of these is first-cousin Sam Masoud of Montreal, but Mr. Salbany said before departure that he expects to find about 10 other persons in the Middle East who are qualify as beneficiaries.

Mr. Salbany also will make an 80-hour search of wills and documenting Masoud's $400,000 bequest for a school or hospital in the Bekaa Village of Behmazzai where he was born.

Can Suspend Licences Under Criminal Code

TORONTO (CP)—Drivers convicted of failing to remain at the scene of an accident may soon have their licences suspended under the Criminal Code, W. J. Common, deputy attorney-general of Ontario, said Monday.

Mr. Common told the Canadian Highway Safety Conference that the provincial Liberal Minister Pulled acting on a resolution passed by the safety association last year. The resolution asked that the maximum three-year suspension possible in cases where drivers are convicted of failing to remain at the scene of an accident be increased to that now available under the Criminal Code of drunk driving, impaired driving, manslaughter and criminal negligence or has their licences for up to three years.

Senate Gives Second Reading to Bill Shortening Canadian Legion's Name

The Canadian Legion, known since its inception in 1925, as the Canadian Legion of The British Empire Service League, and operating in Canada under a Dominion Charter, has made application to have its name changed to simply The Canadian Legion.

At a convention in New Zealand, attended by David L. Burgess, Canadian Legion's Dominion president, the British Empire Service League decided to change its name to the British Commonwealth Ex Service League, because of this change and a possible further change in future years, the Canadian Legion at convention in Edmonton last year decided to have its organization known as "The Canadian Legion."

Following is the official Hansard report of the debate at the second reading of this Private Bill in The Senate:

Hon. David A. Croll moved the second reading of Bill 548, respecting The Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League.

He said: Honorable Senators, this is a very simple bill. One of its purposes is to change the name of the organization that is known to all of us as "The Legion." Its legal name is "The Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League." This bill drops the words "of the British Empire Service League" and retains the words "The Canadian Legion", which is what the organization really is. So after the bill has become law the legal name will be read "The Canadian Legion."

One of the reasons for the proposed change is that the British Empire Service League has changed its name to "British Commonwealth Ex-Service League," and it may be changed again. The Canadian Legion will still be associated and affiliated with the British Commonwealth Ex-Service League.

One of the other purposes of this bill is to enable the Dominion Convention of the Canadian Legion to delegate authority to the Dominion Executive so that the Legion may operate efficiently between conventions. This is a normal procedure and was fully inquired into, stood and appreciated by honorable members of this house, presented to and approved by the general membership.

Hon. Mr. Croll: This bill emanates from the Legion and is, I believe, in accordance with resolutions passed at its last convention.

The bill also provides, in clause 3, for an enlargement of the powers of the officers of the Legion. These added purposes and objects are:

—to encourage, promote, engage in or support all forms of national, provincial, municipal or community service, or any charitable or philanthropic purpose.

The Legion has been doing these things throughout the country for many years, and now asks that they be included among the other purposes and objects set forth in the act.

That is all that is contained in this bill. I need not gather fully in speaking about the Legion, of which most of us are members. I respectfully commend all honorable senators for the second reading of the bill.

Hon. George S. White: Honorable senators, I rise to say a few brief words in support of this bill. In speaking to so many honorable senators who are, and who have been for many years, members of the Canadian Legion, it is not necessary for me to attempt to recount in any detail the splendid record and work of the Legion over the years. Every honorable senator here is familiar with it and could recall many instances in his own region where the Legion has been active. I need not read the list of the Legion's purposes and objects as set out in the act. Despite that very long list, the Legion, as pointed out by the sponsor of the bill (Hon. Mr. Croll), desires to extend the good work which is in progress.

I am sure that this bill has the support of all honorable senators.

Hon. W. Ross Macdonald: Honorable Senators, I wish to join with the honorable senator from Hamilton-Wentworth (Hon. Mr. White) in approving this bill, and to congratulate the honorable senator from Toronto-Spadina (Hon. Mr. Croll) for bringing it before this house. The Canadian Legion of the British Empire Service League, of which we are members of executive boards. Any action taken by the executive must be ratified by the next convention, and if not ratified it will cease to be effective.

Hon. Mr. Macdonald: May I ask the honorable senator if the provisions of this bill have been presented to and approved by the general membership?

High School Girls to Provide Escort Service at Hospital

The Belleville General Hospital Visiting Hour Hostess program commenced last year by the Women's Hospital Auxiliary has been extended to provide still another service to the hospital.

Like the visiting hour hostess program which sees visitors to the hospital escorted to the rooms of the patients they wish to see, the new project is also an escort service, but in this case it is the incoming patients who are receiving the honors.

Briefly the service provides escorts for incoming patients to register for incoming patients to be escorted to their rooms following registration at the admitting office.

Sixteen young Belleville high school girls, students at the three city high schools, Belleville Collegiate, Quinte Secondary, and St. Michael's High School, have volunteered for the new escort service. They escort the incoming patients to the floor to which they are assigned, pulling them in the charge of a nurse. Admission forms are also delivered to the nurse at this time.

ROTATE IN DUTY

The girls rotate in their on-duty hours at the hospital with one girl being on duty each day from five until seven in the evening. Under the schedule each of the young volunteers spends an evening at the hospital in a period of a little over two weeks.

During slack times during intervals between admitting patients, the girls do clerical work in the admitting office assisting the person in charge.

Mrs. J. E. Bielish, director of volunteers, said that new volunteer projects are being developed as the need arises at the hospital.

Following is the list of junior volunteers in the escort service from the Belleville General Hospital admitting department:

From St. Michael's High School — Miss Lenore Morrell, Miss Shannah Keenan, Miss Yvette Armengaud, Miss Nancy Dorian, Miss Maureen O'Sullivan.

From B.C.I. — Miss Marilyn Bertrand, Miss Stephanie Dahl, Miss Glenys Dickey, Miss Penny Persons, Miss Tony Porter, Miss Judith Vanover, Miss Jill Box.

From Quinte Secondary — Miss Elizabeth Musgrove, Miss Sharon McDonald, Miss Gael Powers, Miss Judith Trusler.

Mrs. Irene Haig Tells BPW Meet Of Work of UN

TRENTON — The work of the General Assembly and the Security Council in the United Nations and the part that women play in it was the theme of an address given by Mrs. Irene Haig at the final day of the two-day convention of the Ontario Business and Professional Women's Clubs held in Trenton last Saturday and Sunday.

The first day of the convention was held in the new Trenton high school and the final day held in the Memorial Hall of the Canadian Legion.

During the Sunday morning sessions a worship service was held in the Legion hall and was conducted by Rev. Henry Matthews, interim-minister of King Street United Church. Rev. Mr. Mathews spoke on the privileges and responsibilities of the Christian.

Following the services Mrs. Nada Daby, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club in Ontario, led a discussion on the advisability of setting up a Travel Pool, in which each club will share equally and thus afford smaller clubs the opportunity of sending delegates to regional meetings.

DISCUSS PROBLEMS

Mrs. Dorothy Haight of Picton, led a discussion, of club problems. She stated that individual clubs have their own problems, but that the aims of all should not lose sight of the fact that the Business and Professional Women's Club is an international organization, and that larger problems must be dealt with.

Some of her suggestions to clubs were: to make a budget at the beginning of the year, add allow some funds in order to provide for sending delegates to conferences and visitors; to concentrate on one or two outstanding events each year to raise money for the club; to publicize B. & P. activities in their locality, thus gaining prestige and new members; to have interesting and worthwhile activities, to keep members interest and gain new members; to co-operate and communicate with other B. & P. Clubs in area; to issue a monthly bulletin, and see that meetings promptly, prepare agenda in advance and have interesting topics to discuss at the meetings.

Many Branches Represented at Legion Rally

TRENTON — Hundreds of Legionnaires from many branches attended the annual District F convention and service of remembrance at the Trenton Hall on Saturday.

Following the morning session and the civic welcome by Mayor Ross Burtt, a parade of the Legion members was held from the hall to the War Memorial, where a service was held in remembrance of the fallen comrades. During the parade the salute was taken by Group Captain T. A. Spurston, commanding officer No. 6 Repair Depot R.C.A.F.

The morning and afternoon business sessions were under the chairmanship of John Farrell, immediate past president of Branch 110 in Trenton.

The morning meeting heard reports from the district commander, Lou Knack, and the various Zone commanders in attendance.

H. R. Stewart, honorary Dominion treasurer, was the guest speaker at the convention's noon banquet, a report on a better type of paper soon.

Speaking on veterans he said that he had learned during the war years and their service in the forces so appreciate their comrades and this had been a great asset in getting along in civilian life. He said it was easy for veterans to open an interesting conversation at any time.

Speaking on world peace he told the veterans, "Our faith in democracy has been well founded and we must march on to the day when our heritage of God-given freedom is secure."

The speaker was thanked by Zone Commander R. Donaldson, who also presented him with a plate containing a picture of the Trenton Legion building.

Gets Baby Sister

TRENTON — Eric Georgeson, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Alton C. Georgeson, wishes to announce that his sister went to the New Aberdeen Hospital in New Glasgow, Nova Scotia, where she got a baby sister for him. He says they will call the baby Mary Ann and that she weighs six pounds and 11 ounces. He also says that mummy and baby are both doing fine.

There were 2,905,760 eligible voters in the 1955 election and the figure now is estimated at more than 3,000,000. Any Canadian citizen over 21 who has lived in Ontario a year is eligible, but must be in the riding where he was living at the time of the election announcement.

More than 300 candidates are expected with at least two already picked by party riding associations.

SERVICE PLEASE

The evolution of the meaning of the closing regulations which a group of service station proprietors requested Council to approve and the local police enforce has come to a rather ridiculous situation. Although those service stations which remain open twenty-four hours a day, through arrangements with the Ontario Motor League or the Ontario Automobile Association, actually maintain a staff on hand at all times they are only allowed to sell gas in an "emergency," after their regulated "closing" hours which are either seven or eleven o'clock in the evening.

This would seem to be a reasonable proposition on the surface but in practice it can work hardship. There is no protection for the vendor if he sells gas to a person on an "emergency." The local police do not offer any aid as to what is an emergency except to leave it to the vendor's discretion and charge him if they consider his judgment to be poor -- after the act has been committed. This arbitrary arrangement is completely unsatisfied.

An incident occurred last week when a vehicle carrying four people from Toronto ran out of gas on Highway 401, several miles west of the city. After several hours one of the persons concerned managed to get into town and a local friend was prepared to take him and some gas back out to the stranded car. The time was about four in the morning. One of the local garages was open but the servicemen refused to sell gas on the possibility of prosecution. The desk sergeant on duty at the police station was unable to offer any advice other than to suggest that since it was not after or unduly cold there wasn't much of an emergency. The local resident, who did not have enough gas in his vehicle to return to the place where the stranded people back, was advised to the effect that he could first purchase any gas either.

The ultimate result was that the second car also ran out of gas on the 401 Highway and everybody present waited in the cold morning dampness until after a hike back to Belleville, some gas and the use of a motor vehicle were obtained.

The above incident illustrates the need for some change in the regulatory measures concerning the closing hours and no-selling hours of our gas stations. Gas could be available to motorists twenty-four hours a day, especially to transients. If these gas stations must be regulated in their sales request let it not be done to the detriment of the good name and public relations of the city of Belleville.

We feel that the service station proprietors should change a twenty-four hour service seven days a week, to one nonsense about "emergency" sales should be quickly buried to leave a clear field for those gas stations which run twenty-four hours a day in rotation or by choice with the other station operators.

Toronto went through this regulatory phase over two years ago and found it to be most undesirable. Now there are several gas stations at strategic points about the metropolitan area open 24 hours a day to service the needs of that city's motoring public. The same thing can, and should, be done in Belleville. There is no reason for our city to be hamstrung by these regulations.

What if the people stranded on the 401 were Indians looking for a site for a new plant? We are sure they wouldn't have been impressed with Belleville as well not favorably impressed, at-least.

PARKING COSTS

The City of Belleville is offering parking permits for sale, at $5 a month.

There was a time, within the memory of many of us when only the well-to-do could afford to drive an automobile.

We may see the day when only the well-to-do will be able to afford to park one. Already, here in Belleville, it costs a man to purchase parking privileges for the year as many families pay for shelter for a month. And this is certainly only the beginning. There are many other cities where the parking problem is much more acute than in Belleville and in all urban centres it is certain to grow worse with the speed of geometrical progression.

Bus companies may soon be able to revise a familiar slogan to read: "It's so much cheaper to take the bus than to leave the parking to us."

A SURE INDICATION

By EDGAR A. GUEST

'Tis sighs and sighs
That droops his eyes,
That looks across the way;
The dreams for hours
Of costly flowers,
Which he'll have to pay,

'Tis late for work,
Time to skulk,
Ill-at-ease and fretful;

He telephones
In cooing tones
And is indeed forgetful.

Who knows the ropes
Observes he mopes,
His former friends are spurned;
O, spring is here,
It's very clear
The young man's fancy's turned.

Ships Should Reduce Speed

New York Times

Within the last three years there have been three serious collisions of large vessels off the country's northeast coast. Two have occurred this month; the Grace Line steamer Santa Rosa forty feet into the tanker Vallamo on Thursday, killing four and injuring many others. And, on March 2, the destruction of the tanker Atlanta in two off Ambrose Lightship, but without, fortunately, any loss of life. Then, of course, there was the Stockholm, which smashed deep into the Andrea Doria in 1956 with the loss of about fifty lives and $20 million liner too.

The outstanding feature of all these collisions was the terrific speed maintained — indisputable evidence that each of the vessels that hit the other was going at a high rate of speed. And in every case there was fog to contend with. Also, all the vessels had radar equipment and this equipment was being used before the disasters occurred.

The captain of the Stockholm admitted on trial that the speed of his ship had been reduced on account of the fog — and the Stockholm proved unable to have been twenty-one knots; Captain La Belle of the Constitution testified that his ship was going twelve to fourteen knots when she struck; and the Atlanta's third officer claimed it was twenty, and the Grace Line's master reported he have said in answer to newsmen's questions that he thought the Santa Rosa had been making her full twenty-one knots shortly before the crash.

That radar is not fully effective in avoiding collisions now seems no further open to question, especially as the Jolanda disappeared from the Belleville Anglers' Club held their annual casting tournament at the armouries last night. The casters were divided into three groups by Chairman Fred Croft, including Class "A" — composing the more proficient casters, Class "B" — being those who had previous experience in tournament casting and group "C" — those of a lesser dexterity".

L. E. Bond, Bloomfield, North Park Street, and Mrs. D. Scott, of Metra Street were the winners in the class from St. Peters-burg, Fla. En route they visited in Cincinnati, Ohio.

The new steel - constructed ferry built for service on the Bay of Quinte between Glenora and Adolphustown is expected to be placed in commission about May 15th. Built in Owen Sound the ferry will accommodate a larger number of vehicles than the one now in use.

Fly-Killer For the Home

BBC London Letter

A fly-killer which will keep the home free from flies, moths, mosquitoes and other pests has been described by Allan Murray in a recent edition of the "New Zeal" programme broadcast in the BBC's general overseas service.

It is a miniature version of a British invention which is widely used in food shops, restaurants and canteens in Britain and overseas. So far wasps have resisted its lethal effect, but an Australian man has found it very effective against the spiders.

The domestic version has the same purpose as the large commercial model. It is designed for a smaller area — 2,000 cubic feet. The apparatus consists of a small plastic cup and a supply of chemical pellets made to give off the fly-killing gas — which is made for volumes of 200-250 cubic feet. Either alternating or direct current is plugged into the quarter elector point; the pellets are dropped into it and as the cup reaches the normally controlled temperature the pellet melts and vaporizes. Doors and windows have to be kept closed during the process and any pet bird or animal removed from the room. Within a few hours the vapor has been deposited in an invisible film on every exposed surface. This film does no damage to furniture or furnishings, and is harmless to men and animals, but lethal to insects that touch down on it.

Model Tiger Is Restored

Ottawa Journal

A London museum reverberates with the roar of a man-eating tiger about to eat a shrieking victim. In 1196 British forces captured in Mysore, India, a large model of a tiger in the act of devouring a European — inside the animal is a miniature organ and a row of keys which reproduce the cries of a person in distress mingled with the roar of a tiger. These unpleasant devices are built to the order of Tipu Sultan, who would have loved to see all the British eaten by the tiger and delighted in the roars and screams. He could turn on a will.

The model, damaged in air raids, has just been restored to what might be called "service" and the London Times quoted in its account of the revived Tipu's tiger this limerick:

There was a young girl called Sybil
Who sang Sunday-school hymns to a lion,
Or oh its lady there's some
In the lion's tum-tum,
And it ate the girl as an angel in Zion.

This Bulldog Let Us Down

Ottawa Journal

The bulldog that calmly allowed its owner's car to be taken while it reclined in the back seat without so much as a growl of protest, has been let the side down. Are no British standards absolute these days? Here we have the very embodiment of courage taken for a ride. It means the last one of our most trusty metaphors must be revised or at least qualified.

Future editions, for instance, of the OED, besides its description of a bulldog, will have this and chestnuts, will have to carry an asterisk (such as: "Manchester Guardian," April 2, 1938"). The trouble appears to be that we attribute to the bulldog the virtues to which he is not genuinely entitled.

True, he is in direct descent from the mastiff and his forebears could draw a bull in their powerful jaws. But there, as Mr. Mortimer Wheeler says — who is one of the few to have taken the measure of the modern bulldog — ends any resemblance and.

That "squat and wheezing barrel" Mr. Vasey-Fitzgerald's opinion — merely inherits its name; "bandy-legged" we need him literally out of recognition. He has, in fact, been defied among sporting dogs. He seldom loses his temper. He is not even pugnacious. He is a lively very long, perhaps six years.

No wonder that Mr. Vasey-Fitzgerald sees him as a travesty of the real bulldog. He puts the blame on the breeders. They have developed a congenital deformity of the legs, which make a bulldog unable to run with his full life-style. If this exaggeration of the bulldog's virtues is continued, Mr. Vasey-Fitzgerald warns in his "Domestic Dog," the bulldog will lead to the extinction of the breed. But fortunately hard.

Even after it has been bred out of existence the bulldog will remain for centuries the figure in the Union Jack, our national beast, our answer to the eagle and the eagle. We have the lion to fall back on, I suppose. The trouble is that it is not indigenous.

Take Bitter With Sweet

Windsor Star

The St. Lawrence Seaway is now open and it is a great event in Canada's history.

The lake and river ports in the manufacturing heart of the country are now directly linked to major ports all over the world.

It should mean increased trade and the cheaper moving of goods.

But we shall be prepared to take the bitter with the sweet.

Subsidized United States ships will be able to undercut our Great Lakes and provide stiff competition for Canadian shipping companies.

Since bigger and faster boats can now be used, one result will be fewer waterways. Some of the smaller vessels of Canadian lines will be tied up permanently, the canallers, resulting in some unemployment.

Soon, too, British and European lines are ready to compete for the traffic.

And since they do not pay as high wages as Canadian and American steamship companies, they will have an advantage when it comes to the matter of keeping some of this business.

We must be prepared to take the good with the bad. Somehow has to pay the price of progress.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A frequent lunch companion of mine is a very ignorant fellow. He is, actually, a very successful man. He can sell anything. He has good real estate, farm implements, the Encyclopaedia Britannica, automobiles, phonographs and, I think, the golden touch. Whenever he approaches me with a proposition he bids than anybody else in the business, he turns, for variety, to the subject of my endeavor just for the fun of it. No employer can keep him. He just loves selling.

But he is colossally ignorant, and glories in it. For what reason does he want to know the name of the reign of Henry the Eighth? Why should he know where monkey comes from, or who was prime minister of Canada in 1936? To him it is incredible that anybody should want to know what antimony is, or who Napoleon was, or what is Thad? He doesn't even want to know what an Iliad is. And as for the structure of the atom, the very thought of it revolts him.

He likes looking at the TV, if there is a pretty girl in it, or a Whodini. But quiz programs, in which people win $20,000 for knowing so much, drive him to hilarity.

"Imagine," he cries, "carrying all that junk around in your head for a measly $20,000!"

Now that the fine evenings are drawing on, he deliberately turns quiz programs on, then walks out on the balcony and, with protective living room and sits chuckling in the darkness, out of earshot.

"Curiosity," he says, "kills cats."

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

UNSEASONED FOOD CONTAINS ENOUGH SALT FOR YOUR NEEDS

A reader who has been put on a salt-free diet complains, "Most cooking calls for some salt, or it is tasteless. Most baking calls for some salt, and most things you buy — canned goods, salad dressings, etc — have salt in them."

Salt, of course, is one of the most essential chemicals in our nutrition.

There are illnesses, among them high blood pressure, dropsy from heart or kidney disease and cirrhosis of the liver, in which salt restriction is advisable. On the other hand, really extreme salt restriction can be harmful, too. Even in cases involving those diseases.

So where do we draw the line? Well, salt is prevalent, naturally, in many foods, such as meat, vegetables and even milk. Fruit tend to have less, but they usually have some.

If you cook foods to which no salt has been added, you will still get enough to supply your basic needs.

The answer, in other words, is that if you are on a salt-free diet don't add any either in the kitchen or in the table. The food itself will provide enough. Thus you are not, really, on a "salt-free diet." You are on a no-salt-added diet.

Many of us acquire a taste for salt and use it to excess. You've seen people who, when they get a bit bald, put on salt everything heavily before even tasting it.

A taste for salt is, actually, a habit, and it can be broken if you set your mind to it. But no-one else. If this exaggeration of the bulldog's virtues is continued, Mr. Vasey-Fitzgerald warns in his "Domestic Dog," the bulldog will lead to the extinction of the breed. But fortunately hard.

Even after it has been bred out of existence the bulldog will remain for centuries the figure in the Union Jack, our national beast, our answer to the eagle and the eagle. We have the lion to fall back on, I suppose. The trouble is that it is not indigenous.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ACTIVE TO THE LAST

Nothing is harder on one's morale than the feeling that his career has come to an end. People who retire are frequently unhappy. They conclude that they are on the shelf now and that there is nothing to do about it.

As a matter of fact, no one should ever consider his career closed until he lies upon his death bed. No one should ever give up all activity and settle down to take things easy. There is still work in the world for the old men to do as well as for the young.

Recently my attention was called to two elderly men who have had distinguished careers between the decade seventy and eighty. One had been a quite distinguished man but always a bit of an invalid. Early in his seventies he adopted some new health rules and is going stronger at eighty than he was at fifty. The other man changed his mode of life slightly; found by physical checkup that he needed a little medication, and then, when he thought his career was over, changed into new activity and is now regarded by all who know him as a man of real distinction. He should work as long as we live, even if we live to the middle eighties or nineties. He is handled up exclusively with the calendar as we sometimes believe to be. It is also a matter of continuing purpose.

Elevator Girls Praised

Manchester Guardian

A Los Angeles elevator girl, regarding the joke in the "National Review of America" that certain Republican politicians "looked to during the 1928 election" elevator girl," has entered an impressive plea in favor of electors, it is reported.

"Do you know," she told an astonished America, "that an elevator girl in one of our finest buildings draws down more medieval Latin lyrics? That an elevator girl caught the largest number during the 1928 election? That an elevator girl was named "Miss Goodwill" after judging the recent drive, headed by Governor Knight and opposed by Rockefeller? That the increase by 37 percent the number of comfort stations in Southern California? That elevator girls use fewer nylon stockings and have fewer illegitimate babies than any other group or American women. And that a Gallup poll showed that 97 percent of elevator girls believe in God? The European figures, I may say, are quite different."

One can believe that, certainly.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

LOVE

Love is the greatest word in any language — because it means more than any other word. It is elemental. It is something felt, though impossible to define — something to be thought unseen. Love is always a beginning.

Love is cumulative.

The greatest argument ever presented for belief in God is the one written briefly that "God is love."

Love is universal.

Love a man and he is at once beloved by every friend and would likely lay down his life for you: love a worthy cause and it enlists its cause becomes your life and you would sacrifice your fondest day dreams in its favor; love your work and the sordid in life disappears and is gone as the dew disappears before the heat of the early sun.

Love is unselfish.

If there is love left, somewhere, then hope is there and no matter how dark the night the vital germs of joy and success remain.

Love conquers all things and still love someone, hopelessness for you must die. For the light of love is the light of the sun-universe.

Love is life.

Love your friends, love your work, love your lot in life, love nature, love everything that is, for love conquers all that is. It is a divine purpose — itself reflecting love.

Love is all!

CNR Opposes City Council's Request for 4-Lane Bridge Over Tracks on North Front

The Canadian National Railways does not feel that traffic conditions warrant a four - lane bridge structure over the double track on North Front Street. City council has made formal application for a new overhead bridge on the North Front Street artery with the request that a four-lane structure be built. Cost of the structure would be shared by the railway, the board of transport, the Ontario highways department and the city of Belleville.

The Ontario highways department has given approval for a four-lane structure but the CNR apparently does not feel that a four-lane bridge is justified without a traffic survey.

Mr. G. A. Lasarides, representing the consulting engineering firm which has been retained by the city to draw plans for the proposed overpass recommended the four-lane structure, noting that the city should be building for the future, not merely to take care of present traffic density.

He suggested that after 401 highway was fully completed there would be much more traffic funnelling into the city from this route than is presently the case.

He noted that a three - lane overpass would be an unsuitable compromise between a two-lane and four-lane structure as this type of structure would be even more costly than a four - lane bridge owing to longer and more level approaches being necessary.

Accordingly city council authorized Mr. Lasarides to proceed with traffic survey with the hope that this might convince the CNR representatives that a four-lane structure over the railway tracks was justified.

Special Meeting Of Navy League Held in Barracks

Mr. James A. Crist, managing secretary of the Navy League of Canada, Ontario Division, attended the special meeting of the local Navy League, held in the Wardroom of RCSCC "Quinte" barracks yesterday evening. The meeting was called primarily to discuss the various aspects involved in undertaking to obtain a balanced budget for the current fiscal year was given.

This is the reason why no immediate progress can be taken for some of the local division's planned activities until after the 30th of May, the end of the League's fiscal year. An attempt is being made to bring the fiscal year into line with the calendar year to facilitate the financial planning of those corps, which are connected with community chest or United Appeal campaigns.

A report was made by William Lloyd on the condition of the building. It was noted that a main beam was starting to sag and would have to be replaced in the near future. Several proposals for repairs and maintenance were presented to and accepted by the local branch.

A report was given by Lieutenant J. G. Donovan, commanding officer of the Sea Cadet Corps, concerning the current activities, those planned for the future, and a brief synopsis of the events planned for the forthcoming annual inspection. The annual inspection is quite important to the corps since their work is appraised largely on the basis of report of the inspecting officer.

Colonel P. H. Wills suggested that in view of the conflict of the fiscal year, several members of the local branch could endeavour to finance the necessary maintenance costs until the conflict in fiscal years was overcome.

Mr. Ross Silver, president of the local branch of the Navy League, was chairman for the meeting. Following the meeting Mr. Crist met with several of the members of the Belleville branch to discuss in greater detail some of the problems encountered during the evening's discussions.

Planning Board Urges Provision Of New Roads

As a measure to keep pace with the fast development in the east and west sections of the city the Belleville and Suburban Planning Board has recommended that rights-of-way to the eastern city limits on Bridge Street, Victoria Ave. and Pine Street and an access road along Sidney Street from 401 to No. 2 highway be provided.

The Planning Board recommendation was passed at its last meeting and has been forwarded to council.

Plans for the access road along Sidney Street would call for eventual connection with No. 14 highway over a causeway which is proposed would be built across the cove in the vicinity of the city water filtration plant.

Council, however, took no action on the recommendations other than referring them to the city planning board.

Two recommendations from Mayor Hyde, one authorizing the planning of those corps, which are connected with community chest or United Appeal campaigns.

WANT MORE CONTROL

Council concurred in a London, Ontario, resolution asking that municipal councils be given greater control over the budgets of police commissions, library boards, board of education and over park, playground and suburban road expenditures.

No action was taken by council on petitions for sewer and water extensions for Glendale Road; for a sewer on both sides of North Front Street from Craig Street to 401 Highway and for a finished street maintenance from Elmer St. to the C.N.R. right-of-way.

Permission was granted to Bill Deline Ltd. to remove the street curb at 293 Coleman St. in order to pave the area in front of the new store and thus provide off-street customer parking.

SUB-DIVISION WORK

Approval was given for the construction of a watermain in the James Jackson sub-division on Castle Rose Street, Jackson Ave. and Highview Crescent at a total estimated cost of $18,315. The work to be done under local improvements. The corporation's share of the cost would be $5,140; this, it is understood, to be borne by the public utilities commission.

It was noted that the medical health officer has approved installation of septic tanks, subject to city water being available.

Council also approved of a by-law to be drawn up designating the top floor of the building on the Pinnacle St. parking lot as a community centre. The by-law is required in order that the city may receive the provincial grant for the renovation of the top floor of the building which is to be used by the recreation commission.

Eight Tenders For Steel Pipe Exactly Same

Just how eight different manufacturers of metal pipe could come up with exactly the same price in tendering for the 1959 supply of pipe to the city public works department is a question being pondered by members of the Belleville city council.

Tenders for the supply of various materials including pipe, gasoline, different types of pipe as well as street signs and other requirements were considered by council contracts in most instances awarded according to the city engineer's recommendation.

But the tender for the metal piping stumped the city fathers. All eight bids were for exactly the same amount, except for one which was considerably lower, in fact so much lower that it seemed out of line.

City officials checked with the supplier, and found that the last two figures of the price quoted had been inadvertently transposed. Then, with the correction made, all eight tenders were for the same amount.

"Looks like a case for a combines investigation," suggested one city alderman with a recommendation that Ottawa be contacted.

Consensus of council was that Ottawa should be advised.

Thurlow Twp. Council Sets Year's Tax Rates

A township general rate of 33.3 mills for farm and residential property, and 38.3 mills for industrial and commercial property, has been set for 1959 by Thurlow township council.

The tax rate was struck at last night's meeting of council in the Thurlow township hall. The rate last year was 29.2 mills for residential and farm property and 33.5 mills for industrial and commercial owners.

Reason for the increase is a reduction in the unconditional grant received from the province; an increase of one-tenth of a mill in the county rate, and increases of 1.55 mills for high schools, and a 1.04 mill increase in the general township rate.

Township Clerk Eric Dafoe explained that as result of the population loss following annexation the unconditional grant amounted to only 1.2 mills last year as compared with 6.3 mills last year.

The township assessment on which the 1959 rate is based is $5,622,510.

Added to the general rate is the public school rate and the separate school rate.

The average rate for the 12 public schools is 19.3 mills, and the average rate for separate school supporters is 17 mills. Mr. Dafoe emphasized that these were average rates only with the actual school rate varying with each school.

CPA Flights Inaugurated

VANCOUVER (CP)—Two sleek jet-prop Britain Britannias touched down at airports about 3,000 miles apart Monday to inaugurate Canadian Pacific Airlines' new daily return Vancouver-Montreal service.

In Toronto, Premier Frost cut a white ribbon after the first aircraft arrived at Malton airport on its way to Vancouver.

CPA will have daily return flights linking Montreal, Toronto, Winnipeg and Vancouver. It is the start of trans-continental competition for Trans-Canada Air Lines.

Non-Swimmers Start Classes

One of the duties of the recently-formed Quinte Safety Council is to prevent drownings. In co-operation with the local School Board a program of swimming instruction for all girls and boys in Grade 8 right into no non-swimmers has been inaugurated today.

Monday afternoon about 25 girls under the instruction of Miss Kay Homan, assisted by members of the Girls' Leaders Corps, had their first class in swimming. These classes will be conducted on Mondays and Saturdays between 2:30 and 4 p.m. for the girls. The boys' classes will be held at the same hours on Tuesdays and Fridays with Bill Hollingsworth, physical education director of the local "Y", assisted by members of the Leaders' Corps.

The classes are available to the children free of charge through the sponsorship of the Water Safety Council and the YMCA.

Cost of Removing Boulevard On John Street Is Too High

Removal of the boulevard on John Street as a measure to provide a wider traffic artery and thereby relieve congestion is too costly a project for the city to entertain at the present time.

The boulevard removal was a suggestion in city council following a traffic committee recommendation for complete elimination of parking on John St. between Bridge and Victoria with resultant creation of added east bound traffic lane.

The report of the committee was presented to council two weeks ago and was deferred until last night's committee meeting pending an estimate of the cost of removing the boulevard. Council was generally in agreement with the school buses discharging and taking on passengers on the cause of the trouble and that the solution was to "get the buses off the street."

Council was advised that consideration had already been given to off-street parking for the school buses but due to the difficulty in acquiring additional property this had been found impossible.

The John Street traffic congestion is still a matter to be solved by council which at a future meeting will in all probability consider one way traffic as a solution.

Jay Sprague Tells of Trip to Hockey Tourney

A talk by Jay Sprague on his recent trip to the World Hockey Championships in Czechoslovakia was the highlight for yesterday's dinner meeting of the Belleville Rotary Club at the Hotel Quinte. Mr. Sprague dwelt briefly on the history of the Czechoslovakian peoples and mentioned that they had only been a democratic and free people between the first and second World Wars. During this time they set an example for all to follow on the fair treatment of minorities.

Dwelling more on the local people and cities of interest than on the sporting side of the trip, Mr. Sprague delighted his audience with remarks on the experiences of those who had made the trip and on the warm hospitality of the natives and their sportsmanlike conduct at the games. He mentioned that the fans had created a lot of goodwill and were the only team invited by the Czechs to stay over after the hockey tournament for some more exhibition games.

In passing, the speaker commented that he felt that Mr. Pearson's trip to Russia and Mr. Diefenbaker could have been elected Mayor of Prague if he had stayed to run. A number of slides of Prague, Bratislava and other points and persons along the route were shown.

Creche Fund

Creche were victims of circumstance and that they were a very industrious people.

Director Hobson gave grace. Fred Wilson was chairman in the absence of club president Jack Sweezey. Art Francis introduced the speaker, Ralph Boyce, conducted a sing-song.

Guided to Safety

BARRIE (CP)—A young Hungarian immigrant was guided to safety Monday night from a burning rooming house by a neighbor, after an oil furnace exploded blowing out a rear wall and part of a side wall.

Charles Sexsmyr was found groping in dense smoke by Davey Jones, 66, who came running from his house when he heard the explosion.

Owners of the house, Mr. and Mrs. Steve Pirocky, were at a theatre when they heard about the blast. On the way home, Mrs. Pirocky stumbled and fell, breaking her leg, and was taken to hospital.

WEDDINGS

CAVERS — CLARKE

Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, was the setting for a lovely double-ring, spring wedding on Saturday, April 11, when the Rev. Harry M. Davis, pastor of the church, united in marriage, Joanne Alberta Clarke, of Belleville, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Clarke, to Anthony Beck Cavers, also of Belleville, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Willard Cavers, Tall wedding standards of blue and white chrysanthemums and tall candelabra formed a beautiful background for the ceremony.

Mr. S. Alec Gordon, church organist, provided the traditional wedding music and accompanied the soloist, Miss Lorraine Cavers, of Belleville, sister of the bridegroom, as she sang, "O Perfect Love," before the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" during the signing of the register.

BCIVS H-S Association Installs Officers, Presents Play, Hears Address by Safety Officer

The May meeting of the Belleville Collegiate Institute and Vocational School Home and School Association was held on the evening of May 4th. It was well attended. The president of the Association, Mr. R. Freeman, welcomed the members.

The treasurer's report was given by Mr. W. J. Hussey.

A hilarious comedy by 10A French Class depicted the Inspector visiting a class and receiving some astonishing answers to his questions. As the class ended, teacher and inspector are alike quite literally swept off their feet by the youthful stampede for the door. Though all could appreciate the antics, many of the audience were hard put to recall the once familiar French vocabulary and idioms.

The play, called "L'Inspecteur" by Evans and Newbald, was under the direction of Mrs. G. J. Bunting and Miss P. Gardiner. The following students appeared: Richard Jordine; Merrifield; Helen Addy; Louis — Steve Forrester; Jules — Ivan Bronson; Annette — Meribeth Anderson; Jeanne — Rosemary Tanner; and other pupils: Jeannette Boyd, E. Landry, C. Male, B. Alexander.

OFFICERS INSTALLED

Following the play the installation of officers for 1959-60 took place, conducted by Mrs. R. Morden. The slate of officers is as follows:

President, Mr. M. Linscott; vice-president, Mr. A. Wynne; Mr. C. Lindsay; recording secretary, Mrs. C. Powell; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Bunting; executive, Mrs. H. E. Hagerman, Mrs. R. A. Knowlton and Mrs. R. C. Williams; membership, Mrs. Carl Smith; social, Mrs. S. Ryerson; publicity, Mrs. N. O'Neil; advertising, Mrs. J. E. McKeen; dance, Mrs. H. Fritz.

SAFETY OFFICER GUEST SPEAKER

The president, Mr. R. Freeman, introduced Sergeant Robson, School Safety Officer. After acknowledging the introduction and the kind, genial outline of the purpose and nature of his work, Sergeant Robson presented a film to demonstrate how a violent emotion can operate to trigger a chain reaction of emotional reactions in many people to result in many accidents and near accidents. One should never assume control of a car until quite certain that his emotions are first under control. The film also demonstrated a chain reaction or a desirable kind, triggered by an initial act of courtesy.

After elaborating a little upon the lessons illustrated by the film, Sergeant Robson spoke of his experience as a driver of semi-trailer trucks in northern Ontario, which gave him an early appreciation of the urgent need of such a program as he is now putting into effect. He laid strong emphasis upon parents assuming their full measure of responsibility... A bad example set by a parent may well result in tragedy for his or her child.

MAXIMUM SAFETY

Knowledge of the law, undertaking observance of it as a pedestrian, rider of a bicycle or driver of a motor vehicle is the objective means for ensuring maximim safety. The cyclist in turning assistance subject to the same traffic laws and penalties for their violation as is the motorist.

Pedestrians, too, are liable to prosecution for walking on the wrong side of the highway. The left side of the road is the proper side on which to walk, so that one is facing traffic on that side.

Sergeant Robson pointed out the danger of using a bicycle without handgrips. One young Belleville girl ha sa nasty chest scar to show because of a fall on an unprotected handle bar. Pant clips should be worn by any cyclist in long trousers. The is wasllo for ten inches of red reflecting tape on front forks of the bicycle, as well as a like amount on the hind mudguard. A red light or reflector is also a must on the rear. mudguard. The light is obligatory if a cyclist rides after dark.

Sergeant Robson spoke highly of the traffic safety school to be inaugurated in the near future. This is to be a four-hour course in driving, designed primarily for sixteen year olds, who with receive a chauffeur's license.

Mr. Arthur Wynne expressed the gratitude and thanks of the members to Sergeant Robson.

Mrs. Quilcott and her committee served refreshments.

IF YOUR child has a real screaming temper tantrum, do stay with her until it's over. But one way in which you might avoid altogether such a harrowing experience is to give in on a minor detail, while sticking to the major issue. (For example—going to bed is important—whether she wears the pajamas you've laid out or the nightie she wants is not as vital.)

People Giving Valuable Time To Red Cross

TORONTO (CP) — Miss Isobel Hulme of Montreal, national chairman of the Canadian Red Cross Corps, said today that 900 housewives and mothers, widows, divided into 11 detachments, spaced across Canada, drove more than 155,273 miles during their community services in 1958 and gave over 119,041 hours of their time.

Miss Hulme was speaking at the Red Cross annual meeting.

Mrs. Lane Knight, Toronto, national chairman of voluntary services, urged further development of the volunteer force with branches concentrating on membership campaigns and widening of activities.

Mrs. Huntly Christie of Toronto, national chairman of the women's work committee, commended work done in every province.

Some 298,875 articles were shipped to foreign nations in 1958 and 758 cases of relief supplies were sent to the league of Red Cross Societies for distribution in Europe and the Middle East.

Manly Macdonald Paintings Mark U.W. Club Spring Tea

On Saturday at noon in the Kiwanis Centre, the University Women's Club again had the privilege of presenting the eagerly anticipated exhibition of Manly Macdonald paintings, at its annual "Spring Tea". A record number of guests were greeted by Mrs. J. Craig, president; Mrs. J. McArthur, vice-president, and by Mrs. J. H. Bateman, convener of the tea.

The main centre of interest was the art exhibit arranged by Mrs. J. R. Pugh. There could be seen many beautiful works by Manly Macdonald R.C.A., who with Mrs. Macdonald, was present to discuss with the visitors works and other interesting features of the paintings.

Mr. Macdonald, hailed as one of Canada's foremost colorists, has recently been commissioned by the city of Toronto to do an oil painting of the Toronto waterfront, to be presented to Queen Elizabeth during her forthcoming visit to Canada.

Many of the paintings displayed depicted the natural beauty of the Bay of Quinte, with the artist's grandson, fishing at Picton Reach; the gun at Canning; scenes of the Belleville artists' home at Hay Bay, each being its own lovely local. Young boys skating on the Belleville harbor seemed almost to be in motion, so animated was the style here — while a large "Indian Summer" drew appreciative remarks from the viewers. Particularly appealing was "Beaver Creek", in which the stream breaking through the snow foretells the approach of spring.

The sale of tickets on the door painting was drawn by Mrs. A. Lewis and Mrs. A. Spring. As a feature of the Fair's climax arrived, when Mr. Macdonald drew the lucky ticket. Mrs. Gerald Ketcheson, of Moira Street West, was the happy winner of a sparkling winter scene.

The homebaking table was the next item of interest for the guests. The success of this popular feature was due to the efforts of Mrs. P. G. Allen and Mrs. F. Sheffield.

From here the visitors went upstairs to the tea room where they were graciously received by Mrs. A. R. Pringle. Here, in a setting imaginatively decorated by Mrs. F. Seibert, Miss Doris Smith, and their committees, they enjoyed delicious tea and delicious tea.

The theme of the art exhibit had been carried out in the tea room and in the centre of each table was a miniature palette, with a cluster of lilacs representing the artist's brush. Along the walls the flower motif and the large palette created a gay atmosphere of spring.

Members who poured tea were Mrs. G. Bailey, Miss Pugh, Mrs. J. McArthur, Miss J. Tickell, Mrs. H. U. Graham, Miss Bateman, convener, and Miss K. MacPherson.

In charge of plates were Mrs. W. Hurst, Miss Erle Grout and Miss K. Daly. Mrs. R. T. Floyd and Mrs. W. L. Langdon convened the tea room.

Admission convener for the "Spring Fair" was Mrs. J. Nelles, and publicity was arranged by Mrs. J. E. Pugh.

Special thanks go to Mr. M. Smykalok of Q.S.S., and to Mr. Ritchie of R.C.I.V.S., for their invaluable assistance in arranging the art exhibit, and also to these Q.S.S. students, Byron Casselman, Bruce Jarvah, Peter Valle and Colleen Jones, for their help with posters and the arrangement of the art room. The transportation of art room equipment was also much appreciated.

Once again, through the generosity of Mr. Manly Macdonald, and the able convenership of Mrs. J. H. Bateman, the University Women's Club has enjoyed another successful "Spring Fair."

CORRECT FORM FOR WIDOW'S NAME ON CONTRIBUTION ENVELOPES

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am a widow, and I have recently come to live in this community, to be near my daughter and her family. I have just joined the church of my denomination here. In this church they have envelopes which you may, if you wish, ask for to contain your Sunday contributions. I think these are very convenient and I asked for a supply. In the space for the name, what form of name should I write: "Mrs. Thomas Smith," "Mrs. Sarah Smith" or "Sarah Brown Smith"? — Widow

"Mrs. Thomas Smith" is the correct form of name for you to write on these contribution envelopes.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

GWEN S. — The children may feel thrown out in the cold.

Lorraine J. — It is time for her to think about herself.

Gwen S. — I am a widow in my 50's and I have been taking care of my three children and holding a full-time job for the past ten years.

Recently I started going out with a man who is very well off and who wants to marry me. I wouldn't hesitate for one minute — except for the fact that he and the children don't take to one another. He has never had children and I'm afraid he is impatient and thoughtless with them. He resents the time I must give them.

However, he is willing to send the children to boarding school and college and to supply them with everything they need in material sense. It is a tempting offer in some ways, but I don't want to lose my love, feel thrown out in the cold.

Lorraine J. — I have been urging my sister to make this marriage. Her children are no babies. They range from 18 to 19. In another couple years or so they may all be married and off on their own. They'll want to live their own lives — and they won't want to be bothered too much with their mother.

Offers like this don't come every day of the week. Gwen isn't getting any younger. She is tired of working. She has worked awfully hard for her children and made as much a sacrifice as any mother could. Now she owes something to herself.

Personally, I can understand the man's point of view. He made a bad marriage early in life and never married again. Now that he's older he wants his wife to himself. He doesn't want kid- around.

The Council: This is certainly a difficult problem. These children are almost grown, yet they are at those crucial years when they may require a parent's close guidance over the last hurdles into adulthood. Certainly Lorraine can't feel that Gwen's plan in relation to them has been completed.

However, it is possible that the man in this case is an even bigger problem than the children. The children are old enough to understand something of their mother's problem and her need to find companionship and security for her later years. They have had great assurance of her devotion to them, and they could appreciate the fact that they are not being stranded, but are offered a wonderful opportunity for their own futures.

But we think Gwen should be very wary of a man who openly expresses resentment toward her children. He is obviously unwilling to accommodate himself to the needs of others or to involve himself in warm family relationships.

A man who has lived-for himself for so long and who doesn't welcome the opportunity to give of himself in terms of love and consideration to a fine family is remarkably self-satisfied. He is surely well aware that these children will be leading their lives within a very few years. Yet he is unwilling to share his wife even this short time with those nearest and dearest to her.

Gwen would do well to study this man very carefully before taking any drastic step. It is likely that she will find a good many quirks in him. She may find that she can make the necessary adjustments, but she should accept have a good idea of what she is getting into.

Helen's Best Cookies Judged By Pete

by Mary Moore

Still singing Helen Pollock's praises — this time in the cookie department.

After my visit those folks couldn't send enough goodies home with me. They are the proverbial type who would "give you the shirts from their backs".

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

TUESDAY

Creamed Chicken Casserole with Chive Biscuit Topping (see Monday); Glazed New Carrots; Spinach with Sieved Egg Yolk; Deep Rhubarb Pie with Pouring Cream; Coffee.

I am giving the cookie recipes to you in the order in which I judged them for goodness and Pete seconded me in choosing the Pecan Dreams for first place.

PECAN DREAMS:

One cup butter or half butter and half shortening, 6 tablespoons powdered sugar, 2 tablespoons water, 2 cups sifted flour (cake flour is preferable), 1 teaspoon vanilla, 1-2 to 1 cup pecan meats cut finely. Cream butter thoroughly and gradually cream sugar into it until smooth. Beat in remaining ingredients and drop on buttered cookie sheet. Bake in slow oven of 300 degrees Fahr. for about ten minutes. Do not brown. Let stand in pan for a few minutes to harden before removing and rolling gently in powdered sugar. Note: Helen uses all butter.

ANISE DROP:

(Self-layering — most unusual). Four eggs, 1-4 teaspoon salt, 1-3 teaspoon baking powder, 2 cups granulated sugar, 1-2 cups sifted all-purpose flour, 1 tablespoon anise seed rolled finely. Beat eggs until thick and creamy. Add sugar and beat it 5 minutes. Add other ingredients. Beat all 15 minutes. This beating is important. Drop from spoon onto well greased tins an inch apart and let stand over night. Do not disturb cakes. In the morning bake at 375 degrees Fahr. for about 15 minutes. These are unusual delicious and self-frosting.

TOOTHSOME MACAROONS:

(Big, tender, full of goodies). Two egg whites, 1 cup granulated sugar, 1-2 teaspoon vanillla, 1 cup cocoanut, 2 cups corn flakes, 1-3 cup nut meats, 1-4 cup chopped candied cherries are optional. Beat egg whites until stiff, add sugar gradually, beating until very stiff, then fold in the vanilla, cocoanut, corn flakes, nut meats and cherries if used. Drop from greased tins a tablespoon on heavily buttered pan and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. until delicately browned.

NOTE:

To make sure they are done, remove one from pan and watch to see if it collapses. If so leave them in the oven a few more minutes. Remove from pan at once and cool.

Fine Frock

WORKING WITH CANADIANS IN EVERY WALK OF LIFE SINCE 1817

Goose Bay Far From Flimsy Quarters, Gravel Runways That Greeted Ferrying Crews

By ED SMITH
Canadian Press Staff Writer

GOOSE BAY, Labrador (CP)—Eighteen years after surveyor Eric Fry climbed from Terrington Bay to gaze upon the hilliard-table smoothness of this future military air base, there are those who say Goose is becoming too cliffied.

From the point of comforts and conveniences they may be right. Six - storey, concrete - and-aluminum airmen's quarters, television antennae and indoor swimming pools are a far cry from the flimsy quarters and gravel runways that greeted wartime bomber ferrying crews in 1942.

Then, as now, the RCAF and the United States Air Force are marglned along opposite sides of the airfield. Each has a distinct task but their work dovetails into a co-operative alert against attack from the air.

JOB OF RCAF

The RCAF maintains the spider-web of 11,000-and 9,000-foot runways and mans the bigger share of base radar facilities with the exception of a mountain-top Pinetree site which utilizes Canadian equipment and American manpower.

The USAF unit on the base is under Strategic Air Command and its commitments, through scores of KC-97 tanker planes each with an 11,000-gallon capacity, are to keep SAC's airborne B-47s and B-52s fuelled.

Interception and protection is also the USAF's role at Goose. Based here is a squadron of 640-mile - an - hour F-89 Scorpions equipped with Falcon air-to-air missiles that have a high killing potential.

The Goose Bay perimeter has some 18,000 residents, including those of nearby Happy Valley. More than half live on the "American side," or, more officially in quarters of 4062D Strategic Wing, United States Eighth Air Force.

NEAT COMMUNITY

On the "Canadian side", the RCAF's housing area called Spruce Park, is a thriving, neatly - laid out community of clean pastel-colored, houses. The transport department has a separate community. Quartered in Goose Bay town school teachers, army service corps personnel and dependents, Royal Air Force and commercial airline maintenance personnel, a seven-man RCMP detachment, a Newfoundland provincial magistrate, Hudson's Bay company employees and oil company and CBC representatives. On the fringes of the base are several construction company camps.

Group Capt. W. H. Swetman, of Kapuskasing, Ont., commanding officer of the RCAF base, feels that until the international situation clears up the RCAF will have an important role to play here.

"If ever it does become less complicated, it's possible the transport department may take over the bigger role."

Group Capt. Swetman stresses the co-operation that is evident daily between the RCAF, USAF and the transport department.

"It's one of the few, if not the only, air bases where flying control is working well while in the hands of three separate agencies."

FUTURE FOR INDUSTRY

But, he adds, regardless of its use, the Goose Bay area will always be a big focal point for industrial enterprise and commercial aviation. When it will open up "is anyone's guess."

The air force thinks its biggest problem will continue to be civilian help until such time as proper accommodations are provided. There has been a yearly turnover of 150 per cent despite good salaries.

On the same latitude as Edmonton and Liverpool, England, Goose Bay has a short, four-month summer when black flies are pests. Mosquitoes have been all but licked by aerial and land spray campaigns.

Goose Bay holds the record for one year's snowfall for Canada—225.5 inches. Snow falls from early October until early June but, despite the length of winter, temperatures are not uncomfortable. The lowest recorded reading since the station's establishment was 35 below in February, 1943.

POPULAR POOL

The RCAF has the only indoor swimming pool in the area and it's in constant use. The Canadians also have artificial ice and curling rinks and many other recreational facilities.

Two modern schools with 23 teachers go over the educational facilities for more than 500 children of RCAF and transport department families.

Two morale boosters are the local radio and television stations. Radio station CFGB is operated by the RCAF and broadcasts daily from 7 a.m. to midnight. The television station, under the direction of CBC manager Ceco Hobbs, broadcasts from the American quarters at the base with American personnel, but presents a good cross-section of Canadian programming, all of it filmed and flown in.

Airmen are allowed to ship in their own cars. There are hundreds on both sides of the base, about one for each mile of negotiable roadway in the area, according to one estimate.

ACTRESS HAS OPERATION

NEW YORK (AP)—TV-broadway actress Polly Bergen was operated upon Monday for complications from pregnancy. She came through the emergency surgery in satisfactory condition and doctors said her outlook is good. Miss Bergen, the wife of Freddie Fields, lost twins in a miscarriage three years ago.

SHOPPING FOR SUPPLIES — Cpl. and Mrs. George Sparrow, from Moose Jaw, Sask., shop for groceries in the special canteen at the RCAF base at Goose Bay, Labrador. All supplies are flown to the isolated airfield and as a result quantities are sometimes limited. But living on the base is a far cry from wartime years. Now there are six-storey quarters for the airmen, a television station and an indoor swimming pool. There are about 18,000 residents in the Goose Bay area. (CP from National Defence.)

How you can provide
through a "program of security" tailored specifically to your needs by a London Life representative

LIFE INSURANCE FOR THE FATHER
Adequate insurance on the life of the father is of first importance—to provide money for his wife and children to live on, if his life should be cut short. At the same time, with proper selection of plans, this "protective" insurance can provide savings. Provision can also be made for income in case of total disability.

LIFE INSURANCE FOR THE MOTHER
Whether or not she earns money to contribute to the upkeep of the home, she needs life insurance of her own, to give the children further protection, and to make possible additional savings for the future.

LIFE INSURANCE FOR THE CHILDREN
Insurance obtained at an early age brings the advantage of low premiums—and it can also mean an early start on long-term savings plans.

London Life men are trained to help you select the plans which will best meet the needs of the individual members of the family. Moreover, it is part of their job to keep your program adapted to changes in your situation . . . Today is a good day to talk to a London Life representative.

India Feels 'Let Down' By Canada's Refusal to Reconvene Laos Commission

By JACK BENT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW DELHI (CP)—A note of irritation has crept into relations between Canada and India. It broaches to the functions and fate of the Indochina mixed armistice commissions, of which the two countries are members.

The situation has reached the point where India feels "let down" by Canada's refusal to reconvene the commission in Laos, one of four states erected by the 1954 Geneva conference which brought an end to the war in Indochina.

Canada and India, with Communist Poland, were named by the Geneva conference to supervise the armistice and to oversee political settlements in Laos, Cambodia and Viet Nam.

A few months ago Canada succeeded in persuading India to vote in favor of adjourning the commission in Laos. The country had held elections and claimed to have achieved political stability sufficient to warrant the commission's dissolution.

TROOPS WITHDRAWN

With Canada voting against, the commission adjourned and Canada withdrew its staff. Poland and India have since proposed that the commission should reconvene to consider Laos' border dispute with Communist North Viet Nam.

Canada has refused and the Indians, not to mention the Poles, are angered.

One highly responsible source in this Indian capital suggested that the dispute has placed a strain on Canadian-Indian relations, and he found it significant that in one of its first real tests the friendship of the two countries should have been ruffled.

Involved in the dispute is the larger question of the future of the commission generally, and here again India and Canada are in basic disagreement—India taking a sit-tight attitude and Canada looking for a possible way out.

Through the commissions' headquarters are in Indochina, the present dispute has landed in New Delhi where Canada's diplomatic representatives do verbal battle with M. J. Desai, Commonwealth secretary of India.

SAYS INDIA LET DOWN

A high-ranking member of the Indian government said in an interview that India feels "let down" by Canada's refusal to reconvene the commission.

The Canadian attitude is that in view of Laos' refusal to accept mediation it would be useless for the commission to take up the Laos-North Viet Nam border dispute. At the time of adjournment Canada laid down two conditions for agreeing to reconvene the commission: that the neighbors be restrained and that both parties to a dispute accept mediation.

Canada, it is understood, would like to adjourn the Cambodia commission also but India, stung by its experience in Laos, bluntly refuses.

Laos and Cambodia reflect a fundamental difference between Canada and India on the continuance of the commissions as a whole.

SEEK WAY OUT

It is no secret here that Canada, which has something under 100 personnel in the Indochina theatre, would like to find some formula for getting out altogether.

Responsible sources say Canada is approaching the position that failure of the Viet Nam commission to arrange unification elections there might as well be admitted. Arranging such elections was the main task assigned to the commission by the Geneva conference in ending the war between France and the Communist-led Vietminh rebels.

Underlying this approach is the Canadian government's firm belief that the political situation in all the countries has stabilized over the last five years and that the heat to peace has largely dissipated.

India is not so sure. "Things could get out of hand," if the commission withdrew, said the Indian government official. He claimed that the Laos-North Viet Nam disputes contains the seed of a possible clash.

CANADIAN VIEW

Canada's reply is that if a country wanted to start hostilities the presence of the armistice commission would not stop it. If shooting has been averted it is because of the countries' apparent determination to maintain peace.

Geography and the political factors involved would suggest that perhaps Canada is the only member of the commissions without an ulterior interest in Indochina.

Diplomatic sources note that India has important trade and cultural ties with Indochina and it would be only natural for it to resist dissolution of an agency that maintains its influence in the area.

It was partly to consolidate this influence, the sources say, that India recently sent its wise statesman, President Rajendra Prasad, on a goodwill visit to the four Indochina states.

As for Poland, Western observers suspect that the Communist country may be using it as a lever to maintain a diplomatic foothold in anti-Communist Laos, home of the Red countries has a mission.

Madoc District IOOF Holds Divine Service

RAWDON — Madoc District No. 45 of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows held their "divine service" in Springbrook United church in Rawdon township Sunday afternoon under the direction of D.D.G.M. Byron Mumby.

After the parade from the lodge hall was marshalled by Bros. Mac Mason and Ray Rose, and at the church they were joined by members of Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 221 under the direction of Noble Grand Marion Carter.

Major-General H. Earl Fox, Department Commander, and members of Canton Belleville No. 8 with their color party led the parade.

The pastor, the Rev. H. E. Bears, conducted the service and welcomed the group on behalf of church officials. He based his message on "The Value of Everyday Christian Living in One's Own Neighborhood", and quoted poetry to emphasize this teaching.

Mrs George Wilkens officiated at the organ and for full choir rendered an anthem, Miss Linda Wellman at the piano. This is My "Task." The congregational selections were "Glorious Things of Thee Are Spoken", "Talk With Us Lord", and "I've Found A Friend".

Noble Grand Gordon Bailey of Springbrook Lodge read the Bible, Isaiah 61; and Psalm 90 was read responsively.

Following the service the group was entertained at the home of D.D.G.M. H. Mumby and Mrs. Mumby, Springbrook.

WORK ON DAM PROJECT — A batching plant turns out concrete for construction of the substructure of a construction bridge as work steps up on the South Saskatchewan River dam. The $184,000,000 project doesn't start officially until May 27 but already huge construction machines are working around the clock on preliminary tasks. This plant is on the east bank of the river. The bridge will be salvaged after the dam is completed, probably six years from now. The massive earthen dam will impound 8,000,000-acre feet of water for irrigation and power purposes. (CP Photo.)

South Saskatchewan River Dam Project Under Way by Big Earth-Moving Machines

OUTLOOK, Sask. (AP) — The South Saskatchewan River dam project won't be officially started until May 27 but mammoth construction machines are already working day and night.

Perini Limited of Toronto, holder of the largest single contract yet awarded on the $184,000,000 project, has begun moving dirt for construction of the eastern embankment of the earthen dam. The Toronto firm has a $2,941,000 contract to excavate and move 10,000,000 tons of earth for the embankment.

This work will be well on the way when Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan take part in the official starting ceremony May 27. The ceremony will include bands and fireworks after the public is taken on an inspection tour of the area.

SIX-YEAR JOB

When finished — probably six years from now — the massive dam will impound 8,000,000-acre-feet of water for irrigation and power purposes. Eventually it will irrigate 500,000 acres, and produce 375,000,000 kilowatt hours of electricity annually. The expense is to be shared by federal and provincial governments.

The Perini road staff arrived at the end of March. By July the company's campsite will be ready, with showers and toilets. Meanwhile the nearest bathtub is 20 miles away, and the nearest restaurant 15 miles distant. At present, the company workers are billeted at nearby farms.

The dam is being built by the Prairie Farm Rehabilitation Administration which is compiling a group of staff houses and administrative offices near the site. Eventually, the PFRA town will have sewers and sidewalks in anticipation of the 17 years during which PFRA will keep staff at the site under the terms of the federal-provincial agreement.

If the planned program is maintained, 1959 should see 10 per cent of the huge job completed. Beyond that, PFRA officials are chary of making predictions. Many factors—bad weather, altered budget estimates, unforeseen difficulties—could upset a long-term schedule, they say.

TURNED ALL WINTER

Last fall, a 12-mile access road from provincial Highway 19 to the site was finished. It has since been worn smooth by heavy travel.

Crews have been busy since last December building a bridge downstream from the site. The substructure should be finished by July and the superstructure by this fall. The substructure was started in winter because the flow of the river is weaker at that time.

One of the first farmers to be affected by the South Saskatchewan dam is Peter Stone, whose farm on the east bank has been reduced by 540 acres with purchase of land by the PFRA. Along with his twin brother Paul, Peter has farmed 33 years in Saskatchewan. He wishes irrigation had come earlier.

"In 1937 I didn't thresh a bushel of wheat," Peter says, "and other years in the 1930s were almost total failures, too.

LIMITED OUTPUT

"With irrigation we'd have been able to raise crops and to run double, perhaps triple the number of cattle it is possible to raise now."

Peter plans to retire this year and sell the remainder of his

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

The Cobourg softball Merchants finally completed their spring shopping. After weeks of riding the fence, leasing first toward the Peterborough merchants then the Belleville cash-and-carry, they decided they would give their business to the down-east league, and the works to the Liftlock loop.

Their decision to play in the Belleville loop makes the Moira circuit a compact little four-team affair, while it leaves the Perdueville gang with three squads. Now they must needs look for a fourth for softball bridge but should have no trouble getting an entry. As a last resort they could ring in the Omemee Cricketers or the Kawartha Smelts.

Or mebbe there's enough players of the gallant junior "A" Memorial Cup finalists left around town to muckrus a softball squad. They could use Sammy Pollock who pilfches all winter in the Tweed League. They have Scouty Bowman, already owner of the city hall for his coaching prowess, and who could add the Kawartha Golf Club to his real estate holdings should he coach the team to a championship. In a pinch they could get a guy named Joe Hildebrand, who has a habit of winning titles, to go along with the gang—on loan.

According to the story from Cobourg, the members of the Peterborough league wanted the major portions of the schedule played in their city. These included the playoffs in their entirety. They would, they said, in a momentary lapse of generosity, allow the Cobourgers the privilege of playing six of their home games before the home-town faithful.

Now the Cobourgers felt it was no fault of theirs the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association delivered the Hector Greely edict to the Peterborough loop-de-loopmeister, thus depriving the local fans of the Memorial Cup playoffs.

Also they felt the Peterborough powers-that-be had no right to dish up a seasonal softball chaser to sports appetites already glutted with hockey highballs.

Besides there are softball fans in Cobourg who should not be expected to hitch-hike, bike, trike, drive or bus to Peterborough every time they get a kik their beloved Merchants swung into diamond action.

"After all" our Cobourg underground reported, "summer here is delightful." We have the lake, a beautiful beach, a lovely park and what not, but watching the bikini-clad girls sport in the sand gets monotonous after a couple of months to us guys under fifty."

So that is the way the ball bounced. The die is cast, and the Belleville district loop executive can go ahead with its schedule plans. As of now the Grads open under way May 18 when Point Anne entertains Tabby Tuppin's Bobcats at Ox Point. That is Coney Island day for the Pointers, and they plan putting on a holiday show that will dim its predecessors.

Cobourg's decision to enter the Quinte league rounds out a fairly well-balanced circuit. The lakeshore crew will again be nucleused by "Sleepy" Dawe, who also walks when he's awake and Dick Turpin, operator of the tour bus that kidnapped and hoisted milady's private coach, his fiddsh's "jools," bussed pretty tavern wenches in his off moments, and was eventually strung up on a highway scaffold.

Trenton should field a strong squad consisting of experienced juniors bolstered by veterans who know a lot of the softball answers. Most of the younger squad that represented the town in past years will be back augmented by overage power that would make the Drakes strong contenders.

Point Anne may not be as strong as last year. Pat Maracle and Al Carkner will likely carry the mound duties but rumor has it Davy Jones and Doug Hall won't be back. Veterans John Batsheler, Claude Carr, Chuck Minsteen, Jackie Wardhaugh, father and son Jack Elliott will likely form the base of the squad. Bill Shaw and Phil Lait probably have other plans but at the moment they are not known.

What looks like the "Yankees" (that year's Yankees, that is) of the league are the Temple Bobcats. The chief Tabby, who learned in Europe that nothing but whiskers comes to him who waits, has signed quite a formidable squad. He had so many hockey players he has a sign in the dressing room which reads, "Remember fellows, spikes, not skates." More about this team later.

Dodgers, Giants Push Braves Down To Third Spot

'Bums' Blast Milwaukee 5-3 As Friskies Topple Redlegs; Yankees Close Dismal Tour

BY ED WILEY
Associated Press Staff Writer

Brush-back pitches and dusters now are spicing the already hot National League pennant scramble that has seen the lead change hands three times in three days.

San Francisco Giants and Cincinnati Reds grappled in one of the doubleheaders Monday as the Giants put across four ninth-inning runs, then stood off a Cincinnati rally for a 6-5 victory. That put Giants 200 of a percentage point ahead of second-place Los Angeles Dodgers, who dethroned Milwaukee from first to third with a 5-3 victory.

Pittsburgh reached .500 for the first time this year when it took fifth place from Chicago by beating the Cubs 2-1 in the only other league game.

DUSTING STARTS EARLY

The dusting started early in Cincinnati. The Giants' Willie Mays hit a home run over the roof with two pitching tactics. And earlier, Cincinnati's Frank Robinson found Pittsburgh's Bob Friend and George Witt unusually wild.

Purkey had a 3-2 lead going into the ninth when a three-run double by Jim Gilliam and a single by Willie Kirkland's RBI single made it 5-3 for the Giants. Red Worthington, making a start, gave up two runs in the ninth, one on Frank Bolling's homer, before Jack Sanford hurried in to get the final out.

The first four runs in the game came on homers. The Giants counted thanks to Orlando Cepeda, Felipe Alou and Orlando. Cepeda. The Reds scored on a two-run homer by Don Whisenant and a bases - empty blast by Frank Thomas, both off starter Mike McCormick.

HODGES STARS

Gil Hodges, part of the old guard right-handed power that made Warren Spahn a seldom-starter against the Braves, was 4-for-4 at Milwaukee and all were for extra bases—two doubles and a pair of solo home runs.

Don Demeter broke a 2-2 tie and wrapped it up with two-run homer in the seventh. Southpaw Johnny Podres, raised his record to 3-2 with Art Fowler's relief in the ninth.

Eddie Mathews's ninth home run, tops in the majors, came with a man on in the third for the Braves, who added an eighth-inning homer by Joe Adcock. Spahn gave up eight hits and went all the way for a 3-2 record.

The Pirates were shut out on three hits by rookie Bob Anderson (2-1) before they scored their two in the eighth on Dick Groat's double and singles by pinch-hitter Maybe the question isn't "what's with the New York Yankees?" but "what's with the American League?"

Could be that Yankee manager Casey Stengel had the answer long ago. The world champions are seventh, 6½ games out of first place, but Casey diagnosed the league before the symptoms appeared.

Even last winter Stengel warned his champs that the league had become stronger. The standings show the proof of his prodding.

Who's first? Cleveland Indians, at 13-5. They had to play 27 games last season before they won 13. They finished fourth.

Baltimore Orioles and Chicago White Sox are tied for second, each at 11-8. Fourth? Kansas City. And who's third? They lost Washington Senators, who have the best record (15-3) among the seven clubs on their present trek through the West.

That leaves Detroit (8-9) sixth, the Yankees (7-12) seventh and Detroit (4-15) last.

BOSTON IS BACK

Kansas City blew a chance to take sole possession of second place Monday, when Boston in the only game scheduled, Kansas City dropped a 7-4 decision against the Red Sox. Dick Gernert, four for five, doubled home the tying run and scored Boston's lead run on Jackie Jensen's single in the two-run sixth Then Gernert smacked a two-run double in the eighth off Ned Garver, a former Red Sox, to put Boston in the only game scheduled.

Bill Monbouquette (1-0) won it with 6 2-3 innings of three-hit relief after replacing starter Frank Baumann and two outs and four bases loaded, none-out jam in the fifth. Bill Tuttle (9-4) was the loser in relief.

TODAY'S GAMES

The Cleveland Indians, who have lost three of five on the western trip, serve as the final test of the Yankees' home record against the East tonight. Lefthander Jack Harshman (3-3) hasn't lost to the Indians since he was with the White Sox four years ago, is the Orioles' choice. He has an 0-3 record and will face lefty Don Ferrarese (2-0), a rookie Bird.

The Yankees, 1-5 on the trip, close the tour at Kansas City. They open a two-game series tonight with Whitey Ford (3-1) going against Athletics' Ned Garver.

The Red Sox are at Detroit today and Washington is at Chicago for an afternoon game with the White Sox.

Alex Delvecchio Shades Hebenton For Byng Trophy

MONTREAL (CP)—Alex Delvecchio of Detroit Red Wings won the Lady Byng Memorial Trophy by half a point over Andy Hebenton of New York Rangers, the National Hockey League announced Monday.

The trophy, plus $1,000, goes annually to the player "adjudged to have exhibited the best type of sportsmanship and gentlemanly conduct combined with a high standard of playing ability during the season."

In the closest balloting ever recorded for any NHL award, Delvecchio received 86.8 points and Hebenton 86.3 points.

Each played in his team's full 70 games of the schedule. Delvecchio served only six minutes in penalties and Hebenton eight minutes.

Voting is done by hockey writers around the NHL circuit and broadcasters in the six NHL cities. They vote at mid-season and again at the end of the regular schedule.

Using round figures Delvecchio had 54 points, Hebenton 32 and Gaunt only 18 for Hebenton, inverter forward received a total of 86 points, one-half to Delvecchio's 23.

Camille Henry of New York, last year's winner, was third with 66 points, Hebenton was fourth in Andy Bathgate, New York, 18; Eddie Litzenberger, Montreal, 13; Ron Murphy, Chicago, 6; Ralph Backstrom, Montreal, Johnny Bucyk, Boston, Jean Beliveau, Montreal, and Don Marshall, Montreal, three each; Earl Ingarfield, Montreal, and Johnny Wilson, Detroit, one each.

Hebenton finished the season with 23 goals and 29 assists; Delvecchio had 24 and 35.

Delvecchio, born at Fort William, has completed his seventh full season in the NHL, all with Detroit.

Bruins Lose To Rangers 6-2

PARIS (CP)—New York Rangers defeated Boston Bruins 6-2 Monday night in the fourth game of the European exhibition tour between the two National Hockey League clubs.

Rangers now have a 3-2 lead in the five-game series. Boston has lost.

About 700 persons saw the game at the rink of the French Ice Skating Federation in suburban Neuilly. Players say the ice rink is longer and much wider than those they are used to in North America.

Dick Meissner and Vic Stasiuk were Boston marksmen.

New York took a 2-0 lead in the first period and extended it to 4-0 by the end of the second.

They'll Do It Every Time

By Jimmy Hatlo

Powerful Yankees on Skids Other Clubs Furnish Grease

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Yankees aren't the Yankees and everyone is wondering what has happened to the erstwhile scourge of the American League.

Casey Stengel's New Yorkers have lost nine of their last 19 games. They have averaged only two runs a game in their last 11 games, and whereas they once could be counted on to settle an extra-inning contest with a tremendous blow, now it is their opponent that does the blasting.

Stengel has his own version of what is wrong, and the figures seem to bear him out.

"We ain't hitting," said the club's field boss. "They're pitching us low and we go after the ball. Our pitching staff ain't good."

IDEAS VARY

The players have their own ideas.

"The club is tight," says the veteran Enos Slaughter. "We have too many serious guys here."

"We've been playing in a lot of tough luck, and we're not hitting," says Mickey Mantle.

Whatever is wrong, the fact remains it is the same club that won the pennant and world championship last year. In fact, it is the same club that has been holding down at the stadium the last two years.

It has been suggested that Stengel has stopped trying to win with pitching, particularly in pitching, while the champions have been standing still.

Whether that means a sudden awakening of the Yankee roster is a question. Stengel insists he will stick with the cast of his players, but the fact remains George Weiss, the general manager, brought an almost top team today, and that could mean action before the trade front.

NONCOMMITTAL

Weiss said in Detroit Monday, when asked about trade possibilities, that it was too early to tell. He added that the Yankees are better than they have shown to date, and that the club was not going to make a deal simply for the making a deal.

In New York, co-owner Dan Topping also snubbed the idea of a trade.

"What for?" he asked. "We have a fine team. We'll come through all right."

But the Yankees are worried. And others, recalling that the last two months of the 1958 season the club was anything but a ball of fire, suggest that the club started to slide then, and that is a continuation of the decline. In other words that the New Yorkers have had it.

WALL IN OPEN

Argos, Riders Settle Dispute

TORONTO (CP)—Toronto Argonauts and Ottawa Rough Riders of the Big Four have settled a territorial dispute concerning the signing by Toronto of a college player in Ottawa territory—and vice versa.

Earl Lunsary Argonauts signed Ryerson Rams' tackle Art Ward, a six-foot-three, 210-pounder who was second on their draft list.

But when the Canadian Football Council gave territorial rights in the East to the Big Four, and then sectioned off Ryerson to Ottawa, it was found Ward from Arnprior, belonged in Ottawa's territory.

In April Ottawa stepped over its borders into Toronto territory and picked halfback Jerry Bleue, also of Ryerson Rams. Argonauts general manager Earl Hayman complained.

After Ottawa's Jim McCaffrey mentioned the signing of Ward by Toronto, the two clubs reached an agreement which will keep the player it has signed.

Gene Kiniski Meets Whipper Friday Night

"World War Three" will get under way around nine o'clock this Friday evening at Belleville's Memorial Arena!

There is a slight difference in this and the other two great wars however. This one will be a fight to a finish. There will be no white flags, peace treaties or what have you. And oh yes, you can buy a ticket to this war.

Whipper Billy Watson, who has held the British Empire heavyweight wrestling championship for so many years, off and on, mostly on, that he feels naked without it, will attempts to win it once again.

His opposition is the hated Gene Kiniski, the wild one from Edmonton, who stripped Whipper of his, B.E. title in Toronto a couple of weeks ago.

Fans will remember the battle staged between these two great wrestlers in past performances. Both have predicted a victory on Friday night's go here but there can be only one winner. This is a must for the game's faithful fans.

Another rough and rugged chap by the name of Hardboiled Haggerty returns to the squared ring in one of the other bouts to do battle with Mike Valentine.

The opening fight has Wally Sieber clashing with Karl Pfohl.

It looks like an all-star cast for "World War Three."

Bisons Sweep Three Games From Columbus

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Buffalo Bisons are becoming serious threats in the International Baseball League—and in the process are getting excited.

The Bisons knocked over Columbus Jets 7-3 in the opener, came back this with the help of seven walks, three Columbus errors and a four-run seventh that crimped a budding Columbus rally in the eighth inning.

This unexpected charity, combined with 12 hits off five Columbus pitchers, boosted the Bisons to .500, two games out of first place and tied them with the Jets for fourth place. Columbus is 9-9, Buffalo 10-10. The Monday victory gave Buffalo a three-game series sweep that jarred Columbus from second place and helped the Bisons vacate seventh place.

McDANIEL HITS HOMER

Buffalo took a 5-3 lead after four innings, scoring four in the first against loser Joe Gibbon (1-3) and adding two in the third and one in the fourth. Jim McDaniel's three-run homer in the sixth was Columbus's big offensive blow.

The Jets scored once in the first and added three singles to score again in the eighth, and had runners on second and third with two out when Juan Pizarro catcher Jim Coker picked John Xavier off second base to snuff the rally.

Toronto Maple Leafs, in a second-place tie with Richmond Virginians one game behind Miami Marlins, play an afternoon game today at Montreal with the Royals, who are in a three-way tie for fourth. The two games out of first, in evening encounters, Buffalo Bisons, tied with the Royals, meet the seventh-place Red Wings at Rochester, Miami is at Richmond and the last - place Havana Sugar Kings visit Columbus for a game with the Jets, the third partner of fourth place.

BRAVES TRIM ROSTER

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Milwaukee Braves trimmed their roster to one over the 25-player limit yesterday night by optioning second baseman Chuck Cottier ch to Atlanta recall to Louisville of the American Association and offering Jim Pisoni back to Richmond of the International to keep Cottier, failed to hit big-league pitching.

Robinson's Loss of Title Stirs Action in Ring, Courts

By MURRAY ROSE

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Boxing Association's title-vacating action against Sugar Ray Robinson is bound to stir up plenty of activity in the ring and possibly the courts.

Instead of just one middleweight title fight this year, there may be three — provided by a couple of champions.

Why two champions? Well, there's still Sugar Ray, who says he's not retiring. And Carmen Basilio-Gene Fullmer setup is determined as NBA's successor to Robinson.

The Basilio - Fullmer winner then will have to face another leading contender, undoubtedly Spider Webb of Chicago, by NBA edict.

LONG-HERALDED MOVE

The NBA's long-heralded move against Sugar Ray was announced Monday by president Dr. Ward Wylie, who said the executive committee voted unanimously to strip Robinson of his title.

Sugar Ray hasn't fought since regaining the crown from Basilio in Chicago's Soldier Field.

Then promoter Norm Rothschild said he had signed both of these top contenders — ex-champions for Syracuse, N.Y., in the summer.

New York State, not an NBA member, has given the dandy Harlem businessman until May 15 to sign for a bout against Basilio and it is backed by the State Supreme Court.

Robinson moaned that the NBA "dealt me a foul blow. They can have their own champion and do what they want about it. But I'm not retiring."

MAY FIGHT GERMAN

He indicated he still may fight Germany's Gustav Scholz, the European champion, probably in Europe. The New York Athletic Commission has ruled Scholz, ranked No. 3 in the world, at this time.

If Robinson fights Scholz, he would have billing as world champion in Europe at least. This could provide for dual champions.

This Guy Could Make A Million

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A bank vault was opened Monday and Dr. Spencer Thornton's Kentucky Derby choices — placed there Thursday — were disclosed.

They are Tony Lee the winner in a photo finish with Sword Dancer with First Landing third — just as they finished at Churchill Downs Saturday.

TITLE FIGHT POSSIBLE

NEW YORK (AP)—Harry Lesnevich, British boxing promoter says the winner of the White Towel-Dave Charnley fight may be matched against Joe Brown, world lightweight champion. Towel, British Empire welterweight champion, defends his title against Charnley May 12 in London.

League Prexy Fines Players After Brawls

BOSTON (AP) — American League president Joe Cronin has fined principals in Sunday's brawl involving players of the Cleveland Indians and Washington senators.

Cleveland manager Joe Gordon was fined $100, Indians' pitcher Jim Piersall and Washington pitcher Pedro Ramos $50 each.

Cronin also approved an automatic fine of $50 levied on Senators pitcher John Romonosky by umpire-in-chief Ed Hurley.

The Cleveland brawl began after Piersall, carrying his bat, walked toward Ramos after the pitcher threw a high, inside fast ball while Piersall was batting. The pitch was thrown after Cleveland's Billy Martin had belted a two-run homer.

Players and umpires rushed to get between Piersall and Ramos and a verbal exchange developed between Gordon and Ramos threw the ball at Piersall and a general melee de-

Ben Hogan Wins Playoff In Colonial

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP)—Ben Hogan, who aspires to become the first man in history to win the National open five times, said today he hoped that playoff victory for the Colonial national invitation was a "good omen."

He won his fifth Colonial as he beat Fred Hawkins of El Paso by four strokes Monday. It also was the first time for Hogan to win a tournament five times and he has taken 95 over the years. Hogan shot a 1-under par 69, Hawkins 73.

Hogan said he was going to play some more tournament golf before the National Open "because that's the only way you can get ready for it."

The two tied for first place Sunday when they shot 285 for 72 holes and the playoff was to decide which got $3,000 first money. Hawkins received $2,000 for second place.

Hogan will play in the National open at Miamarnock, N.Y., next month. He qualified for it by finishing tenth in the 1958 open.

Dykes' Wins Bring Contract

DETROIT (AP) — Veteran Jimmy Dykes signed a contract as manager of Detroit Tigers Monday, 24 hours after he had shaken the ball team out of a three-week trance that brought 13 defeats in its first 17 games.

Tigers swept a doubleheader from New York Yankees 4-3 and 8-2 after Dykes pushed Charlie Maxwell off the bench into left field. Maxwell hit a record-tying four consecutive home runs.

Dykes says Maxwell will stick in left field with Al Kaline in centre and Larry Doby in right field. Harvey Kuenn, temporarily benched with an ailing elbow, will be tried at first base.

Cash terms of Dykes' contract were not disclosed. The pact runs for the rest of the season.

Terriers Sign Five Players

GALT (CP) — Galt Terriers Intercounty Senior Baseball League finalists in 1958, have signed five players for this season, club officials announced Monday.

Righthanded pitcher Jack Hoy, second baseman Wes Little, outfielder Bob Brooks and first baseman Hugh Bates all signed during the weekend.

Previously signed was outfielder Don Jackson, a .368 hitter last year and an all-star team member. Jackson's playing rights are in dispute between Galt and Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen.

Hoy, 26, played for Terriers last year on a one-year release from the Dutchmen. He now wants to stay here. Dutchies have accused Galt of tampering and lodged a complaint with the league.

Galt also lodged a complaint and a review of the case is expected Thursday at a league executive meeting.

Terriers open the season May 16 against Brantford Red Sox.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP) — White Apache, owned by Dominic Lamanna and Anthony Legrotti, won the featured Frontenac Purse at the 100th season of horse racing Monday at Old Woodbine park. The crowd of 10,739 was a record for Monday opening.

While Apache, ridden by Don Hair, came from behind in the final two furlongs to defeat Foxy Phil by three lengths, Hathaway finished third.

TORONTO (CP) — Sull Vic, one of the favorites for this year's 100th running of the Queen's Plate, has been withdrawn because of a broken bone in the right forefoot.

Harness Racing

BATAVIA, N.Y. (CP) — Two Ontario-owned pacers won races on Monday night's Batavia Downs card. Red Sails H, property of Seymour Hill of Hagerville, captured the second and King Fleet, owned and driven by Harvey Fleet of London, was the victor in the third. The feature went to Tina Study, an upstate New York pacer.

ROYALS BUY INFIELDER

MONTREAL (CP) — Montreal Royals of the International League have announced the purchase from Richmond Virginians of second-baseman Curtis Roberts. Roberts last season was with Denver of the American Association, batting .298 in 138 games.

AT THE McCARTHY — James Cagney, playing a waterfront racketeer, offers huge retainer to Roger Smith if latter will serve as his attorney. Shirley Jones, playing Smith a wife, realizes this is more a bribe than fee, and hopes her young attorney-husband will refuse. It's a scene from Universal-International's rugged, robust new production, "Never Steal Anything Small", with Cara Williams also playing a top role. The picture, in color and CinemaScope, is now showing at both the Odeon McCarthy Theatre and the Belleville Drive-In Theatre.

AT THE PARK — Hired killer Vince Edwards (centre) faces two dissatisfied clients, pistol-wielding Phillip Pine and Herschel Bernardi, in a new crime thriller, "Murder by Contract", released by Columbia Pictures, showing today and Wednesday at the Park Theatre. On the same program the fantastic exploits of a master spy "The Spy On Wilhelmstrasse", starring Jack Hawkins, Gia Scala and Alexander Knox. Both features are first Belleville showings.

Theatre for a Story Produced On Tape Is Excellent Series

By CHARLES MERCER

NEW YORK (AP)—Let's hope one of the television networks buys a TV series called Theatre for a Story produced on tape by Robert Herridge.

The taped shows are A Trip to Czardis, a drama, and trumpeter Miles Davis making his television debut in a laconic half-hour program of jazz.

A Trip to Czardis is a faithful rendition of the 1932 O. Henry Memorial Award short story by Edwin Granberry. A tale of innocence and helplessness in the face of tragedy, it concerns two boys in the Florida scrub pine country many years ago who travel to the town of Czardis with their mother and uncle to say goodbye to their father before he is hanged.

It is unlike anything you see these days in the way of half-hour TV programs because it carries you through almost unbearable emotional tensions to an inevitable, honest tragic ending. It is a beautiful, affirmative drama in which says that the innocent must accept human tragedies they never made.

SUPERB ACTING

Mildred Dunnock is starred as the mother of the two boys. It is a superbly-acted work under the direction of Karl Genus.

If this drama ever lights up the home screen you will remember it for a long time.

In the Miles Davis jazz show Herridge employs the same technique of the wonderful jazz program, still unsurpassed on television, which he produced last year for the last Seven Lively Arts.

Other programs in the works for Theatre of a Story are In the Zone by Eugene O'Neill and The Lottery by Shirley Jackson.

THEATRE FEATURE TIMES

AT THE BELLE — Don Murray, Richard Egan, Lee Remick, Patricia Owen, Stuart Whitman, in "These Thousand Hills", in Color by Technicolor, starting tonight and Continuing Tuesday, 7.35-9.30.

AT THE McCARTHY — "Never Steal Anything Small", starring James Cagney, Shirley Jones and Cara Williams, in Color by CinemaScope, 7.35-9.25.

AT THE PARK — First Showing: "The Spy On Wilhelmstrasse", starring Jack Hawkins, Gia Scala, Alexander Knox, Martin Benson, Lisa Gastoni, Vince Edwards, Philip Pine, 8.25.

QUINTE DRIVE-IN THEATRE — From Today to Wednesday, "Cash McCall", starring Edmond O'Brien, Natalie Wood, Nina Foch, James Garner, Dina Merrill, Otto Kruger, William Prince, Bruce Cowling.

Sanders Brothers Exemplify Neglect of Creative Talent

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Film industry moguls are always talking about the need for new talent but they seldom do anything about it.

Two young fellows exemplify this neglect of creative talent. They are the brother team of Denis and Terry Sanders, who are now hitting the big time. It wasn't easy.

Terry is tall, slim and 27. Denis is shorter, chunky and 29. They both like to write and cut their own films, though they share the duties with others. Principally, Terry is producer, Denis the director.

"It wasn't easy to convince studios that we could make a picture," said Denis, "even after we made A Time Out of Time."

STUDENT PROJECT

The film, a two-reeler about the Civil War made while the brothers were university students, won an Academy Award and honors at the Venice and other film festivals.

But the boys still had to prove themselves.

They did it by whipping up their own project. They chose a classic by Dostoevski. But instead of playing it in 19th-century Russia, they switched it to present-day Santa Monica, a Los Angeles suburb. The result, Crime and Punishment—S.A., was shot in and located on a rented studio in 12 days, reported. "The cost was $40, which was put up by Allied Artists, ourselves and some private investors."

The picture now is getting critical acclaim. The pictures are shown to the brass at MGM and within five days Denis and Terry were signed to make a film a year for five years. Their first assignment is to do the Jack Kerouac saga of Beatniks, The Subterraneans, for producer Arthur Freed.

SERRA'S MOTHER DIES

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Mrs. Paulina Serra, 63-year-mother of New York Yankees catcher Yogi Berra, died Monday. She has been ill with diabetes for several years. Berra flew here from Detroit and will be lost for his American League team until next weekend.

Labor Minister Makes Spirited Defence of Act

OTTAWA (CP)—Labor Minister Starr said Monday, amid loud applause from government supporters in the Commons, that "it must be made clear no single group will have an exclusive power of veto" over appointments made by the cabinet.

The minister made a spirited defence of the government's appointment of trade unionist Alastair F. MacArthur of Toronto to the three-man Unemployment Insurance Commission — an appointment that prompted President Claude Jodoin of the 1,000,000-member Canadian Labor Congress to charge "political patronage" and a violation of provisions for consultation with labor.

"I deny both these charges," Mr. Starr said while government supporters thumped their desks.

Political considerations "were not absent" in the resignation of three trade union leaders from the unemployment insurance advisory committee in protest against the MacArthur appointment, Mr. Starr said.

He was not prepared to reopen negotiations on the appointment with a view to reaching agreement.

Mr. Jodoin had been consulted "all along the line." The principle of consultation will continue to be carried out, Mr. Starr said.

CCF House Leader Hazen Argue, who had asked Mr. Starr to comment on the decision of the CLC about filling the $12,000-a-year post, asked whether it was not an absence of good faith for the minister to state a preference for one man and "follow this preference" by ignoring three CLC nominees.

Past practice has been for organized labor to name the labor representative on the insurance commission and that position became vacant early this year with the retirement of R. J. Tallon.

DISCUSSED EXTENSIVELY

The question of the appointment had been discussed personally with Mr. Jodoin and covered in "considerable" correspondence, said Mr. Starr. Three CLC nominees plus a fourth from the railway brotherhood had been given the fullest cabinet consideration.

He reiterated his belief that Mr. MacArthur's career made him fully qualified. He is a former president of the Ontario Federation of Labor and heads the Canadian section of the Office Employees' International Union, a CLC affiliate.

Canada's Gift to Ceylon Has Made Visible Impact On Island's Pattern of Life

Canada has contributed $15,500,000 for Colombo plan aid to Ceylon. In this story, Russell Elman, former Canadian Press staff writer now touring the Commonwealth, reports on many of the Canadian - assisted projects and impact on the nation's life.

By RUSSELL ELMAN

COLOMBO, Ceylon (CP)—Canada's Colombo plan contribution of $15,500,000 to Ceylon has made a visible impact on the island's changing pattern of life.

Canadian aid has been used to survey the country's resources, develop fisheries and agriculture, modernize railways and harbors, build roads and power lines and expand educational facilities.

Some 20 Canadian-assisted projects are under way, planned or completed. They range from a $2,500,000 aerial survey to a $4,000 road-building scheme.

The aerial survey, carried out by the Photographic Survey Corporation of Toronto, is making an accurate inventory of the island's natural resources available to the Ceylon government for the first time. It has helped rubberbush science for luck in the planned economic development of the island.

Since 1953 Canadian geologists, geophysicists, agronomists, geographers, foresters and engineers have been engaged in the continuing survey. The team has photographed the whole island, made maps, made a reconnaissance on river basins, conducted an airborne geophysical survey and field studies in inaccessible jungle and began a classification of forests.

Ceylonese have been trained to run an air photographic laboratory and to staff the country's new air survey branch, which plans to remap the island. Government departments now are using aerial photographs, cadastral maps and maps in search of mineral deposits, planning power and irrigation schemes, locating new factories and building highways and airports.

Under the Canadian Colombo plan project in Ceylon is a $2,700,000 experimental fisheries program. Canadian-manned trawlers were sent to boost the commercial fish catch, a fish harbor and refrigeration plant were built and Ceylonese were instructed in modern fishing methods.

Canada also is sharing in the $100,000,000 Gal Oya Valley scheme, Ceylon's first multi-purpose development project. More than $1,700,000 has been spent so far to build a transmission system bringing power to villages and new factories.

A $1,000,000 institute of practical technology, Ceylon's first, is being completed at Katubedda, near Colombo. It will help fill a serious gap in Ceylon's technical educational facilities by emphasizing practical rather than theoretical studies. At first it will train 400 students in engineering and as potential foremen and supervisors in skilled trades.

This project highlights some of the difficulties faced by Colombo plan administrators in the area. The institute is not scheduled to open until July—almost two years behind schedule.

This delay is attributed to rising costs, a cement shortage, labor troubles and the country's 1958 race riots. Some of the Canadian equipment for the scientific laboratories and machine work-shops has become rusted and in March, traders had not yet been called for power installations. This job will require ripping up the floors.

At the University of Ceylon near Kandy, Colombo plan aid built an agricultural research laboratory which has since formed the backbone of the university's expanding agriculture department.

A Canadian equipped woodworking shop at Ceylon's first junior technical school in Galle helps meet a shortage of skilled craftsmen, but machinery was in store for two years because of delays in the school's opening.

Rupee counterpart funds, obtained from the sale of gifts of Canadian flour, were used to set up four co-operative training centres for fishermen. Canadian flour also financed a $1,000,000 road-building project for villages in isolated areas. Many communities for the first time now have access to hospitals, schools and markets.

At Bogerson Gama, in the mountainous Nuwara Eliya district, villagers voluntarily did the unskilled jobs on a roads project to convert a footpath into a seven-mile road. More than 3,000 persons benefited from this $4,000 scheme, done with money from a Canadian grant.

Canada has also provided a $2,000,000 gift of 10 diesel locomotives, each named after a Canadian province, and crescoled Douglas fir ties for Ceylon's government - owned railways. The diesels have cut fuel costs and reduced coal imports, slashed running times by 40 per cent and made possible for the first time fast daily service between Colombo and Jaffna in the north.

In agriculture, Canadian aid is being used to apply and demonstrate up-to-date methods. Assistance included $340,000 for repair tools and machinery for workshops in district agricultural stations.

Portable irrigation units, pumping well water through aluminum pipe and sprinklers, now are widely used in dry areas with no regular rainfall.

Tibet Will Not Make India Change Policies

NEW DELHI (CP) — Prime Minister Nehru said Monday events in Tibet will not make India change her relations with the East or West.

"We do not propose to have a military alliance with any country, come what may," he told the Senate.

Closing a parliamentary debate on the Chinese uprising, Nehru denied that India might join Pakistan in a military alliance in view of a threat to their security posed by China's activities on their northern borders.

He reiterated that he hopes for continued friendly relations with Communist China. "Nothing must be said or done that endangers friendly relations" with Peiping, the prime minister said.

Despite disagreements with China over Tibet, India will continue to support China in its bid to gain membership in the United Nations.

Nehru expressed bitter disappointment that China has refused to accept statements by the Indian government on non-involvement in Tibet. He said he had been hurt by the fact that despite New Delhi's disavowals, Peiping continues to charge India with interference and an "expansionist" program.

Nehru said India is committed to care for nearly 9,000 Tibetan refugees who have been granted asylum.

Hospital Fire Forces Evacuation Of 392 Patients

Red Cross, CD Workers Assist in Removal

MONTREAL (CP)—A stubborn fire on the roof of a wing at Sacre Coeur Tuberculosis Hospital early forced the evacuation of 392 patients.

No one was injured and actual fire damage was confined mainly to the roof of the five-storey wing, but water damage was extensive on the lower floors. Firemen from 15 stations battled clouds of water on the blaze for 2½ hours.

Red Cross and civil defence workers joined nurses, doctors, nuns, and more than 100 policemen in moving the patients to other hospitals, other parts of the hospital, or to their homes.

THOUSANDS GATHER

The spectacular fire attracted crowds of thousands to the huge tree - and - grass - covered grounds of the 35-year-old hospital, operated by the Roman Catholic Sacred Heart Sisterhood in the Cartierville district.

The flames broke out among wooden supports under the tarred roofing material being used to prepare the roof for the addition of a fifth storey. Firemen fought the blaze to a standstill from five aerial ladders, but when the flames were confined to a corner, fought them from the roof itself.

The east wing was evacuated completely within half an hour of the time the fire broke.

The buildings are mostly stone and concrete.

Cannot Stop Dogs Barking Judge States

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—A judge ruled Tuesday that dog owners cannot be required by law to keep their dogs from barking and added:

"As a matter of fact, you can't keep a dog from barking unless you kill it."

Nations Seek Road to Peaceful Use of Space

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Seventeen United Nations members today launched a search for a cooperative road to the peaceful use of outer space.

But Russia and two Red satellites and two neutral members of the 18-nation U.N. committee set up at the General Assembly last year ignored it when they boycotted the organization meeting.

Russia, Czechoslovakia and Poland all said their delegates will stay home because Western nations and their Asian and Latin-American communist and neutral members, India and the United Arab Republic said they wouldn't take part because the committee had no chance of success.

The United States took the lead in pressing for today's meeting, which was to elect officers and set up two subcommittees to work out scientific and legal aspects of international space research. But considerations are ruled out.

CNR PRESIDENT SEES PROSPECT CREWLESS TRAINS

Does Not Favor Rail-Owned Hotels

OTTAWA (CP)—The long-range prospect of crewless trains was suggested by CNR President Donald Gordon Tuesday.

Mr. Gordon was questioned before the Commons railway committee on the multiple ramifications of the CNR. A second day of substantive questioning was scheduled for today.

The CNR foresees "nothing immediately ahead" regarding the next year's crew negotiations, Mr. Gordon said. Only a few days ago the CNR unions indicated the threat of a firemen's strike, in winning its demands, but no more substance should be hired.

There was the possibility, he told committee members, that "eventually with automatic controls we could have trains running without crews—at least on some specialized services."

NO MORE HOTELS

He replied with a flat "no" when asked whether he saw any future for hotels for the CNR staying in the hotel business. Railroad hotels don't attract train passengers the way they used to do, he said.

The CNR has no intention of building new hotels anywhere and has no plans to enlarge the Mac Hotel Elizabeth in downtown Montreal, which has only two floors of the valuable CNR property adjacent to it.

Mr. Gordon indicated that the CNR is giving cautious study to the possibility of more rail and highway operations that will help our net position." At least two more should be handled better by trucks.

Not mentioned during this phase of the questioning was the probability that the CNR will seek $15,000,000 from the government shortly for what is expected to be a multi-million dollar loss.

No trucking concern has been bought although some have been studied, Mr. Gordon said.

He also expressed the view that politicians should keep labor and management solve their problems.

"Inevitably when third parties come in, the thing gets all fouled up," he said bluntly. The CNR was the "most considerate employer" in Canada.

He said the CNR lost about $14,000,000 last year on passenger service but doesn't intend to get out of that line of business, he said.

Cost of Jobless Insurance To Rise, Benefits Unchanged

OTTAWA (CP)—The cost of unemployment insurance is going up.

Under proposed government amendments, premiums on the insurance will rise about 30 per cent from present weekly contributions. Weekly rates of the maximum rate drawn weekly if unemployed — will remain virtually unchanged.

These and other changes, expanding the army of insured workers and increasing the maximum length of insurance, are incorporated in government legislation now before the Commons.

The bill, made public today, shows, for example, that a person making $51 a week will have to pay 75 cents for insurance. Applied of the present 56 cents. The weekly rate of benefit would remain at $25 a week for a single person and $30 a week for a person with dependants. But contributions are increased all along the line.

But the concessions that will aid employees include an increase in the maximum weeks of insurance to 52 weeks from 36 and an increased allowance for additional earnings without reducing the rate of benefits.

The army of insurable wage-earners would be expanded to those making a year more than $5,460 a year from the present ceiling of $4,800.

Another change is that unemployment insurance protection would be extended to cover families serving up to two years. At present this protection is available to those serving only up to 44 weeks.

Here is a comparison of the proposed schedule of weekly contributions with present contributions in brackets:

Weekly wages of less than $9—(8); wages of $9 and under $15—20 (16); wages of $15 and under $21—30 (24); wages of $21 and under $27 — 40 (30); wages of $27 and under $33—46 (36); wages of $33 and under $39—54 (42); wages of $39 and under $45—60 (48); wages of $45 and under $51—67 (54); wages of $51 and under $57—72 (56); wages of $57 and under $63—75 (56 maximum $57 and over); $63 and under $69—86 (new category); $69 and over—100 (new category).

The proposed new scale of benefits shows that the maximum weekly amount a person can draw when unemployed will be $30 for persons with dependants and $25 for single, single workers. This rise is to cover the new category of insured workers whose earnings are $4,800 and $5,460 a year.

But the scale also shows that the average payments in contributions will have to be higher just to keep the existing scale of benefits for the average worker. For a man in the present weekly contribution is 58 to 60 cents to buy maximum benefit insurance of $25 for a single worker and $30 for a worker with dependants. Under the new scale the contributions would rise to a range between 75 and 82 cents.

Big Unions, Business, Govt. Seen Creating Conformists

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

The leaders of the two opposition parties in the last Ontario legislature were defeated Tuesday but Premier Frost kept his Progressive Conservatives in the limelight as he announced appointment of a cabinet minister for a newly-created industry department.

Robert Macaulay, former military intelligence portfolio, was sworn in as minister of energy resources. He succeeds Leslie Frost, who resented Toronto Riverdale in the last House.

Meanwhile, Liberal Leader John Whitemeyer and CCF Leader Donald MacDonald were in some opening blows in their campaigns for the June 11 election.

Mr. Whitemeyer told a luncheon meeting in Kitchener industry is the most important issues in the election are exploitation of labor-management disputes by big business, big unions and big government and the threat to individual with loss of identity.

Under such conditions the individual could become a cog in social and economic conformity without exercising his initiative and without creating great ideas. Ideas were the foundation on which progress had always been built.

In Brantford, Mr. MacDonald directed fresh criticism at Electric Power Commission's purchase of Indian Power.

He said Dimensional Investment Limited of Toronto stood to be paid $1,080,000 as a down payment of 8,100 acres of Indian Power stock, which has a book price of $6,500,000. But 132 to 135 million tons of coal at $8 a ton or $1,000,000 to $1,200,000 before the original deal was actually completed.

"This simply means that Hydro is paying the profits of the original all, the working capital for this speculative venture," Mr. MacDonald spoke at a meeting which nominated Clare Brown as CCF candidate in Brantford riding.

The nomination increased to 182 the number of candidates in the field. Of these 81 are Progressive Conservatives, 47 CCF and 55 Liberals. Eight Labor-Progressive and one Independent Conservative are also in the running.

In Kitchener, Mr. Whitemeyer say they will start their campaign Monday. The party leader will be at the Lakehead. Mr. Whitemeyer will make his keynote speech at Kitchener.

Mother and Boy Friend' Tell How They Choked Two Boys

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — A mother and her boy friend told police Tuesday how they planned and carried out the murder of her two young sons.

The couple, who had been in San Diego only two weeks, were quoted as saying they killed the boys last Saturday because they were "bad" and left their bodies in the mountains east of here.

Kenneth Archie Merriam, 36, a construction worker, and Mrs. Merriam said, "It's a shame." He had been asked to explain why his stepdaughter, Mrs. Virgil Brogdon, 3, and Virgil Brogdon Jr., 5.

Merriam put his own hands to his head and cried softly before starting how he choked the boys.

District Attorney Don Keller said Merriam and Mrs. Brogdon will be arraigned on two counts of murder.

The couple, after a round of bars early Tuesday, returned to their apartment and left the bodies in the back of their car, and drove to the home of Mrs. Brogdon's sister, Mrs. Margaret Schmitter, what had happened and then displayed the sheriff's office, saying: "There are two dead kids in the car. That's going to get me."

Mrs. Brockford, Ill., Virgil Brogdon, 42, the father of the boys, said he and his wife had been separated for a year. He filed suit for divorce April 16.

Independence For Tibet Said Not Possible

HONG KONG (Reuters)—Communist China's Peiping People's Daily has commented on the possibility Tibet might be granted even semi-independent status.

Such a status, it said, would be "a conspiracy by the Chinese people, to the Indian people, to destroy friendship and the Asian peace."

Tibet, is definitely not a protectorate, not a buffer-state, but an autonomous region under full sovereignty of the central people."

The article regretted that the "agreement" between China and Indian Prime Minister Nehru had been "a bit sharp," but it hoped it would in substance help relations between the two countries.

According to the article, Nehru was "pushed" by the West into "conspiracy" and into "so-called sympathy-with-Tibet movement."

TRYING TO RAM NOMINEE DOWN LABOR'S THROAT

Trade Unionist MP Advances Charge

OTTAWA (CP)—A trade unionist MP says the government is trying to ram a political appointment to the unemployment insurance commission down labor's throat.

Nicole Martin, CCF member for Timmins and former officer of the Federation of Ontario Professional Fire Fighters, made the charge in the Commons Tuesday night about the appointment of Alastair F. MacArthur of Toronto as chief representative on the commission.

Liberal spokesman Paul Martin, Essex East, described as "regrettable" L'abor Minister Starr's Diefenbaker and Cabinet nominees for the $13,000-a-year post as having political affiliation not with the progressive conservatives.

"STALWART MACKENZIE"

The former Liberal health minister said Mr. Starr acted in an arrogant fashion in refusing to set up a meeting between Prime Minister Diefenbaker and Claude Jodoin, president of the Canadian Labor Congress who submitted names for the government's intention to appoint Mr. MacArthur rather than one of the other three nominees.

The MacArthur fight grew out of the debate on the unemployment insurance legislation with the Liberal Opposition charging the party's charge that Mr. Starr failed to consult labor on appointments before they announced.

The CCF Martin said a change in the labor code the government had left Mr. MacArthur behind and he was more or less "stalwart Mackenzie" 1957 member of the Trades and Labor Congress and the Canadian Congress of Labor into the Canadian Labor Congress.

Mr. Starr's announcement of Mr. MacArthur to the commission wouldn't leave a union representative any worse off. But the fact remained that he was not the choice of labor.

Bakery Workers May Merge With Teamsters

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times says the Bakery and Confectionary Workers International may merge with the International Brotherhood of Teamsters headed by James R. Hoffa.

The Washington dispatch said that a merger involving talks were far advanced. The bakers union was said to have 125,000 members.

This union, like the teamsters, has been expelled by the AFL-CIO on charges of corruption. The AFL-CIO subsequently set up a rival organization, the American Bakery and Confectionary Workers Union.

The Times says:

The reluctance for employers is that Mr. Hoffa would be on his way to domination of the labor force in the food industry. The bakery sales drivers now are in his organization.

He has inside and outside workers in the dairy industry, and, to a degree in the brewery industry. This is in addition to his dominance in the trucking transportation in general, his new alliances in the maritime field with his old allies in construction.

British Planes Carry U.S. Bombs

Jet-Powered V-Force Armed With H-Bombs

LONDON (Reuters) — The defence ministry early today confirmed newspaper reports that the British force of V-bombers is armed with hydrogen bombs loaned to Britain by the United States.

Britain at present does not manufacture enough H-bombs of her own to equip the Royal Air Force, but the A or E-bomb H-bombs will be replaced when British bombs are delivered, the ministry said.

Newspaper aviation correspondents today said the borrowed H-bombs are under strict American control and could not be released by the RAF without approval from Washington.

This arrangement is similar to the terms for the RAF's Thor intermediate range ballistic missiles whose warheads remain under U.S. control.

The dead man kept a close secret although the weapons are said to have been brought to Britain several months ago.

According to the aviation correspondents, production of British-made nuclear warheads is being increased, with H-bombs for the RAF seen as the first priority.

The V-force of Valiant, Vulcan and Victor jet bombers, is reported to number nearly 200.

The London Daily Mail says Britain has spent £200,000,000 ($560,000,000 on building up an effective independent deterrent, but "independence does not exist" at the moment.

Fallout Rate From Russian Tests Highest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Radioactive fallout from huge Russian nuclear weapons tests is concentrated in the northern hemisphere and reaches the earth much faster than expected, government scientists now believe.

Their testimony on the Soviet-produced fallout was presented to a Senate-House of Representatives atomic energy subcommittee Tuesday.

The scientists said fallout from United States and British tests also was descending faster than they had estimated, though not at the rate of the Russian-produced debris.

While the scientists were testifying, Atomic Energy Commission Chairman John A. McCone, in a speech to the National Press Club, said a nuclear advisory committee soon "will give further reassurance to the people of the world about the very small hazard resulting from fallout."

But the three nuclear powers—Russia, Britain and the United States —are in the midst of negotiations over the fallout rate is highest. At Geneva they now are trying to reach agreement to suspend all atomic tests.

Kiwanians Given Demonstration By 'Y' Judo Club

Belleville Kiwanians were given a few pointers on the art of self defence Tuesday when YMCA Judo Club instructor Jim McLaughlin and five of his students demonstrated an interesting demonstration on judo during the regular weekly meeting at the Kiwanis Community Club.

Mr. McLaughlin, who became interested in judo about three years ago, has attained the rank of Blue Belt. Prior to the demonstrations of mat work, Mr. McLaughlin gave an introductory address on the origin of judo.

He explained judo is first and foremost a sport — but a very dangerous sport when physically and mentally. He said it was developed by unarmed Japanese soldiers who found judo to be a means of defence. In 1935 a Japanese professor developed the Kodecon method which is used by all branches of the Frank Marshall Judo Club of Toronto.

Attesting to the popularity of the sport, Mr. McLaughlin said: The YMCA believes judo is "character building". He also stated the local club, which is a branch of the Toronto YMCA in Toronto, was started three years ago and now has 75 members.

He and his students, Paul Williams, Peter Fry, Bobby Clarke, Al Hall and Gerry Doxsee, gave an interesting demonstration of the various holds, techniques, and throws, and warm-up exercises.

Mr. McLaughlin was introduced by Ralph Graham, and thanked by Hoss White. He and his students were presented with tokens of the club's appreciations by president Gerry Wishart.

CAR WASH PROJECT

Members of the local BCIVS Key Club announced the club's annual car wash project will be undertaken during the next two Saturdays, he, along with Key Club members Donald Hunter and Bill Lattimer, then polished up their sales pitch on numerous customers in the audience.

President Gerry Wishart gave a preliminary report on the Kiwanis baseball diamond project which has been approved by the Parks Board and which will soon be started at the Fair Grounds.

He also announced with regret the annual Kiwanis Golf Day usually held at the Bay of Quinte Golf Course, has been cancelled. The cancellation resulted on the Club's over-crowded schedule this season.

Vice-president Wishart announced the club will observe Citizenship Week next Tuesday, and as part of the program will feature on hand Judge J. C. Anderson, and winners of the recently sponsored essay contest, Lawrence Kelly will be in charge of the program which will also be held for grades 7 and 8, and Key Club members. Judged will be Kiwanians George Hume, Bob Irvine and Rev. A. S. McConnell.

Past President Charlie Lamb, convention attendance chairman, urged members to sign up for the numerous interclubs now being held to help subsidize their Len Fozzard attendance shield, which will be awarded to the club with the highest attendance at the Montreal convention. He announced a special car on the train will be procured for Kiwanians travelling to the convention.

Continue Probe Into Bakelite Dust Explosion

An investigation into the cause of the flash fire and dust explosion which occurred at the Bakelite plant on Monday evening is continuing. As yet the exact cause has not been determined, according to a company representative. Nobody was hurt as a result of the incident and no equipment was damaged, although some materials stored in the open were damaged by water when the sprinkler system went into action.

All available equipment of the Belleville Fire Department was used in the scene of the explosion since conditions prevail which made it impossible to call in help. About one and a half hours were spent by the firemen and fighters in searching the entire building and extinguishing the fire which had originated from the explosion. Fire Chief Gerald Vance indicated that these small local fires were of little danger in themselves but the danger of a major conflagration was the main concern because the conditions could have resulted in a very serious fire despite the excellent fire fighting equipment in the plant.

IN MEMORIAM

GIFFORD. — In loving memory of my father, Thomas Gifford, who passed away May 6th, 1954.
Sweet memories are all I have,
Now sweet the memory still;
Though I cannot see you sadness,
Dear Dad, I love you still.
—Ever remembered by daughter, Mrs. Ethel Gifford and grandchildren Ronald and Donald.

STONE. — In loving memory of my father, Thomas Stone, who passed away May 6th, 1957.
I think of him in silence,
His name I oft recall,
There is nothing left to answer,
But his picture on the wall.
—Ever remembered by daughter Jessie and son-in-law Frank Smith, and grandchildren.

STONE. — In loving memory of my father, Thomas Stone, who passed away May 6th, 1957.
Dad's days are numbered,
His work is done,
His loving voice is still.
Dad's life of love has closed in mine,
Like now in death's cold chill,
Peter, my father, rest in peace,
When I am all alone;
Remembrance is the only thing,
Dear Dad, I have to give.
—Sadly missed by his loving wife Catharine.

STONE. — In loving memory of Sarah Stone, who passed away May 6th, 1957.
Sweet memories, the shock severe,
We little thought the end was near;
And only those who have lost can know
The pain of parting without leave.
Time heals the wounds, we miss you, father,
Friends may think the wound is healed,
But they little know the sorrow,
That lies in the heart unrevealed.
—Sadly missed by son Fred.

MOON. — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, who suddenly left us, May 6th, 1959.
Gone from our home but not forgotten,
Gone from our hearts but never will be,
Sadly missed by Wife Florence, son Carl and family.

Ask Insurance Agents Meet And Settle Among Selves Division of Town Business

TRENTON — Town councillors have told Trenton insurance agents who have been in business over five years to hold a meeting and iron out their own troubles in the dividing of the town insurance business among themselves.

A letter to the council from Doug Whitney of the Whitney Insurance Company told the council that as yet there has been no plan of dividing up the insurance policies given out on Trenton business.

Acting Mayor Vagn Lange said this insurance problem had been mentioned to him some time ago but he felt that it should not be up to the town to make the policy of the local insurance agents. He said the town would like to have all its insurance through the same agents. "This is a town matter, town on confusion in the town office." By doing this the town had given it all to the Fraser and Frater Insurance Company with the understanding the company would divide it equally among the agents.

Councillor Lloyd Weese said he also felt insurance should be evenly divided among the local agents but it isn't council's job to divide it. "It is my opinion that the agents should hold a meeting among themselves and settle the problem out. "After all," he said, "they are all taxpayers and should have the same product at pretty well the same price. We should send a letter to Mr. Harry Frederick Bilby of the council's whims and urge him to weekly meeting to settle all the agents. If they cannot work it out themselves then it is up to councillors to should sit down and do it."

Councillor Lloyd Worrall said that according to Mr. Whitney's letter he is not acting any of the town insurance business and he agreed the agents should hold a meeting. "But they should remember," he said, "that because the town has given the entire insurance scheme to Mr. Fraser he is therefore obligated to the council to work and to watch over it."

Acting Mayor Lange said that apparently the agents did not want to hold a meeting. "How-ever the town is the only real logical way to settle the problem," he told Whitney in a letter. clerk, O. W. Larry, to write Mr. Fraser r letter and express the council's wishes in the matter.

Support Motion Asking Control Of Expenditures

TRENTON — "I agree with it 100 percent," commented Councillor Lloyd Worrall, when a letter from the city of Belleville was read asking the town council to support a resolution to have municipal councils more controls over the monies spent by police commissions, library boards, school boards, parks boards and suburban roads commissions.

Councillor Claude Graham said it would give the town more control over our budget and make it much easier to draw up." The motion then carried a resolution to support the city of London.

Councillor Lloyd Worrall reported to the council meeting on behalf of the finance committee the contract for painting the downstairs section of the municipal building has been awarded to the lowest bidder, R. J. Webb. The contract includes the ground floor offices of the building and the mayor will keep an eye on things to make sure the details of the contract are carried out.

Next week, May 11 to 18, will be clean-up week in Trenton, it was decided by the town council. During this week residents of Trenton will be urged to clean up their property and buildings. The resolution covering the week was moved by Councillor Lloyd Worrall, specified that property owners will be served their assessment will not be raised as the result of painting buildings. Councillor Lloyd Weese suggested calling the week "Clean-up and Paint-up Week."

A resolution, moved by Councillor Howard Aziz, was passed which extended the thanks of the town council to the Parks Board for the building of a stone fireplace at the rear of the municipal building. The councillors felt the job was well done and that it improved the looks of the building.

A by-law limiting the number of trucks allowed for motor vehicles within the town limits to 20 was given first, second and third readings. The by-law had previously set the number at 10 but it was considered to allow the building of a new one on Sidney Street, to accommodate motorists who wish to take the 401 Highway. No service stations are allowed on the new highway.

Two other by-laws were given final readings, conveying land, to the Quinte Disabled Persons Club and to Senator W. A. Fraser, for $1 in each case.

Larry reminded the councillors that the group has assisted in organizing the three prospective industries for the town.

A letter from a novelties and souvenir firm in Trenton was read offering Royal Visit decorations for sale was shelved by the town council. Clerk O. W. Larry reminded that in trimming the town expenses for the year a special time it had decided not to spend the $1,000 previously set aside for decorating the town during the royal drive-through.

Council authorized the mayor to proclaim May 18 as "Citizenship Day in Trenton" during the week of May 17 to 24 as "Hospital Week" in Trenton, upon request for "Hospital Week" came in a letter from the Hospital Board of Trustees. Board Town Clerk O. W. Larry told the council that during this week the people of town are made conscious of the fact there is a hospital and of the work it is doing.

Three lots of land were sold by the town council on Monday night to the highest bidders. The new owners agree to develop the area, with a time limit of 18 months under the Local Improvement act. Another offer to buy a piece of land was received but the offer to buy a lot will be investigated further.

A request for the re-zoning of an area from residential to commercial over to the Planning Board for its recommendation. A letter from Gregory Butler on behalf of Alfred H. J. Clarke of Toronto, was read, zoning of Sidney Street.

The councillors also decided to hold a special meeting on Thursday night with the Planning Board to discuss matters pertaining to zoning and on zoning which have arisen lately.

The council decided against advertising in the special annual edition of the Financial Post because of lack of funds.

A letter from Ernest Whitney concerning the flood of his basement by water running off the hill during school year is turned over to the sanitation and waste committee for further study, and report to council.

Council as well did that the situation could be eliminated through the lowering of the pavement sidewalk but that the sidewalk was a good one and would not be the same if moved. A ditch of grain on the street becomes clogged easily and also allows the flooding. It was felt another drain and a curb sewer would be the most efficient way to prevent further flooding.

Councillor Lloyd Worrall reported to the council that the field work in the first stage of the re-assessment of the town has been completed and is about two weeks. He told the council that several changes have been found in buildings since the last re-assessment in 1956 and that them being added to. He said town assessor J. Allan Smith has completed work on four of the local industries and two of them have become involved in a call for an increase in assessment. Acting Mayor Vagn Lange said it sounds as though the re-assessment is paying off."

All committee chairmen of the town council will submit written estimate books and recommendation forms in the future. This will be a special meeting call for budget accounts of their meetings and their recommendations they make will be written one to a form. This will assist in the keeping of records at the town offices. The present method is for the committee to type their recommendations on a sheet of paper and after being read at council meeting this is turned over to the clerk and attached to the resolution adopting the committee's report.

Acting Mayor Lange, reporting to the council meeting on behalf of the police board, said the contract for painting the downstairs section of the municipal building has been awarded to the lowest bidder, R. J. Webb. The contract includes the ground floor offices of the building and the mayor will keep an eye on things to make sure the details of the contract are carried out.

Next week, May 11 to 18, will be clean-up week in Trenton, it was decided by the town council. During this week residents of Trenton will be urged to clean up their property and buildings. The resolution covering the week was moved by Councillor Lloyd Worrall, specified that property owners will be served their assessment will not be raised as the result of painting buildings. Councillor Lloyd Weese suggested calling the week "Clean-up and Paint-up Week."

A resolution, moved by Councillor Howard Aziz, was passed which extended the thanks of the town council to the Parks Board for the building of a stone fireplace at the rear of the municipal building. The councillors felt the job was well done and that it improved the looks of the building.

A by-law limiting the number of trucks allowed for motor vehicles within the town limits to 20 was given first, second and third readings. The by-law had previously set the number at 10 but it was considered to allow the building of a new one on Sidney Street, to accommodate motorists who wish to take the 401 Highway. No service stations are allowed on the new highway.

Two other by-laws were given final readings, conveying land, to the Quinte Disabled Persons Club and to Senator W. A. Fraser, for $1 in each case.

THE QUESTION OF LIABILITY

Four years ago, on August 1, 1955, two student nurses were killed in Toronto when struck by a stolen car.

The car got out of control of its driver, Robert Smythson, then 18, when he was struck by a bullet fired by Constable Bruce Priestman of the Toronto police force.

The courts have finally decided that Constable Priestman is not liable for damages as the result of the deaths of the two girls.

First the Ontario Supreme Court cleared Priestman of liability. Then the Ontario Appeal Court ruled the policeman jointly liable with the driver of the stolen car. Now the Supreme Court of Canada has held that Priestman was not liable. The case is closed.

Where experienced jurists disagree, it would be foolish to expect unanimity amongst laymen. Still, the courts were concerned with the law as it is; laymen are more likely to base their opinions on what they think the law should be.

It seems to us that the first duty of law enforcement officers is to endeavor to protect the innocent from harm. Sometimes this may make it advisable to risk injury to bystanders in order to apprehend the suspected criminal. Generally speaking, though, it would seem to be highly inadvisable for police to shoot at the driver of a speeding vehicle when there are other people, afoot or in vehicles, in the vicinity. We are not questioning the correctness of the decision of the Supreme Court of Canada, but we sincerely hope that this decision will not encourage police officers to risk injury to bystanders in attempts to apprehend suspects. If the law, as it stands today, is that Constable Priestman is not liable for the deaths of the two student nurses for which he was killed, "success" as a marksman, then we suggest that the law may need to be amended.

THE GIFTED CHILD AGAIN

Variety is not only the spice of life but the life of controversy.

The very day that The Ontario Intelligencer printed an editorial suggesting that little was being done for gifted children, the Trenton correspondent, reporting a meeting of the Trenton School Board, said, "it appeared to be the opinion of the meeting that a lot of time and effort was devoted to turning out the gifted child, while the slow learners were left pretty much to themselves, mainly because the teachers are unable to give them the individual attention needed."

It seems to us that if teachers are unable to give individual attention, the likelihood of the gifted child receiving much help is small, for individual attention would be precisely what the gifted child would need to progress at a rate in keeping with his superior traits.

Be that as it may, we suspect that this apparent difference in opinion may be nothing more than a difference in meaning applied to the same words. We suspect that the phrase "gifted child" in the report of the Trenton School Board meeting may have referred to a child somewhat above the average in intelligence and application. We can believe that in many cases teachers endeavor to gear the pace of this child to that of the better pupils. To us the phrase "gifted child" means something much more unusual. We would not apply it to the top half dozen in every class, but would reserve it for a half dozen or so in a whole school.

If a lot of time and effort is being devoted to turning out such children in Trenton - - cheers for Trenton and its school board. It will be time and effort well repaid.

SPACE CAN WAIT

Before we go rocketing off to solve the riddles of outer space let's clear up some of the abiding mysteries on Earth. For example:

Why do women customers at the busy cashiers' window of subway stations always pick up their change one coin at a time?

Why doesn't the government man who produces those clear, concise Join-the-Navy posters also compose the income tax forms?

Why don't any of the horses in the Western gun battles ever get shot?—Wall Street Journal.

He Livened Up the Party

By John Robinson in the Hamilton Spectator

Over the years these columns have been based on three main elements.

1. A little truth plus a lot of exaggeration.

2. A lot of truth leavened with a little exaggeration.

3. Pure fiction.

Today's little episode is different in that it is a 100 per cent true story — and yet I suppose most people who read it will think it is largely the product of a diseased imagination.

Ah well, here goes anyway.

Not long ago my wife and I were guests at a party. People nested in an out-of-town hotel suite. Imbibing quietly at this, that and the other. It was a decorous little session — decorous being a Grade 13 word meaning verging on the boring. It was, if anything, a little too formal.

Then we had removed their hats and the women's cigarets got lighted.

Then along came a chap who had made a magnificent discovery.

He had found a gallon painted in it.

Being of an inquisitive, nay scientific, turn of mind, he had tasted the top of same, examined the thick crust on top of the paint and, turning it upside down had found that the paint remained in the can.

"I'm sure me a few women," this chap must have said (he appeared parenthetically at the doorway, "and people will like my host may be minded to bringing life where there is no life, laughter where there is no laughter, bubbles where there is no bubbuh."

And as mouths fell agape he approached a woman of the female persuasion, held the paint pot over her head, upside down pot.

Nothing happened to the paint —it stayed where it was.

Then he approached the woman either — although she didn't stay where she was.

Then, realizing that one test doesn't make an experiment, this chap tried the pot over the head of another woman.

All the paint was there so far as it was concerned for a woman standing near the window reappeared in the sequence.

Now, I turned around and found that from head to foot my wife had turned green.

The paint had not broken and three-quarters of a gallon of oil paint had turned her into a living marvel.

A very skilful job — not a sign of a brush-mark anywhere.

Now, normally sometimes wears green and looks good — but not when she has a blending.

At this point the party spilt up into confusion and two parts. All the men stayed in the suite while all the women went into the washroom. And an assembly line was set up so that towels and cloths and turpentine and stuff like that there could be rushed to the washroom stream from the front desk of the hotel, while, unaccompanied by a man who had to be watched closely as he began to show off his skill at painting the ceiling tired of life.

This stage of the paint - up clean-up job came to an end when my wife's eyes turned scarlet, but she was in a best health.

A call to a local doctor resulted in first, disbelief, second laughter, and third, the suggestion that her hair be shaved bald.

This I vetoed on the grounds that with a painted scalp she would look like the green nincompoop in a pop goof-comic which significantly comes immediately after the bald-headed hero, which she was anyway.

So off we went to the local hospital bringing all downtown traffic to a screeching halt as motorists saw what looked like a group of humans taking a Martian for a walk-ie-talkie.

At the emergency desk a fifteen minute startling conversation took place.

The orderly looked up and casually said:

"What seems to be the trouble here?"

"My wife has turned green," I replied, a note of pride creeping into my voice, for, after all the world, has ever been able to utter a sentence like that?

"Gangrene?" he asked.

"No, just green. Take a look."

He took a look.

"This is April 17, not March 17," he said dazedly.

"Nobody could be that Irish, I said.

In a few seconds we were surrounded by internes, all of whom knew exactly what could be done.

They got throw a scaffolding around her and call for tender-ert?" inquired one, rather brilliantly I thought.

The upshot was that I was escorted with my wife with some swabs and a bottle of ether with which to remove paint.

It didn't work too well for although it removed paint it resulted in my wife falling nicely forward unconscious. Take my word for it, internes are using ether never inhale.

However, I believe in looking on the bright side, the bright side being that this spring my wife will do the garden plantin-ing.

Talk about a green thumb!

Cut Arms Cost One Per Cent

Vancouver Sun

Fear and poverty are mankind's greatest burdens in the technological-British 20th century. The leaders of the world's greatest nations, when and if they meet in Geneva this summer, could easily lift a tremendous part of that load.

If they disagree on everything else they might at least try this experiment.

Cut the world's armament bill by only one percent a year. And agree to put the money saved to peaceful, constructive work — research in sciences and for feeding mankind.

It will surprise most people to know how much one per cent would mean to the welfare of the world. Hon. Chester Bowles, director-general for higher education in France, points out that member countries of the United Nations alone spend up to $150,000,000,000 a year on armaments. He observes that the $1,500,000,000 saved by a one per cent cut would be useful good. It would not only have tremendous practical value, its psychological significance would also be great.

Prof. Berger, speaking in Paris at an international round table under United Nations auspices, said that science has faced man with the challenge of new problems. It is up to man to decide whether science will aid him to "make the best use of the resources it has created for his benefit-ure."

One per cent of the world's military bill, devoted to research and relief, could do a lot of good. But a 10 per cent cut yielding $15,000,000,000 could transform the world.

Canada alone could save close to $200,000,000 a year. This sum could finance its share of a program to feed hungry nations out of its surpluses. But the real solution it could develop its own teams of brilliant researchers or for hundred constructive purposes.

"No doubt the day will come", Prof. Berger said, "when humanity will no longer spend money on arms. . . ."

This is one choice before mankind. Another is universal destruction. But the choice before us must know the fantastic madness of modern war. They might find it easier to see the utter stupidity of the folly of spending money on arms if they read Prof. Berger's experiment.

One per cent or 10 per cent, let us decide — and then be started now.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

May 6th, 1939.

Planes of the R.C.A.F., Trenton air base have been engaged in night flying during the present week, and considerable activity in the air after dark has been observed by local residents.

Proclamation is made in today's issue of the local newspaper, by His Worship the Mayor, that May twenty-second will be observed as a civic holiday in honor of the visit in Canada and to this district of Their Majesties.

Rev. T. Lally, S.J., of the Martyrs' Shrine, Midland, is spending a few days in the city.

Major Harry Walker, who spent the winter months in Florida and the southern states, is the weekend guest of Mr. and Mrs. R. A. Bull, Charles Street.

At the home of Mrs. R. A. Flynn, Queen Street, the very successful afternoon tea, sponsored by the Belleville Women's League, was held yesterday afternoon in the Girl Guides. The door was opened to the many visitors by Little Miss Mary Flynn. Mrs. A. B. Collins, president of the C. W. L., assisted Mrs. Flynn in receiving, and Mrs. E. J. Butler invited the guests to the dining room. Mrs. W. F. Allore and Mrs. J. L. Calnan poured tea, Mrs. R. E. Wilson, Mrs. F. Fitzpatrick and Mrs. J. M. Trusiach assisted.

When the Hepburn Brothers freighter "Glen Allen" pulled away from the Picton berth yesterday on her inaugural 1939 trip, at her helm was Captain Ben Bowen, veteran mariner, beginning his fifty-fifth successive sailing season.

30 YEARS AGO

May 6th, 1929.

The steamer Town of Kingston left Picton yesterday afternoon with a cargo of 15,000 barrels of canned goods for Montreal and points east.

Mrs. L. Chapman, Lingham Lodge, has arrived home after spending some time in England.

Mrs. L. E. Turner and son Ted of Ottawa are visiting Mrs. Turner's father, Mr. James Barlow, Charles Street.

Mayor Hubert Wemp has discovered the corporation seal of Belleville when it was being given a thorough clean. It was found among a lot of odds and ends which had accumulated over a period of time.

Miss Beatrice Croft of this city has entered the Kingston General Hospital as a nurse-in-training.

Reeve W. N. Gilroy of Wolfe Island and Mrs. W. Bell of Bancroft were in the city today on business.

40 YEARS AGO

May 6th, 1919.

Mr. J. H. DeMarsh has taken out permits to construct five houses on Chatham Street.

At a meeting of the city council Mr. J. A. Kerr, city assessor, presented a report on the assessment of the city for the year 1919. It shows an increase in population—note in value of city property. Following are the figures: actual value of land — $1,745,320; value of buildings — $4,002,-050; total value of real property — $5,747,870; business assessment — $319,375; taxable income — $352,769; total assessment — $6,620,005; population — 13,245; total assessment for 1918 — $6,-431,660; increase for 1919 — $198,345; population 1919 — 12,007; increase for 1919 — 338.

Mr. Charles M. Sulman is spending the day in Kingston.

50 YEARS AGO

May 6th, 1909.

Several new automobiles are bouncing about the city streets these days. Can you imagine anything which would settle the dinner more quicker than a fast ride in an auto upon the "smooth" streets of Belleville.

A large crowd was at the Armouries last night to witness a fifteen-mile race in which seven competitors started, but only two finished. Shortly after nine o'clock Lieut.-Col. Thrasher's bugler started the runners on their long jaunt. The following started: H. Vickers, E. Wallace, C. Wallace, H. Greves, J. Wilson and F. Moxam. Eleven laps around the interior of the armouries constituted a mile. At the start all the boys ran fast and Harold Vickers set the pace and took the lead which he maintained to the finish. His time was given as one hour and forty minutes. Charles Wallace was the only other contestant to finish. Pat Jennings was referee.

His Speech Was Better

BBC London Letter

Any popular after-dinner speaker will probably wish the BBC broadcaster Wynford Vaughan Thomas who confessed in a BBC programme Personalia that he personally solved the problem of how to learn to compose the after-dinner speeches constantly demanded from him by giving the same speech twice. He had not previously spoken within a radius of forty miles of the town he was visiting. Only once, he said, had he run into disaster. That was a genuine mistake — I think the society had changed its name and I wasn't too certain where I was. I delivered my speech, but I didn't go down as well as I had expected. Then the chairman got up and in a solid northern voice said, 'I think we all enjoyed Mr. Thomas's speech, and since he delivered it to us two years ago, I think we'll all agree that he's polished it up wonderfully!"

To Your Good Health

By Joseph G. Molner, M.D.

I.Q. RATING OF CHILDREN SHOULDN'T BE REVEALED TO OTHER PARENTS

"Dear Dr. Molner: Can you tell me something about I.Q.'s? I have four children, one a pre-schooler. My second girl has an I.Q. of 126, the next, 135, and the youngest, a 5-year-old, 124.

"This makes the oldest girl seem almost dull in comparison, yet she received a top scholarship on graduation from high school.

"Is an intelligence test an accurate measure of one's intelligence? The oldest girl has a lot of common sense (which the second girl lacks). Can this make up in part for a lack of brilliance?

"The oldest girl is now a student nurse and continues to do good work. Her grades are almost all in the 80's. — Mrs. H. D."

Intelligence (whatever "intelligence" really means) is a fine thing to have. So is beauty or athletic ability or "common sense" — and I defy you to give me a definition of the term. So is the ability to carry a tune, or self-assurance (within limits), or scholastic ability, or lots of other things that we all want to be have, and can't define.

Now where I come from, school officials and psychologists are pretty wary of letting parents know the I.Q. score of their children. They have found, think they are right in this, for several reasons.

Some parents put too much store in an I.Q. Some give it too little. Some parents think a child gets a low score because he has a cold in the head and can't concentrate. Or they have scolded him ("Book" — that's a dumb old word that's gone out of fashion) is unobtrusively pestering him during the test. I.Q. tests are based on words, and how well a child understands them. If you have a brilliant African or German or Polynesian child, who didn't speak English very well, and gave him an I.Q. test, he would flop.

There are also various types of tests. Not all will agree in the results. But all will be of considerable use, and a bright child will do well in them all. Even readers in the Bronx will admit readily that the Yankees don't win them all, and a 60 per cent record of winning will win the pennant from a team that wins only 59 per cent!

Sometimes a child of modest "intelligence" possesses a wealth of friendliness and helpfulness and perhaps does more to grease the wheels of civilization than a clever child who is selfish or mean.

If I had my way, I'd never tell a parent an I.Q. except (and in generalities. I'd say exceptional cases) that a child is very bright and should be encouraged to follow skilled professions. And sometimes I'd say, unhappily as it would make us, that a child is mentally retarded and should be handled, and trained accordingly.

I repeat that, I would say little about a "score." We have no way of measuring "intelligence" absolutely. We can only gain a fair approximation. And the other human virtues are the ones we can sometimes do something about — or at least encourage.

I wonder if Attila the Hun may not have had a high I.Q. and perhaps Johnny Appleseed was low. But who was "best"?

Your 5-year-old. Your column on diaphragmatic hernia interested me, as I had such a condition diagnosed and such pain that even though I was afraid of it, I chose to have an operation. It was a perfect success — and I have had a pain since! Your column is interesting and your point of view and advice helpful.

With best wishes, M.A.D."

Thank you. Many such cases are being dealt with successfully treatment rather than surgery; more require surgery. I consider it of great importance to let people know that there isn't any special age at which one is "too old" for an operation, if it is needed.

Suffering citizens should welcome the announcement that an automobile manufacturer will install a "smog purifier" to sharply reduce poisonous auto fumes. The device will be to produce it in quantity and for legislative bodies to make it an obligatory to promote healthier urban living.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PLANTED SEEDS

Every day of our lives we plant seeds — just as a gardener does, and what we are planting we dream of the time when those seeds will spring into flower, into stars that shine during the daytime in the heart, and into new growth and beauty and eternality of Nature.

Planted seeds in the mind are the seeds of kindness and sympathy, as well as understanding. Such planting is always always productive. She blows her messages to the four winds of the compass. Seeds are little things, but mighty in the end. Consider Saint-Exupery, in one of his poetic statements, wrote of "the corner of little things that sustain us and constitute our compensation."

World's best seeds are self-planted in our own minds and then inspire the act in the minds of others. A single kind word has often become worldwide in its influence. Nature knows all the plants it, and then we are invited into its secret chamber where it was born.

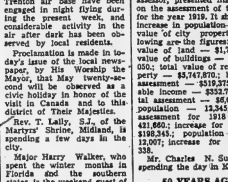
I look out from my library window and watch eagerly for the first appearance of the green under the parade of Springtime. Little by little it is small, and then we behold a miracle! Seeds, planted in fertile soil, created the wonderful glory of cherry blossoms recently in bloom in many parts of the country. To contend one that was so beautiful it seemed to me to be unearthly.

Now I have itself to life wherever it nests upon the earth, and then we look upon such specimen we are inspired with new courage and new useful resolves. Beauty is forever spreading itself.



Reject Holiday

It was with some astonishment that educational authorities in Sweden learned that 12 per cent of primary and high school children in that country voted to continue attending school on Saturdays instead of having a holiday. These Swedish school surely must be in a class by themselves.

THE CAUSE OF THE STRUGGLE

By EDGAR A. GUEST

When I've enough to eat and wear
Why should I strive for more?
I bid you note my neighbor there
Just passing by my door.
He laughed at me as he flew by
And I'll not rest until
I own a car as fast as his,
And some day soon, I will.

My car is now as fast as his,
But I've not satisfied.
His fortune's tripled, so they say,
While mine's not multiplied.
I'll treble mine before I quit,
Although the pace may kill;
I want as much or more than he,
And get it soon, I will.

And that's the source of discontent.
The thought that makes us sore;
We can't enjoy the things we have
If neighbors but have more.
Though health may fade and strength depart
And we grow short of breath,
To be as rich as some one else
We struggle on till death.

THE LITTLE TUGS

Have you sat before your television screen and watched the big liner, the United States, come into dock?

It takes a lot of little tugs to get the big ship there and get her out again.

The ship is certainly one of the most beautiful creations ever drawn up by naval architects. But I was also impressed by the little tugs.

The big liner would be useless — it would be helpless and unable to take on or discharge cargo and passengers — until the little tugs brought her into dock and took her out again into the broad harbor.

There little tugs remind me of the people you and I play in life. There is nothing particularly stately or outstanding in our ordinary days. We work for a living and go along doing the work for which we are best equipped. Some sees or great institutions — but we are only little tugs. But where would the liner be without the little tugs, and where would the world be without its myriads of insignificant persons?

I wonder if it thrills you as it does me, that even the big liner needs the little tugs?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

One of the troubles with the drama on movies and in TV is that the casting department always gives the plot away, right at the start, by indicating the villain unmistakably. You can't miss him.

In westerns, this is almost ridiculously true. To make sure you spot the villain even if you are half-settled, they not merely choose a man with a cold, hard, cruel face, but they give him a thin mustache like an eyebrow, and dress him in a black frock coat and a most dishonest looking hat, utterly unlike the good old shaggy sidekick and the cowboys in beat-up ten gallon hats.

As for the non-westerns, the villains are chosen for their evil faces and their arrogant manners. Nobody but old Alfred Hitchcock has the courage ever to make his villains look like honest men, and he has to rely on his main aspiration of all true villains.

In the drama of real life, those who look like villains turn out to be chairmen of the school board, peoples' wardens, fathers of large devoted families, collectors of antique books, or eminent surgeons.

And the villains are the kindliest-looking, most mannerly, and gracious rascals who ever collected slip or cut a throat.

Four Members Calvary Temple To Graduate

Four members of Calvary Temple will receive graduation diplomas at the commencement exercises at the Eastern Pentecostal Bible College, to be held at Massey Hall, Toronto, on Friday evening of this week. Those completing the three-year theological course are H. Raymond Jack, Fred Futers, Robert Donnan and Beverley Redger.

Altogether there were ten young members of Calvary Temple attending the resident Bible College in Peterborough this year. First year students included Darlene Elliott, Ronald Phillips, Gerald Wagar, Boyne Wannamaker and Mervyn Saunders, while Wayne Parks has completed his second year.

One of the student speakers at the baccalaureate service held in Peterborough last Friday evening was Robert Donnan, son of Mr. and Mrs. Melville Donnan of Stirling.

Speaking on the subject "The Work of Faith," he declared, "Only because of what Christ did on the cross of Calvary nearly two thousand years ago are we brought into a right relationship with God, and this we appropriate by faith. By faith we may receive the Holy Spirit as it fell upon the disciples on the day of Pentecost. Likewise by faith we may receive healing as did the lame man at the beautiful gate of the temple. This present life, despite apparent failures, disappointments and sorrow, can be a life of hope through faith. And blessed hope of all hopes is our faith in Jesus' promise to return for His church."

For the past year Mr. Donnan has been pastoring a growing assembly in his home village of Stirling, where he is loved as a gifted and forthright preacher of the Gospel.

J.E. McArthur of This City Heads Canadian 4-H Council

TORONTO — J. E. McArthur of Belleville, has been elected president of the Canadian Council of 4-H Clubs at the 28th annual conference of that organization, concluding its three-day session here today. New development in 4-H Club work provoked a lively discussion among agricultural extension leaders, who gathered here on Monday and continued their deliberations Tuesday and Wednesday.

Besides Mr. McArthur, other officers for the Council for the coming year will be: vice-president, J. Ernest Dube, Quebec; past president, C. A. Douglas, Truro, N.S.; members of the executive committee: G. L. Landon, Victoria, B.C.; Gordon Nixon, St. Catharines, Ont.; E. F. Pineau, Ottawa; chairmen of committees: National 4-H Club Week, J. LaRacine, Brampton, Ont.; finance and membership, Gordon Fox, Calgary; home economics, Miss Jean Munro, Truro, N.S.; agriculture, C. L. Usher, Edmonton, Alta.

The leaders' reports on new methods adopted by the various provinces to provide a broader basis of training for club leaders, left little doubt that all were agreed on the final objectives of this training but that methods used to reach these objectives have been varied to meet the varying conditions that prevail in different provinces and different areas within the one province.

More than half the provinces have started to develop junior club leaders from senior members of their clubs, thus building the interest of these members in club work and freeing senior club leaders for more advanced club programs. Ontario and one or two other provinces are able to give this type of leadership training through their junior farmer associations, whose membership is increasingly drawn from those who have reached the age limit for 4-H club members.

Most of the provinces now provide leadership training for club members through summer camps of various kinds. Such camps were organized in Saskatchewan as early as 1915 and are now held at the Regina and Saskatoon fairs and at eight of the Club Bus in the province. Through these camps Saskatchewan has given club training to nearly 28,000 farm boys and 15,500 farm girls.

Multiple-project 4-H clubs are now being tried in several provinces in contrast to the usual clubs in which all members carry on the same project. This permits club work to be extended into areas where not enough farm boys or girls are engaged in one type of project to make a club possible. It also enables club members to carry on different projects in different years without changing their club membership.

Newfoundland now has 31 multiple-project clubs, mostly in areas where single project clubs would not have been possible. Dave Peacock reported that in 1957 Prince Edward Island had a small number of Garden Clubs in the province. Some of them were in areas such as small villages where this was about the only agricultural project that could be carried. But some members of these clubs lived on farms and were interested in other projects, such as grain and potatoes. Rather than make two clubs both meeting in the same village, it was decided to try a system of multiple project clubs. With the growth of small holdings in suburban areas this situation could become increasingly common around major industrial centres.

Youth, Girl In Hospital After Mishap

Two Belleville district young people are in Belleville General Hospital as result of a car going out of control early this morning on No. 14 highway south of Foxboro.

The car tipped a small elm tree at the side of the road and then rolled on its side in the driveway at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Warwick.

In hospital are George McFarland, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stan McFarland, R.R. 1 Belleville (Rossmore), and Rose Marie McCauley, 17, of R.R. 3, Trenton. McFarland suffered head and facial injuries, while Miss McCauley had head abrasions and a cut on her wrist. She also suffered shock.

The McFarland car was said to have been northbound across the flats north of Ross Corners when the vehicle left the highway and glanced off the small tree. As the car rolled on its side McFarland was thrown partially out of the vehicle and his head and neck were pinned under the door frame.

The injured were taken to hospital by Bush's Ambulance. Belleville provincial police investigated.

W.M.S. Council To Meet Here

Many readers of this paper already know that from May 11th to 14th the Women's Missionary Society (Western Division) of the Presbyterian Church in Canada will hold its annual council meeting in St. Andrew's Church, Belleville. This is an important meeting. Delegates and visitors from coast to coast will be here to hear reports and to make plans. The president, Mrs. A. Glena Thompson, will preside at all sessions.

It will particularly interest some readers to believe that Miss Frieda Matthews, who was born in Stirling, is now national director, supervising the work of the members of staff of the W.M.S. from Quebec to British Columbia. She is familiar with the many and varied sides of the work, and will be helpful and interesting in discussions during the meeting.

SPEAKERS

Among the speakers will be the Right Rev. J. D. McNab, Moderator of the General Assembly, Mr. Gerald B. Hughes, mayor of Belleville, Miss Chapman of the home economics services of the Ontario Government Department of Agriculture, and Principal Wood of Knox College.

Overseas missionaries, home on furlough, Miss Taylor and Miss Douglas from Formosa, Miss Magee and Miss Ayre from India, and Miss Anderson from British Guiana, will be able to present their experiences vividly, and six W.M.S. workers in Canada will report, sent down-town missions in large cities and work among Chinese. Six regional organizing secretaries will be here, from four provinces, and special emphasis will be laid on work among children. Throughout the meetings the meaning of the word 'ministry' will be considered in relation to the total mission of the church today at home and overseas.

Services will be led by Rev. D. D. MacLean, minister of St. Andrew's Church, Belleville; Rev. Deane Johnston, chairman of the Central Board of Missions, and the Rev. D. C. McLelland, Moderator of the Presbytery of Kingston.

This - - - and That

By HARRIET STEVENS

Remember the Chipmunk Song? Now we are at last sure we know why anyone would write a song like this. The writer was a chipmunk watcher. He simply must have been. It was those who did not appreciate why the writer must enjoy the antics of those little four-footed creatures. Take time out to watch them at play; or to scold them for their mischievous disobedience.

Since the sun has come up and out, high enough and bright enough to make pleasant to think about outside, we have been watching a couple of chipmunks romping and playing with other around and around. We think the couple of chipmunks there may be a couple of dozen in the clan, but they evidently all live under the same roof at that. They all look alike, so we will take it that we have been watching just two chipmunks. And more impudent and gay couple of fellows it would be hard to picture. We were almost lost for admiration as they chased after each other, seeming to sail about two inches off the ground chattering to each other, then darting up the trunk of a tree and along a branch.

We say "almost" to qualify our admiration because our two entertainers are little rascals in disguise. Prejudice and disgust die hard. As they pose pretty carelously but so expertly in gymnastic perfection, they seem to make boldly impudent motions as though they were thumbing at our helplessness. Squirrel-like, they paw their noses at us with tail curled daintily over their backs and chatter and scold us back. If we weren't so cute we might forget the holes in the lawn, the vegetables in the garden or the fruit on the vines and trees. We are reminded that off-stage our chipmunk friend's cast are destructive villains. Then we remember the song and are tempted to holler "Al-VIN" too.

We learned the other night that it is not only women and girls who like fashion shows. It was at the Trenton Collegiate on Saturday night when displays of five, eleven of the Professional and Business Women's Clubs of Ontario held their regional conference dinner. Girls from the Home Economics classe did the serving, ably assisted by three boys from the school who carried trays. They were we judge, in their mid-teens, the girls quiet and efficient and the boys a little more casual, shall we say.

After dinner a very fine fashion show was put on, beginning while the last of the dishes were being taken out. And we do you think returned, standing just inside the door to look things over? Not the girls! They were out beyond washing the dishes. But there were three boys with bright interested faces exchanging smiles over the gay, bright hats and joining in the applause along with one hundred and thirty-five women. One of the lads was wearing an apron when he returned, Noticing it, he calmly took it off and folded it up. Such aplomb!

Would three girls have returned to an all-male banquet to witness an equivalent entertainment?

Well, we hesitate to pass judgment. Maybe they would. Youth after all is probably the most inquiring period of a lifetime. At least we are sure if discrepancies mean anything, the three boys were thoroughly absorbed.

A flat tire can disrupt the best laid plans and schedules, and Ted T's typewriter has had a flat-tire. Ted has just dragged off and the machine might finish the course or column, but out of deference to the typetter, we apologize and think we had better call for the usual wylder doctor. If he reaches this far, he will be here and we are sorry for the shortened column today.

Noted Ballet Teacher Will Visit City

At its next meeting, to be held at the Kiwanis Centre on Thursday evening, the Belleville branch of the National Ballet Guild of Canada will hear a talk on "Ballroom Training" by Miss Lucille McClure, noted Toronto teacher of ballet, and vice-president of the Canadian Dance Teachers' Association. Her talk will be illustrated by Miss Bronwyn Precious, one of her most promising pupils.

Miss McClure who is a fifth generation Canadian on both sides of her family, is an advanced member of the Royal Academy of Dancing, and is on the faculty of the National Ballet Guild summer school. Considerable breadth of her interests in dancing education is known by the fact that she conducted the first nationwide examinations of tap-dancing students.

The meeting is open to everyone who is interested in the training of a ballet dancer, or in the art of dancing itself.

WEDDINGS

COOKE — WOODS

Mauve, white and yellow chrysanthemums, interspersed with ferns, formed a lovely setting in Thurlowvale United Church, Belleville, on Saturday, April 11, at 12.30 noon, when the Reverend H. H. Hillis of Belleville united in marriage Susan Gwenllyn Woods of Belleville, daughter of Mrs. Alfred B. Woods, of Belleville and the late Mr. Woods, to George William Cooke of Burwash, Ontario, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Cooke, of Stirling.

Mus. L. Miller, church organist, presided at the console of the organ, and accompanied the soloist, Mrs. E. J. Webber, who sang before the ceremony, "Because," and during the signing of the register, "O Promise Me."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her brother, Mr. Gordon B. Wood, was charming in an ankle length gown of lily etched Venetian lace, featuring a fitted bodice with portrait neckline and long, tapering sleeves. The full, beautifully scalloped skirt was worn over a mermede length. She wore a matching headdress and shoulder length veil carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Miss Marilyn Hodgen, Belleville, was maid of honor, and Miss Sheila Cook, of Stirling, sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. Both were gowns of similar design in colliion length, the former in mauve point de sprit, with matching accessories, and a taffeta headdress and gloves, and the latter in yellow and matching cummerbund in taffeta, and headdress and gloves. Both carried colonial bouquets of flowers surrounded by yellow, white and mauve mums.

Mr. Gerald Cooke, of Toronto, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and the best man, Said Henry of Marmora and Mr. Warren Woods, of Belleville, nephew of the bride, ushered the guests.

The reception was held in the church parlor where the bride's table was prettily decorated with white gumask, and centred by an all-white, three-tier wedding cake, two lace, new accessories and corsage of blue - tinted roses, assisted by Mrs. Cooke, groom's mother, who wore a gown of beige and brown printed silk, with brown accessories and corsage of bronze mums.

For the wedding trip, the bride chose a turquoise sheath dress with black and white accessories, and corsage of pink roses. Mr. and Mrs. Cooke are residing in Sudbury at 218 Spruce Street.

Guests were from Toronto, Stirling, Ottawa, Marmora, Madoc, Kingston and Belleville.

Previous to her marriage the bride was entertained to a kitchen shower at the home of Mrs. Ray Coulter; also at a miscellaneous shower by the Bell Telephone employees and following the marriage at a showering shower by the Bell Telephone community when the young couple were presented with a lovely mirror and bostess chair.

DAVIDSON — NORMAN

Pastel-toned gladioli interspersed with ferns formed an attractive background in St. Oswald's Anglican Church, Bloomfield, Ontario, on Saturday, May 2nd, at 2.00 p.m., for a very pretty wedding when Margaret Annette Norman, of Millbridge, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Norman, became the bride of Claude Ronald Davidson, also of Millbridge, son of Mrs. Garnet Davidson, and the late Mr. Garnet Davidson. Rev. Rev. William Gierveld, officiated.

Mrs. M. Simpson was soloist and sang "I Love You Truly," accompanied by Mrs. Donly at the organ.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of white Chantilly lace and net over taffeta, trimmed with mother-of-pearl, and fashioned with fitted bodice and full skirt. She wore a juliet cap accented with mother-of-pearl, with finger-tip veil, and carried an arm-bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Grace Andrews attended the bride, wearing nile green Swiss embroidery, with matching veil and gloves, and carrying a nosegay of spring flowers.

Mr. Ronald Davidson of Millbridge, attended the bridegroom, while Mr. Ken Norman, of Napanee, and Mr. Douglas Bateman, of Belleville, ushered the guests.

The reception was held at the bride's home, which was prettily adorned with pink and white streamers and white wedding bells for the occasion.

The bride's table, daintily prettied with white damask, was centred by the traditional wedding cake, and accented by yellow and light-blue-valley.

The bride's mother received in a gown of rose-beige chiffon lene with white accessories, and corsage of white carnations with fern. The bridegroom's mother assisted, wearing printed mauve silk with white accessories, and corsage of white carnations and fern.

For the wedding trip the bride wore a blue suit with beige accessories and corsage of roses. Upon their return, the couple will reside in Belleville.

Guests attended from Queensborough; Tweed; Tamworth; Harford; Brighton; Brampion; Fort Erie; Richvale; Toronto; Peterborough; Belleville; Marmora; Napanee; Madoc; Oakridge, and Stirling.

The bride was entertained, previous to her marriage, by a miscellaneous shower, and a presentation by the employees of the Bell Telephone Company, at which the bride is employed.

St. George's Guild Sponsors Most Successful Violet Tea

Yesterday's warm sunshine and blue skies drew many patrons to the attractive "Violet Tea," held in St. George's Chapel, Station Street, under the auspices of St. George's Guild.

Clustered of mauve and violet decorated the prettily tea table with its centre of mauve and shaded purple violets, flanked on either side and yellow candles in crystal holders, while the little serviettes with the yellow edged borders and the gleaming silver services added to the attractive scene.

Mrs. Percy Welch welcomed the guests and Mrs. W. Beare and Mrs. Ferguson were in receipt of the tickets.

Presiding at the mauve and silver services were: Mrs. A. Bilgard and Mrs. H. Pitt; Mrs J. B. Creegan and Mrs. E. P. Smith, while making tea was Mrs G. Button, assisted by Mrs. S. Brown, Mrs. G. Jenkinson, Mrs. G. Beare and Miss Towner.

Replenishing the plates of dainty biscuits and sandwiches, were Mrs. Mackie, Mrs. W. McLeod, Mrs. W. Parry and Mrs. Hamilton, whose gracious attention kept the plates at the violet-centred guest table well furnished with the mouth-watering tid-bits.

The candy table had cellophane bags of delicious chocolate fudge; maple creams; maple sugar and candy containers for the children of a mixture of the different colors as well as green cups of the same. In charge of this 'sweet' spot, were Mrs. R. Sharp, Mrs. H. Armstrong, and Miss A. Docter.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

THE SOCIALLY-AWKWARD INVITATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Three couples were dining together at a restaurant. Not very far from their table where sat a couple whom the three couples knew, but whom none of them liked. When our party of three couples came in, this one couple came over to greet us. In the course of the one-sided conversation, one of the men in our party asked them if they would care to join us. They declined the suggestion (as we hoped they would), but we were in complete discord as to whether or not he was right in extending this invitation without the approval of all concerned.

In view of the fact that none of us cared for their company, was it not a social error on his part to assume this initiative? He is his action was not wrong. I contend he had no right whatever to assume that initiative. Will you please settle this dispute for us? — Reader

I agree entirely with you. The man at your table who took it upon himself to invite this couple to join your group was, I should certainly say, entirely out of order. And he had no right to extend this uncalled-for invitation to them, even if he were the host of your group, since apparently he knew how you three couples felt about the other couple. He should have respected the fact that you three couples had come to dine together happily and comfortably, and that there was no point in injecting any element that would not contribute to harmony. He and the others in your group were mighty fortunate that the invited couple had the good judgment not to accept this socially-awkward invitation!

WHAT HOUR DETERMINES "TEENAGER OR EVENING WEDDING?

Mrs. Beeckman:

Exactly what is the hour that determines whether the wedding is to be considered an afternoon wedding or an evening wedding? This particular wedding that is a 5:30 P.M. wedding or an afternoon wedding or an evening wedding? — Jim

Six o'clock is the hour that determines whether the wedding is to be considered an afternoon or an evening wedding. A wedding at 5:30 o'clock is an afternoon wedding: a wedding at 6 o'clock is an evening wedding.

It is extremely important that the perspective bride and groom keep this "turning point" hour (6 o'clock) very definitely in mind, because, correctly, wedding attendants and wedding guests should dress for the hour of the ceremony . . . not for the hour of the post-ceremony festivity, for example the reception or reception-and-dinner or reception-and-supper.

It it is to be one coat for the season, then a good leather coat is one way of saving this wardrobe problem. This one is in beige cabretta leather and goes in for an optional slip-thru, tie-front belt. The casually rolled collar is stitched at the edges and the pockets are also stitched. The sleeves are raglan cut and of graceful bracelet length. Here's a coat that goes neatly and smartly over almost every thing.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a women's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Dianne B. — I want to be a drum majorette!

Mrs. K. R. — Her father is right about the costumes.

Dianne R. — I am 15 and a junior in high school. I've got only one big problem. I want to be a drum majorette and my parents don't want me to be.

It is a big honor to be chosen to train for this at my school. Only 25 girls are picked and then you may be eliminated in the end. You are chosen on the basis of appearance, personality and popularity. You have to have at least average grades too.

I think that my mother would let me do it, because she knows how important it is to me, but my father is dead set against it. His ideas are really out of the Victorian age. He gives me that stuff about "no daughter of mine will display herself half naked before a cheering stadium." In the first place, we aren't half naked. In the second, people are not cheering us but the team. In the third place, my dad just doesn't understand anything.

Mrs. K. R. — I am really caught in the middle on this thing. I can't help but sympathize with Dianne. It certainly means a lot to a young girl to be picked out for this special honor. Besides, Dianne is full of fun and high spirits and loves to participate in things. This is such a fine chance.

On the other hand, I think my husband is right about objecting to the costumes the girls wear and the way they cavort. They are not as bad as the ones I've seen from some schools, but these costumes are brief enough. Several mothers have told me they wouldn't permit their daughters to do it. Dianne says those mothers are jealous that their daughters weren't chosen. It could be, but the whole thing bothers me just the same.

We have offered Dianne a wonderful vacation trip this summer if she will only give up this idea of being a drum majorette — but she won't.

The Council: When the generals are uncertain and find they have to bribe the men to move in the right direction, they may as well give up the war.

The "right direction" on the issue of drum majorettes or any other activity problem of teenagers is an individual matter. Standards vary in different families and communities. Sometimes special exceptions to rules are made for the sake of a particular activity for the child. But it never hurts a child to be deprived of an activity he wants — if he understands that some special principle is involved.

The important thing is for the parents to agree on policy and then follow through firmly. No child should get a full hearing before a decision is made. The parents should take time to think through the decision. Once it's made, it should stick.

Dianne apparently knows through experience that nagging will help her cause. She has already been offered a bribe and has shown that she can divide and probably conquer her parents. Naturally, she hasn't too much respect for her parents' standards.

We get the impression that Mr. K. R. feels helpless against the strong odds of the prevailing standards. He blusters emotionally into a position without giving Dianne a fair hearing or the total problem much thought. Then Mrs. K. R. thinks it over and talks him out of it. No objective standard has been set and the only thing Dianne has learned is that you can do as you please if you are persistent and make enough noise.

Melrose W.I. Appoints New Officers

Mrs. M. Lazier was hostess for the annual meeting of Melrose W.I. with a record attendance, Mrs. Weese, president called the meeting to order and welcomed all and thanked the hostess for opening her home.

A business period followed during which invitations were read and accepted from Quinte and Examiner Institutes to attend their "Blossom Teas". Home Economic booklets were distributed to each member to choose a course and report same at the May meeting. Mrs. K. McMechan will represent the institute at the Officers' conference at Guelph this week. A donation was given to the Girls' Homemaking Club who are taking "Clothes-closets-up-to-Date" with seven girls participating. Delegates were appointed to attend the district rally at Empey Hill Church on May 20th and the next meeting to meet May 12th at the home of Mrs. F. Bush to plan the program for next year.

The secretary's financial report showed a substantial balance and the president reported many outstanding projects during her term of office and thanked all who had helped so willingly. The reports of all standing committees were given and showed excellent work accomplished by all conveners.

Mrs. E. Lazier read the report of the nominating committee and Mrs. R. Badgley conducted the election of officers which were as follows: — past president — Mrs. C. Weese; president — Mrs. K. McMechan; 1st vice-president — Mrs. M. Lazier; 2nd vice-president — Mrs. A. English; sec.-treas. — Mrs. E. Falcoe; district director — Mrs. Clare Weese; alternate D.D. — Mrs. A. English; press reporter — Mrs. R. Badgley; pianist — Mrs. L. Weese; auditors — Mrs. E. Badgley, Mrs. V. Pascoe; standing committee conveners — agriculture and Can. Industries —Mrs. Frank Bush; citizenship and education — Mrs. Gerald Stratton; home economics and health — Mrs. Roy McLaren; historical, research and current events — Mrs. J. Stratton, Mrs. L. McLaren, Mrs. R. MacFarlane and Mrs. E. Lazier.

Mrs. F. Robinson rendered two piano selections which were enjoyed by all after which a refreshment period under the direction of Mrs. E. Lazier and Mrs. J. McFarlane was conducted. Slants picked from a hat and performed by the members created much fun and merriment. Some of the most amusing were — sewing a button on while wearing oven-mitts, peeling an apple with paring-knife held in pliers; balancing a cup and saucer on a rolling pin; holding two oranges and two walnuts on a set of measuring spoons.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

Mother's Helper

WHEN YOUR child is ready for grandma from three wheels to two, make sure that new bike is the right size. He may think he wants the biggest one made—but unless he's exceptionally long-legged and well co-ordinated, he won't be able to handle it. Acute unhappiness may result, from poor frustration.

G.B. Crusade Holds Panel Discussion

Greater Belleville Crusade for Christ has concluded the half mark of its rallies with only four more nights for this great Crusade. The past four nights have been times of blessing for many both young and old as Mr. Joyce Lyall, speaker, states "this Crusade is not just for the youth but all ages." Some of his topics are especially attracted by the youth but his messages are geared equally to the adults as well as to the youth.

In a panel on Monday night Mr. Moore questioned four individuals on the topic "Are Parents Too Strict". This panel consisted of a father of a teenage girl, two teenagers, a boy and a girl, and a mother of children not teenagers. Mr. Moore asked several questions such as: Should children talk back to parents', How would you punish your child for disobeying you? Should teenagers receive corporal punishment? and other questions in this regard.

Tonight Mr. Moore will be having another panel on "Dating" with four teenagers. Some of the questions he will ask will be: Should your parents know where you go on a date? How should you dress on a date? and other questions pertaining to dating from God because he knows every heart.

Last night Mr. Moore spoke about "The Woman With The Rubber Neck" relating to Bible times and Lot's wife and the sin of Sodom and how these days are similar and how so few people realize that sin now is as it was then.

Other added features of the rallies are Mr. Clarence Shelshely at the organ as well as outstanding music by choir director Wes Austen, who is known as an outstanding pianist extraordinary.

Women's Activities

BEULAH W.M.S.

The Beulah Women's Missionary Society held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. George Wood on Tuesday night with an attendance of 13 members and one visitor.

A committee was appointed to look after the lunch.

The devotional period was conducted by Mrs. Thomas Lawson, assisted by Mrs. Don McFadden. Scripture lesson was found in Philippians 2. For the meditation Mrs. Lawson gave a splendid thought on the book of Philippians. Her interesting and enlightening talk on Paul's mission was much appreciated.

A meditation on the Lord's Prayer was given by Mrs. McFadden. Several readings were also given. "The Precious Gospel Story" and "Housecleaning Our Hearts," by Helen Smith was read by Mrs. M. MacMillan; Mrs. Keith Bray sang a solo, "Loveliness of Christ," Mrs. Jessie Cooney read "Life's Careless Way" and Mrs. Jack Wickens "Let Your Light Shine."

Wig Business Gets So Real Pain to Beauty Salons

By DOROTHY ROE

NEW YORK (AP)—It appears that the era of the wig is as firmly upon us again as it was in the days of Madama du Barry and the first Queen Elizabeth.

In those days, it's said, some of the greatest beauties were artificially bald, but nobody ever knew about it but the maids who took care of their wigs.

Nowadays when you hear a girl say, "I must send out my wig to be laundered," it probably isn't a joke. She may be dead serious.

The extent of the wig craze didn't dawn on me until recently, when I was sitting under a drier in a New York beauty salon, getting my very own hair dried and listening to the gossip going on about me. A beauty salon, as any woman knows, is the world's best place to catch up on the latest news.

In dashed a breathless young woman with a small box under her arm. She approached my hairdresser and said:

"Oh, Mr. Ralph, can you shampoo and set my wig and have it ready for me by 4 o'clock? I've got to go to a cocktail party."

PROBLEM TO HAIRDRESSERS

She left the box and departed, while Mr. Ralph fumed:

"This is getting to be a real pain, this wig business. Women rush in and leave their hairpieces to be washed and styled while they go shopping. Then they come back and pick them up. But the girl on the appointment desk books us up solid with real live customers, and we are expected to get to the wigs in between times.

"Actually it takes longer to shampoo and set a wig than it does to do a live head of hair. It's a problem, that's what it is. And it's getting worse all the time."

He hardly had finished when another woman rushed in, this time with a partial hairpiece—the kind that is pinned in to blend with the natural hair and make it appear thicker. She had the same problem—had to go to a party, didn't have time to get her own hair done, wanted the hairpiece washed and curled so it could disguise her own straggly locks.

Across the room another operator was bleaching streaks in a wig which stood on a stand, dashing back to do another streak in between sessions with a human customer.

"Women have found it's less trouble to leave a wig and get it washed and curled than it is to spend an afternoon in a beauty salon themselves," sighed Ralph. "Where it's all going to end, nobody knows."

Pert and Pretty

By TRACY ADRIAN

From France comes a little girl's dress that should win honors in any spring fashion parade.

The frock is of ultra-crisp sheer silk and cotton blend in a tone-on-tone plaid. It featured a Peter Pan collar and short sleeves, both edged in lace, and a flower printed ribbon sash that ends in a bow.

Fancy and Frugal

by Mary Moore

On a casual call on an editor I innocently enquired if he had any complaints about my copy.

"Yes I have!" quoth he to my surprise. "Some of our readers say one day you write about the most economical of food and the next day you might be telling about something quite extravagant!"

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

WEDNESDAY

Appetizers of Cheese-Stuffed Celery and Carrot Curls; Casserole of Pork Chops baked on Rice; Creamed Onions; Quick Bread Sticks (see Monday); Individual Citrus Dessert Salads: Grape Clusters, Orange, Grapefruit and Apple Crescents with Fruit Cream Dressing: Candied Fruits; Coffee.

I've pondered this verdict for a couple of weeks and decided he's exactly right. So I do, and what's more, today I'm going to do both things in one column.

I mentioned to you a week or so ago that Betty Mallory was here and that we had a party at which I served a jellied avocado ring. It had to be tried again and Lillian has done this for me and I am now ready to pass it on to you in slightly less extravagant form than I made it originally.

AVOCADO RING:

Soften one envelope unflavored gelatine in 1-4 cup cold water. Dissolve by stirring over hot water. Combine 1 cup mashed avocado (see note below), 1-2 cup mayonnaise, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-8 teaspoon salt. Mix well, add 3-4 cup milk. Stir in dissolved gelatine. Fold in 1-2 cup whipping cream whipped. Pour mixture into individual ring moulds or one large ring mould. Chill until firm.

NOTES:

1) If avocado is not soft and ripe enough to mash with a fork, it may be put through fine knife of food grinder. 2) I doubled this quantity to serve 12 people and moulded the avocado mixture in a large ring mould. I filled the centre with lobster salad using canned lobster and bordered it with a garnish of lobster claws carefully lifted from the can. I used 3 tins of lobster, 1 1-2 cups chopped celery and 1-2 cup lemon-y mayonnaise.

My economical offering is

QUICK 2-EGG CAKE:

Two and one-half cups sifted all-purpose flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 1-2 cups sugar, 1-2 cup shortening (room temperature), 1 cup milk, 1 teaspoon vanilla, 2 eggs, unbeaten. Sift together 3 times the flour, baking powder, salt and sugar into large mixing bowl. Add soft shortening and 3-4 cup of the milk and the vanilla and beat 2 minutes in electric beater or 300 strokes if by hand until batter is smooth. Add unbeaten eggs and remaining milk and beat 1 minute or 100 strokes. Pour into one 8 x 8 x 2" square pan buttered and lined on bottom with wax paper or two 9" layer tins. Bake at 375 deg. Fahr. — about 30 minutes for square or loaf pan and 20-25 minutes for layers.

GOES TO DOGS

PLYMOUTH, England (CP)—The municipal council here has stopped a 100-a-year grant to a home for unmarried mothers. The money now is going to a home for dogs.

Wed Women Cost too Much Says Company

TOKYO (Reuters)—When one of Japan's biggest power companies threatened to dismiss its 700 married women employees, career - minded housewives in Japan took it as an indirect threat to all of them.

The Tokyo Power Company claimed that maternity benefits for married women cost too much. It also demanded that 1,500 other women employees of the company should submit their resignations with six months' advance notice if they intend to marry.

A newly established commercial television station in Tokyo has decided that women employees must leave when they reach the age of 25, except for announcers, producers and technicians.

Before the war most Japanese housewives stayed at home to look after their husbands and children. Now more wives, are combining marriage with a career.

PART-TIME WORK WANTED

According to the labor ministry, 17.4 per cent of women employees in Japan in 1957 were married, compared with 16.3 per cent in 1956, and 15 per cent in 1953. The ministry estimates that at present about 30 per cent of women employees are married.

The majority of housewives who apply for jobs are seeking part-time work, looking for extra money to supplement family income. They want jobs which they can combine easily with their domestic chores.

While the desire to raise the family's living standard is one of the main motives of housewives in business, there are social and psychological factors involved too, according to the ministry of labor.

A university graduate, whose husband earns a good living, put it this way: "There is no denying I want to earn some pocket money. But it is something more than that. I feel so forlorn when I just stay at home washing dishes. I want to do something to display my ability. I do not think the home alone can offer a woman complete happiness."

West Berlin Symbol of Hope, To Nikita Bone in Throat

By SEYMOUR TOPPING

This is the first of a four-part series analyzing the Berlin crisis.

BERLIN (AP) — It was noon on a quiet day in West Berlin.

A shabbily - dressed woman walked down Tauntzien Strasse and looked into the window of a department store.

A radio announcer read the mid-day news.

A grey-haired man entered the Marienfelde refugee camp, just as some 300 persons do every day.

Common events. Hardly noticed.

But they contained the kind of cumulative explosive force that has resulted in Russia's Premier Khrushchev raising the spectre of a third world war over Berlin.

The woman come from Communist East Berlin. What she saw in the store window made her think how much better life could be in the West, and she went home to tell her neighbors.

The radio announcer was broadcasting western news and ideas to the 18,000,000 people of surrounding East Germany.

The grey-haired man was an engineer, one of hundreds of thousands of professionals, technicians and skilled workers who have fled into West Berlin from East Germany.

To the East Germans, West Berlin stands as a symbol of hope.

To Khrushchev: "Berlin is a bone in my throat."

By ending the Allied occupation and turning West Berlin into a so-called free city, Khrushchev hopes to neutralize the metropolis.

But this he cannot do as long as divided Berlin is governed by the post-war four-power accords. These assure free movement between West Berlin and East Berlin.

West Berlin, linked to West Germany by one railroad and one highway under Soviet control, and three air corridors, lies 110 miles inside East Germany.

To understand it's upsetting impact on the East Germans, take a tour of West Berlin. Then visit East Berlin.

Start on West Berlin's fashionable Kurfuerstendamm, the broad glittering boulevard lined with colorful sidewalk cafes and shop windows crammed with choice goods.

Driving past the magnificent new Hansaviertel residential district suddenly you come upon the Brandenburg Tor — gateway to East Berlin.

The contrast is staggering as your car crawls past the grey-uniformed people's police into the grab, bomb - shattered Communist capital.

There is little of the cheerful bustle of West Berlin. The grey, dirty walls of the buildings are decked with red banners bearing slogans: "Socialism triumphs."

The Reds promise that major reconstruction of East Berlin will begin next year.

The factories of East Berlin and West Berlin, however, do not reveal the most significant difference between the two cities.

The East German regime has put its short supplies of capital and structural steel into an impressive buildup of heavy industry, rather than into the reconstruction of its capital.

At the same time West Berlin has had the benefit of nearly $1,600,000,000 in American aid. It is also heavily subsidized by the West German government with grants, low - interest loans, and certain tax exemptions.

THE HELPING HAND — Little Gregory Allen of Ottawa, son of Sergeant Major John Allen, was lost in the German city of Soest. Worried parents were soon put at their ease when Lance Corporal Doug Bulwer of Penticton, B.C., a member of No. 1 Provost Company, received a call from the German police that young Gregory was safely in their hands. (National Defence Photo.)

High School Activities

The Belleville C.I. and V.S. Spring Fling Formal, the last dance of the school year, is rapidly approaching and it finds the Girls' Hi-Y and Reyettes Club and formal committee rushing around in a flurry of preparations for the great event on May 8th.

The Girls' Hi-Y and Reyettes have undertaken the transformation of the school cafeteria into a dimly lit rendezvous for couples to relax in and enjoy dainty appetizers and coffee.

The Reyettes have a two-fold job for on their shoulders is the responsibility of choosing the most beautiful girl at the dance and crowning her "Queen of May."

Spring will blossom forth in all her glory in the decorations of the Art Club and couples will once again dance to the fancy-filled melodies of Peter Baltman's Orchestra.

Invitations to each surrounding secondary school have been sent out by the Formal Committee inviting all to attend.

All is prepared and as the big night approaches, anticipation is high.

WHITBY (CP)—An Oshawa motorist who voluntarily took a saliva test for alleged intoxication was acquitted of drunk driving Tuesday. It was the first time such evidence had been given in court here.

Robert Bernard Bird, 37, was convicted of impaired driving. Magistrate F. Ebbs fined him $100 and costs or 10 days.

Dr. H. Ward Smith, director of the crime detection laboratory of the attorney-general department, said the first saliva test for intoxication in Ontario was done at Orillia about four years ago.

Mayor Phillips Refuses to Sign Tax Message

TORONTO (CP) — Mayor Phillips has refused to sign a circular message explaining a six-mill tax increase to be sent to every city taxpayer along with the year's tax bills.

Board of control decided to send the circular as part of its campaign to convince voters the tax increase is largely due to the city's education needs. The board received a draft of the message while Mayor Phillips was on an overseas tour.

Acting City Treasurer William Campbell suggested Mayor Phillips should sign the letter but when the mayor returned Tuesday he would not sign it because he did not approve it.

It was decided Mr. Campbell should sign the letter.

Stricken Norwegian Vessel's Call for Aid Was Not SOS Says Vancouver's Fire Chief

VANCOUVER (CP) — Fire Chief Hugh Bird of Vancouver says the stricken Norwegian freighter Ferngulf did not send the S O S international distress call when hit by an explosion that tore apart her midsection.

"What went out was a call for aid, not an S O S," he told city council Tuesday night. Chief Bird was making a special report to council into the explosion, which struck the vessel last Friday.

The Ferngulf's captain, William Archer, has criticized a delay in response to his calls for assistance.

The city council study followed charges that fire and fireboats were prevented by red tape and regulations from going to the aid of the ship.

Six of the freighter's crew suffered burns. Two are in critical condition. Magnus Larsen, 33, of Thorshoven in the Faroe Island died Tuesday.

Chief Bird said two firefighters from the Norwegian vessel and Chief Bird watched the scene through binoculars.

"If there had been an S O S, would these firefighters have ignored the Ferngulf?" he asked.

Council asked Mayor Aisbett to name a committee to study what should be done to meet emergency calls in the future.

Meanwhile, investigators said they had not yet found the cause of the explosion. Damage to the 7,500-ton freighter has been estimated at $250,000.

In the House of Commons Tuesday Harold Winch (CCF—Vancouver east) asked why an SOS had not been answered with immediate medical aid and fire-fighting equipment. Transport Minister Hees said the investigation was under way.

Indignation was expressed by Norwegian newspapers over the delay of help and medical aid.

Four Indicted On Attempt to Fix Puzzles

DETROIT (AP)—Four persons have been indicted by a federal grand jury on charges of fraud in connection with an international attempt to fix newspaper puzzle contests.

The four are Walter Hex Johnston III, 33, of Detroit, his wife Ann; George Dingman Jr., 34, of Port Stanley, Ont.; and Joseph Dyson, 30, of London, Ont.

They were charged Tuesday with violation of the federal mail fraud statutes and with conspiracy to defraud. Court sources said additional indictments could be expected from the grand jury which has been considering the case since March 30.

DUMMY ADDRESSES

The defendants were accused of ordering puzzles on behalf of a non - existant newspaper and giving the name of a non-existant bank as reference. The puzzles were ordered from Superior Features Syndicate and General Features Inc. of New York.

The indictment says these answers were then sent to individuals who had been persuaded to enter contests in cities where similar puzzles were being published.

Twelve persons were named in original warrants issued March 23. All but Dingman and Dyson were arrested. They still are at large in Canada. The additional charges have been free on $2,500 bond.

The maximum sentence for each of the two counts on the indictment is five years' imprisonment. The five defendants will be arraigned in federal district court here today.

CRIMES DESCRIBED

Others arrested were Lawrence Dyson of Philadelphia; Billy Joe Copeland, Cre; Richard Bird, Portland; Fitzgerald Bird, Portland; Ralph Bass, Chicago; Jim Theodore, Milwaukee; Meyer Bloom, Harrisburg, Pa.; and Harry Bass, Detroit.

Charges against Lawrence Dyson, Meyer Bloom, Theodore were dismissed at Philadelphia last week because of lack of jurisdiction. The government said the Detroit charges also would be dropped.

Reunification of Germany Must Be Solved Before Cold War in Europe Can Be Eased

In this second of a series of four articles analyzing the Berlin and German—and Herbert Altschull of the Associated Press staff in Bonn digs into the background of the problem of reunifying Germany.

BY HERBERT ALTSCHULL

BONN (AP) — Like a colossus astride the Berlin crisis stands the major unsolved problem created by the Second World War —how to reunite a German nation split by the victorious Allies.

While the Soviet challenge to Allied rights in Berlin is what poses the threat of a new war, it is the problem of reunification that must be settled if the cold war in Europe is ever to be eased.

The Allied powers, determined to smash Germany's war-making capacity, carved the country in 1945 into four zones of occupation. They acted after having shifted away the eastern third of the country beyond the Oder and Neisse Rivers. Thereby, what appears to have become permanent territory of Poland and the Soviet Union.

FIRMLY ENTRENCHED

The Western Allies have never given Poland or Russia permission to retain possession of those territories. But only a major war effort could wrest back that soil.

The three Western zones of occupation were organized in 1949 into what has become Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's West Germany. The Russian zone has become the German Democratic Republic, part of the Communist world.

This division might well have become permanent by now if it were not for Berlin. That island capital lies 110 miles behind the Soviet Republic's completely surrounded by East German territory — but is not a part of East Germany.

WHAT DIVISION

Most students of the German scene are convinced that the Russians now are eager to perpetuate the division of Germany, but are unable to do so as long as the West remains in West Berlin.

Should the West ever renounce its belief in reunification of Germany it would have little reason to keep its troops in Berlin, since the sole reason for maintaining the occupation of that city is to preserve it as a symbol of the hope of a reunited Germany.

The West has tried repeatedly to get the Russians to agree to reuniting Germany on the basis of free elections. The Russians have repeatedly turned that down arguing that the two Germanys must work out reunification by themselves.

One compelling aspect is just how strong the desire for reunification actually is.

Some officials privately say the British Labor party would like to keep Germany divided to restrict its economic and military potential.

NOT REALLY EAGER

Even West Germans are sometimes said to be somewhat cool in their repeated calls for unity. Where are those who say Adenauer's Christian Democratic party, which is Roman Catholic, dominated in its thinking about the potential threat to its political power if Protestant East Germany is incorporated in a unified nation. Many West Germans are intimidated by what the economic sacrifices that would be required to revitalize the East.

The East Germans are eager for reunification if only to improve their wretched economic lot.

The Russians apparently would like to set up a confederation of the two halves of Germany, each with an equal voice.

Many of a suggested American twist to the confederation idea have sprung up in Washington. The idea being for a fast lowered reunification through a loose union of the German states which make up the two Germanies.

Workers Accuse Government of 'Paternalism'

TORONTO (CP) — The 25,000-member Ontario Civil Service Association has pressed its demands for bargaining rights by accusing the provincial government of "paternalism" in an editorial in the Trillium, its official publication.

The Trillium's editor, J. F. Cullion, was appointed permanent secretary of the civil service's joint advisory council March 24 by Premier Frost. The previous day he was appointed to improve grievances procedures but declared "collective bargaining isn't workable in a civil service."

The Trillium editorial said there is no valid explanation of the tradition denying civil servants the same bargaining rights as industrial and business workers.

It says it "is patently ridiculous to state that collective bargaining doesn't work in the public service when in another province in Canada, operating under the same constitution and more or less the same provincial system, civil servants do bargain collectively and have done so successfully for years."

The editorial said to the premier: "You and your fellow ministers sir, appear to think that civil servants don't know what's good for them, that somewhat aids their bread is buttered on, would be worse off if they got what they want for, like children who want to play with matches."

Immigrants Will Be Entitled to Welfare Benefits

OTTAWA (CP) — Immigration Minister Fairclough announced Tuesday a new agreement with Ontario provides that all immigrants be entitled to the same welfare benefits as any other resident of the province.

She informed the Commons, in an announcement tabled jointly with Ontario Welfare Minister Cecile, that agreements have been initiated with other provinces with a view to signing similar pacts.

She pointed out that more than 200,000 persons had immigrated coming to Canada thpse days and up in Ontario.

Under an agreement signed in 1952, the federal and Ontario governments had shared equally the cost of hospital and welfare care for immigrants who became indigent during their first year in Canada, but the federal share in the cost-sharing will continue unchanged at present for hospital care of immigrants.

As far as welfare is concerned, however, the province had agreed to treat all immigrants on the same basis as any other resident. But if, after one year, another change is the dropping of the words "any other resident" must have become indigent through accident or illness to qualify for the Act.

DISCUSS APPEALS

Later, during an hour devoted to private members' legislation, the House considered changes in the immigration Act moved by Leon Crestohl (L—Montreal Cartier).

They would write into the act the right of would-be immigrants to appeal to the courts against deportation orders and detention ordered by immigration department officials. The act denies any such appeal now.

Hammarskjold Spells Out UN Role in Berlin Dispute

By LLOYD McDONALD
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A recent American newspaper cartoon depicted a puzzled "Old World" people at a sky in which three clouds labelled "Thor," "Jesus" and "Berlin" hovered threateningly. Underneath was the caption: "Where's the UN?"

At a time when the Berlin crisis particularly is to the fore in views of the foreign ministers' conference in Geneva next week and the long-threatened May 27 deadline for Moscow to sign the terms of the four - power occupation agreement there, the question of the United Nations' role in this major point of dispute seems pertinent.

Secretary - General Dag Hammarskjold, working within the limits of his world organization and his own skilled knowledge of how to use diplomacy and, also, clearly has given a qualified answer.

In a speech at Copenhagen in the course of his current European tour he brought up, in a limited way, the contention that the UN can play some kind of role in the Berlin situation. To many proponents of the UN, his words may have seemed more than cautious—even negative.

But Hammarskjold, as always, was not going to offer the impossible. This the organization could pull a miracle out of the hat would be the four Great Powers' letters fall to reach agreement. Instead, he took the "step-by-step" approach—that a small contribution might reap bigger results as long as the slightest crack could be open in the door between East and West.

In his Copenhagen speech the secretary-general laid down the basis for what he called a "position paper"—an adjunct to and not an replacement for the four-power discussions. In brief, he offered the major powers involved the full facilities and good offices of the UN in the hope that under the legal framework of the charter hammered out in 1945, the principals in the Second World War might work out in the spirit of that period.

To this Britain might simply imply the offer of a conference table which the UN already has contributed to the Geneva talks at the Palais des Nations. To the secretary-general himself, it undoubtedly carries with it the hint of a reference of everything among the big four to remember, even at this late date, their pledges made in San Francisco in 1945.

Whether Hammarskjold's "position paper" will result in a move by the big powers for consideration of Berlin's problem at the UN level is of course doubtful. But Hammarskjold has numerous smaller powers who make up the bulk of the UN membership who would have to defer to the top leaders.

Meanwhile, there has been little activity at the UN since last December's special Assembly adjournment. The recent Iraqi outbreak, with its overtones of communism, caused a lot of private discussion but no calls for Security Council action. In the President Nasser's United Arab Republic apparently is content. The New York headquarters at least, to take a wait-and-see attitude.

The Thet revolt has had an admitted impact on the Asian-African UN members that may be reflected when the question of recognizing Communist China becomes up at the next assembly. The neutralists have been shaken by Peiping's action, but while Red China remains outside the UN it is free from any serious intervention here.

Thus the cartoon character may well continue to ask about the world body's role with each succeeding cloud. Hammarskjold has made his offer. Now it's up to the big powers, in this primary crisis, to interpret it and decide whether or not to accept it.

CHARGE MURDER ATTEMPT

MATANE, Que. (CP) — A charge of attempted murder was laid Monday against Mrs. Jean-Baptiste Lise, whose 9-year - old daughter, Lise, was beaten on the head with a hammer. Provincial authorities said Lise is in serious condition but has a chance to live. Matane is 250 miles northeast of Quebec City on the south shore of the St. Lawrence River.

Churchill Pays Visit to Friends In Hospital

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sir Winston Churchill paid a call on two greatly ill old friends in hospital.

Accompanied by President Eisenhower, his host, Britain's 84-year-old former prime minister visited Walter Reed General Hospital Tuesday afternoon to see Tancer-cricker John Foster Dulles and Gen. George C. Marshall, who has suffered two strokes.

Marshall, now retired, was U.S. army chief of staff during the war and worked closely with Churchill in planning strategy. Dulles, whose illness forced his resignation as state secretary last month, also had participated in many conferences with Churchill.

Churchill and the president spent about two minutes with Marshall, who recognized them but could say little.

HAGERTY REPORTS

Reporters were not permitted to accompany Churchill and Eisenhower. But White House press secretary James C. Hagerty did question Mr. Churchill about the sessions with Marshall and Dulles.

Dulles occupies the suite which Eisenhower had when he was ill with ileitis in 1956.

Churchill's eyes lighted - up when Eisenhower greeted - and above the sitting room fireplace an oil portrait of Churchill—with trademark cigar—done by the president.

Churchill, an amateur artist of note, examined the painting closely and told Eisenhower:

"It's very fine."

The president was host Tuesday night at a sing dinner honoring his guest. There were 15 others present.

TV Commercials Steadily Lose Effectiveness

TORONTO (CP)—The Association of Canadian Advertisers has been told that the over-all effectiveness of television commercials is declining.

Horace S. Schwerin, president of Schwerin Research Corporation, New York, said Tuesday that testing of commercials by his company showed an unmistakable drift toward mediocrity.

Not only was effectiveness down, he said, but there were fewer commercials that were relatively or absolutely ineffective.

The pattern was found in United States, Canadian and United Kingdom television.

Mr. Schwerin said the explanation of the trend probably included viewer resistance to television advertising, lack of originality, increased competition and lack of proper communication techniques.

"Only those advertisers daring enough to be boldly creative, both in new product concepts and in how they employ the television medium, will survive the next decade," he warned.

SOUTH AFRICAN GROWTH

In the 10 years up to 1957 South Africa's gross national product showed a increase from £367,000,000 to £2,243,000,000.

For First Time Since Lincoln Died British Sales to U.S. Top Imports

LONDON (CP)—For the first time since 1863, British exports to the United States topped imports in March.

Ever since that year—when Lee surrendered to Grant ending the American civil war—Britain's trade balance with the rest of the United States.

Its figures showed Britain sold the U.S. goods valued at £28,-164,901 ($78,861,722) in March. Britain bought only £24,-547,283 ($68,733,514) worth.

The one-month surplus wiped out a deficit of January and February and put Britain ahead $7,327,452 at the end of the first quarter of this year's British-American trade.

The statistics showed that in the first three months of the year the value of sales to the United States were valued at £81,702,186 ($228,765,810) with £81,683,704 in the first quarter of last year.

Colonial imports from the United States slumped from £31,397,663 to £8,548,980 in the first quarter.

Helping to reduce British imports from the United States are the increasing numbers of American firms who have opened British plants to make goods and are manufacturing locally many U.S. products that previously were imported.

Bus Driver, Who Refused To Panic, Credited With Saving Lives of 34 Students

"I'm sure you two will find lots to talk about."

BARRIE (CP)—Six of 22 teenagers, injured Tuesday when their speeding school bus plowed into Lake Simcoe, were still confined to hospital today but were expected to be released soon.

A young bus driver was refused to panic as the brakes on his vehicle failed was credited with saving from death or serious injury the 34 students he was taking to two city rock legiates.

Ross Valley, 22, said he yelled to the students to "hold on" and clutched the wheel of his bus, pulling it downhill towards Lake Simcoe and blasting his horn through five intersections.

RIGHT DECISION

He swerved the bus onto a boat ramp at the lake's edge and drove off the end into eight feet of water instead of trying to stop it on a 125-foot dock which ended where the water's depth was 35 feet.

All would probably have been drowned if the bus had plunged from the end of the dock, said Police Chief Ed Tschirhart. As it was, boat workers rushed into the water, wrenched open the emergency door and helped the students ashore.

Police said 22 students were treated at hospital and only six were detained. Valley was cut when his head went through the windshield and was allowed to go home after treatment.

NO TIME FOR PANIC

He said he didn't have time to panic when the brakes failed and the bus began gathering momentum down the incline.

"First I tried to go into low-range gear — the bus was a vacuum shift. It went into neutral and I pumped it out of there."

The bus bounced over the double CNR tracks near the water's edge at a speed of 65 miles an hour.

"I headed down the boat ramp knowing it would be shallow," Valley said.

Firemen Find Starting Blaze Is Difficult

HUNTINGTON, W.Va. (AP) — Huntington firemen are not so hot when it comes to starting fires.

They set fire to a vacant house as part of a training program for rookie firemen. Then they pulled an alarm box lever.

The rookies, unaware of what was going on, rushed to the scene. When they got there, the fire was out.

The veteran firemen took half an hour to get the blaze going again. This time, it took the rookies nine minutes to put out the flames.

Steel Workers Requesting More Wages From Producers

NEW YORK (AP)—The steelworkers union today pressed on seven more major steel producers its argument that "everybody" circle is getting new wage boosts, so why not us?"

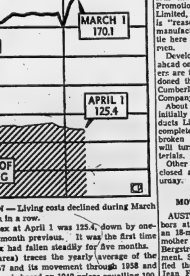
That's the argument the union threw at United States Steel Corporation and three other firms with which the union opened formal contract talks here Tuesday.

Twelve separate, though coordinated bargaining sessions will be held the way befogs the week is out. Out of conflicting industry and union economic statements—the steelmakers claim wage boosts would upset the balanced economy — major contention stood out.

The union said many other industries are granting sizable wage boosts to workers. So why, it asked in effect, all the fuss about this also happening in steel?

WON'T BE LEFT OUT

Union President David J. McDonald said the steelworkers don't intend to be left behind in a wage boost parade that is going on unhampered in the rest of the economy.



It wages in the basic steel industry now average $3.03 an hour. The average steel price is estimated at $150 a ton.

Clinton Golden, chief U.S. steel negotiator who will head the bargaining team for the industry, said industry profits actually are not so lush as the union contends. Their return on sales, he said, is finance needed investment, expansion and reward stockholders for their investment.

Iron Age says a mutual study weekly says there has been speculation that if steel contract talks break down, union leaders might strike some companies and let others work.

DESERONTO

Routine Matters Only Discussed By Town Council

DESERONTO — The regular meeting of town council was without incident as the members dealt with routine matters. All members were present and there was very little correspondence. The letter of Mrs. Webster regarding a tree in front of her home was laid over to the next meeting and a letter from H. Newman regarding the sidewalk in front of his store was referred to the street committee. In response to a request from the Cemetery Board the Council will request that Richmond Township take over the cemetery road leading to the Island. Dr. McVickers, in a letter explained to Council that as M.O.H. his duties would include the care of the schools without extra remuneration.

Reeve Alford spoke on the meeting of County Council and advised that the mill rate for this year would be 8.58 mills and the town assessment would be $235,000. The welfare committee reported that there were two families on relief and requested consideration of the double-bodied members of these families if there were employment on the line.

At the suggestion of Reeve Alford Council passed a motion that new members of the Fire Department be given a medical check before being taken on the Brigade and the regular members receive a medical by the first of December each year.

The Streets Committee reported that R. Sharpe, Streets foreman, had been appointed weed inspector. They also told Council that the ratepayers who had petitioned for a sidewalk on Brant St. below Thomas St. were willing to pay for the same under local improvement act. The committee now will ascertain the cost of the construction of the sidewalk.

TURN OVER SIGNS

The Property Committee moved that the signs at each of the town be turned over to the Publicity Committee who will work with the Chamber of Commerce in having suitable advertising placed thereon. They also reported that investigation of the library building revealed that new main supports and new beams will have to be installed immediately. The roof also is in need of repair. Tenders for the repair of the Town Hall roof were received from D. Dawson who quoted a price of $835 and F. O'Cole who quoted $920. The committee are to make their recommendation at the next meeting.

There was some discussion with the local manager regarding the rate and the assessment. Councillor Spence thought that the town should request advice from the assessment department of the Municipal Affairs Branch. The Assessor advised that sometimes a low assessment with a high mill rate was a means of keeping council from unduly spending. In the assessor's recommendation council will ask for an assessment of the Hydro sub-station so that they may request a grant from the Hydro Commission if such is payable.

At the close of the meeting A.S. Walker spoke to council regarding the arrears of taxes as he felt Mrs. Ada Reid and their taxes were burdening those that do unnecessarily. The clerk advised that there is some $1,250, still outstanding in 1956 taxes. Council passed a motion that steps be taken to arrange for a tax sale of those properties three years in arrears.

A.P. Brooks also spoke to Council on the advisability of having some members of the Council elected for a two-year term so that they would always be some continuity in Council.

Radioactivity Not Dangerous In Britain Yet

LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Macmillan Tuesday affirmed that radioactivity levels had not risen to the danger point in Britain.

"There is nothing which has yet happened which causes anxiety to my advisers in this country," Macmillan said during a question period in the House of Commons.

Asked about strontium-90, the prime minister said:

"There is no direct evidence that radiation from the minute amounts of strontium-90 in human bone has caused injury to any person."

Legislators were querying his announcement last week that strontium-90, a product of radioactive fallout — had doubled in British rainfall since last summer.

"The amount of radioactivity from fallout in the area around Britain is so small it can hardly be measured," Macmillan told the House.

River Drivers Shepherd Rich Harvest to Mills

Canada's Spring Log Drive

Expert river drivers, who combine great skill with strength and daring, can prevent many a log jam from piling up in narrow streams and at the head of rivers. Experienced men earn up to $30 a day.

At Three Rivers, Quebec, newsprint is loaded for export to the United States. Canada, the world's number one producer of newsprint, annually produces half of the world's consumption of this vital commodity.

Each year the warm April sun bursts the ice on thousands of rivers and streams across Canada and the spring log drive, dramatic climax to the country's winter lumbering operations, takes place. Millions of logs go roaring down myriad waterways to the ever-growing number of mills dotted throughout the 10 provinces. There, the rich harvest of Canada's forests is sawn into timber for her booming lumber industry or converted into pulp for the country's number one dollar earner: the pulp and paper industry. Above, on Quebec's swift flowing St. Maurice River, skilled river drivers guide their craft through turbulent, foam-flecked waters, freeing logs that are hung up along the shore, and looking for log jams which they will break up with their long-handled pike-poles or with dynamite.

Canada's many waterways provide a convenient and cheap means of transporting logs to the mills. Often, more than one company will use the same river, and sorting of the logs (identifiable through special markings made at the time of the cutting) is done at the sorting boom on the river. Over 80% of the wood used in pulp and paper manufacture is floated to the mill. Canada's forests, which cover almost half of her total land area, constitute her most important natural resource and together with the forest-based industries, support more than one million Canadians.

Eisenhower Suffering Pains Of 'Lame Duck' President

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Dwight D. Eisenhower is beginning to suffer some of the political aches and pains of what is known in the United States as a "lame duck" president.

An American political parlance, that term is applied to a chief executive who begins to lose power and prestige because his term is running out—either constitutionally, as in the case of Eisenhower who by law cannot run for a third term, or in the event of a defeat in the November elections which precede the formal change of power in January, every four years.

As his time runs out, a lame-duck president—even in the comparatively favorable position of Eisenhower, who has never been defeated at the polls—finds the political going increasingly tougher.

His own followers realize that he can offer little effective campaign support in the next presidential election, despite his authority. His foes in Congress, mindful that his drawing power with the public will wane as election time approaches, tend more and more to thwart his legislative plans.

The effects on Eisenhower's political position are already beginning to show.

They are apparent in the way the Democrats tried last week in Congress to override a presidential veto on a relatively unimportant bill dealing with rural electrification. They managed to override the president in the Senate but lost by a bare four votes in the House of Representatives.

The effects also were evidenced in the bitter political row that developed over Eisenhower's nomination of Mrs. Clare Booth Luce as U.S. ambassador to Brazil. Mrs. Luce finally won confirmation, but resigned within a few hours on the ground that the congressional attacks by the opposing Democrats had reduced her effectiveness as a diplomat.

The Luce nomination is not the only Eisenhower appointment under fire in Congress. Six months ago the president nominated Lewis L. Strauss, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, as his secretary of commerce. Strauss, after months of committee hearings, still is awaiting his confirmation.

A host of other Eisenhower nominations—some of them important judicial appointments—also have bogged down in Congress.

Ironically, the two-term limitation on the presidency itself originated with Eisenhower's own Republican party. It was proposed in 1947 by Republican congressmen who were angered by Franklin D. Roosevelt's action in defying American political tradition and running for a fourth term in 1944. Roosevelt, the first four-time presidential winner, died six months later.

Both Eisenhower and his Democratic predecessor, Harry S. Truman, have indicated their opposition to the two-term law.

Canada's Largest Colombo Plan Project Is $2,700,000 Experimental Fish Program

Russell Rimmer, former Canadian Press staff writer now touring the Commonwealth, reports in this story on Canadian aid under the Colombo plan to Ceylon's fishing industry.

By RUSSELL RIMMER

MUTWAL, Ceylon (CP) — A $2,700,000 experimental fisheries program — Canada's largest Colombo plan project in Ceylon — is helping solve the island's food problem and provide security for its 80,000 fishermen.

Canadian assistance has established trawling on a commercial scale, built a fish harbor and factory and trained fishermen in modern techniques to increase their catch and income. It has largely inspired the country's first comprehensive fisheries development program.

The project now is directed by Leon Berube, 61, of Ste. Anne de la Pocatiere, Que. It was launched in 1952 primarily to overcome a serious protein deficiency by putting more fish into the Ceylonese diet. The local fishing industry was unorganized and on a precarious subsistence level with the island importing half its requirements in the form of dried and salted fish.

TRESSELS FROM CANADA

Two fishing vessels, the North Star and Canadian, were built in Vancouver and sent with Canadian crews, a fisheries expert and a biologist to Ceylon. They charted coastal waters in search of fish feeding grounds and trained Ceylonese for deep sea commercial fishing.

Canada also gave Ceylon the trawler Maple Leaf, purchased in Britain under the Colombo plan. At much of the Maple Leaf's catch was wasted, because of poor storage facilities, it was decided to complete the project with a new fishing harbor and a pilot refrigeration and reduction plant.

The government - owned commercial fisheries factory at Mutwal, six miles north of Colombo, now is in operation and considered one of the finest in the East. It can freeze 12 tons of fish a day, store 500 tons of frozen fish and has facilities for filleting and producing vitamin oils as a byproduct.

Manager of the Mutwal factory is Gordon Crabbe, who worked in fish co-operatives in Vancouver. His Ceylonese understudy will take over when he leaves and chief supervisor Henry Gunaveratena, 36, is to visit Canada this summer on a Colombo plan training fellowship.

HEAT SLOWS WORKERS

Fish is processed much as in Vancouver, said Crabbe, but labor tends to be slower due to the year-round constant heat and humidity. Sarong-clad Ceylonese, accustomed to working in 85-degree temperatures outside, had to don parkas and adjust to 30-below-zero cold in the refrigeration plant.

The Mutwal factory, which at present handles about four per cent of the island's total annual catch of 75,000,000 pounds, has meant a regular supply of fish to the Colombo market at stable prices throughout the year.

Under the Canadian training program, the west coast fishing boats, skippered by Roy Fyne, 46, of Lockeport, N.S., and Aubrey Barry, 40, of Seaver Harbor, N.B., demonstrate modern fishing methods and use of new type of gear.

In only four years, mechanization of native fishing craft and introduction of nylon gill nets has produced spectacular results. In many cases fishermen's incomes have doubled, permitting them to improve their homes and purchase additional boats.

ENGINES IN DEMAND

At Jaffna, where Canada donated 27 inboard diesel engines, long-line fishing from mechanized boats has proved so successful that now demand exceeds supply for engines. Eight dealers now sell nylon nets, which produce catch three times that of nets made of a hemplike fibre and hand lines.

Benefits of modernization, however, frequently are offset by a primitive distribution and marketing system in which fish may be handled by five middlemen before reaching the consumer at inflated prices.

Canadian experts are advising on the establishment of fish co-operatives along lines developed at Antigonish, N.S. Progress at training centres, administered by the co-operatives ministry, has been slow. Fisheries extension officers report they have no demonstration gear, cannot attract fishermen to attend classes at the expense of missing a day's catch and have suffered from departmental red tape.

Officials hope difficulties are only temporary and will be overcome with implementation of a 10-year $75,000,000 fisheries development program. Plans call for the establishment of a national fish board, an efficient marketing system, provision of low-interest loans to fishermen for mechanization and construction of small fishing harbors and ice plants around the island.

AIDS CEYLON FISHERIES — Gordon Crabbe, 42, of Vancouver, manager of a Canadian-built fish factory at Mutwal, Ceylon, inspects frozen fish outside the building. Plant is part of a $2,700,000 fisheries program, Canada's largest Colombo Plan project in the country. Considered one of the finest in the East, the plant can freeze 12 tons of fish a day. Ceylonese workers shown here with Mr. Crabbe wear parkas for work inside the plant but retain sarongs underneath. (CP Photo.)

OTTAWA (CP) — The Borden Energy Commission expects to complete its report on oil and gas before the end of May, Prime Minister Diefenbaker said Tuesday, but he indicated it may be several weeks after that before the document is submitted to cabinet.

The prime minister said he hopes to announce the terms of reference of a royal commission on transportation soon.

A number of Criminal Code amendments including the question of licence suspensions for traffic infractions are likely to be introduced shortly, Justice Minister Fulton said.

Mr. Diefenbaker said a new external affairs minister will be appointed as "soon as convenient" and that he doesn't think that one person should combine the prime ministerial and external affairs portfolios. The prime minister has been acting as external affairs minister since the death of Sidney Smith March 17.

Sixty private bills, including 54 for divorces of residents of Newfoundland and Quebec, were given royal assent in the Senate Tuesday night by Chief Justice Patrick Kerwin, deputy governor-general.

Paul Anka Is Singing Blues Over California School Law

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—His millions of teen-age fans will be interested to know that Paul Anka has school problems, too.

Paul is the 17-year-old Canadian singer who claims eight gold records for one record alone —Diana which he composed himself. He's here for his first movie, Girls Town, and he ran smack-dab into California laws concerning under-age actors.

"I finished my junior year in high school in my home town, Ottawa, and I quit," he said in his Beverly Hilton Hotel suite. "I was travelling around the world too much to continue school work."

BACK TO STUDIES

"But the California law says I have to keep studying until I'm 18, which is three months away. So every day at the studio I have to spend three hours at school work. But I concentrate on it when I'm thinking about my next scene and the singing date I've got tomorrow night!"

Paul argues that he's getting his education through travel. His argument is pretty convincing. In two years, he has sung from Tokyo to Algiers.

"Everywhere I go, I try to learn about the people," he said. "When I was in Algiers, I wanted to see the rebels and how they lived. I went right into their country and saw their settlements with huts of the same kind the people have used for centuries."

LIKE NATIVE

The lad didn't get shot at, perhaps because he looked like one of them. His grandparents came from Lebanon. Paul is a stubby, good-looking boy.

Paul's saga is another example of the frantic music business of today. In his early teens, he formed a quartet called the Bobby-Socks of Ottawa, and the group was soon earning $250 a week. Paul quit to become a singer, and his school grades suffered as he gained success.

His talent earned him trips to Los Angeles to live with his Uncle Mac and Aunt Z., figuring the change would make him forget show business. But Maurice was an actor and he encouraged Paul's ambitions. They wrote a song which Paul recorded with scant success.

OVERNIGHT RAGE

The boy went to New York to conquer the record industry, and he did. ABC-Paramount Records liked three songs he presented and asked for another. Paul overnight produced a song he had once dreamed up for a hometown girl. That was Diana. The rest is history, of the teenage variety.

Paul is a level-headed boy who neither drinks, smokes nor dates too much—"You've got to be careful about those things in this business." He's aware of the transitory nature of fame in today's music world; his managers have salted away much of his fabulous earnings in solid investments.

AT THE PARK — Jeffrey Hunter is a cowboy who is considered cowardly because he doesn't believe in violence in "Gun For a Coward," Technicolor CinemaScope feature with CinemaScope short starring Fred MacMurray and Jeffrey Hunter on same program "Mardi Gras", in Cinema-Scope and color, starting Friday and Thursday at the Park Theatre.

Top Stars, Cast of Thousands Enact Epic Drama In Widely Heralded Technicolor Film

"TEMPEST"

Today the screen of the Belle Theatre will be electrified with the eagerly awaited, widely heralded "Tempest". Paramount's production in Technicrama and Technicolor, starring Van Heflin, Silvana Mangano, Vivica Lindfors, Geoffrey Horne; co-starring Oscar Homolka, Helmut Dantine, Agnes Moorehead, Robert Keith and Vittorio Gassman. Adding the impressive star roster are ten thousand soldiers and three thousand horses in some of the most spectacular scenes ever photographed for a motion picture.

Produced by the man who made the memorable "War and Peace", "Tempest" also has a Russian background. It concerns the love of Alexander Pushkin's finest stories, "The Revolt of Pugachev" and "The Captain's daughter." The former is the story of a revolutionary who rallied the first really serious revolt against the Russian throne in the time of Catherine the Great, in the 18th Century. The latter is the love story of a young aristocrat who finds himself in temporary exile in far-off Fort Rogorsk where he falls in love with the commanding captain's daughter, a beautiful girl who is not his social equal in the Russian caste system of the time.

The two stories evolved into "Tempest," which begins with Catherine's banishment of the young aristocratic officer (played by Geoffrey Horne) to the fortress, where he finds love in the vital person of Silvana Mangano. There, too, his fortunes are entwined with the rebel outlaw, Pugachev, portrayed by Van Heflin, until the latter's fall, prior to which the rebel challenges Catherine and her armies in scenes of battle more spectacular and sweeping than any ever filmed before.

Horne, who has the romantic lead opposite Silvana Mangano, was last seen in the Academy-Award winning film, "The Bridge on the River Kwai." In "Tempest," he has his most important role as the young officer of the Royal Guard, loyal to Catherine but accused of siding with the treasonous Pugachev. Appearing as Catherine is the gorgeous Vivica Lindfors, who once before performed as Russian royalty in the Broadway stage production of "Anastasia."

"Tempest" was filmed in Italy and Yugoslavia, the mounted cavalry of the latter country made available to the producers for use in the breathtaking executive vistas which, thanks to the miracle of Technirama, fans will see in this sensational film triumph. "Tempest" opening today on the Belle Theatre screen.

Conn Smythe used to say that "Love you can't like, you wrestle in the alley, you can't beat 'em inside in the rink." Apparently Punch Imlach thinks along the same lines.

This man is light the other day. The manager-coach of Toronto Maple Leafs was taking a bunnin's holiday at Maple Leaf Gardens during the Allan Cup Vernon-Whitby series when someone mentioned the rumored trade of four Leaf players for left-winger Alex Delvecchio of Detroit Red Wings.

Imlach scoffed at the idea. "I don't want any Lady Byng winners on my club," he declared. "I'll fine any player who wins the Byng trophy."

As everybody knows, the Byng memorial trophy is awarded to the most gentlemanly player in the National Hockey League. Delvecchio has been a most mannerly fellow since he first joined the Red Wings in the last - 32 season and has been a candidate every year.

NOTABLE RECORD

Figures in the total - points-scored column after his name in the record books have been considerably higher than his total minutes spent in the penalty box. In the season just closed, for instance, he scored 84 points on 18 goals and 66 assists and was assessed only six minutes in penalties.

Imlach wasn't impressed

"Do you think I'm crazy enough to give up four players for one? Do you think Delvecchio is worth $100,000?" That's about what it amounts to if we give Detroit Brian and Barry Cullen, Marc Reaume and Noel Price. I might consider an even swap, but I'm not going to give up four men for one to anybody in the league.

"Besides, is Delvecchio really that good? I don't know how he got in the NHL's second all-star team. He didn't score the goals and he didn't get more than a couple of penalties, so the big question is:

"So what was the guy doing? I don't care who it is, no player in this league, if he's checking, can go through 70 games and get in only a couple of penalties. He's bound to trip or board sometimes if he's checking. Therefore, my only conclusion is the guy was doing nothing."

LACK OF INTEREST

Still on hockey, it seems that nobody in Canada was interested in playing host to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association annual meeting at a cost of approximately $2,000. That is the reason the CAHA annual session is being held in Detroit May 16-20.

Secretary - Manager George Dudley said he "just about had to twist some arms to get an invitation from our Maritimes branch for the annual meeting."

"Even they didn't want to, but said they'd host the meeting if no one else would. That's the disgusting Hockey Association of the United States invited us to hold our meeting at Detroit with them and we accepted.

Estimated cost of getting representatives from all parts of the country to a meeting is $2,000. Of this, the CAHA pays the host branch $1,000.

"Perhaps the reason no one wants us is because they can't afford the expense," Dudley commented.

Simpson Will Stay With White Sox

CHICAGO (AP)—Harry (Sullcase) Simpson will stay with Chicago White Sox whether or not Ray Boone reports to Kansas City Athletics to carry out the trade of the two players.

White Sox owner Bill Veeck met Tuesday with Boone but apparently failed to dissuade the veteran infielder from his intention of retiring from baseball rather than report to Kansas City.

Veeck said that Simpson definitely is Sox property and that if Boone fails to report the Sox will pay Kansas City an undisclosed sum for Simpson.

"I didn't talk Boone out of retiring, but I think he left a little room definitely about his decision not to report to the As," said Veeck.

Earlier Boone said "I don't want to start becoming a pawn in a lot of trades, and my knee is giving me too much pain for me to be of much help to any club."

AUSTRALIAN GOLD

Australia's gold production in 1958 reached 1,102,742 fine ounces compared with the record, 1,117,742 in 1954.

St. Michael's May Drop Out Next Season

TORONTO (CP) — St. Michael's College Majors of the OHA Junior A series have agreed to play a 56-game schedule for the 1959-60 season but team manager Rev. Jerold Bauer doubts the club will be in the league in 1960-61.

"We'll try to play to the full schedule if we are given consideration for Friday and Saturday games," Father Bauer said Tuesday.

The Majors played an abbreviated 48-game schedule last season, with six games counting four points for a win and two points for a tie.

At a Junior A council meeting Monday night in the office of OHA business manager Bill Hanley, Father Bauer said: "We'll let you know for sure at the June meeting if we agree to the 56 games, but I'm afraid we'll definitely be out of the league for 1960-61."

St. Michael's, which stresses education before hockey, requested a shortened schedule but the rest of the council members felt that the rules have to be the same for all teams and any variation of games for one club would cause nothing but trouble to the rest of the league.

Also brought up at the meeting was the playing of all-Eastern Canada finals in the largest branch rink.

If the CAHA approves, it would mean all the home games of each finalist would be played in the largest rink of its group.

Mr. Hanley was instructed to write a letter to Conn Smythe asking that the Maple Leaf Gardens make some suggestion as to what it is prepared to offer in return for the games.

RARE, MEDIUM, WELL-DONE

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

There should be fun, fury, feathers and fireworks at Memorial Arena some Friday evening when Whipper Billy Watson tangles with his arch-foeman, the fiery untamed terror of the prairies, Gene Kiniski. There is no love lost between this pair and as the bout will see wholesale the redoubtable Gene retains the British Empire wrestling crown or sees it transferred to the handsome soggin' of the Whipper, the clash should be one for the archives.

Kiniski is Number One Man of Hate Incorporated of the wrestling faithful hereabouts and with the popular Whipper facing him it is doubtful if he will have a friend in the audience. He took the crown from Watson a short while back and the Pride of East York has every intention of taking it back here Friday night. It should be a dilly of a bout.

Then there is that old pal of the roughie-toughie squad back again. It has been quite a while since Hard-Boiled Haggerty riled the hackles of fandom here and they say his temper and manners have not improved one iota since his last appearance.

Haggerty, whose excessive confidence has made him many enemies throughout wrestledom, recently told American newsmen he could whip the world heavyweight boxing champion any time and any place. He stated he would put up $20,000 to that effect but so far there has been no takers. He says he lives and eats wrestling. He doesn't drink nor smoke and admits having a temper that oftimes gets him into trouble. He meets the handsome Mike Valentina, a popular favorite with the crowds here last summer.

MINOR HOCKEY

The Ontario Minor Hockey Association has wound up one of the most; if not the most, successful season since its inception many years ago. It submitted a yearender that an all-time record of 33,390 youngsters between squirt and juvenile ages played hockey under its aegis last season, a figure some 3,000 better than the previous record.

Some 7,794 youngsters were entered in OMHA group play or playdowns while 25,596 played in village, town and city leagues. The all-over figures do not include the kids playing in the Toronto Hockey League.

It is estimated that some 4,000 of this number represented this part of Ontario between Peterborough and Gananoque with a fine job of organization and supervision being done by OMHA executive members Doug Patterson of Stirling, and Albert Watkins of Peterborough. Here in the city some 1,400 youngsters played organized hockey in the various classifications, according to recreation director "Red" Doran.

MINOR BASEBALL

"Cuffer" "Noakes" junior baseballers may have some trouble in getting located in a league this summer. It seems the Kingston junior league has a team entered from Gananoque and this would entail quite a bit of travel for the local youngsters. Noakes has made no definite entry as yet and there is a possibility he might try to enter the South Hastings League, and go into the OHA playdowns at the end of the season. However the South Hastings League people have something to say about that and they might frown on the idea of a city entry.

BEAT THIS!

We liked the story the man told at the dinner the other night. It was about a guy that had all the tough luck in the world. He never won a thing in his life. He always drew duds at draws and raffles and lost all his shirts playing penny-ante. One day some of his friends "arranged" a raffle for him that couldn't lose. They each pair fifty dollars in a raffle and numbered each ticket "four." They drew and called wrong numbers so the bad-luck guy could win with his "four." He put his hand in the hat to pull out the last ticket and someone asked what the number was.

He looked and smiled glumly.

"What is it?" the friend repeated.

"Six and seven-eighths," he said.

He had drawn the size ticket of the hat.

Braves Piggy-Back Giants To Regain Top Perch

Henry Aaron Doubles Home Winner in 16-Inning Duel; Hot Tigers Win Three in Row

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Milwaukee's two-edged sword—a pitching staff of quality and quantity—has pushed the Braves into first place once more in their revolving-door battle with San Francisco Giants for the National League lead.

Carl Willey, one of the Braves' big five with Warren Spahn, Lew Burdette, Bob Rush and Joey Jay, was locked in a 2-2 tie after eight innings of dueling Tuesday night with Don Drysdale of Los Angeles. Then manager Fred Haney went to the bullpen and pulled out Don McMahon and Rush, who gave up just one hit between them as eight innings of pretzler patience until Henry Aaron doubled home the winning run for a 3-2, 15-inning decision over the Dodgers.

SECOND-PLACE SNARL

That produced the fourth switch in four days atop the standings between the Braves and Giants. San Francisco was dealt a 5-2 defeat at Cincinnati by Don Newcombe, whose first victory skipped the Giants into a second place snarl with the Reds and Dodgers. All three are a half game behind Milwaukee.

Chicago's Cubs retained fifth, beating Pittsburgh 6-3. Philadelphia tied the Pirates for sixth, just 2½ games shy of first, with a five-run ninth inning that beat St. Louis 8-7.

Aaron, who had two of the Braves' 13 hits, rapped his breakup double with one out in the 16th off loser Clem Labine (0-3), third Dodger pitcher. Aaron had singled home the tying run in the seventh off Drysdale, who gave up hits in his 11 frames, striking out nine. Art Fowler followed with two innings of shutout relief and Labine added two more before Rush singled to open the 16th. Ed Mathews, who forced Rush, scored from first on Aaron's two-bagger.

Newcombe (1-3) gave up five hits and rode in on Frank Robinson's three-run homer in the fifth off Sam Jones (2-4). Willie Kirkland homered in the fourth for the Giants.

The Cubs shelled winless Bob Friend for his fifth defeat at Pittsburgh while Glen Hobbie (3-2) fanned seven and held the Bues to six hits. Rookie George Altman's third homer, a solo shot in the sixth, was the clincher.

The Phillies collected half of their dozen hits in the big ninth. They scored the tying run against losing reliever Larry Jackson (0-4) on a bases-loaded walk, then put it away on Ed Bouchee's single.

The last place Cards had given Wilmer Mizell a 7-3 lead in the top of the ninth when Ken Boyer's second grand slam with the circuit's second RBI single had scored three runs. That chased Robin Roberts and left the victory for reliever Dick Farrell (1-2).

HOLD ALL-PRO SHOW

SARNIA (CP)—Dave Shoulders of Detroit scored a third-round TKO victory over Jimmy O'Connell of Stubenville, Ohio, in a scheduled 10-round feature of an all-professional boxing show here Tuesday night.

Leafs Defeat Montreal 6-2; Miami Wins

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Toronto exploited some poor Montreal fielding Tuesday night to keep pace with first - place Miami Marlins in the International League.

The second-place Maple Leafs put away their 8-2 victory with three runs in the first on Larry Raines' triple. Dave Pope's double, two walks and an error added two in the third on three singles, two walks and another Montreal error and topped it off with an Archie Wilson home run in the ninth.

Bob Chakles (3-1) won it and Billy Harris (1-2) was the loser.

In other Tuesday night play, Havana edged Columbus 5-3; Miami defeated Richmond 8-2 and Buffalo won its fifth straight, 5-2 over Rochester.

FOURTH FOR AMOR

Vicente Amor won his fourth straight for Havana, and now has had the victories recorded by the last - place Sugar Kings on 22 games played.

He scattered nine Columbus hits but received relief help from Raul Sanchez in the ninth.

Leo Cardenas' double, a hit batsman, Dan Morejon's triple and Borrego Alvares' single gave Havana a 3-0 lead. Bob Lennon rome hit a solo homer off Amor in the eighth. Dick Lines (2-1) was the loser.

Miami scored five runs in the third inning to give Jack Fisher a neat cushion for his third victory about a loss. Foster Castleman's two-run homer and Fred Valentine's two - run triple did most of the damage against loser Bob Weisler (2-1). Valentine also had a solo home run.

Buffalo's eight-run eighth inning brought them from a 2-2 deficit. Six singles, four walks and a wild pitch did the Buffalo damage after two were out. Winner was Bob Miller (1-0) while Joe Certain (0-2) lost. Gene Oliver's three - run homer had staked Rochester to an early lead.

COACH QUITS

EDMONTON (CP) — Ted Youngling, assistant coach of Edmonton Eskimos, has resigned from the WIFU club to return to United States college football. Youngling, an import tackles Reed Henderson and Roger Nelson was also announced by Eskimos. Henderson, 24, was with Esks in 1956 and 1957 but did not play football in 1958. Nelson, 28, has been with Edmonton since 1954.

Henry Aaron Doubles Home Winner in 16-Inning Duel; Hot Tigers Win Three in Row

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Is it Jimmy Dykes' hot hand that has Detroit on the rebound in the American League, or is this just another of the Tigers' turn-abouts for a new manager?

The rotund, cigar - smoking Dykes was plucked off the Pittsburgh coaching staff in the National League by Detroit and replaced Bill Norman as manager Sunday. The last-place Tigers had won but two of 17 games and were 10½ games away from first.

Dykes sent Charlie Maxwell from the bench to the outfield and made a starting pitcher of Don Mossi. Result: The Tigers won as many in one day under Dykes as they had in almost a month under Norman, sweeping a doubleheader from New York with Maxwell hitting four home runs in the pair and Mossi gaining his fifth victory in four starts—a bit complete game in the nightcap.

SOME CHANGES

Dykes' next move was to bench third baseman Eddie Yost in favor of Ted Lepcio, acquired just last Saturday from Boston. Result: Lepcio hit his first home run of the year, a grand-slam against his late mates that boosted the Tigers to their third straight success under Dykes with an 8-3 victory over the Red Sox Tuesday night.

It might be recalled at this point that the Tigers won seven of eight and jumped from last to fourth under Stevens after he preceded Jack Tighe as Detroit manager late in June 10.

Besides Tuesday night's victory, the Tigers are last, still 9½ games behind first place Cleveland. The Indians collared a 9-1 decree over Baltimore, Washington gained a virtual tie for second with Baltimore and Chicago by beating Boston White Sox 8-3, Kansas City slipped to fifth as the seventh-place Yankees ended their losing string at five straight by 3-2, 10-inning victory over the Athletics.

ALLOWS SIX HITS

Larry Osborne hit a solo homer and Johnny Groth a two - run pinch-hit homer for the Tigers, who put it away when Leocio's Scman homered with one out in the seventh. The Tribe, now 14-5 compared to the 12-7 record they managed in their first 19 games while setting a league record with 11 victories in 1954, covered five in the first off loser Jack Harshman (0-4).

BROWDON CHIEF THREAT

Bill Skowron drove in two runs for the Yankees, bringing the game home with a sacrifice fly. Rip Coleman lost it in relief, giving up a walk and Gil McDougald's single ahead of the fly ball. Tony Kubek's first 1959 homer broke a 1-1 tie in the eighth against Kansas City starter Ned Garver, but Kansas City chased Bobby Shantz in the third-inner in the ninth on Hal Smith's single, Jim Landis and Preston Ward's sacrifice fly. Bob Turley (3-2) won it in relief, fanning the side in the ninth.

The Senators beat Billy Pierce (2-2) with Jim Lemon's seventh homer, a two-run shot, chasing the little lefty in the third inning. Bob Allison and Harry Kuferbrew, the league leader with eight, also homered for the Nats as southpaw Chuck Stobbs won his first with Tex Clevenger's one - hit, shutout mopup after Sherm Lollar's two-run homer in the sixth.

Video Money May Aid Minor Leagues

NEW YORK (AP)—The hard-pressed minor leagues—bedeviled and bewildered by the impact of television—saw a dim ray of hope on the distant horizon today.

A committee to work out a formula for financial aid to the minors was formed Tuesday by baseball commissioner Ford Frick. The avowed purpose was to cut the minors in on some of the television money the majors are collecting.

In addition, Frick appointed a committee to try to solve another of the minor's major problems, player control.

But the minors are far more interested in financial relief. They has worked such havoc that this year there are only 51 minor leagues operating. Just 10 years ago, there were 50.

LEGAL IMPEDIMENT

Said Frick:

"The legal ramifications are unbelievable. The best we can hope for from the comittee is to try to set some formula and then give it to the lawyers to work out."

George M. Trautman, minor league czar, said creation of the committee had been recommended originally by his office.

Frank (Shag) Shaughnessy, president of the International League and chairman of the TV committee, observed:

"The major leagues realize what we're up against. We are not getting anything out of radio and television and we need it. We think we'll get congressional help eventually."

BIG BUSINESS

Each of the major league teams get an estimated $25,000 per telecast. All told, packaging both radio and television, the majors will reap about $11,000,000 for the current season.

The committee will meet in Columbus May 19-20.

No regulation of television in concert by the major league clubs is permitted by the U.S. justice department.

"We've given up trying to solve the problem from the legal end," said Frick. "We will just have to try it from another tack.

"The majors' position is untenable. All the money they are getting from the game of the week is coming from minor league territory. There also is a tax problem. The majors don't want to pay taxes on money they are going to give away."

Will Discuss Move to Senior A Rating

KITCHENER (CP) — Representatives of five Senior B hockey clubs will meet with the senior A clubs today in Welland to discuss possibilities of changing one or more of the clubs to move up to A ranks, Ernie Comrie of the Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen said Tuesday.

Games was assigned by the Ontario Hockey Association to organize the meeting to which Welland-Crowland, Niagara Falls and Oakville Senior B clubs were to be invited.

St. Thomas and Strathroy, the current Senior B champions of the province, are also expected to attend.

The Dutchmen, Chatham Maroons and Windsor Bulldogs will represent Senior A ranks.

GOOD DISMAY

ROME (AP)—Karol Fageros of Miami put a withering service end the limit, race Tuesday in panies on display at the Italian national tennis tournament Tuesday. The combination was too much for her opponent, Ulla Rulcrantz of Sweden, and Miami ousted 6-1, 6-3. The triumph put Miss Fageros into the third round. The panties were similar to those she wore last year but this year were embroidered in with various tennis designs.

Which Jockey Will Ride Sword Dancer?

BALTIMORE (AP) — Which jockey will ride the favored Sword Dancer in the Preakness?

I will, said Bill Boland, who was up on the hard-running colt as it lost a stretch duel with Tomy Lee in last Saturday's Kentucky Derby.

I will, said Wee Willie Shoemaker, credited with virtually shoving Tomy Lee's head out in front of Sword Dancer in the run for the roses.

I will, said Bill Hartack, who was back in the derby crowd on Easy Spur.

Brothers of Tomy Lee, a dogtired colt, nor Easy Spur, with an ankle ailment, will run in the Preakness May 16.

Sword Dancer's trainer, Elliott Burch, repeated Tuesday that he could find no fault with the ride Boland gave Sword Dancer in the derby. But he refused to say whether Boland would be up on the colt in the Preakness.

Shoemaker was up on Sword Dancer a week before the derby and won the stepping stone purse. Then he switched to Tomy Lee. Many say he felt an obligation to trainer Frank Childs to ride Tomy Lee. Now, since Tomy Lee is out of the picture, he'd like to ride Sword Dancer.

And the latest rumblings around the track give Shoemaker the inside lane.

'Twas Close Up to The Second

VANCOUVER (CP) — It was a tight game going into the bottom of the first inning.

Cedar Cottage took a 1-0 lead over Fraserview in their bantam girls softball league game.

Then Fraserview scored 23 runs. They got 13 more in the second, 14 in the third.

That's where the game ended, Fraserview winning 50-1.

Chakales and Thompson, Hansen (3); Hamlin, Rakow (3), Vargas (5) and Tead.

Bruins Down Rangers 6-4

PARIS (CP) — Boston Bruins downed New York Rangers 6-4 Tuesday night to square the count in their 24-game European exhibition hockey tour at three games apiece.

Only about 700 persons — the same attendance that saw the Rangers whip the Bruins 6-2 Monday—turned out to see the Bruins win at the French Skating Federation's rink in suburban Boulogne.

Johnny Bucyk led the Boston attack with three goals, Bronco Horvath, Don McKenney and Vic Stasiuk got the club's other tallies.

Eric Nesterenko, Jim Bartell, Bob Hull and Eddie Shack scored for New York.

The Rangers led 1-0 in the first period but the Bruins, shooting more often, scored two unanswered goals in the second. Near the end of the third period the Bruins led 5-4, the Rangers yanked goaltender Lorne Worsley but the strategy backfired as Bucyk scored in an empty net.

OFF TO ANTWERP

The National Hockey League clubs now leave for Antwerp for three games in the next three days.

After Monday's game, French newspapers came out with high praise for the teams' ability.

The sports Daily L'Equipe said:

"It was a high-class game . . . a masterful demonstration of hockey technique.

"It's been a long time since we saw such virtuosos on ice. Everything was there: quality and speed of skating, precision in passing, timeliness of interceptions, high science in stick handling, exceptional skill at goaltending—especially of the Rangers Gump Worsley."

The mass circulation France-Soir said "barely below par French hockey fans been able to applaud players so speedy and so precise in their passes."

Le Parisien - Libere remarked that "sometimes these extraordinary players feel obliged to stimulate brawls in a circus-like way."

Has Nine-Man Hitting Slump Says Casey

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Casey Stengel isn't panicked by his New York Yankees' slump, but he seemed irritated Tuesday night before a game against Kansas City Athletics.

A television crew approached the Yankee bench with microphone and camera.

The Yankees beat the Athletics 3-2 in 10 innings.

Casey said after the victory: "They don't come easy. We got a nine - man hitting slump. Maybe the pitching is getting better in this league."

RELAX RESTRICTIONS

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House of Representatives voted Monday to extend the authority of the attorney-general to admit, under safeguards, some aliens suffering from tuberculosis. The legislation allows close relatives of U.S. citizens or permanent residents to be admitted to the U.S. even if they have tuberculosis, provided the disease is arrested.

BROKEN HEART

SYDNEY, Australia (Reuters) Tim,' a horse who performed tricks in a circus for many years, was retired because of advancing age. His owner left a few days later on a tour with other performing horses and dogs and Tim moved up and down his paddock for hours when he found he was not going with the troupe. Then he lay down and died.

Science Now Shrinks Piles Without Pain Or Discomfort

Finds Healing Substance That Relieves Pain And Itching As It Shrinks Hemorrhoids

Torrance, Cal., (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids and to relieve pain and itching. Thousands have been relieved with this inexpensive substance right in the privacy of their own home without any discomfort or inconvenience.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, very striking improvement was reported and verified by doctors' observations.

▼ Pain was promptly relieved. And while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

▼ And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where doctors' observations were continued over a period of many months!

▼ In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such statements as "Pile have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 20 years standing.

All this is without the use of narcotics, sweet basics or astringents of any kind. It is used in a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) — the discovery of a famous research scientists. Already, Bio-Dyne is in use on more than a million injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug stores. Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded.

Astrological Forecast

By CARROLL RIGHTER

Thursday, May 7

Aries (March 21 to April 19) — Take care you do not commit yourself financially beyond your means in A. M. Later you can start an upturnd in your affairs by showing loyalty and devotion to regular associates and fellow workers. P. M. bring home candy and be cheerful.

Taurus (April 20 to May 20) — Any emotional outburst at residence in early A. M. would be most unfortunate. Avoid this and you can then go about straightening out any misunderstandings with other persons, especially good friends. Strive to bring greater harmony into your life.

Gemini (May 21 to June 21) — Use positive thinking and do not permit that private worry to keep you from accomplishing much this A. M. Follow through on commitments. Latter part of day is fine for being with experts who can give you good advice and assistance.

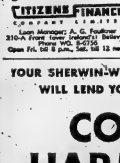
Moon Children (June 22 to July 23) — An overly dynamic mood could make your morning a most unpleasant one, but if you realize that he or she is in some kind of trouble, you can be helpful by being very kind and patient. P. M. be out socially at large gathering and have a fine time.

Leo (July 23 to Aug. 21) — Giving some higher up a piece of your mind will do nobody any good, least of all yourself, for much prestige and support will be lost. Hold your temper. P.M. is fine, for a truly understanding soul comes along who will help you considerably.

Virgo (Aug. 22 to Sept. 23) — Unlooked - for event early could make you want to change plans for the whole day, but be patient and you can still be out in the busy world of activity and accomplish many of what you had planned. P. M. entertain others.

Libra (Sept. 23 to Oct. 23) — If you maintain an objective attitude, you will not permit that pompous individual who comes into your life today to upset your plans. Go about your labors methodically, and be romantic in P. M. Smile.

Scorpio (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) — Steer clear of any argument with higher up, associate or one vital to your welfare. Later in the day you can then be out with interesting associates or fellow workers to do very constructive work or round out knowledge.



Sagittarius (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) — Instead of giving in to impulse that would lead you to making very radical and unfortunate changes, see that you renew your efforts in regular daily routine. This impresses a vital person and great benefit comes your way. Be co-operative.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) — While in the morning it may seem necessary to spend money on beauty treatments or clothing you had not planned on, do it cheerfully, because you can now take in those important social functions that will mean much to your future. Be gay.

Aquarius (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) — Take care you do not leave yourself wide open to any unpleasant situation that may arise unexpectedly. Sit back quietly, unperturbed, and watch things work themselves out. Then handle decisively. Expand.

Pisces (Feb. 20 to March 20) — Avoid extravagant spending to make surroundings more attractive A. M. Go about later shopping wisely and economically. Find just the right artistic touches, the small items that will work wonders. P. M. have fun. Entertain.

If your child is born today the fine child born today is the wonderful type who will always be productive and successful because of the ability to stick to detail and precision. However, be sure you give the proper training in spiritual matters so that you can counteract absolutely dedicated materialism. Your progeny deserves the finest education. Cuban Embassy Says Report Not Impartial

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cuban Embassy said Monday night a broadcast by a CBS correspondent was "directed towards the purpose of discrediting the Cuban revolutionary government."

In a TV broadcast Sunday night, Stuart Novins, CBS correspondent, said Cuba is a dictatorship and is fast becoming a Communist beachhead.

In a statement, the Cuban Embassy said Novins' report was "far from being an impartial and unbiased exposition of the real situation in Cuba."

Novins, the embassy said, omitted "aspects favorable to the government in order to sow greater alarm among the television viewers and the American government."

HAVANA (AP) — Fidel Castro's union of the unorganized defeated the Communists in an election Sunday in the Bus Workers Union.

The movement's candidates received 4,400 votes, the Communists 750 and a slate representing the Autentico party 600.

Castro's followers scored victories also in weekend elections in unions of the transportation workers, bus terminal workers and taxi drivers, in which the Communists did not put up their own slates.

Key to Manitoba Vote Seen In 6 North Winnipeg Seats

WINNIPEG (CP) — The key to the May 14 Manitoba election may lie—in six seats in North Winnipeg, all won in the 1958 election by the CCF.

They are in the area where CCF stalwarts Stanley Knowles and Alistair Stewart were upset by Progressive Conservative opponents in the 1958 federal election.

Despite this major setback in the federal ridings of Winnipeg North and Winnipeg Centre, the CCF came back in the June 16 provincial vote to capture Inkster, Burrows, St. John's, Elmwood, Kildonan and Seven Oaks.

The party, which won only 11 seats altogether, held the balance of power in the 57-seat legislature as the Liberals won 19 seats, only one in the Winnipeg area, and the Progressive Conservatives 28. The Conservatives formed a minority government which lasted until they were defeated in the legislature last March 30.

MANY RACES

The area is a racial melting pot lying north of the main transcontinental Canadian Pacific Railway line. An indication of the mixed population is given by the census breakdown for Inkster, which shows: Ukrainian 8,000; Anglo-Saxon 8,000; Germas 3,500; Jewish 2,000.

Political observers feel that at least one of the ridings must cost the CCF before the Progressive Conservative government of Premier Duff Roblin can win a majority in the 57-seat legislature.

The Conservatives Monday started what they called "a maximum participation campaign." Party workers defeated Stanley Knowles last year with such a campaign, in which they worked to get out the non-CCF voters in such numbers as to overcome the hard core of CCF supporters. The CCF group usually does not constitute a majority of voters.

About 100 to 150 Conservative workers are expected to be in action in each of the ridings by election day.

Harry Walsh, one of Winnipeg's best-known criminal lawyers, is credited with reviving the Liberal-Progressive organization in the area and giving the party its best hopes for a successful candidate since 1953.

The Liberals started the North Winnipeg campaign with committed fears that they might not be able to find enough candidates for all the ridings. However, they now claim they have the best candidates they have had in 10 years and have high hopes of winning Kildonan and Elmwood.

The strongest candidate any party has in the area is generally believed to be David Orlikow, who won the St. John's seat handily for the CCF in the 1958 election. His opponents are Conservative Dan Kabaluk, a real estate man; Liberal Abe Kaposky, a lawyer best known as an international chess champion, and Alderman Jacob Penner of the Labor-Progressive Party.

Other CCF candidates include Morris Gray in Inkster, a veteran of 17 years in the legislature; John Hawryluk, who had a majority of nearly two-to-one last year over three other candidates, in Burrows; former mayor Art Wright of West Kildonan in Seven Oaks; Steve Peters in Elmwood, and A. J. Reid in Kildonan.

NEW TO OFFICE

A Liberal veteran, Alex Turk, will contest the Elmwood riding in which he was defeated in 1958. None of the other Liberals have held office before and this also applies to the Conservative candidates.

North Winnipeg has been a stronghold of the Labor-Progressive Party and the party returned a member from the area from 1936 until last year. However, Labor-Progressive candidates in Burrows, Inkster and St. John's have given little chance of regaining the seat lost when W. A. Kardash was defeated last year in Burrows.

The importance of the North Winnipeg seats to the CCF is shown by the fact that the party's membership in the legislature, more than half came from the six seats in the area. A major dent in this core by either of the other two parties could spell disaster for the socialist party and swing the result of the May 14 vote to the party which made the inroads.

TORONTO (CP)—Mr. Justice Walsh Monday approved a settlement awarding $5,000 damages to Audrey Ann Clarke, 11, of Midland, for injuries she suffered when struck by an automobile in July, 1958, while pushing her bicycle. Cecile Vallier, owner of the car, and driver Jack Vallier, both of Midland, were ordered also to pay $1,572 for medical expenses to the girl's father, Russell John Clarke, and $1,000 costs of the action.

Hamilton Judge Thinks Police Paid To Testify

Alleges Lawyers Give Witnesses Extra Fees

HAMILTON (CP) — County Court Judge John S. Latchford has touched off at least one investigation by saying in court Wednesday he had heard it was a practice among Hamilton lawyers to pay policemen more than their witness fees to give evidence on behalf of their clients.

William Snelling, president of the Hamilton Police Association, said a statement on the proceedings has been ordered by the association.

"We are looking into the matter with great concern," he said. "Any action we take will depend on our investigation."

William Schreiber, former secretary of the Hamilton Law Association and a trustee of that group, said he intended to ask the association to review the court proceedings.

The issue arose as Mr. Schreiber called witnesses in defence of Willard Ward, bank clerk charged with $200 arising from an automobile collision more than a year ago.

Mr. Schreiber said his client was liable for only $175, because the damage sustained in the accident was not damaged as alleged.

Constable Atle Sigfridson testified he was investigating a call when Stanley Henyk after the accident and found no damage to the windshield.

Judge Latchford, commenting on the conflict in evidence, said he had heard it was a practice among lawyers to pay policemen for their time in the police court to testify on behalf of their clients.

"How much did you receive?" the judge asked.

"Nothing," the officer said.

DENIES ANY RATE

Asked what the prevailing rate is for policemen, the constable said he knew of no such rate.

Mr. Schreiber interrupted, telling the judge's remarks a reflection on his integrity and that of other lawyers and police court officers in general.

He said the judge's implication was improper and withdrew his case. Mr. Schreiber said he would appear before Justice Judge Latchford again and the judge said that, in fact, he would not appear before him again until the lawyer had apologized.

Later, Judge Latchford ruled the case should be heard by another judge.

Steel Industry Maps Strategy If Strike Comes

NEW YORK (AP) — Steel industry negotiations enter a more serious stage today with disclosure that the industry is mapping strategy for dealing with a possible July 1 strike.

David J. McDonald, steelworkers union president, and R. Conrad Cooper, chief negotiator for U.S. Steel Corporation and the industry, agreed to quit airing differences at joint meetings with reporters after they'd mixed it up a bit at such a session Wednesday.

Cooper confirmed reports that the industry is working on a plan to counter any union divide-and-conquer strike move.

He said that if the union should strike only one or a few industry producers, the others left operating might make the plan share any excess profits with the strike-bound firms.

GENERAL CLOSE POSSIBLE

Cooper also hinted steelmakers are considering shutting down in a common front if one or two are struck. He said the industry is considering all eventualities while hoping to reach a peace pact with the union before the present contract expirations June 30.

While both Cooper and McDonald reflected the surface conformity that has marked their joint meetings with reporters since negotiations opened Tuesday, the union president made it clear that he was unhappy with the industry's mutual aid strike plan. He accused the industry of provoking plant talk.

This led to an exchange between Cooper and McDonald still cordial yet obviously polluted, as to which side has been responsible for past talk strikes.

Cooper said the industry never calls strikes. McDonald countered that neither he nor Philip Murray, the steelworkers union president, "ever issued a strike call." He said steelworkers walk automatically stop working without a successor contract.

Evidence of growing tension was also reflected in the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation and Kaiser Steel Company negotiations with the United Steelworkers' snags and quit early on what McDonald later described as "procedural differences." The bargaining sessions were due to resume today on a calmer note.

Insurance Firms Buy Back Stolen Bonds

TORONTO (CP) — Provincial police are investigating payments made by insurance companies to buy back bonds pilfered securities stolen in a series of 14 safe-deposit vault robberies in Ontario and Quebec, it was learned today.

Chief Inspector W. J. Franks of the criminal investigation bureau said that some insurance companies have brought securities back for lesser amounts rather than suffer the full loss.

He said "there's no doubt that they're doing it and we are investigating."

The investigation is part of one ordered by Attorney-General Roberts of Ontario who has warned that persons or companies they face prosecution if they make deals with criminals who buy back stolen bonds they have insured.

RAP GOVT. PLAN FOR TAX SHARING PARLEY IN JULY

Scheme to Win Elections Claim

OTTAWA (CP) — Echoes of impending provincial elections in Ontario and Manitoba have penetrated the Commons with criticism of the Progressive Conservative government's handling of federal-provincial tax-sharing arrangements.

For the federal Conservatives are trying to win those elections by, among other things, giving the impression that something is going to be done in the very near future" on that matter, J. W. Pickersgill (L-Bonavista-Twillingate) said Wednesday.

Prime Minister Fleming announced earlier that letters were sent Tuesday to provincial treasurers suggesting a two-day closed meeting in Ottawa on tax-sharing, starting July 6. After that, it was suggested, the federal-provincial fiscal mining committee on fiscal and economic matters — consisting of officials — could continue the talks.

CAN'T DECIDE ANYTHING

"This pale imitation conference of bureaucrats," Pickersgill said, referring to the committee. They "cannot decide anything, and I think they should not be allowed to decide anything."

When, he asked, will a proper conference with heads of the provinces be held?

He said he doubts such a full-fledged meeting is contemplated at all. The last such conference involving premiers was held in November, 1957.

Mr. Pickersgill spoke during

Feminine Names For Motor Cars Not Approved

TORONTO (CP) — Beware of the man who gives his car a feminine name—he may be headed for an accident.

The theory was presented at the Canadian Highway Safety Conference by Dr. W. H. Tuthill, associate professor in psychiatry at the University of Western Ontario.

Cars with women's names, he said, suggest they have aggressive drivers.

United States Air Force psychiatrists have found that persons who name cars after women have feminine names on aircraft, and a study showed that there are too many peacetime crashes. Now such naming of aircraft has been banned.

Mentality of motorists was also blamed Wednesday for the fact safety equipment is not standard on cars.

Harold Lee, an engineer with Chrysler Corporation, said there are too many "go" 90 drivers operating vehicles equipped with seat belts who take advantage of them.

FRANCE, GERMANY AGREE

BONN, Germany (AP)—Premier Michel Debre of France and Chancellor Dr. Konrad Adenauer agreed Wednesday they are satisfied with the proposals the West will make to the Soviets. Spokesmen for both government leaders told a press conference Debre and Adenauer applauded the Western package plan adopted at a Paris conference last week.

Three Killed When Sports Car Hit by Train

OTTAWA (CP) — Three persons, including two small children, were killed Wednesday when their sports car was struck and tossed 300 feet by the crack Super - Continental passenger train.

Killed were Peter West, 24, and his landlord's two children, Christine Kendall, 4, and Christopher, 3. West had been rooming with Mr. and Mrs. John Renshaw since coming here from England about two months ago.

Mrs. Renshaw suffered to be travelling at or near the 40-mile-an-hour in - city limit when it struck pedestrians in the area in unprotected Hurdman's Bridge crossing in southeast Ottawa.

Two Horses Sucked Underground, Boy Driving Team Nearly Buried

BADDECK, N.S. (CP)—Police today planned to fill a gaping hole, 40 feet deep and 35 feet across, that sucked two horses underground Wednesday on a farm about 10 miles from here.

A 12-year-old boy was almost dragged in behind the heavy horses coming here from England pulled him out. Hugh Murphy was riding a harrow behind the horses when one of them began sinking. As the second horse began to sink, Gordon Martin Murphy, 61, pulled the struggling boy to safety.

RCMP, who said the cave - in might have resulted from a plaster deposit agitated by thawing frost below the surface, said they planned to dynamite the area to-day to fill in the hole.

Mr. Murphy protested. He said one of the animals may have been still alive in the hole. A policeman said he was certain both animals were dead.

Mr. Murphy said whether I was having a nightmare when I saw the first horse disappear," Mr. Murphy said. "My son was in the hole up to his waist when he grabbed him by the shoulder and threw him aside . . . when the second horse went down I nearly believe their eyes."

Mr. Murphy, who said he planned to try to enter the hole with volunteers today, said he saw one of the horses moving.

Professor W. J. Archibald, head of Dalhousie University's science department, said cave-ins often occur where there are limestone deposits dynamite the earth was eroded by a prolonged flow of water. No mining operations are carried on in the area.

Officials Trying to Untangle Traffic Jam on Welland Canal

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The St. Lawrence Seaway is having growing pains and much of the trouble is at the Welland Canal where officials are trying to untangle a traffic jam.

Officials at Port Weller said a fleet of ships which reached at Wednesday was expected to be cleared today. The ships were waiting to enter the single lock which takes them into the 27½-mile waterway bypassing Niagara Falls between Lake Ontario and Lake Erie.

The bottled-up shipping came up in the House of Commons when Transport Minister Hees blamed it on the momentary "over-popularity" of the seaway which opened for business April 25. He said traffic was light until a pile-up of vessels caused by the ice-delayed opening but he was sure it will be cleared if traffic is under normal operating conditions.

J. T. Ryan, engineer of the seaway's western district, said "we hope the congestion now has reached its peak. But there is no guarantee. . . Guessing when it might be over is a dangerous game."

The vessels waiting to get into the canal are divided about evenly between deepsea freighters of foreign registry and regular lake boats.

A single lock at the Port Weller end of the canal lifts vessels from Lake Ontario level. Each time it is lowered it brings an upbound ship along.

Traffic downbound from Lake Erie has not been delayed. Volume has been normal.

Another bottleneck was reported in the Detroit River between Lake Erie and Lake St. Clair. Steady winds have narrowed the channel and the situation may not be cleared before the weekend.

Officials of foreign lines in Toronto said it was almost certain that ships already in the Great Lakes would lose money.

The smallest of the foreign freighters cost about 500 a day

Ont. C.C Urges Long-Term Credit for Tourist Expansion

KINGSTON (CP) — Long-term credit facilities to enable operators of tourist establishments to improve their accommodation was urged in a resolution passed unanimously by the Ontario Chamber of Commerce.

Passage of the recommendation overrode one by the policy committee for deletion of part recommending credit facilities.

The resolution, proposed by Percy Hobbs, Peterborough, and the chamber establish a committee to investigate all phases of tourist development in the province and, in particular, study ways and means of making available long-term credit facilities to operators of tourist establishments for capital improvements.

A resolution already in the chamber's statement of policy and recommending specific financing for provincial legislation to provide for long-term mortgages.

The resolutions committee said this was against the chamber's concept of freedom of enterprise; commented that other small businesses might also face such loans and added that the provincial government should not go into the loan business.

The Peterborough resolution did not spell out just how the credit facilities might be provided, but supporters of the loans didn't seem to object to any government agency that might be required to accomplish the purpose.

Herbert E. Brown, speaking for North Bay chamber, said he felt there might be some financial loans would be contrary to freedom of enterprise.

Four provinces already had similar legislation.

Representatives of Orillia and Picton also spoke in support of the resolution, which was carried by a large majority.

Remarkable New Star Born at Covent Garden

LONDON (CP) — The News Chronicle greets Lynn Seymour in Covent Garden debut with the headline: "A remarkable new star is born."

The Royal Ballet's 20-year-old prima ballerina Fay Gascoigne has similarly enthusiastic notices from other London ballet critics for her performance in the taxing double role of Odette-Odile in Tchaikovsky's Swan Lake.

"Apparently undaunted by her first important appearance at Covent Garden, she gave us an enchanting performance, complete with the best dancers of her time," writes Oliver Merrevale in the Daily Mail. "Lynn Seymour will soon be a major star in the Covent Garden firmament."

GORDON BLUNT WITH MP'S ON CNR MATTERS

'Fire Us if Not Efficient' He Says

OTTAWA (CP)—"If you come to the conclusion that we are not an efficient management, for God's sake fire the lot of us."

That was the advice of Donald Gordon, $75,000-a-year president of the CNR, to the Commons railway committee Wednesday.

Mr. Gordon proposed that the committee deal with policy matters in questioning him during his appearance as witness and leave to Parliament about the public-owned company's affairs.

His suggestion was in favorable reaction from MPs.

DON'T BIND AGAIN

Lionel Chevrier (L—Montreal Laurier) urged that the committee "not attempt to bind" suggestions from the CNR president on how to improve committee procedure.

Mr. Gordon said he sympathizes with the fact that some MPs feel they have to ask him questions about local matters in their constituencies "and then be dumped on for preparation for his appearances before committees and the amount of paper work "frightening."

His remarks were preceded by the CNR said there was a steady increase in passenger traffic since it began study of CNR affairs. Hugh Horner (PC—Jasper-Edson), the price at which a piece of CNR property was sold in 1947.

Mr. Phillips' request was turned down by a vote of 10 to 4.

Other points brought out in Mr. Gordon's statement:

1. A seven-per-cent increase in traffic would put the CNR in the black.

2. The CNR management in the last three or two years "created" new capital revision for the company, by undertaken by Parliament in 1932. Capital to modernize the railway now had to be considered.

TORONTO (CP) — The first charge here involving smuggling from an ocean-going ship since the opening of the St. Lawrence Seaway was laid after Wednesday night against a British sailor, the RCMP announced.

Walter John Reid, 28, arrested at the waterfront as he was about to enter a taxi, was charged with possessing 31 pairs of shoes smuggled into Canada aboard the Manchester Prospector.

An Evening With Fred Astaire Wins Nine Emmys for Great TV Show

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Fred Astaire won so many Emmys Wednesday night—nine—that the TV Academy almost ran out of presenters.

"An evening with Fred Astaire," acclaimed as one of television's great musical shows, was nominated in nine categories by the academy—and won them all.

"It's wonderful, but it's embarrassing," said Astaire, whose dancing gait belies his 60 years. "It got so I didn't know what the hell to say."

The sweep for the stage and movie veteran began to form so early that when the ninth award was announced, Astaire's choreographing crew had already stenciled in Astaire's name before Ed Sullivan opened the envelope.

Score Trapped When New York Plant Collapses

Hundreds Try to Reach Those Pinned in Debris

WESTBURY, N.Y. (AP) — A 5-large industrial building being erected by scores of workers collapsed with an ear-shattering roar shortly before 11 a.m. EDT today. At least one man was killed. A number were injured and an estimated 30 were trapped in the wreckage.

Hundreds of rescue workers hurried to the scene and tore at the mounds of twisted steel girders and splintered planking with their bare hands in an effort to free trapped laborers.

For a time shrieks and cries arose from the heap of rubble, lying on the floor of the one-storey building.

Giant cranes were sped to the site to help heavier segments and permit rescue teams to crawl underneath.

TAKE AMBULANCES

Ambulances roared away at frequent intervals with injured. Eight or more were taken to hospitals.

The building was under construction at the Westbury industrial park about 30 miles east of New York. It was a one-storey job. The steel framework had been put up and roofing and siding were about to be under way. The structure, 200 feet long and 150 feet wide, was to house an electronics firm.

A steel girder in the roof was believed to have given way, causing the avalanche of steel and wood to cascade down.

As many as 100 workmen were believed to have been on the job, at the time the roof.

When the crash came with little or no warning, there was a wild scramble for safety. Some made it. One group of 15 men had left the building an instant before the collapse.

KEEPS ARMY MOVING

Al Long, at work on a nearby building, gave this description:

"All I saw was men running. A cut from under the thing as it fell. Some made it but others didn't. The entire roof just fell over."

Another witness, Verge Abbatiello also standing nearby, said: "I heard a tremendous noise, and turned around. There was thick smoke rising up from the wreck. I heard a few screams."

There was no fire, and Abbatiello apparently mistook dust for smoke.

Police Boarding Party Searches Polish Liner

MONTREAL (CP)—An RCMP boarding party Wednesday night searched the Polish liner Batory after customs officers found a quantity of liquor.

Liquor an RCMP official said was removed from the vessel earlier "by other passengers or visitors."

Results of the search were not disclosed.

The police official said the liquor confiscated had been smuggled into Canada from the ship during her previous visit here.

The Batory arrived here Wednesday from Gdynia, Poland, with 466 passengers.

Liberal Leader Repeats Demand For New Deal

WOODSTOCK (CP) — Ontario Liberal Leader John Wintermeyer has repeated his demand that the province assume a greater share of education costs.

He also told a Liberal nomination meeting, which filled the auditorium of Woodstock Collegiate Institute Wednesday night, that top education costs could be called to a conference of provincial and municipal officials to try to smooth out mounting differences between councils and school boards over budgets.

Gordon (Sparky) Innes was nominated again as party candidate in the provincial election.

Mr. Wintermeyer said the province should be willing to assume the basic cost of education, less what is required to preserve the autonomy of local school boards.

He said that if a Liberal government is elected June 11, it will complete Highway 401 within five years. Plans of the Frost government call for completion by 1963.

At a press conference earlier, Mr. Wintermeyer said highways revenue should be divorced from the general budget.

"Gasoline taxes and licence revenue will be quite sufficient to pay for any program," he said.

He predicted his party would win more than 38 seats in the 98-seat legislature. At dissolution the Liberals held 11.

Churchill Tours Eisenhower Farm In Golf Cart

WASHINGTON (AP)—Picture Prime Minister Churchill sipping around President Eisenhower's farm in a baby-blue electric golf cart. There's a cigar clenched in his jaw and he's wearing a cowboy hat.

Picture Eisenhower driving the golf cart—and a sagging of a to the right under the Churchillian bulk as they whip over the gravel roads.

That was the scene Wednesday afternoon as the 84-year-old former prime minister of Britain and the U.S. president took a shower acres at Gettysburg, Pa., under a blazing sun.

TAKE HELICOPTER

Later they switched to a Marine Corps helicopter for an aerial inspection of the Gettysburg battlefield.

The British visitor obviously enjoyed the trip.

Churchill clutched his goldtipped cane as he eased into the golf buggy alongside the White House pressman. The passenger was wearing a pin - striped business suit, white shirt, cowboy hat—a broad brimmed white job given to him by Texas friends.

Then the first stop was a big cattle barn. There Eisenhower proudly pointed out his herd.

"They are black angus, all of them," the president told his guest.

TALK OF BATTLE

Back home, Churchill rested in a comfortable chair on the glassed-in sun porch and chatted with Mrs. Eisenhower in their Gettysburg. A presidential aide reported that Churchill is just about as familiar with the general strategy and the fine points as Eisenhower is.

They flew back to the White House where Wednesday evening Eisenhower gave another stag dinner honoring Churchill. Only the president's chief officers, congressional leaders and other friends of both the presidents and Sir Winston.

Canadian Boat Found Fishing In Ohio Waters

LORAIN, Ohio (AP) — Wildlife officials Wednesday seized a Canadian tug and arrested its skipper on charges of fishing in Ohio waters without a license and using illegal gill nets. Ohio regulates the time this type of net may be used.

The skipper, James MacDonald Jr., of Manjoloke, Ont., is to appear in municipal court today. Officials said the tug is registered out of Wheatley, Ont.

The fishermen were spotted by wildlife officers in a tug 10 miles inside Ohio waters on Lake Erie northwest of here.

Officers Warren Handwerk and Paul Guerra said the Canadian boat was loaded with sheepshead and pickerel. The boat and fish were seized as evidence. The officers said they found five miles of gill netting placed by the Canadian fishermen in Ohio waters.

Publisher of Boating Guide Visits City on 2000-Mile Tour

Two thousand miles is a long way to travel, at this or any other time of the year, whether the voyager cares to go by auto, train, or plane — but how about by motorboat? Yesterday about noon two intrepid sailors docked at Belleville with their 17-foot outboard and with a midcovered motor. These two hardy adventurers, Reg Fife and Phil Lange, from Montreal have just completed their journey through the St. Lawrence River system as far as Belleville.

Getting at best, not on such a day as yesterday with the water calm and glassy, a speed of 19.5 knots is not to be sneezed at, one of the necessities which add to the glamor of yachting, Messrs. Fife and Langley will be steering a course to Trenton, Toronto, Welland, Buffalo, Erie, Cleveland, Toledo, Detroit, Port Huron, Sarnia, Windsor, back to the Welland Canal and then overland to Midland and down the Trent waterway, then once more to Sidney and up the Rideau system to Ottawa, then down the Ottawa to Montreal and home!

There is method behind these antics. Mr. Fife is the publisher of the Boating Guide Annual, a move or less technical guide book to boating facilities, harbor conditions, and the thousand and one things which a sailor or motorboater would find of use in taking a cruise to another port. In the issue which will appear soon the facts are assembled first hand each year by Mr. Fife before the opening of the pleasure craft season and published in five editions covering data on ports and facilities on Lake Ontario the Seaway and Lake Champlain, the Montreal-Lake Champlain route; the Trent Waterway system; and the Lake Erie-Lake St. Clair area.

NUMBER OF INCIDENTS

The trip however is not a mere fact-finding cruise. Just east of Alexandria Bay, N.Y. the boating enthusiasts came across a tug and barge stranded in mid-river. Their motorboat made up the ship's radio out of commission A new set was secured and the ship's radio out of commission A new set was secured and the ship's radio out of commission A new set was secured and

TB Controlled, Not Eradicated Association Told at Meeting By Dr. C. Jeanes of Ottawa

"Tuberculosis is now under control but by no means eradicated," Dr. C. W. L. Jeanes of Ottawa, executive assistant of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, told the annual meeting of the Hastings County T.B. Association last night at Hotel Quinte.

Stressing the fact the work of voluntary T.B. associations and the interest of the general public is just as vital and essential today as in the past, Dr. Jeanes disclosed in 1958 there were 7,457 new cases discovered throughout the country. This brings the total to 40,000 known cases under treatment.

He disclosed there were 11,949 admissions to sanitoria last year, of which 3,640 were readmissions.

Although the death rate has been reduced from 8,744 in 1939 to 1,050 in 1958, the speaker emphasized there is still a great deal of work to be done by active T.B. associations, in raising funds, in case findings (a vital part of association work), in organizing mass X-ray surveys, and tuberculin testing, and particularly in the education of the patients, their families, and the general public. Rehabilitation of patients — training them for suitable employment following their release from a sanitorium —and social service, were also part of association work.

Speaking of the local association Dr. Jeanes stated he was highly impressed with the work being carried out by the Hastings County T.B. Association.

Describing the provincial T.B. picture, the Ottawan, who has travelled all over the United States and Canada on an English N.T.A. travelling scholarship prior to accepting his present position, says there are stated 1,274 new cases of T.B. were discovered last year. A total of 188 people died in Ontario of which 130 were men and 156 over the age of 50.

LISTS SEVERAL PROBLEMS

He listed several "problem" groups where T.B. was found to be most prevalent. These included the elder age group, who generally were reluctant to get X-rayed, hospital admissions, long hundred workers, recipients of public assistance, bush camp workers and inmates of jails.

"These special groups make the work of associations more profitable," he said in stressing the particular importance of chest X-rays and tuberculin testing for people in these groups.

Exploding a recent fallacy, the speaker stated, "It is dangerous thinking that sanitoria be closed because of the great deal of publicity being given the number of empty beds in T.B. hospitals."

Dr. Jeanes explained possibly the reason for this was T.B. patients not returning home but within six to nine months today, while a few years ago they had to remain in sanitoria for from 18 months to three years.

The speaker particularly emphasized the importance of adequate hospital facilities in the cure of patients, and the risk of infection to family and friends if a patient returned to home. He also noted patients who remain at home usually do not follow their doctor's rules.

Noting contradictory publicity regarding "radiation dangers" from chest X-rays," Dr. Jeanes declared there is absolutely no danger in an ordinary chest X-rays. He said a patient would receive 1,000 chest x-ray exposures before he would receive a dangerous dose of radiation. He also said all X-ray apparatus in Ontario is checked by the Department of Health and reported to be entirely safe.

In closing the speaker disclosed future plans for T.B. associations include research into lung cancer. In an interview afterward the one-time head of the Grenadier Guards, England, Clinic, stated "there is a definite link between smoking and lung cancer."

He noted the Canadian T.B. Association, the oldest voluntary health organization in Canada, will celebrate its 60th birthday next year, and invited local members to attend the special observance in Ottawa.

Dr. Jeanes was introduced by Dr. J. R. McSherry in the absence of Dr. Frank Hallman, and thanked by Ald. Effie McCalpe.

SURVEY PLANNED

The meeting was under the chairmanship of Gordon Reid, who, before he gave a brief address noting the association's big project last year was the tuberculin testing of students in grades 9 and 12 carried out last October and November. He said the Association had a "very satisfactory year," and disclosed next year it will undertake a mass chest X-ray survey of Hastings county. Other plans include the installation of equipment, as well as the giving of the usual donation, to Ongwanada Sanatorium in Kingston; and a donation to a special branch of the national organization set up to distribute funds to family unsound associations.

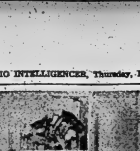
The treasurer's report, given by Frank Lang in the absence of Ben Vanower, showed the association is in a sound financial condition.

The secretary's report was presented by Mrs. A. N. Hallam, who was chosen one of five members of the planning committee for the Secretary's Conference for this year.

Annual reports of committee chairmen were read. The seal sale report was given by Mrs. Frank Lang, who reported a total of $15,000 was collected through the annual Christmas Seal campaign; an increase of over $1,500 from last year.

Case finding chairman W. B. Sheffield of Madoc reported 2,000 clinics were held in Trenton, Marmora and Bancroft, and in the city jail. A total of 21,015 students in grades 9 and 12 were tuberculin tested, a worthwhile program for positive reactors is being carried out. He also reported the Board of management has authorized tuberculin testing be carried out annually.

Mr. Art Bridge, social and rehabilitation chairman, noted the work of this committee during the past year was more along general lines. Visits were made to local patients in the Kingston Sanatorium, gifts and clothing were distributed to patients and fuel was purchased for needy patients in the Sanatorium. A total of 15 local people were patients in the Kingston T.B. hospital during the past year, but there have since been discharged.



Mr. M. Atkinson, health education chairman, as per T.B. policy, gave an inspiring report on how he conquered tuberculosis.

Noting that there was now forget films and lectures on T.B. films at his disposal, he stated he would rather aim his talk at the adult group. He lauded Gordon Reid, Mr. and Mrs. Bridge in the local social and rehabilitation work and urged continuing financial backing by the public next year.

Dr. J. R. McSherry, Dr. J. B. McSherry, gave a report of the meeting of the provincial association medical advisory board meeting in Toronto last October, which he attended. He disclosed a surprising fact brought out at the meeting was that a person with a positive tuberculin test and a negative X-ray, was still a public hazard, and should have a chest X-ray annually.

A brief welcoming address on behalf of the city to residents from outside Belleville was given by Aldermanic Editor D. Tice, in the absence of Mayor Gerwin H. Hyde.

A cheque for $1,000 was presented to Dr. George McCrack- Harry Rollins.

Railways Ordered to Put Reflective Markings on Cars

OTTAWA (CP)—Canadian railways were ordered today to start putting reflective markings on boxcars in a trial campaign aimed at reducing level crossing crashes.

The ruling by the board of transport commissioners will apply to new boxcars bought by the railways between last Friday and the end of next year, and to an equal number of old boxcars as they come in for refitting.

Eighty per cent of the cost, up to $8 for each car, will be paid out of the government-financed railway grade crossing fund. The railways will pay the rest of the cost.

The order, dated May 1 and made public today, did not specify the type of markings to be applied. The railways will submit designs which will be subject to board approval.

The decision means that about 12,000 CNR and CPR boxcars a year will get the new markings. The ruling noted that the CPR has about 3,000 new cars a year and the CNR some 2,100.

In hearings before the board, the railways questioned the effectiveness of the move. Only Wednesday CPR President Donald Gordon, appearing before a Commons committee, said he regards the markings as a purely theoretical trap and that he is against them unless they are also applied to United States railway cars, which are often used on Canadian lines.

The board's judgment noted that the CPR has about 58,500 freight cars—60 per cent of them boxcars—and the CNR has some 108,000 freight cars, 40 per cent boxcars.

The railways had estimated the cost of putting markings on all cars would range from $1,665,000 to $3,000,000 over a six-year period. The cost would be double that on the type of cars which up to $61.50 a car for a continuous reflector strip four inches wide.

The board noted that legislation to require similar markings on U.S. railway cars is before Congress and said a start in Canada should not be delayed until a similar U.S. law is passed.

Milk Producers Agree to Take Price Cuts

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario milk producers agreed Wednesday night to take price cuts on milk intended for manufactured products.

The temporary agreement between the Concentrated Milk Producers Board and the Ontario Concentrated Milk Manufacturers Association averted a "strike" by producers set for this morning.

Some dairy farmers had threatened to dump their milk rather than accept the 40-cents-a-hundredweight price cut demanded by manufacturers of milk products.

Farmers will lose from 25 to 35 cents a hundredweight on their milk, depending on which product it is intended for, but a government subsidy of 25 cents per hundredweight will offset most of the loss.

RETROACTIVE TO MAY 1

Charles Milton, secretary-treasurer of the board, said the agreements and any future agreements will be retroactive to May 1.

The new slate of officers for 1959-60 was presented by Mr. N. C. Wilbur, chairman of the nominating committee, and adopted unanimously.

Following a lovely chicken dinner, an impromptu sing-song was held, with Mr. James Dorrell at the piano.

MINISTER OF ENERGY RESOURCES

Hon. Robert Macaulay has been given a portfolio - - and an important one. He has been selected by Premier Leslie Frost to fill the newly-created position of Minister of Energy Resources.

Premier Frost says that the new department will deal with Ontario's energy resources, especially natural gas and uranium, and will also help to solve financial problems in the development of electrical energy.

Time alone will tell whether this is the proper method of dealing with a difficult situation created by the arrival on the Ontario scene of natural gas from Western Canada. If the future of uranium as a fuel were the only addition to the province's energy picture, the government could probably have dispensed with an energy resources minister, since at present the only way in which this fuel is likely to be utilized is through the production of electricity and that would fall within the scope of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission.

Mr. Frost says that Mr. Macaulay's appointment will in no way alter the relationship of the HEPC with the government.

One may be pardoned for wondering, though, whether it is wise to have Mr. Macaulay retain his position as second vice-chairman of the HEPC. May there not come a time when he may be placed in the impossible position of being required to serve two masters, of finding himself in his role as minister of energy resources called upon to adjudicate a dispute involving the interests of natural gas companies and the HEPC, while he is an official of the latter body?

ONE LAW WE CAN DO WITHOUT

The Windsor Star predicts that laws forcing a home owner to paint his premises and carry out repairs may result from the work of a new committee, formed by Hon. W. M. Nickle, Ontario Minister of Planning and Development.

The Windsor Star approves.

"This will be specially welcomed by home owners who maintain bright and lovely looking homes and grounds, but who have neighbors who let their property run down," it says.

Agreed. It will delight the community planners, the lovers of the home beautiful and the municipal assessors.

It will annoy a few non-conformists, people who would rather read, or listen to music, or fish or drink beer than participate in a co-operative effort to improve the appearance of the community.

The only people it will really hurt will be a few aging residents down on their luck, endeavoring to eke out their declining years in their homes of happier days, too old to labor themselves to keep the place looking as it once did and too poor to pay for having the work done by others.

A law to compel a landlord to maintain rented premises properly is one thing; a law forcing the owner to keep his own home looking as smart as his neighbors think it should is another. Let's hear no more of this nonsense.

NEED EMERGENCY BRAKES

Miracles cannot be made to order. There is no guarantee that the next time the brakes on a school bus fail the occupants will escape as lightly as those in the vehicle which plunged off a wharf at Barrie after travelling nearly a mile through the city, out of control.

Of course, it is also true that mechanical failures of this nature are very rare. - Still, it has been proved that they do happen. Even regular safety inspections are no complete safeguard against sudden mechanical troubles.

Perhaps commercial passenger-carrying vehicles should be required to have two completely separate braking systems. If memory serves us right, there was a day when some cars were so equipped. Certainly it would not be impossible to provide such a standby braking system. To require all motor vehicles to be so equipped might be too expensive. But for buses, and even heavy trucks which could take a heavy toll of life if they ran wild, such a system ought to receive some consideration.

THE DRAWBACK

By EDGAR A. GUEST

I love the blushes of the rose,
The violet's fragrant sweet.
I love each tender flower that grows,
The clover at my feet;
Each merry lilac, each nodding head
O sunflowers, round and big.
I love them all. But how I dread
To take the spade and dig.

Sweet peas that bloom beside the fence,
Nasturtiums, dwarf and tall,
The lilies's purple clusters dense,
I dearly love them all.
But, oh, the price that I must pay
To have them seems too big.
I'd rather loaf the hours away
Than buckle in and dig.

Our lives are gardens, after all
We often sit and sigh
Because our pleasures are but small,
And ever wonder why.
We, too, would like to taste of fame
And own a fortune big.
But we sit idly in the game
And shirk, when we should dig.

HISTORIC BELLEVILLE

(Article 79 contributed by members of the Hastings County Historical Society.)

WESTWARD HO!

Louis Riel's return to Western Canada from the United States was the signal for a second uprising among half-breeds.

Unlike the first disturbances in 1869-70, when Thomas Scott, a native of Hastings County, was executed and died, the second rebellion was a bloody affair.

Fred A. R. M. Lower of Queen's University sums up the background of the rebellion in this way:

"The grievances of the Metis upon the Saskatchewan were similar to those of their brethren previously upon the Red. Again a small group on the edge of civilization had been overtaken by the advancing frontiers of the English - Candian, again they were worried for fear they would lose their lands, again delay, ignorance and mismanagement on the part of governments intensified their fears until at last they found a leader.

Riel placed himself at the head of the Saskatchewan half-breeds, and was successful in enlisting some Indian aid.

There, on March 26th, 1885, the halfbreeds defeated a troop of North West Mounted Police under Superintendent L. F. N. Crozier, believed to be a native of the Belleville area.

Before the news of this open rebellion was known in the city, militia companies in Belleville were thrown into a flutter by the ruling that the Quinte Rifles, the 15th Battalion, Hastings Rifles, and one of the Field Batteries of Argyll Light Infantry, had been ordered to prepare for active service.

These rumors proved to be well-founded, and on Tuesday, March 28, official word was received of the creation of the Midland Military District (under command of Col. William Hope of Port Hope) to which the local regiments were to each send a company.

"Sunday morning rose bright and clear. At 8.45 o'clock the fire alarm pealed from the matinet tower, calling the red coated troops to their colors. Many volunteered to serve in the Midland Battalion, and the Armory was kept open all day to accommodate the volunteers.

Later Sunday night the 'Extra' was issued from the Intelligencer office. This was greedily sought after by an anxious crowd outside, and the Rev. J. B. Clarke read a copy of the extra from his pulpit in Bridge Street Methodist Church."

Very early Monday morning, the men of the Provisional Company assembled at the Armory, 95 strong.

By 10 o'clock, when they were lined up in front of the Grand Trunk Railway Station, the crowds were quite large. "Traffic on the street was an impossibility."

Nevertheless, a path was cleared for the valiant recruits, who marched down Bridge Street and turned right onto Front Street. There the band struck up the tune "Come All Ye Irish Lads and Lassies floated gaily to the breeze."

Preceded by the Frankford band, the troops marched along Front Street and Bill Street (now Station Street) to the station, where a large crowd awaited them.

Fortunately, the train was an hour late, and all had time to say goodbye to families and friends and to contemplate what they were in for here for them in the Canadian Northwest.

When Robots Go on Strike

Hamilton Spectator

It is sad to reflect how the human brain has been pushed into an inferior role in so many areas of activity by the electronic machine. The big books in which men and women in former times wrote little figures have been replaced by cards and severely by punched sheets on which machines record with chilly impersonality the daily drudgery of business. The click of the computer and not the sound of the human voice is now the music of the office.

And now, as though it were not bad enough that electronic machines translating books in the classics, they are invading the emptiness of space with the logic of higher mathematics and trying to break the bank of Monte Carlo, some mathematician has had to invent a device that will do the work of editors!

There is, however, comfort in the thought that when electronic devices go mad they do so in a curiously human way. There are no half measures.

In Britain the other day, computers at the Rosyth dockyard and the Admiralty research establishment at Teddington were conscious no doubt of waiting wives at home, formed up for their evening out and left the office staff helpless beside the idle machines which had been doing everything so smooth and easy. Nor was it possible in the circumstances to get any sillies out of them cursing the robots for, with all their mathematical genius, they lacked the quality of human sympathy the occasion most demanded.

In the confusion that resulted from the machines' refusal to work IOUs were handed out for meals, vouchers for railway travel and allowances to "tide over" the insolvent. Some men were handsomely overpaid and many others defied subsequent unpaid.

The revolt of an obedient mechanical slave is apt to arouse greater disappointment and anger than human inefficiency for which excuses can often be found on the grounds that man is not infallible. But when machines fail there is no satisfaction in abuse and no reward in punishment.

Cucumber Isn't Cool

Watertown Times

Those familiar sayings, similes and analogies used so frequently are just as much a part of science as of literature. A cucumber is not really cool. Nobody could be as warm as toast in these revelations come about with the use of a new gadget, a thermometer for specializing in electric products. Portable potentiometer for taking and making temperatures in all sorts of places — which were formerly inaccessible, as in business and industry, were employed in the making of the greater side of life. A test-engineering team applying scientific methods to the trade and familiar sayings that have been with us for years, came up with some facts as:

A cucumber is not cool. Inside it tests 99.5 degrees, its skin reads 71.8 degrees.

Nobody could be as warm as toast is at 212 degrees. But within a few minutes the temperature grops to 76 or 78 degrees.

News "hot off the presses" was recorded as being 92 degrees — eight to ten degrees above room temperature.

Ice cubes in tea are not as hot as song and fable tell us. A sampling with the thermometer's mercury needle to only 92 degrees.

A cold shoulder has a temperature of 98.7 degrees. When a person slightly hot under the collar has his steam up to 102 degrees.

Will the debunking of these old familiar sayings ever suddenly change the manner of speech? Hardly. It's been going on for years. Believe may have proved we don't know what we are talking about when these expressions, but we'll go right on using them just the same.

Strength for The Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

A WORD TO DRIFTERS

A boat enters the locks at the location of a dam on the river. It has come in at the lower level. It requires lifting to a higher level. The water begins to flow into the locks. The boat gradually rises to the level of the water above the dam. The gates of the lock open and the boat glides out on the higher level, to continue its cruise.

Not unlike life, for life is something like an ascent up a river from submerged bars and there with dams. These dams in the stream of life represent the difficulties, the impediments, the obstacles we encounter on the cruise. The only known way to ascend is by the methods employed in getting boats through the locks. The boat must be raised to a higher level. That is the simple method used for getting boats past the obstacles of the dam. The process of the dam makes rising to a higher level a necessity.

Life is an upstream matter. The most mistaken people in the world are those who think it is a downstream matter, and that obstacle and barriers that appear are just thrown across in front of the boat's progress. And after every dam we proceed along on a distinctly higher level.

Rising does it — not drifting.

Brigadier Seeks Wife

Windsor Star

It is a common, if not always successful, practice for girls from this continent to seek husbands among the nobility, or even the quasi-nobility, of Europe. Their chances are enhanced if they be beautiful, possessed of great wealth, and willing to marry members of the nobility.

This sort of social climbing isn't confined to the female sex according to the editor of Debrett's Peerage. Every time a new edition is put out he gets a letter from a Canadian bridegroom seeking a title for his woman of sufficient social status to put him in the social swim.

The persistence of this gallant gentleman certainly deserves success. Perhaps if the editor of Debrett's Peerage really wanted to help around he might find some lady willing to be a brigadier's wife. It would be much to ask that she be rich and beautiful. The fellow might be willing to settle for social status alone.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In the outer office of a crony of mine with whom I was going to lunch I passed a rather interesting looking man seated wistfully. And he had a well-worn briefcase at his feet.

"You're waiting to see you," I said to my lunch date.

"I said he," My secretary didn't mention anyone."

He went to the door and invited the man in.

It was a touch. The man was a stranger to my friend, but had been recommended to him by a mutual friend.

It seems the stranger was expecting, momentarily, a considerable sum of money from the sale of a property in which he was interested, but unfortunately had run short of ready cash.

My friend, who has lots of money himself, agreed with it, on the stranger short.

"But have you no friends, no family," he said, "or no one with whom you are acquainted to whom you can turn."

"I can repay you in a week," interrupted the stranger with fine dignity.

"You," said my friend, nodding the stranger to the door, "must have led a very strange life indeed if at your age, you have no friends or relatives to whom you can turn for assistance. Good day."

It seems as good grounds as any for disobliging total strangers.

BEE STINGS CAN BE TOXIC AND DANGEROUS

"Dear Dr. Molner: Could you explain the effect of bee stings? My son, 18 years old, has a hobby of raising honey bees but he swells badly from the stings. Could this prove to be dangerous? He has been advised to stay away from bees, but no reason was given. —Mrs. A.B.

I wouldn't like to tell the boy to give up his hobby and just "staying away from bees" is too easy a solution.

It is better that he understand the problem and act accordingly. Bee stings can be dangerous. It is a matter of sensitivity or hypersensitivity. As with other things when hypersensitivity (or allergy) is involved, the first sting may cause no harm, but it "sensitizes" the victim, and thereafter every sting in the same material (whether bee venom or something else) touches off the allergic reaction.

These reactions can be quite severe.

On the other hand, some beekeepers seem to be immune to stings. We believe that they develop a resistance to the bee venom, and this seems to me to be entirely reasonable, since the same thing happens with all sorts of other materials. Poison sumac, while it affects most people, is still just a chemical which is powerful to some.

Dr. J. W. Thomas recently provided us with a comprehensive report on this subject, and he lists quite a few insects whose bites or stings are toxic: the ant, bedbug, caddis fly, deer fly, house fly, mosquito, sand fly, tsetse fly, wasp and many others.

After a sting the honey bee leaves its ace of venom in the skin and the sac continues to pump it. Again, bumblebees, jackets and bumble bees don't leave the sac in the skin. They leave the sac in the skin. They can sting again if, for example, a number of allergies. It is quite successful, and I should think it is well work considering with this boy.

Aside from that, a sting for anyone to receive allergy (exciting material) requires prompt treatment if the victim is highly sensitive.

With bee stings, sometimes the doctor must inject adrenalin. Cold packs may be applied, moistened with some alkali (like bicarbonate of soda or weak ammonia). These help neutralize the venom, which is acid in nature.

If possible, the sac of venom should be removed as promptly as possible, to prevent the rest of it from oozing into the system. It could be that a tourniquet (tying it on an extremity) would be useful.

All this the young man ought to know about. He knows he is sensitive, but so long as he is aware of the issue, I don't see why he should have to give up his hobby.

"Dear Dr. Molner: Would you put an article in your column about measles and the seriousness of this disease? I have a friend who thinks measles isn't anything to worry about. — J.A.B."

No, I don't believe I'll write another column on it but you are quite right. I already have a leaflet available, and the title is "Measles, the Dreaded Killer." It is so named because too many people think measles isn't anything serious. Well, the leaflet is available by sending 5 cents in coin for handling charges and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to Dr. Molner, care of this paper, Sun-Times Syndicate, P.O. Box 158, Dundee, Illinois.

Good Old Days In Far North

Ottawa Journal

There has been recently a great deal of romantic talk to the effect that the while man has brought the Eskimo nothing but trouble. The Eskimo, it is said, was happiest knowing only his primitive culture, when he was uncontaminated by alien ways.

The while man's ways undoubtedly have contained some upheaval and some unfortunate deterioration of old traditions. But the little story that Health Minister Monteith re-told the other day in parliament about the Ellesmere Island Eskimos' old days were not all good. Even the while man's arrival, an old Eskimo told a doctor, this was life in the Arctic:

"There I small, bedtime have spear. He hungry he go walk place. Polar bear hungry too he walk over ice. They look at each other and both say, "Well, one of us going to eat!"

If the white man has brought some problems to the North with him, he has also solved some pretty fundamental ones.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE RIGHT THING

The way to do the right thing is to ignore the wrong thing. The right and wrong in people and things is there always, and the wrong at the same time.

Do the right thing — first.

Then follow up that right thing by doing the right thing so that the wrong thing will have to retire! We have it in us to choose the right or wrong thing. It's a choice of the heart and of will. It's the choice of to do the right thing first because it can take less time, and eliminates the wrong without giving it a chance. Again I say —

Do the right thing first.

For just as soon as you begin to do the right thing, the wrong thing walks off. It is inspiring to note the way a big, successful man's brain works. An important problem is placed before him. Immediately, without parley, his keen, thinking apparatus goes to work. He decides to do the right thing — he doesn't even consider the wrong thing.

Do the right thing — first.

For if you do the right thing first, there will be no need to do the thing any other way. One of the truest reasons why we do not always do our best is that we are afraid we shall do our worst, whereas the moment we decide that there shall be no worst, we do the best. It is the first book of action. to —

D he right thing o— first.

University Students Will Have To Scramble for Summer Jobs In Order to Pay Fees Next Yr.

By CAROLYN WILLETT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Canadian university undergraduates will have to scramble for summer jobs to finance another college year.

The general outlook for student aid is not bright but there are hopes of improvement as summer draws nearer.

Although many placement officers said it still is too early to say how successful all summertime job-hunters will be, their prospects are shadowed by two major factors—students far outnumber jobs and employers already have a large unemployed labor force from which to draw workers.

A Canadian Press cross-Canada survey shows that job prospects vary from "comparatively good" in some areas of the Maritimes provinces and British Columbia to "bad" and "tough" in Montreal, Toronto and Ottawa.

FEES INCREASING

With tuition fees rising and an average university year costing between $1,500 and $2,500, many students must use holiday earnings to pay education expenses.

A bureau of statistics survey of 1956-57 found 28 per cent of the student survey groups had summer jobs which averaged $488 for the season.

This season, the summer employment picture appears about the same as last year when there were fewer jobs compared with opportunities in previous years.

However, students seeking summer jobs lined up. They're heading off to breweries, Alberta's oil fields, construction sites, northern mines, offices and summer resorts.

David Stewart, second - year education student at the University of British Columbia, will star with the Vancouver Festival Opera. Stanley B. Knight, a UBC arts student, plans to spend half the summer real hunting and the rest as a recreation director on a resort island.

One Dalhousie University engineer plans to do odd jobs around Halifax while another "Dal" man marks high school examination papers.

NEED MEN AT CAMPS

Openings for camp swimming instructors and counsellors are numerous. With room and board free, the monthly pay starts at about $80.

"You have to be a philanthropist to work at a summer camp," said Laurent Isabelle, University of Ottawa placement officer.

The capital's two universities, Ottawa and Carleton, have a total of 1,103 job applications; by late April 900 students still were looking for work.

Mr. Isabelle said the summer job situation in the Ottawa area is "real tough." With high winter unemployment and a slowdown in defence construction, "the DEW-line, gold-rush days are over."

Engineering seniors, students in pure and applied science and other technical fields are at the top of the employment list in every part of the country.

Chances for commerce and political science students are getting better. The liberal arts students are hard to place in jobs. Law and medical students usually can't afford to work for low pay and get experience in their own professions.

TOUGH FOR WOMEN

Women students, who pay the same tuition fees as men, find job-hunting harder and find it difficult to get pay at the same rate as a man. Office jobs as clerks, typists and stenographers and as summer resort waitresses are among the woman undergrad's main employment opportunities.

Rates of pay vary. In the federal government, student clerks are offered from $170 to $210 a month while some scientific positions pay $285 to $305. This year 193 federal surveying jobs for cologneers and geologists—open to students in all universities—offer from $261 to $305. In Alberta and Ontario engineering students can earn up to $300 a month in government or industry.

Construction jobs across the country are relatively well paying and popular, although unpredictable. In Manitoba and Saskatchewan, where construction pays $1.45 an hour, there are hopes of openings for students, but the weather and the amount of other labor available will determine actual opportunities.

McGill University in Montreal has about 400 students seeking work. The University of Montreal has 1,200 registered for jobs and placement officer Fred Courier said the situation is "grim." In Quebec City, it is unofficially estimated that 60 to 70 per cent of student job applications will be met.

SCARCE IN TORONTO

J. K. Bradford, University of Toronto placement officer, said first- and second-year students are having difficulty finding jobs.

He said there still is a labor pool from which most manufacturing companies can draw summer replacements "and are doing so in preference to varsity students."

In New Brunswick, where the outlook is fairly bright for seasonal construction work, employment officials estimate about 60 per cent of the students will be able to get work of some kind.

Insp. A. Cummins To Attend Course

Mr. A. Cummins' Inspector of Schools for Hastings No. 2 and Prince Edward No. 2, is one of 70 educationalists from Canada's ten provinces meeting at the University of Toronto for three weeks beginning May 11 to study problems of educational leadership in local communities. He has been selected as a member of a short course for school superintendents and inspectors offered by the Canadian Education Association in conjunction with the Ontario College of Education.

This is the seventh annual course of his kind operated by the Canadian Education Association. More than one-half of Canada's inspectors and superintendents of schools have attended one of the courses.

The theme of the course is "The Role of the Superintendent in Educational Leadership".

official said prospects are "comparatively good" for students from Nova Scotia's seven universities with a demand for engineering and science students looking for summer jobs leading to full employment after graduation.

University of Alberta placement officials said they did not expect all students would get work this summer. Last year, 2,000 students applied for jobs and 800 got work. Alberta officials said the picture is not too much brighter this year.

The University of British Columbia's placement service, with 2,000 job hunters this year compared with 1,500 in 1958, is appealing to industry to make more use of students as seasonal employees. Last year lockouts and strikes in the construction industry cut down job opportunities but this year is expected to be better.

Hungarian forestry students at UBC, who speak little English have trouble getting summer work. The students are from the Sopron University forestry faculty, moved to U.B.C. in 1957 following the Hungarian uprising.

27,000 Michigan Workers Face Payless Pay-Day

LANSING, Mich. (AP)—A pay day without the pay came due by sky for nearly 27,000 Michigan state-employed workers.

Michigan's cash crisis was to blame.

Only a wholly unexpected solution from the state legislature and Governor G. Mennen Williams before the close of the state's business day could assure that a $5,000,000 payroll would be met.

Among those faced with the payless pay day was Governor Williams. His $862.06 bi - weekly cheque from his $22,500 annual salary was held back.

The others included thousands of workers at prisons and mental hospitals, state teachers colleges, and state offices throughout Michigan as well as the Capital itself.

A pretty note while the models paraded was the quiet background of music provided by Miss Grace Heasman, student nurse of Belleville General Hospital, and at the intermission, by Mrs. F. Gibson.

Home Economists Give New Products Dinner

by Mary Moore

Hamilton Home Economics Association served their seventeenth New Products Dinner to 350 guests. I had only a small part to play in this dinner so was free to admire the skill with which the girls planned and directed this complex show.

Dinner Menus

by Mary Moore

THURSDAY (Guests)

Curry Cream of Tomato Soup; Braised Shortribs of Beef; Horseradish; Corn Fritters; Buttered Shredded New Cabbage; Avocado Ring Salad (see Wednesday); Orange and Pineapple Ambrosia; Pecan Dreams; Coffee.

SUNDAY

Roast Turkey or Turkey Roll (see Thursday); Giblet Gravy; Cranberry Jelly; Fluffy Turnip; Fresh Frozen Peas; Green Pepper and Shredded Lettuce Salad with Tomato Mayonnaise; Maple Parfait with Old-Fashioned Date Oatmeal Sandwich Cookies (see Friday); Coffee.

There were seventeen new products included in the dinner menu: "Ping", Cracker Barrel cheese; celery hearts; relish sauce; pickles; tomato aspic and cottage cheese salad; boneless turkey roll; brown gravy; cream; cranberry sauce; Idaho fluffy mashed potatoes; frozen green peas; frozen cocoa-nut cream pie; frozen pecan coffee cake; mixed nuts; coffee.

I do not have room today to sing the praises of each new food but I hope the menu will tempt you on to buying and trying all of the new items mentioned to give your May meals a lift.

The boneless turkey roll was the smash hit and I have decided to persuade you to take fling at cooking a turkey (or chicken) as they will soon be for sale at meat markets. There are several major reasons why a boned-out bird is advantageous, especially since turkeys are a bargain special as I write this at 39c per lb. 1) The reluctant unskilled carver will bless and fall in love with you again when confronted with not a bone but boneless bird which will carve effortlessly into white and dark meat. 2) The turkey roll takes about half of the usual oven space. In fact for a large crowd 2 rolls may be baked in the same pan. 3) If desired stuffing may be included inside the roll. 4) It is excellent for hot or cold buffet service or sandwich making. (Note: The bones may be used for soup and the wings and surplus meat are available for such dishes as fricassee, stew or pot or salad, and giblets too.

BONELESS TURKEY ROLL

Any weight of turkey may be boned. 1) Slit the skin down back of neck, remove neck but not skin. 2) Continue slitting the skin down centre back to tail. 3) Neatly cut off wings and drumsticks (not thighs). 4) Using curved boning knife (or razor sharp long paring knife) and fingers, pull and work away flesh with skin attached, down each side, around over ribs and breast to tip of breast bone. 5) Free the breast meat and skin from keel (breast) bone by slitting, then pushing with fingers, keeping it all in one piece. 6) Remove the ribcage for soup stock. 7) Split the skin and meat down inner side of each thigh and free the bone by cutting and then shoving with back of knife. (Note: Lengths of string on table now facilitate tying later.) 8) Place completely boned bird, skin side down, on table and sprinkle flesh side with salt. (Note: If to be used plain dressing in centre of spread-out meat now. Don't use too much.) 10) Fold dark thigh meat end of turkey up over white meat as it will fall into centre of roll. Draw neck skin up and fold over to enclose breast meat at top of roll. 11) Both cross and end-to-end string ties are made to hold roll in shape, looping the cross-strings through the end-to-end strings on both sides. 12) To roast place in open pan, cover with cooking-oil saturated cheesecloth and roast at 325 deg. F., allowing 3 to 3 1-2 hours for an 8 to 10-lb. roll or 4 hours for a 14-lb. roll.

ASIAN BANANAS

The bananas plant, now cultivated in the tropics and the West Indies, is believed to have originated in Asia.

Flashing Fashions

By ALICE ALDEN

Nice idea, that of lightening and brightening a monotone costume, or a simple one, with fiery brilliance. Vendome has designed a charmer of a necklace, combining flashing crystal and cut stones in a brilliant setting. From a double-stranded necklace, a pendant is suspended—spilling a shower of crystalline drops that cast sparks of color with the slightest movement. The clasp of the wide bracelet and the button earrings repeat the motif of the pendant. Right as an afternoon attraction and also for evening elegance.

Textile Plant Visited by Weaver's Guild

The May meeting of the Belleville Weavers' Guild was held at the home of Mrs. R. Pattillo, Middleton Park, Trenton. It was entertained at the luncheon hour by the hostess, Mrs. Pattillo.

After lunch the Guild was shown through the Dowse-Coulter Textile Plant in Trenton where the different processes the yarn goes through from the large wool tops that come in bags weighing approximately 400 pounds, to the finished fabric ready to be tailored to suit the individual, were shown. The drawing process was demonstrated where it is gradually reduced in diameter, and weight per unit length, ready for spinning. Then the spinning and twisting and steaming.

Finally the yarn is made into warp, put on the looms and woven into cloth. The cloth is then inspected and mended where necessary before it goes to the dyers and pressers.

It was an afternoon most enjoyable and most informative.

THE FAMILY COUNCIL

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Family Council consists of a judge, a psychiatrist, three clergymen, a newspaper editor, a woman's editor and two writers. Each article is a summary of an actual case history. The Council reports on problems that have been dealt with by responsible agencies and counsellors.

Elaine L. — My fiance is inconsiderate.

Mrs. M. L. — She just has last-minute jitters.

Elaine L. — I am 22 and engaged. We are planning to be married in three months and perhaps I am getting the last-minute jitters — but anyway I am beginning to see a lot of things that worry me in my fiance.

For example, Lou is sort of inconsiderate. He doesn't pay attention to the things I say about where I want to go and what I want to do. It is true that he spends a lot of money on me, taking me to the theatre in the best seats and to elegant restaurants, but it is always the place he chooses. He just ignores my ideas or laughs at them.

Another thing that bothers me is that he gave me a diamond ring that had been used by another girl. He was engaged to this girl two years ago and she gave him back the ring when they broke up. He didn't tell me about it when he gave it to me, but someone who knew the other girl recognized the ring and told me. I now feel unsure about my feelings.

Mrs. M. L. — There just is no such thing as a girl who doesn't get last-minute jitters before her marriage. I was unsure about my feelings too, but I have been wonderfully happy in a marriage of 36 years.

Elaine has known Lou for nearly two years and I think that is long enough time to really know your own feelings. Lou is a very good-looking young man with a promising future. The whole family is crazy about him. He has the kind of personality that people like at once. Plenty of girls would be glad to be in Elaine's shoes.

As for the engagement ring that Lou never told about, I don't think that's so serious. He told us afterwards that he had just wanted to forget about the whole thing. He doesn't believe in living in the past. It's so as though it was a marriage. I can understand how Elaine feels about the ring but men think differently about those things. They just aren't so sentimental.

The Council: Certainly, Elaine is entitled to her last-minute jitters, but we do not think it is wise to brush aside any rational worries or even irrational hunches. It does no harm to explore these things before undertaking an enterprise as important as marriage.

Elaine's Lou may be all that her mother says and "the whole family" may be crazy about him and she could also be unhappy with him as a husband. He may simply lack the qualities that are important to her.

Elaine has known Lou nearly two years, but she has probably changed and grown a lot in those two years. She may at first have had a strong desire for marriage and a good deal of liking for Lou, yet she could have since become aware of even deeper emotional needs.

Elaine's desire to have her wishes and feelings considered and respected is certainly natural. It is something everyone has a right to expect from a marriage partner. An individual who does not give that much to a mate or prospective mate is self-centred and lacking in emotional sensitivity. Lou's casual handling of the business of the ring rarely betrays a lack of understanding of and consideration for feminine psychology. Certainly Elaine should at least have been consulted as to a new setting for the ring.

"A lot of girls" might be happier in Elaine's shoes than she is. Perhaps they would be more willing to accept Lou's shortcomings. Perhaps Elaine herself might be willing to accept those shortcomings if she permitted herself to examine her own feelings and to take a sharper, more objective look at her fiance. We see nothing to gain by slurring over uncertainties and hurrying on into a marriage.

GOOD MANNERS

By Mrs. Beeckman

THE "SEASON" FOR WHITE DINNER JACKETS

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

In general what is the "season" when it is correct for the groom to wear a white dinner jacket? — Phil R.

From the end of May until the end of the first week of September. This starts the season for the many June weddings and also very popular for weddings in the Labor Day weekend.

And remember, sir, that it is not correct to wear a dinner jacket, white or black, before 6 o'clock in the evening at the very earliest. A dinner jacket is evening attire . . . never correct attire for a daytime wedding, a wedding before 6 o'clock.

A DIFFICULT FAMILY SITUATION

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My sister, to whom I am and always have been very devoted, and her husband are planning to give a large reception quite soon to announce their daughter's engagement. She is my godchild, very dear to me. They have, of course, invited me to this reception. But about this I have a most serious problem. Some time ago my husband and my sister's husband had a misunderstanding, and they have never spoken to each other since. Of course I am most anxious to go to this reception, but would it be at all proper for me to go without my husband? — Reader

I advise that, if it is at all possible, you should go to this reception, so important to you. If you won't mind going alone (and I doubt if you would), and if your husband does not object to your going (and I sincerely hope he doesn't), I can see no reason why you should not go. Perhaps you might feel more comfortable going with another sister, if you have one, or some other close woman relative who understands the situation and is a pleasant companion.

CORRECT ATTIRE FOR MEN IN WEDDING PARTY

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My daughter is to be married in June, in church, the ceremony to be at 10 o'clock in the morning. She plans to wear a full-length white wedding gown with short bridal veil. Her attendants will wear short (street-length) dresses. Her father is to escort her. What is the correct attire for the groom, best man, ushers, and the bride's father to wear? — Reader

The correct type of attire for the men in the wedding party to wear depends on the type of wedding. (You told me very little about the wedding plans.) If your daughter's wedding is to be strictly formal, the correct attire for the men is: cutaway coat, striped trousers, gray or buff-colored waistcoat for white linen, in summer); stiff white shirt, wing collar, light-gray ascot or four-in-hand tie, black shoes and black socks, silk hat, pearl-gray gloves.

If the wedding is to be semi-formal (as a 10 o'clock morning wedding very often is): a dark Oxford jacket, instead of a cutaway coat, may be worn with striped trousers; with a white shirt, a turn-down collar, instead of the wing collar; gray four-in-hand tie, not the ascot tie; black Homburg, instead of silk hat.

If the wedding is to take place in the latter part of June, and the plans are made along more or less informal lines, the men in the wedding party may wear a natural-colored jacket or a white jacket (a white tuxedo jacket is never correct at a daytime wedding) with dark tropical worsted trousers, or navy-blue jackets with white trousers. If the weather is really warm, the men may wear white suits.

If the church wedding is to be very small and very informal . . . and even when the bride wears a full-length wedding dress and a bridal veil . . . the men in the wedding party may wear dark blue business suits.

Suit Dress

By VERA WINSTON

A dress and jacket is the favored version of the suit this season, and here it is, nicely handled. The fabric is navy or black textured silk of a weight that drapes well. The dress is simple, has a wide V neckline and short sleeves. The jacket is cut on semi-fitted lines with a cutaway front. It is nicely ornamented by a red rose and green velvet ribbon, placed at the neckline.

IF YOU'RE meeting someone at an airport, at a time when you could take the children, make the occasion into a treat. Check the flight arrival by phone before you leave, they plan to arrive early enough to allow for "unplanned time" — closely supervised, of course.

A nursery was set up for the convenience of ladies bringing their children to the tea, with Mrs. D. MacLean in charge.

St. Julien Chapter I.O.D.E. Hears Various Reports, Plans Activities

The regular monthly meeting of St. Julien Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held in the club rooms, 16 members answering roll call.

Regent, Mrs. L. G. Irvine, was chairman, conducting the opening ritual, with Mrs. G. Hume standard bearer.

The business discussion was lengthy. Conveners of committees submitted their reports. Mrs. F. Carscallen and Mrs. H. Thompson reported a splendid total of $342 from the Alexander Rose Tag Day held last Friday afternoon and Saturday morning, in spite of inclement weather.

Mrs. K. M. Putnam and Mrs. W. H. Oliphant realized a substantial sum from the recording held while party.

Mrs. C. F. Bishop, educational convener, has received two applications for the I.O.D.E. bursary awarded annually to a deserving student in high school or college.

Members are asked to keep in mind that the Chapter scrap book is under the care of Mrs. F. E. Rolof. There is a competition at the annual meeting in April.

Mrs. N. Pinder reported that flower fund is on a solid footing again.

AS TO GET CITIZENSHIP

Mrs. G. Hume, immigration and citizenship convener, announced that 42 immigrants will be granted their Canadian citizenship in the ceremony to be held jointly with Argyll Chapter, I.O.D.E., on Thursday afternoon, May 14, in the Armouries, Belleville, with a social half hour following.

Mrs. J. M. Parrott, convener of Empire and World Affairs, gave an interesting and informative talk on the subject: "Japan — Canada's Pacific Neighbor". She said, "Japan is our biggest customer and may well hold the balance of power between Communism and the West". The speaker stressed the effect of geography on the people — 90 million of them and one square mile accommodates 4200 people!

Japan has erupted into an industrially minded nation, casting aside the old feudal society. The American occupation after the second Great War had a remedial effect on the government which now tends toward the Western parliamentary system.

During an intermission, Mrs. Parrott delighted the members with a piano solo.

20th PROVINCIAL CONVENTION

Mrs. L. G. Irvine, Regent and Mrs. G. Hume were delegates to the 20th annual convention I.O.D.E. held in Hamilton, April 14-18. Both members expressed their gratitude for and pleasure in representing St. Julien Chapter. There are 432 chapters in Ontario and almost all were represented.

The new provincial president is Mrs. W. R. Morrison, who founded the Lacy Morrison Memorial Fund in 1946 in memory of her mother-in-law, Mrs. William (Lucy) Morrison who was an active I.O.D.E. member.

The Ontario convener of I.O.D.E. Services at Home and Abroad reported monies spent for various services including war memorials, remembrance services, peace garden, monies for institutional services, 41 cases of knitted articles and clothing for needy children and destitute adults were sent overseas — value, $9,500. Ambulies were sent to overseas troops, to British merchant seamen, and 45 life preservers were given to the Sea Cadets. Boys and girls were sent to summer camps. An I.O.D.E. disaster fund has been established. In all, $347,976 was the complete amount spent and a great year's work resulted.

INSTILL PATRIOTISM

The provincial education convener, Mrs. R. C. Bennett, Hamilton, stressed the idea of instilling patriotism in our youth. The Lacy Morrison Memorial Fund assists needy talented students. A young girl student at Toronto Conservatory of Music is given $300 a year by the I.O.D.E. The members were pleased to hear her sing at the banquet and were thrilled with her beautiful voice. The convener said that seven million Russian young people are learning English and 250,000 are also studying English history. Thirty-five percent of I.O.D.E. money is spent on education.

The I.O.D.E. magazine, "Echoes," requests that the St. Julien Chapter send in items lately the Chapter's origin and how it was named. This is to be published in the next "Echoes" issue. It was stressed at the convention that members should make the effort to attend all meetings and keep busy to improve membership.

DINNER MEETING

The annual district dinner meeting is slated for Stirling in the fall of 1960.

The telephone committee will be contacting the I.O.D.E. marathon bridge members regarding the date of the final party.

Mrs. G. Hume will entertain the members of St. Julien Chapter at her home for the final meeting in June.

Mrs. F. P. Jeffries was hostess for the pleasant social half hour at the end of a very interesting meeting.

First Multi-Purpose Power, Irrigation and Resettlement Scheme Helped by Plan

Ceylon is resettling landless peasants in a $100,000,000 project under the Colombo plan. In this story, Russell Elman former Canadian Press staff writer now touring the Commonwealth, describes how Canada is helping in power distribution and agricultural development.

By RUSSELL ELMAN

AMPARAI, Ceylon (CP) — In the cool jungle-cloaked Gal Oya Valley, Canada is assisting Ceylon's first multi-purpose power, irrigation and resettlement scheme achieve fruition through the Colombo plan.

More than $1,700,000 in Canadian capital aid has been given toward this 1,000 - square - mile $100,000,000 project in eastern Ceylon. It has financed distribution of power for rural electrification and new industry, developed agriculture and helped expand educational facilities.

The Gal Oya scheme was launched shortly after Ceylon gained independence in 1948 to relieve the pressure of a spiralling birth rate by resettling landless peasants and to increase food production by bringing more and more land under cultivation. It also helps to diversify the national economy by establishing industry.

"The psychological impact of the project is far reaching," said Ian M. de Silva, chairman of the Gal Oya development board, an autonomous government body modelled after the Tennessee Valley Authority in the United States.

"It has shown what can be done by use of modern equipment and methods and has become one of the showpieces of our country setting a standard to be emulated in other similar projects."

Canada's major contribution to Gal Oya has been construction of a 140-mile high tension transmission network to carry power from the plant, built by Ceylon with funds borrowed from the World Bank.

Dirk van der Meyden, 29-year-old electrical engineer employed by Canada Hoosier Company Limited of Montreal, is stationed near Amparai, Gal Oya's commercial centre, to advise on installation work.

Chief Ceylonese electrical engineer is Sudharman de Silva, who studied rural electrification and power transmission with the Manitoba Power Commission and Ontario Hydro on a Colombo plan fellowship in 1953.

"Since my return to Ceylon we have adopted Canadian standards and methods of construction," he said.

"Treated wood poles and aluminum conductors have been introduced on a large scale for the first time, helping us to lower costs by 30 to 40 per cent."

Today power lines fan out across water-logged paddy fields to operate new industries, providing employment for Gal Oya's surplus population and helping Ceylon save foreign exchange by cutting imports.

Gal Oya power now serves many towns and villages along the east coast and ultimately may affect a population of 1,000,000 in some communities introduction of electricity has virtually resulted in a social revolution.

In the fishing town of Kattankudy, street lights at every corner have reduced the incidence of petty crime. Sales of radios and electric fans have soared. Women, who formerly spent hours in the brooding sun pounding paddy, now earn additional money at home by weaving mats while electric rice hullers do the work.

Authorities say immediate electrification of every village in the area is not possible because advantages would be outweighed by costs. Another problem has been periodical delays in construction.

The entire Gal Oya project at times has variously suffered from administrative and labor difficulties, race riots in 1956, slow handling of equipment at Colombo and floods at Christmas 1957 which might have washed everything away if the dams had not held. Parity for these reasons at $101,000 Canadian lift irrigation project was held up for two years.

At present three of 12 lift pumps given by Canada, using power from Gal Oya's transmission system, are in operation.

Other Canadian agricultural assistance includes pest control sprayers and dusters, panel trucks, machinery for farm workshops, film kits, tape recorders and portable generators for visual aid extension work and community entertainment.

As the Gal Oya scheme progressed, demand for skilled technicians increased so rapidly that a regional technical training institute for south and southeast Asia was established at Amparai. The institute partially owes its existence to a timely $20,000 gift in equipment from Canada under the Colombo plan.

It is run by Prof. Evan A. Hardy, 58, former head of the University of Saskatchewan agricultural engineering department and now on loan from the United Nations Food and Agriculture Organization.

Seventy-five students from Ceylon and other southeast Asian countries are given a comprehensive theoretical education in science and technology, with "on the job" practical training in Gal Oya's workshops, factories, power plants and fields.

DESERONTO
Athletic Assoc. Plans Season's Activities

DESERONTO — A meeting of the Deseronto Athletic Association was held recently with regard to the plans for coming season. The executive gratefully acknowledged the donation of $300, from the town council. Of this money they appropriated $105. for improvements to the ball diamond at the High School. They also decided to buy uniforms for a team to be entered in the O.B.A.

This is the first time in many years that Deseronto will have a baseball team in organized competition. They also plan to have a men's softball team for competition with neighboring municipalities.

This Saturday morning all children interested in sports are reporting at the school grounds where they will be organized into girls' and boys' softball teams.

tion of a resolution concerning access roads.

The committee felt that the Ontario government, in co-operation with the federal government, already has met the chamber's previous request for an accelerated program.

H. E. Sayles of Port Arthur said that while a good start has been made, there is still a long way to go before northwestern Ontario has enough access roads.

Gordon E. Browning of Sudbury said local representation to the government might be needed more than any Ontario chamber statement.

TRADE RETENTION

Robert Moffat of Aitkokan and A. Moran of Porcupine supported retention of the resolution so as "to keep an eye on good intentions."

On suggestion of Walter Rutherford of Brantford the former wording, which asked the government to "accelerate" a program, was changed to "continue its announced program."

The meeting also adopted a resolution that the chamber appoint a comittee to report on the advisability of adopting reflectorized vehicle licence plates.

Among policy statements defeated was one recommending an adequate and well-trained civil defence organization across Canada.

Also defeated was one favoring compulsory automobile insurance. The comittee noted that 85 per cent of motorists in Ontario are insured.

On representation from Niagara Falls, a former resolution advocating municipal taxation of Hydro and other publicly-owned utilities and Crown properties was retained in chamber statements.

All policy-session decisions are subject to final ratification Friday.

debate on second reading — approval in principle — of a bill extending for a second year the special arrangement providing the provinces with a 13 per cent share of federal income tax yields. This is an amendment of the 10 per cent given them by the existing governments.

NEED AID QUICKLY

The tax debate opened with a brief word from Mr. Fleming that the government wanted authority soon to make payments to the provinces, some of which needed the revenue badly.

Erhart Regier (CCF-Burnaby-Coquitlam) challenged Mr. Fleming to reveal "whether some arrangements are being made in the back rooms of the Conservative party" about which the Commons was being kept in the dark. He noted it has been mentioned publicly that talks are proceeding on financial matters with both Ontario and Manitoba.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, THURSDAY, MAY 7, 1959

Reviewing Officer, W/C E. C. Likeness, officer commanding the pre-flight training school at Centralia, with Officer Commanding S/L E. A. Craighead, are seen inspecting No. 608 RCAF Squadron at its annual inspection Wednesday afternoon at the Quinte Secondary School Campus. Inspection was held for the first time on the school playing field with spectators having a perfect view from the sloped campus grounds.

Dead Eye Dicks are these members of the Quinte Secondary School Air Cadets who won the Strathcona Postal Shoot in competition with 21 other school squadrons. Holding the trophy are Sgt. Henry Tom and brother Don with shooting scores of 98 and 95. In the back row are: L. Boyle, D. Dixon, R. N. Laughlen, range officer, J. Burnett and E. Karkheck.

New Squadron Ensign for the Quinte S.S. Air Cadet Squadron is received by F/O J. Hayman from Douglas Whitley, area chairman of the Ontario Provincial Committee, Air Cadet League. Saluting is Squadron OC, S/L E. A. Craighead. Ensign was consecrated by Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan.

Air Cadet of the year, Flight Sergeant Allan Wardle, is presented with RCAF Association Memorial Scholarship for $200, by George Maybee, president of No. 41 Belleville Wing. Scholarship is to be used for furtherance of education.

Quinte Air Cadet Squadron Annual Inspection Is Held On Campus in Ideal Weather

Favored by bright sunny weather on one of the first really warm days of the 1959 season, 180 air cadets of the Quinte Secondary School No. 608 Royal Canadian Air Cadet Squadron, Wednesday afternoon paraded for inspecting officers and a big crowd of students and visitors.

For the first time in its four-year history the squadron was inspected on the cadets' own campus, the natural amphitheatre providing an ideal setting for the afternoon's events.

Reviewing officer was Wing Commander E. C. Likeness, C.D., officer commanding of the RCAF pre-flight training school at Centralia.

Following the inspection W/C Likeness congratulated the cadets on their fine performance, adding that their drem, bearing and enthusiasm were a credit to the squadron and to the school.

BAND COMMENDED

He had a special word of commendation for the Quinte Secondary School band under the direction of Bandmaster R. Schroder and Drum Major Ronald Day. It was the first time that the band had marched with the cadets at inspection.

"It was a pleasure to hear a band which sounded as good as I looked — and the band looked good," the reviewing officer said.

Speaking again to the cadets, W/C Likeness told the boys they could assess the performance of their own squadron by reflecting back over the past seven or eight months. "Did you put as much into it as your squadron had to offer you?" he asked.

And the reviewing officer had a word of advice for the young students. He stressed the importance of a good education in a day in which technological skills were in great demand and urged students to give full consideration to going on to get higher education.

"There are still self-made men who have made success in the world, but they are getting fewer and fewer," the wing commander said. "Experience will never replace a good education."

ENSIGN PRESENTED

A feature of the inspection ceremony was the consecration and presentation of the RCAC Ensign to the squadron. The Ensign was consecrated by Archdeacon J. B. Creeggan and presented to the squadron by Douglas Whitley, air chairman of the Ontario Provincial Committee of the Air Cadet League. Receiving the Ensign on behalf of the squadron was F/O J. Hayman, officer commanding No. 2 Flight.

Following the presentation the Ensign was taken by slow march around the U-formation of cadet flights, and then was carried at the head of the squadron during the march past as the reviewing officer took the salute.

Later Mr. Whitley told the cadets that once again they had outdone themselves at inspection. He had been pleased to present the new Ensign to the Squadron and said "I know you will keep your standards high."

Others heard briefly were J. B. Durrant, chairman of the Bay of Quinte High School Board and Alderman George Wishart, representing Mayor Gerald B. Hyde.

GYMNASTIC DISPLAY

During the inspection ceremonies the spectators were treated to a display of gymnastics by both boys and girls and also saw the Squadron drill team in action.

A drill competition for the Tri-Service Cadet Trophy between air cadets and sea cadets scheduled for the afternoon, was cancelled owing to the funeral of Sea Cadet Donald Cross, also held yesterday afternoon. The competition will be held at the time of the sea cadet inspection.

Lt. Col. Angus B. Duffy, commanding officer of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment watched yesterday's demonstration by the drill team and told its members that they would give a good account of themselves at the competition.

MARKSMANSHIP AWARDS

The Strathcona Trophy for Postal Shoot won by the Quinte Air Cadet Squadron in competition with 21 other school squadrons, was presented by E. S. McIlwain, member of the Strathcona Committee. Receiving the trophy on behalf of the Squadron was R. N. McLaughlen, range officer.

Medals and crests for the Strathcona Postal Shoot were presented to the team members by Wing Commander Likeness, while cadet graduation diplomas were presented by Squadron commanding officer S/L E. A. J. Craighead, to Gordon Young, Dwight Chard, Richard Young, Bob Sills, Douglas Dixon and David DeClerq.

Cadet Flight Sergeant Allan Wardle, as the cadet of the year, was presented with the No. 41 Belleville Wing of the RCAF Association Memorial Scholarship of $200. Making the presentation was George Maybee, president of the Association.

Following are the Squadron officers: Squadron Commander, S/L E. A. Craighead, D.F.M.; Squadron Adjutant, F/L G. Lecklin; Officer i/c No. 1 Flight, F/O A. Nightingale; Officer i/c No. 2 Flight, F/O J. Hayman; Officer i/c No. 3 Flight, W.O. Gordon Smith; Officer i/c No. 4 Flight, W.O. Dwight Chard; Squadron Warrant Officer, F/S Doug Dixon.

Unanimous Approval Greets Call of Provinces to Parley

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Almost unanimous approval has greeted Finance Minister Fleming's call for a federal-provincial fiscal relations conference to be attended by provincial finance ministers in Ottawa July 6.

Only Finance Minister E. S. Spencer of Newfoundland expressed reservations. He said he would comment when he received an invitation.

Ontario's Premier Frost said a strong delegation from Ontario will attend.

"The work of this conference will be of highest importance. It will offer an opportunity and a challenge to Canadian statesmanship in arriving at just and equitable settlements of tax problems on outstanding matters."

The conference, announced in Ottawa Wednesday by Finance Minister Fleming, "is a rational approach to dealing in a comprehensive way with Canadian problems," said the Ontario premier.

"Ontario will give her efforts and support to achieving this result."

At previous conferences, the premier and Ontario representatives have insisted that the province is entitled to 15 per cent of the revenues accruing to the federal government through income tax, 15 per cent of corporation tax and 50 per cent of succession duties. The present split is 13 per cent, nine per cent and 50 per cent respectively.

It has been estimated that the Ontario demands would bring the province an additional $100,000,000 annually. Since the last conference, when Ontario's share of income tax was raised to 13 per cent from 10, the increased revenue has been about $22,000,000.

The conference was welcomed at Regina by Education Minister W. S. Lloyd, acting premier of Saskatchewan. Earlier this year Saskatchewan's provincial Treasurer C.M. Fines had suggested provinces get a 15-per-cent share of personal income and corporation taxes and continue to get a 50-per-cent share of the federal inheritance tax.

British Columbia's Premier Bennett, interviewed in his home town of Kelowna, said he is looking forward to the conference.

Premier Roblin of Manitoba, facing a provincial election May 14, qualified his approval:

"I am delighted to hear it. We have a strong case prepared for the province of Manitoba and I am delighted to have a chance to present it—if I'm elected."

Premier Stanfield of Nova Scotia said the date is agreeable to him and that he has written Mr. Fleming to say he will attend. Mr. Stanfield is also provincial treasurer.

DIVORCE FOR EKBERG

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) Swedish actress Anita Ekberg sued British actor Anthony Steel for divorce Wednesday, charging extreme cruelty. They were married three years ago.

Etobicoke Reeve Ready to Run Against Phillips

ST. CATHARINES (CP) — Reeve H. G. Waffle of Etobicoke told the Association of Mayors and Reeves of Ontario Wednesday he would contest the presidential election.

Mayor Nathan Phillips of Toronto, first vice-president of the association, would normally take over the top job, now held by Reeve Marie Curtis of Long Branch.

Reeve Waffle has support from delegates from rural municipalities. The association is holding its annual convention here.

Reeve Curtis suggested earlier that the provincial and federal governments take over the costs of social and welfare work, justice and education, from municipalities.

Mrs. Curtis said the costs for municipalities are becoming prohibitive and urged representation be made to the senior government to alleviate the situation.

Reeve Mary Fix of Toronto township said women in public life should not specialize in the social service aspect of government.

Speaking in a panel session, she said that a female representative should be no different in her approach to men than a male. "I don't think most people realize the amount of study necessary in municipal government . . . I have spent more time studying municipal problems than I did studying law."

As a woman in a man's world, said Controller Jean Newman of Toronto, "I feel I am gradually being accepted. Male members must have been a bit upset, however, when they suddenly found a woman has broken up their cosy little club."

The three-day convention ends Friday.

RAIL STRIKE ENDS

PARIS (AP) — Rail traffic in France returned to normal early today after a 24-hour strike of locomotive engineers. Officials of the government - owned railway system claimed about 95 per cent of the scheduled long distance traffic was maintained with non-striking personnel.

Kidnapped Boy Is Abandoned In Dallas, Texas

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—An 18-months-old boy, kidnapped Monday at Albuquerque, N.M., has been found abandoned in Dallas. Police said the baby was in good condition.

The child is Mitchell Johnson, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Johnson. He was found abandoned in a Dallas drug store.

A short time later the FBI arrested a girl in another part of Dallas and said she admitted kidnapping the baby.

The finding of the child climaxed a widespread search for a babysitter, Betty Sonlbey, who disappeared with the child.

TV STAR GETS READY — Make-up girl Valerie Shand puts the finishing touches on Country Girl, the pure-bred pig owned by the CBC's farm broadcast department in Toronto. Watching is farm commentator Johnny Moles. The CBC started the farm broadcasts in May, 1939, in Ontario and Quebec. Now they are carried by radio and television from seven centres across Canada. (CP Photo).

Farm Broadcasts Enhanced By Serials of Family Life Enter 21st Year in Canada

TORONTO (CP)—Farm broadcasts, their regular reports of agricultural facts and figures enhanced by serials of farm family life, have just entered their 21st year in Canada.

The first special program of farm facts, agricultural developments and livestock reports was made in the farm broadcast for Ontario and Quebec on May 1, 1939. Similar programs were introduced later for other regions in the following months.

Now these broadcasts, including television programs, are put out from Vancouver, Edmonton, Regina, Winnipeg, Toronto, Halifax and St. John's, Nfld. Each of the various regions also features a daily farm family serial.

"The Craig Family" is the oldest - running of the farm serials. On May 1 they presented episode No. 4,931, at the same time the original Ontario-Quebec farm broadcast was putting out program number 5,041.

Being a principal in the Craig family show is almost a lifetime occupation. Three of the originals from the 1939 show are still on the program—the veteran Canadian actor Frank Peddle as Thomas Craig; Grace Webster as Martha and Alice Hill as Janice.

Singer George Murray played the part of Bill Craig for 18 years until Jim Doohan took it two years ago.

Counterparts of the Craigs in other parts of the country are the Carsons heard in British Columbia, the Jacksons in the Prairie provinces, the Gillans in the Maritimes and Sandy Joe and Uncle Moses in Newfoundland.

The original producer for the 1939 Toronto broadcast was Orville Shugg, and the commentator was Don Fairbairn. Today, George Aitkins, regional producer of farm broadcasts for Ontario and Quebec, has a team of four commentators heard on both radio and television. All are agricultural school graduates.

Aitkins, also a regular on the Sunday television program Country Calendar, operates his own farm outside Oakville.

Johnny Moles, a former active farmer, is a veteran of 17 years in the feed business in Ontario and has been with the CBC since the spring of 1955.

Jim Ross, the current producer of the Craigs, is also a former working farmer who joined the CBC in 1956. Mr. Graydon came in 1957 after taking post-graduate work at the Ontario Agricultural College, and Harold Dobbs, who came to the CBC last year, is also a graduate of OAC.

Besides the noon-time program five days a week, the CBC Ontario - Quebec farm department originates or contributes to five other radio programs and one television show.

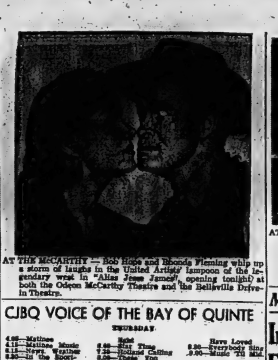
Spectacular Action Scenes And Vivid Drama make "Tempest" One of Screen's All-Time Greats

Not since "War and Peace" has the Tchnicolor screen process has the screen given sound and sight to such spectacular scenes of sweeping action as are contained in "Tempest," the new Paramount picture which opened yesterday at the Belle Theatre. Dina De Laurentiis, who also made "War and Peace," has again adopted a famous author's work in "Tempest" — this time, Alexander Pushkin— and the result is nothing short of sensational film entertainment.



In the four top starring roles are Van Heflin, who gives a masterful performance as the Cossack rebel Pugachev, Silvana Mangano, more beautiful than ever as the spirited daughter of a royalist captain; Vivien Lindfors, magnificent as Catherine the Great, and Geoffrey Horne, handsome and dashing as the young officer whose fortunes become entwined with Pugachev's. They are supported by co-stars Oscar Homolka as Horne's trusted servant; Helmut Dantine as a treacherous fellow officer of Horne's, and his rival for Silvana; Agnes Moorhead and Robert Keith as Silvana's parents and loyal defenders of Catherine, and Vittorio Gassman who appears in a key scene as court counsellor.

The story told in "Tempest" concerns the fiery, artless uprising of Cossack hordes against the might of the Russian empire under Catherine's rule in the 1700's. To recreate with as much realism as possible the 18 massive battle scenes between the rebels and the Royalists, De Laurentiis employed thousands of Yugoslavian cavalrymen and soldier extras and photographed the breathtaking action on Italian and Yugoslavian plains, since they resemble most closely the limitless expanse of the Russian steppes. The dramatic personal story of the principals is told against the stirring action in a way to make "Tempest" one of the truly great motion pictures of all time.

"Tempest" was directed by Alexander Latzindo and filmed in magnificent Technirama and Technicolor, both media combining to provide "Tempest" with battle scenes which, in Panavision's unique, rival anything yet seen on the motion picture theatre screen.

JUMPS IN RIVER

DETROIT (AP) — Police said Jamis Jones, 40, got so irritated when his wife nagged him as a poor fisherman Tuesday he deliberately walked off a Detroit River dock into the water. He was pulled out, treated at a hospital, and released.

AT THE McCARTHY — Bob Hope and Rhonda Fleming whip up a storm of laughs in the United Artists' lampoon of the legendary west in "Alias Jesse James", opening tonight at both the Odeon McCarthy Theatre and the Belleville Drive-in Theatre.

Ed Sullivan Will Take 14 Acts for Week in Moscow

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP) — Ed Sullivan, committed to a state department command performance, is learning there is more to showing the Russians a representative American television show than firing one of his typical variety troupes over to Moscow.

Sullivan and 14 acts are scheduled to open Aug. 3 in a Moscow theatre for a week engagement. Before that, his taped show, including a few Russian acts, which will be seen on North American TV screens.

A few weeks ago Sullivan was approached by the state department. When he indicated interest, he was introduced to four Russian diplomats appointed to work out the program. Because of language barriers, stand - up comedians were eliminated. To learn what Russians would find entertaining, Sullivan gathered kinescopes of some 20 acts of his old shows and ran them off.

WANT THE BEST

"When we were finished, one of the Russians gave me a list of his choices," said Sullivan. "They were the cream of the 30 acts." The list showed that Russians would like dancing, opera, pop singers but definitely no rock 'n' roll, comedy novelties jugglers and acrobats.

Sullivan isn't having too much money trouble with performers because most want a look at Moscow, and know they'll get considerable publicity out of it. So far $2 believes he will be able to turn up about 10 of the acts chosen by the Russians. That includes ballet dancer Nora Kaye; accordionist Dick Contino; Marvin Roy, a comedy magician who produces scores of lighted electric light bulbs from his mouth; Helene and Howard, a comedy dance act; Eric Braun, a plate juggler, and Conrad Buckner, a tap dancer—no talkers.

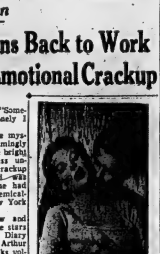
Inger Stevens Back to Work Following Emotional Crackup

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD AP) — "Sometimes I could get so lonely I could scream."

This helps to explain the mystery of Inger Stevens. Seemingly a well-adjusted person, the hard-working actress nevertheless underwent an emotional crackup last January. Hollywood was shocked to learn that she had swallowed a poisonous chemical cleaning fluid at her New York apartment.



She is back here now and working again. Tonight she stars in CBS' Playhouse 90 in Diary of a Nurse, written by Arthur Hailey of Toronto. She talks voluably about her life and career, though she avoids what specifically caused her turmoil. "It was a series of personal things that I don't particularly want to talk about," she explained.

But Inger did talk about the loneliness that can afflict a single girl in show business—or any other field of endeavor. She is a divorcee.

"The thing I miss the most is having someone to share things with," she said earnestly. "I come home in the evening bursting to unburden myself of the things that happened to me during the day's work. But there is no one to tell them to."

"Yes, I have dates, but that isn't the same. You need someone to share the day - to - day events of your life. When you have no one like that, life can get very difficult. Sometimes I could get so lonely I could scream."

I suggested that the solution to her problem would be to find a man.

AT THE BELLE — Silvana Mangano and Geoffrey Horne, in one of the scenes from Dino De Laurentiis production "Tempest", now playing an extended engagement at the Belle Theatre. The spectacular film was produced in Italy and also co-stars Van Heflin and Vivien Lindfors.

"Yes, I hope some day to find a man who will love me and whom I can love," she agreed. "But until that happens, I have to find other means of curing my loneliness. I do that by keeping busy. I want to keep my career active now. There is talk of a picture or two."

She agreed with Suzy Parker that Hollywood can be a lonely place for single females, but added! "It's not just Hollywood. You can be lonely anywhere in the world. People stay in their own tight little circles here for protection, but it's the same in

Benefit for Campy

Yanks, Dodgers Ball Battle May Crash All-Time Record

LOS ANGELES (AP)—At least 80,000 fans, plus New York Yankees and Los Angeles Dodgers, promise to turn out tonight to give Campy a break.

Campy is Roy Campanella, whose brilliant baseball career was wrecked and his body partially paralyzed in an automobile accident in 1957.

The occasion is a benefit for the former Dodger catcher between two old, bitter, but mutually respected rivals, the Yankees of American League dominance and the Dodgers of the National League. Dodger officials said today 80,000 or more tickets have already been sold.

MAY SNAP RECORD

Ten thousand unreserved seats go on sale two hours before game time at Memorial Coliseum. If all are sold, said the Dodgers, major league baseball's attendance record will be broken.

The record of 86,288 was set at Cleveland in the fifth game of the 1949 world series between the Indians and the old Boston Braves. The Coliseum can handle about 94,600 for baseball.

The Dodgers, scrambling for top spot, were booked to tangle with San Francisco Giants in an afternoon game up north and fly down in time for the exhibition here.

The Yankees, with an awesome array of righthand hitters, might use the collseum's celebrated left field "chinese curtain" to break out of their batting slump which has left them deep in the second division.

Manager Casey Stengel said he planned to use Jim Coates, Duke Moss and Johnny Kucks on the mound.

KOUFAX FOR DODGERS

Manager Walt Alston named southpaw Sandy Koufax to pitch.

For the Los Angeles crowd this will be the first sight of the Yankees, even in an exhibition, since Stengel led them out here for spring appearances in 1951.

And then there will be Campy himself—to take a bow and say a few words.

Campanella will get a share of the receipts. He will also get a cut in a return game the teams will play in New York next season. Although Campy was a Dodger for years, he never played here. The Dodgers had just moved from Brooklyn when he was hurt.

Two-Group Senior A Loop Is Suggested

WELLAND (CP)—A proposal to form a two-group league was the only definite decision made as representatives of two Ontario Hockey Association senior A clubs and five senior B teams met Wednesday night in an effort to form a new senior A league in Western Ontario.

The proposal is for the senior B teams — Welland - Crowland, Niagara Falls, Strathroy, St. Thomas and Oakville—to be elevated to senior A status and to continue to play together as a group.

The present senior A teams—Windsor, Kitchener-Waterloo and Chatham — would compete in their own section.

Interlocking games would be arranged between the two groups with all games counting in the standings of each group. At the end of the regular schedule each would hold its own playoff with the winners meeting for the right to advance further.

The proposal will be presented to the OHA when it meets in Toronto Friday, if the OHA accepts it it will then go to the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association later this month.

All teams involved will meet in Kitchener May 27 to make their final decision.

Also the senior B clubs and Windsor and Kitchener were represented at the meeting.

SCOTLAND FULLS UPSET

GLASGOW (AP) — Scotland Wednesday upset West Germany 3-2 in a soccer match before 90,000 fans in Hampden Park Stadium.

Well, They Could Be Wearing Bikinis

By EUGENE LEVIN

ROME (AP)—If a young lady wanted to shock tennis fans these days she could walk out on the court in a plain white frock or white shorts and blouse.

Such a costume these days is as passe as grandma's elbow-length, knee - length swimming suit or her bustle and frilly skirts.

FORGET FOREHEAD

Now all the girls are going in for tennis apparel that makes the customers not care about the effectiveness of their forehand.

In the Italian championships in progress here Silvana Lazzarino, former Italian champion, is sporting an outfit which is turnquoise from neck to hip.

Around the skirt are crocheted circles. A starched petticoat makes the skirt flare gaily at each bound across the court.

Under it all are dainty, lace-trimmed pantie, just like Gussie's—but more so.

Italian champion Lea Pericoli is attracting the eye with an outfit also featuring ballerina skirt and lace panties.

SOUTH AFRICAN STYLE

Sandra Reynolds, a pretty South African, wears a white outfit with blue rackets crocheted around the hem and a blue sash around the waist.

Gloria Butler of Monte Carlo favors the sack look—a sexy hip-length outfit which falls loosely in the back.

Male players are 'blase. Even Karol Fagros' gold-trimmed unmentionables failed to attract much attention.

Said one fellow: "Aw, they're last year's panties."

'Sliver' Breaks Own Rule In Practice

BOSTON (AP)—Who says Ted Williams doesn't tip his cap?

The Boston Red Sox slugger, conditioning himself for a return to the team, indulged in that baseball rarity Wednesday.

In a workout at Fenway Park, the 40-year - old Williams made a bareheaded stop of a sharp grounder at the foul line as he trotted in from left field.

Members of the ground crew in the stands applauded. Williams lifted the cap in response.

Ted has made it a practice not to tip his cap during games.

On the Tracks

TORONTO (CP)—Bold Scholar, which will carry the colors of Mrs. Jack of Kitchener in next month's 100th annual running of the Queen's Plate, scored a brilliant victory in the $7,500 Friar Rock Stakes at Old Woodbine Wednesday.

Ridden by Ernie Warme, he defeated Le Grand Rouge by more than two lengths. Bad Willie was third.

Despite a convincing win at Fort Erie last Saturday, the 4½ furlongs in 53 3-5 seconds — only one fifth of a second behind the track record.

LABOR STOPPAGES

VANCOUVER (CP) — Strikes and lockouts cost 422,607 working days in British Columbia in 1958. This compares with a record of 1,132,220 man-days lost in 1957.

Giardello Wins Split Verdict Over Holly Mims

WASHINGTON (AP)—Middleweight challenger Joey Giardello has learned many a lesson in 10 years of boxing, among them the virtue of patience and the ability to stand up under battering.

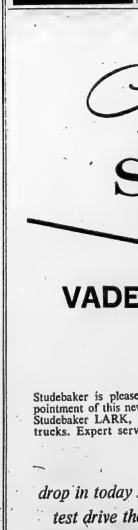
Giardello, from Philadelphia, weathered a brutal barrage Wednesday night but held out to win a split-decision over Holly Mims. Giardello didn't demand immediate rights to a match with the winner of the expected NBCA championship duel between Carmen Basilio and Gene Fullmer. He figured he had better have a couple of tests beforehand.

"Specifically," put in manager Tony Ferrante, "Spider Webb again."

Webb, ranked third behind Basilio and Fullmer, stopped Giardello on a seventh-round technical knockout last November.

Giardello ended a three-bout series of losses by overcoming Mims in a savage battle that turned a sellout crowd of 2,000 into a yelling mob at the finish.

Mims, a Washington veteran, was reported a 2-to-1 favorite and the verdict infuriated his partisans. Holly had ripped open an ugly cut on Joe's right brow in the eighth. But he couldn't keep up the pace in the last two rounds.



Mims' rooters pelted the ring with paper and junk.

"The kid'll be O. K. That's the first time he ever saw a swipe leaper fast ball!"

KUTS MAKING COMEBACK

LONDON (AP) — Vladimir Kuts, Russia's great distance runner who lost form last year through sickness, is back in hard training in Leningrad in preparation for the 1960 Olympic Games, Moscow radio reported Wednesday. He won the 5,000- and 10,000-metres races in the 1956 Olympics in Melbourne. Last year his form fell apart because of sickness.

Speaking at a bowling banquet the other night on the junket to Europe to cover the world bowling tournament, we were quizzed by not a few of the keglers afterwards if it was true the hotel room of the McFarlands and "non-combatants" in Czechoslovakia were "wired."

We were informed by certain official sources outside the Czech authorities that the rooms were wired and the telephones tapped, but a search of the room we occupied failed to reveal any hidden microphones. However that doesn't mean they were not somewhere around the place.

Ike Hildebrand told a Peterborough service club in an address the other day that the players' rooms were wired, their phones tapped and what not. Billy Graham said in Kitchener that the Canadians were "called." "When we went out there frequently was someone following us and they stayed right with us," Billy said.

He added there were more agents than paying guests in the Bratislava hotel where the Macs played the first round of the tournament. The McFarlands were billeted in the same hotel as the Czechs and Poles and the agents were there, Billy felt, to make sure there was not too much camaraderie.

"We were told there were 450,000 under political arrest in Czech prisons and camps," Graham said, but like the rest of us he thought the "Czech fans and people were tremendous."

Come to think of it we were in the hotel the night the Czech and Polish teams arrived. The Poles clad in skin-tight red suits looked like scarlet skindivers as they marched solemnly through the hotel lobby in single file looking neither right nor left. The Czechs did the same plodding slowly to their rooms upstairs without a "hey-sonny-sonny" or a howdy-do. The Macs hung around the lobby for their natty blazers and slacks, signing autographs for a crowd of Czech fans.

Pondering more on the subject, we recall there were some fuzzy-looking characters around the hotels and the airports in the land of the pilsener, garnets and glassware. These blokes who looked as though they slept in those long ankle-length overcoats usually gave us the once-over when going aboard or getting off a plane.

A couple of them actually stopped Lorne Cook and Jay Sprague when they tried to board a train at Bratislava for Prague and it took a lot of arm-waving and a couple of packs of Canadian cigarets before the travellers finally got aboard the iron curtain pullman.

Seedy-looking porters were usually to be seen loitering in the room corridors of the hotels but they bothered nobody and appeared to have knowledge of English, except that spoken by a Canadian or American dollar bill.

And we're sure that buxom wench of a chamber maid built along Jayne Mansfield lines, did not understand English. However, she made up for that with a healthy appetite for Mr. Wrigley's chewing gum. She did get across the message after receiving the first stick that she would like one for each of her four children.

We went out on a personal assignment to the historic village of Lidice, when one important press conference was called, and we missed it.

Len (Kilchener Record) Taylor, however, said it was one of the odder moments of the trip. The Czechs called western sports writers in to hear the "confession" of two women "spies."

These women, ostensibly German, were sent, allegedly from West Germany to Prague in the guise of hockey fans but in fact to act as agents of the U.S. secret service.

They were, Taylor said, about as unlikely a looking pair of agents as you could hope to see. The western scribes found themselves foiled by the conductor of the conference when they tried to get some answers to some questions that might have shed some light on the matter, but concluded the whole thing was a "show" put on for their benefit.

Yankees May Be Starting Climb To Familiar Spot

Finally Take Pair in Row As Indians Lose to Orioles; Braves Shade Dodgers 5-4

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Staff Writer

For the first time in two weeks, the New York Yankees have won two games in a row. For the first time in 13 games, they've managed to score more than two runs in any one inning. And for the first time in a week, they've gained ground in their fight to get out of the American League's second division.

They flashed some of their long missing power Wednesday night as Kansas City for a 7-4 victory that left them, seventh, but edged them within two games of fourth place and within 1½ of first.

They scored all their runs in the first three innings — Norm Siebern drove in four with a double and home run—and then getting no more than a pair of singles in 5 innings of support, stubout relief by the A's Bob Daley.

Ex-Yank Bob Grim was the loser and Art Ditmar the winner.

Baltimore spilled first place Cleveland 6-5 in the only other AL night game, after Washington had rapped the Chicago White Sox 8-4 and Boston hammered out a 17-6 decision over the Detroit Tigers, who had won three straight.

FAPPAS STILL UNBEATEN

Baltimore's young Milt Pappas, still a week shy of his 20th birthday, stayed unbeaten (3-0) as the second place Orioles broke loose for four runs in the seventh inning to edge Cleveland against Gary Bell (2-2). A two-run double by Willie Miranda, an RBI single by Willie Tasby and Gene Woodling's sacrifice fly did it. Joe Ginsberg got things started with a two-run homer in the second for the Birds.

The Indians, who lead by 2½ games, made it close on Ray Webster's first major league homer in the ninth. It came with two on against Billy Loes.

Rookie Bob Allison's first grand - slam homer wrapped up Washington's most successful (7-2) western trip in a decide, ing the Nats from behind in the seventh inning against Early Wynn (3-3). Camilo Pascual (2-2) was the winner with relief help. The Senators pulled off a 9-1 spring sweep in the West in 1940, when they finished eighth.

WILD-HITTING GAME

The Red Sox were blanked on one hit for four innings by Detroit's Paul Foytack — then broke loose for six homers and all their runs in the next four frames. Foytack (0-4) gave up solo homers to Frank Malzone and Marty Keough, and a two-run shot by Dick Gernert. Jackie Jensen than tagged Tom Morgan for a two-run homer, and Gary Geiger rapped a pair of two-run blasts off George Susce and Pete Burnside.

The Tigers had three homers, two by Al Kaline good for four runs against Tom Brewer, and a two-run swing by Lou Berberet off Frank Baumann, who was his first with six innings of five-hit relief. The nine home run total was two shy of the major league record.

Leafs Belt Montreal 8-4; Marlins Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Harry Byrd and young Bill Fischer own half of first-place Miami's 16 victories in the International League — and a more fearsome twosome is hard to find.

Byrd went 18 innings Wednesday night to score his fourth victory in five decisions, beating Richmond Virginians 5-4. The former major leaguer scattered 11 hits, struck out seven men and walked only four. He had to pitch out of several tight spots in the process.

The night before, Fischer made his record 3-0 by beating Richmond.

LEAFS BELT ROYALS

The victory kept Miami a game ahead of the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs, who belted Montreal, 8-4. Rochester Red Wings clipped Buffalo Bisons' five-game winning streak 12-4 and Havana Sugar Kings trimmed Columbus Jets their fifth straight loss with a 4-3 win.

Bert Hamrie's single drove in Spencer - leading hitter Castleman with the winning run for Miami. Castleman opened the inning with a double—his fourth hit — against loser Bill Greason. Virgil Trucks picked up Johnny Bucha for Miami, while Fritz Brickell hit one for Richmond.

Toronto sent 10 men to bat in a six-run second inning as Don Johnson (2-3) won, with relief help from Pat Stanislowski for the last four innings. Tom Lasorda (2-1) gave up a sixth-inning homer to Dave Pope. Gene Wallace homered for the Royals.

SHANNON BUSY

Jim Shannon's homer and triple drove in five Rochester runs as Joe McClain won his first game in relief. Ed Keegan lost it. McClain walked none and struck out four.

Dan Morejon's first home in the ninth inning sank Columbus. It came with a man on and gave Raul Sanchez his third victory in fifty decisions, second in two days. Don Williams (0-2) lost in relief of Al Jackson.

Games today: Toronto at Montreal 2, Buffalo at Rochester, Miami at Richmond and Havana at Columbus.

They'll Do It Every Time — By Jimmy Hatlo

Half-Million Offer Calms Ring's Angry Ray Robinson

NEW YORK (AP)—Ray Robinson's angry man, last too angry to listen to bids of various promoters for a welterweight champion h i p rematch against Carmen Basilio.

Robinson has been stripped of the crown by the National Boxing Association, The New York State Athletic Commission is to take similar action May 15.

He is angry at California because that state wouldn't let him bring in his own occasional promoter, Johnny Attell of New York. He's angry at the NBA for taking away his title and at the New York commission for contemplating the same thing.

He's angry at Jim Norris, former international Boxing Club chief, and Norris' successor Truman Gibson, for booking a light heavyweight championship match between Archie Moore and Yvon Durelle of Bale Ste. Anne, N.B., in Montreal July 13. Robinson figures the Moore match belonged to him.

OFFERS POUR IN

However, the offers for a Basilio fight are loud enough to be heard by even an angry man.

Robinson has a $500,000 offer, plus a percentage, from Madison Square Garden to defend his now rather nebulous title against Basilio, with the match to be promoted in Los Angeles or elsewhere, but not New York.

Robinson says Gibson, now head of National Boxing Enterprises, has made a bid for the bout to be held in Chicago.

He also has an offer from Willie Gilzenberg and his partner, Babe Cullen, to meet Basilio in Jersey City and another offer from Gilzenberg to stage the match in Miami. Joe Walker, New Jersey commissioner, said he had "no knowledge of such a proposal."

Gibson's office said the Illinois commission, although an NBA member, would recognize the title aspects of the bout.

Although no mention was made of what Basilio would get from such a fight, the general idea was that it would be around $250,000.

Mr. Cleo Colling is seen presenting the new Ken Colling Memorial Trophy to yesterday's winner, Don McMullen of B.C.I.V.S. This is the first presentation of this trophy, the original being won three years in succession by Jim Green.

Don McMullen of BCI Wins Ken Colling Memorial Race

By GARRY ALEXANDER

Don McMullen, Tech 13 student of BCIVS, outran one of the largest fields in the history of the event yesterday afternoon to capture the 15th annual Ken Colling Memorial race.

McMullen, who finished second to three-time winner Jim Green one year ago, navigated the four-mile course yesterday in 20 minutes, 47 and six-tenth seconds to top 34 other entries.

While the official entry list included 84 names, an actual starter completed the distance on his own. He was Harvey Brant, also of BCI, who raced on his own after being forbidden to run because of physical trouble. Brant was well up in the pack at the finish of the race.

McMullen's time yesterday fell short of the record set by Green last year of 20.18 but the first five finishers yesterday crossed the finish line all within 57 second.

In second place was Quinte Secondary School harrier Bill Vermilyea in 21 minutes and nine seconds. Vermilyea was the winner of the QSS harrier race last week and is a grade nine student.

Eugene Fowler, an all-round athlete star from the Ontario school for the Deaf, finished strong third. His time was 21 minutes, 37.5 seconds. Assistant John Wright followed Fowler across the line in fourth spot with a time of 21 minutes, 52 seconds.

Pat Dellow, a late entry from Sacred Heid High School, came fifth in 21 minutes and 46 seconds. Jerry Thompson of QSS completed the top six money-winning list in 22 minutes, 21.4 seconds. A number of the other entries staged neck and neck battles down to the wire.

McMullen was third on Queen's creek, with Vermilyea leading the pack, when he made his move. He pulled in front on Dresselor Ave. and opened up about a 75 yard lead half way around the course on Station Road.

Vermilyea was second at the half way mark with Fowler and Bill Green, brother of Jim Green and neck not far back. Green fell out of contention during the second half. Wright was in fifth position at this time. McMullen maintained his lead although the gap closed slightly near the finish as the next four or five runners battled for the money position.

Most of the runners completed the race in good shape as a large crowd of students lined the BCI campus and Church St. where the race finished.

Presentation ceremonies were carried out in a packed gym with "Red" Townsend handling the M.C. duties.

Mr. Cleo Colling, brother of the late Ken Colling, from which the race derives its name, was present with the new edition of the Memorial Trophy.

Mr. Colling presented the original trophy to Jim Green last year when Green won the race for the third consecutive time. "And I want to repeat my offer," Mr. Colling told the gathering yesterday. "Anyone who is good enough to win this race three years in succession will receive this trophy as his own," he said.

Mr. Colling presented the new trophy to Ken McMullen in the gym yesterday and also presented crests to all the contestants as they were introduced amid rousing cheers of school mates.

Jim Green, now attending Queen's University, was a special guest and presented the prize money to the top six.

Runners from BCIVS, Quinte Secondary, Albert College, OSD, St. Michael's, Manners and Tweed High Schools took part in yesterday's race.

Officials for the race included: Dr. MacKenzie, Albert College; H. M. Townsend, BCI; Jack Sisson, QSS; Father McGee, St. Michael's; Mr. Cleo Colling, Mr. Bert Simpson, Albert College and Mr. Harold Mott, BCI.

BCI's Don McMullen has opened up a 75-yard lead over his competitors at this, the halfway mark in yesterday's running of the Ken Colling Memorial run. Don won the race over the four-mile course in the time of of 20 minutes, 47.8 seconds.

Minor Baseball Holds Meeting

The Belleville Minor Baseball Association held a meeting last evening. Two applications for new team entries in the newly-formed "juvenile" league were received. These included a team from the Sea Cadet Corps "Quinte" and a team from Wellington.

Various aspects of the coming season were discussed by those present. It was decided to hold another meeting next Thursday evening at the City Hall to finalize the immediate requirements for setting up the baseball teams in this city. It is expected that the new executive will take over the reins for this year at the forthcoming meeting.

Eighteen teams were involved in last year's schedule. It is expected that there will be an increase both in the number of teams and in the number of boys turning out for baseball this season.

Yankee Drivers, Italian Cars Race Favorites

JARVIS, Ont. (CP) — Two United States drivers in potent Italian machinery shape up as the pair to beat as professional sports car racing comes to Canada for the first time Saturday at nearby Sherwood Acres.

George Constantine of Southbridge, Mass., in a Ferrari Testa Rosta and John Cook of Detroit with a 3005 Maserati are expected to fight it out for the top share of $4,000 prize money in the Canadian Racing Drivers' Association 500-kilometre event which opens this year's racing season.

They will face competition from Eastern Canada's top sports car pilots in the 853-hp grind over the twisting, 2.3-mile course.

The under-2,000-c.c. class may be hotly contested. Porsche Carreras driven by Tom Payne of Ypsilanti, Mich., and Harry Blanchard of Greenwich, Conn., will go against the new twin-cam MGA with Ed Leavens of London, Ont. behind the wheel.

Production model MGs, Triumphs and Austin-Healeys round out the 36-car entry list. The track, a converted airport, is located off near this town, 20 miles south of Brantford.

BACK-TO-BACK ACES

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—The odds may be more than a million to one but golfers Ed Vermillion and Tommy Holmes have witnessed this they both backed-to-back holes in one. Vermillion shot as the last man in his foursome and Holmes was the first to tee off in the next so they had a total of six willikezit. Each used a No. 7 iron on the 135-yard sixth hole.

Union Official Slugged After Reds Criticized

Sudbury Meet Noisy, Gets Out of Control

SUDBURY (CP)—A union official who protested against Communists in the membership was slugged unconscious here Thursday night.

Raymond Poirier, financial secretary of Local 598, International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers (Ind.), was taken to Sudbury General Hospital and treated for an injury to the back of his head.

The attack came at a stormy meeting of the local hall after local president Don Gillis had stayed off efforts to unseat him over the dismissal of Weir Reid, the local's recreation director. Mr. Reid was dismissed by the union's executive board last month.

Amid accusations that in the past there had been "padding" of the union's books, a threat of fist fights and catcalls and cheers, the new leaders of the local won a crushing victory when they took local earlier in the day had termed the leadership a "communist-dominated clique".

Mr. Poirier made the charge that the books had been tampered with and that Mr. Gillis said were discrepancies in the books of the local involving large sums of $180,000 and $100,000 and said they couldn't be accounted for.

"I'm not saying anything is definitely wrong," said Mr. Poirier, "but I'm not saying everything is right."

POINTS AT SPEAKER

Mike Solski, defeated by Mr. Gillis for the presidency two months ago, stood up in front of the platform where the executive was seated, pointed to Mr. Poirier and told him: "I'm going to lay charges."

In approval of the firing of Mr. Reid, who had been hired at $6,000 a year by a general membership meeting six years ago, brought an outburst by Mr. Poirier against communism.

He said that during the three-month strike against Inco last year many unions wouldn't come to Mine-Mill "because of the tinge of communism on Local 598." The statement was greeted by cheers.

Mr. Gillis's right to retain control of the local will be tested again this morning when he and executive members go before a meeting of night shift workers from Sudbury area mines.

Thursday night's meeting was noisy and at one time went out of control for 45 minutes. Approximately 1,000 miners crowded the union hall while another 1,000 or so were left outside, listening to the debate over loudspeakers.

BEATEN BY GROUP

Mr. Poirier was attacked by a group of men in the hall and left in a 3½-hour meeting. He was advised to remain in hospital overnight but left to attend the later treatment.

No charges were laid.

The challenge to Mr. Gillis's authority arose over the manner in which the recreation director was fired.

Mike Solski, defeated by Mr. Gillis for the presidency two months ago, said Mr. Reid was

CNR May Lose 9 Million to Seaway Traffic

OTTAWA (CP)—The appearance of new types of aircraft poses financial problems for Trans-Canada Air Lines, President Gordon McGregor has told the Commons railway committee.

The publicly-owned airline has been approached to buy supersonic jet passenger craft costing $11,000,000 each, he added, as the committee completed its annual review of TCA operations.

He didn't say what TCA had decided, or who had offered the 1,800-mile-an-hour planes.

He agreed with President Donald Gordon of the CNR in the view that prolonged questioning during annual committee examination of the two publicly-owned transit companies is a waste of time and money.

Earlier, Mr. Gordon told the committee the CNR may lose about $9,000,000 worth of traffic a year to St. Lawrence Seaway competition in the seaway's early stages. He said the railway calculates some $18,000,000 in traffic will be directly exposed to seaway competition with another $12,000,000 "potentially vulnerable."
